11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES

963. Causing death by dangerous driving.

A person who causes<sup>1</sup> the death of another person by driving<sup>2</sup> a mechanically propelled vehicle<sup>3</sup> dangerously<sup>4</sup> on a road or other public place<sup>5</sup> is guilty of an offence<sup>6</sup>.

1 The prosecution need not prove that the dangerous driving was the principal cause, or a substantial cause, of the death; it is sufficient to prove that the dangerous driving was a cause something more than de minimis: see R v Hennigan [1971] 3 All ER 133, [1971] RTR 305, CA (overruling R v Curphey (1957) 41 Cr App Rep 78); and cf R v Gould [1963] 2 All ER 847n, [1964] 1 WLR 145n.

2 For the meaning of 'drive' see PARA 207 ante. A person cannot be said to be 'driving' if he blamelessly suffers a mischance that prevents him from controlling the movements of the vehicle: Hill v Baxter [1958] 1 QB 277, [1958] 1 All ER 193, DC; R v Spurge [1961] 2 QB 205, [1961] 2 All ER 688, CCA. The defence of automatism requires, however, a total destruction of voluntary control by the defendant, so that reduced or partial control (driving without awareness) is insufficient to found the defence: A-G's Reference (No 2 of 1992) [1993] 4 All ER 683 at 689, [1993] RTR 337 at 348, CA, per Lord Taylor CJ. Unintentionally pressing the accelerator pedal of a vehicle when intending to press another pedal is not a defence to a charge of dangerous driving: A-G's Reference (No 4 of 2000) (R v GC) [2001] EWCA Crim 780, [2001] RTR 415.

964. Dangerous driving.

A person guilty of such an offence is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine or both, or on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum or both; disqualification is obligatory; endorsement is obligatory; and 3-11 penalty points may be attributed if, for special reasons, the offender is not ordered to be disqualified: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 28 (as substituted) (see PARA 1049 post), s 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 26, Sch 2). The limited exemption of fire and rescue authority, ambulance and police vehicles from speed limits provided by the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 s 87 (as amended) (see PARA 854 ante) does not affect a driver's liability to prosecution for dangerous or careless driving: see Gaynor v Allen [1959] 2 QB 403, [1959] 2 All ER 644. See also R v O'Toole [1974] RTR 88, CA. However, an intention to assist in the arrest of offenders may be a defence: R v Renouf [1986] 2 All ER 449, [1986] 1 WLR 522, CA. It is also a defence to a charge of dangerous driving that the defendant was acting under 'duress of circumstances', ie that he was constrained by circumstances to drive as he did to avoid a threat of death or serious injury to himself or some other person: R v Conway [1989] QB 290, [1988] 3 All ER 1025, CA (distinguishing R v Denton [1987] RTR 129, CA). OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(i) Dangerous Driving and Cycling/965. Meaning of 'driving dangerously'.

965. Meaning of 'driving dangerously'.

- 880 (1) the way he drives falls far below what would be expected of a competent and careful driver<sup>4</sup>; and
- 881 (2) it would be obvious to a competent and careful driver that driving in that way would be dangerous<sup>5</sup>.

A person is also to be regarded as driving dangerously if it would be obvious<sup>6</sup> to a competent and careful driver that driving the vehicle in its current state<sup>7</sup> would be dangerous<sup>8</sup>.

1 le for the purposes of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 1 (as substituted) (see PARA 963 ante) and s 2 (as substituted) (see PARA 964 ante).

2 For the meaning of 'drive' see PARA 207 ante.

3 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 2A(1) (s 2A added by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 1). This is expressed to be subject to the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 2A(2) (as added) (see the text and notes 6-8 infra).

4 Ibid s 2A(1)(a) (as added: see note 3 supra). For these purposes, in determining what would be expected of, or obvious to, a competent and careful driver in a particular case, regard is to be had not only to the circumstances of which he could be expected to be aware but also to any circumstances shown to have been within the knowledge of the accused: s 2A(3) (as so added). The fact that an accused has ingested a large quantity of alcoholic drink is a circumstance within his knowledge and, accordingly, regard is to be had to it: R v Woodward [1995] 1 WLR 375 at 382, [1995] 2 Cr App Rep 388 at 395, CA, per Lord Taylor CJ. Evidence of drink is admissible where the amount of drink was such as adversely to affect the quality of the defendant's driving, or where the driver was in fact affected: R v Woodward supra, applying the principle in R v McBride [1962] 2 QB 167, [1961] 3 All ER 6, CCA, and R v Thorpe [1972] 1 All ER 929, [1972] RTR 118, CA. See further R v Millington [1996] RTR 80, CA; and PARA 971 text and note 10 post. Evidence of the proportion of alcohol or any drug found in a specimen of blood or urine provided by the defendant is not inadmissible, or liable to be excluded under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 78 (as amended) (see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1365), if the conditions on admissibility laid down by the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(5) (see PARA 991 post) are not met, since s 15 (as amended) is, upon its face, limited to proceedings under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3A (as added) (see PARA 974 post), s 4 (as amended) (see PARA 975 post) or s 5 (see PARA 978 post): R v Ash [1999] RTR 347, CA. There is no difference in principle between a driver who presents a danger due to drink and a driver who is in 'a dangerously defective state' owing to his propensity to sudden hypoglycaemic attacks: R v Marison [1997] RTR 457, CA. The term 'circumstances shown to have been within the knowledge of the accused' is not to be confused with the belief of the accused; and 'belief', genuine or otherwise, is not a relevant factor: R v Collins (Lezlie) [1997] RTR 439, [1997] Crim LR 578, CA. Evidence that the driver was in breach of the legal requirements in relation to provisional licence holders (see PARA 464 ante) is inadmissible per se; it becomes admissible only if it can be shown that the breach was causally connected with the ensuing accident: R v O'Neale [1988] RTR 124, CA.

The Road Traffic Act 1988 s 2A (as added) emphasises the high threshold for establishing causing death by dangerous driving: R v Conteh [2003] EWCA Crim 962, [2004] RTR 1. Driving at very high speed is not by itself sufficient to constitute driving dangerously; it is a question of speed in all other circumstances: DPP v Milton [2006] EWHC 242 (Admin), [2006] RTR 264, [2006] All ER (D) 04 (Feb) (police officer driving at twice speed limit driving dangerously as not responding to emergency call or using warning siren).

5 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 2A(1)(b) (as added: see note 3 supra). For these purposes, 'dangerous' refers to danger either of injury to any person or of serious damage to property: s 2A(3) (as so added).

6 'Obvious' means obvious in the sense that it could have been seen or realised at first glance: R v Roberts [1997] RTR 462, [1997] Crim LR 209, CA; R v Strong [1995] Crim LR 428, CA. However, a person who, knowing of the dangerous state of a vehicle, procures another innocent of that state to drive, where there is no evidence that that state would have been obvious to a competent and careful driver, will escape conviction because it is not possible to procure an offence the actus reus of which has not been committed: R v Loukes [1996] RTR 164, CA. As to the actus reus see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 10.

7 In determining, for these purposes, the state of a vehicle, regard may be had to anything attached to or carried on or in it and to the manner in which it is attached or carried: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 2A(4) (as added: see note 3 supra).

8 Ibid s 2A(2) (as added: see note 3 supra). As to the defence of mechanical defect see PARA 971 note 6 post.

The relevant part of the common law of manslaughter survived successive statutory offences, between 1956 and 1977<sup>1</sup> of causing death by reckless driving<sup>2</sup>, and it is submitted that it has also survived the enactment of the present statutory offence of causing death by dangerous driving<sup>3</sup>. The more grave offence should only be charged, however, where the defendant's driving created a very high risk of death<sup>4</sup>.

The court must be very circumspect, however, in paying regard to evidence of what might be called bad driving by a person who is accused of such an offence where that bad driving occurred some distance before the scene of the incident which gave rise to the alleged offence<sup>5</sup>.

An information is not bad for duplicity where it alleges careless driving on different roads and it is open to the court to hold that the driving was all part of one continuous activity<sup>6</sup>.

970 Causing death by careless, or inconsiderate, driving

TEXT AND NOTE 1--Day appointed is 18 August 2008: SI 2008/1918.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(ii) Careless, and Inconsiderate, Driving and Cycling/971. Careless, and inconsiderate, driving.

971. Careless, and inconsiderate, driving.

If a person drives<sup>1</sup> a mechanically propelled vehicle<sup>2</sup> on a road or other public place<sup>3</sup> without due care and attention<sup>4</sup> or without reasonable consideration for other persons using the road or place<sup>5</sup> he is guilty of an offence<sup>6</sup>.

Careless driving and inconsiderate driving are distinct offences and, therefore, a conviction for driving on a road 'without due care and attention, or without reasonable consideration for other persons using the road' is bad for duplicity<sup>7</sup>.

A principle analogous to res ipsa loquitur<sup>8</sup> may be applied if, in the absence of a satisfactory explanation to the contrary, the facts point inferentially to carelessness beyond reasonable doubt<sup>9</sup>.

In cases of careless driving the court is entitled to consider the circumstances, including evidence that a driver was adversely affected by drink or that the amount of drink taken was such as would adversely affect a driver<sup>10</sup>.

A failure on the part of any person to observe a provision of the Highway Code does not of itself render that person liable to criminal proceedings, but any such failure may in any proceedings (whether civil or criminal) be relied upon by any parties to the proceedings as tending to establish or negative any liability which is in question in those proceedings<sup>11</sup>.

Falling asleep while driving is careless driving<sup>12</sup>.

A person is to be regarded as driving without due care and attention if (and only if) the way he drives falls below what would be expected of a competent and careful driver<sup>13</sup>. A person is to be regarded as driving without reasonable consideration for other persons only if those persons are inconvenienced by his driving<sup>14</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'drive' see PARA 207 ante.

2 As to the meaning of 'mechanically propelled vehicle' see PARA 211 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'road' see PARA 206 ante. As to the meaning of 'other public place' see PARA 206 note 2 ante.

4 The test as to whether a person is guilty of driving without due care and attention is an objective one and the proficiency and experience of the driver are irrelevant: McCrone v Riding [1938] 1 All ER 157, DC. The question is whether the defendant was exercising that degree of care and attention that a reasonable and prudent driver would exercise in the circumstances: Simpson v Peat [1952] 2 QB 24 at 27, [1952] 1 All ER 447 at 449, DC, per Lord Goddard CJ. The circumstances may, in a proper case, include danger, potential or actual, if those adjectives be appropriate: Dilks v Bowman-Shaw [1981] RTR 4 at 9, DC, per McNeill J. It is no defence that the driving was due to an error of judgment: Simpson v Peat supra. However, a defendant may not be convicted if he was driving prudently and, confronted with a sudden emergency, made a wrong decision in the agony of the moment: Simpson v Peat supra at 28 and 449 per Lord Goddard CJ. A motorist confronted with an emergency should be judged according to the test 'was it reasonable for him to act as he did?' and not according to the standard of perfection yielded by hindsight: Jones v Chief Constable of Avon and Somerset Constabulary [1986] RTR 259, DC. As to evidence of manner of driving before or after an accident see PARA 969 ante. See further the text and notes 13-14 infra.

5 'Other persons using the road' extends to passengers in the vehicle being driven by the defendant: Pawley v Wharfdall [1966] 1 QB 373, [1965] 2 All ER 757, DC. It seems to mean persons actually on the road (or other public place) at the material time and not those who might reasonably be expected to be there: see R v Surrey Justices, ex p Witherick (1931) as reported in 48 TLR 67 at 68 per Humphreys J.

6 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3 (substituted by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 2). A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale; disqualification is discretionary; endorsement is obligatory; and 3-9 penalty points may be attributed: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 28 (as substituted) (see PARA 1049 post), s 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (entry amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 23). As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. As to the prosecution of offences see PARA 1027 post; as to disqualification see PARA 1057 et seq post; as to endorsement see PARA 1080 et seq post; as to penalty points see PARA 1048 et seq post; and as to legal proceedings generally see PARA 1023 et seq post.

As to police powers to seize a motor vehicle being used in a manner which contravenes the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3 (as substituted) see PARA 972 post.

The limited exemption of fire and rescue authority, ambulance or police vehicles from speed limits provided by the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 s 87 (as amended) (see PARA 854 ante) does not affect a driver's liability to prosecution for dangerous or careless driving: Gaynor v Allen [1959] 2 QB 403, [1959] 2 All ER 644. See also R v O'Toole [1974] RTR 88, CA. No special standard is applicable to a police officer driving to an emergency: Wood v Richards [1977] RTR 201, DC. The defence of necessity, to the extent that it exists, must depend on the degree of the emergency or the alternative danger to be averted: Wood v Richards supra at 204 per Eveleigh J. It now seems to be established that necessity is available as a defence, in an appropriate case, to a charge of careless driving: R v Backshall [1998] 1 WLR 1506, [1998] RTR 423, CA; cf DPP v Harris [1995] 1 Cr App Rep 170, DC, per McCowan LJ. However, where an emergency vehicle drives through a red light and a charge of careless driving is brought, such defence of necessity as exists is set out in the regulations (the case refers to the Traffic Signs Regulations and General Directions 1994, SI 1994/1519, reg 33, but this has been revoked: see now the Traffic Signs Regulations and General Directions 2002, SI 2002/3113): DPP v Harris supra. As to the defences of assisting in the arrest of an offender and duress of circumstances see PARA 964 note 5 ante. As to the defence of automatism see PARA 963 note 2 ante. It is a defence to a charge of dangerous driving and to a charge of careless driving that the driver, without fault of his own, was deprived of control of the motor vehicle by a mechanical defect of which he did not know and which was not such that he should have discovered it if he had exercised reasonable prudence; the burden of proof of the defence is not on the accused, though it is for him to put forward the defence: R v Spurge [1961] 2 QB 205, [1961] 2 All ER 688, CCA.

7 R v Surrey Justices, ex p Witherick [1932] 1 KB 450. See also R v Griffiths [1998] Crim LR 348, CA.

8 As to the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur see NEGLIGENCE vol 78 (2010) PARA 64 et seq.

9 See eg Rabjohns v Bugar [1971] RTR 234n, DC, where the defendant's car collided with the concrete wall of a bridge on a fine day, no other vehicle was apparently involved, there were no witnesses to the accident, there were two skid marks behind the car and the defendant gave no explanation for the accident.

10 R v Millington [1996] RTR 80, CA (a case under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3A (as added): see PARA 974 post). The test of admissibility laid down in R v McBride [1962] 2 QB 167, [1961] 3 All ER 6, CCA (see PARA 965 note 4 ante) is not based upon any specific statutory provision but upon the test for dangerous driving: R v Millington supra at 84 per McKinnon J. As to offences relating to drink or drugs see PARA 974 et seq post.

11 See the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 38(7); and PARA 221 ante. However, a breach of the Highway Code is no more than evidential, and whether or not a person is guilty of careless driving must be a question of fact in every case: Jarvis v Fuller [1974] RTR 160, DC. As to the Highway Code see PARA 221 ante.

12 Henderson v Jones (1955) 119 JP 304, DC (distinguishing Edwards v Clarke (1951) 115 JP 426, DC). See also Kay v Butterworth (1945) 110 JP 75, CA; Hill v Baxter [1958] 1 QB 277, [1958] 1 All ER 193.

13 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3ZA(2) (s 3ZA added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 30). The Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3ZA (as added) has effect for the purposes of s 2B (prospectively added) (see PARA 970 ante), s 3 (as substituted) and s 3A (as added) (see PARA 974 post): s 3ZA(1) (as so added). At the date at which this volume states the law the Road Safety Act 2006 s 30, which adds the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3ZA, had been brought into force in so far as s 3ZA (as added) has effect for the purposes of s 3 (as substituted) (see the text and notes 1-6 supra) and s 3A (as added) (see PARA 974 post), but no day had been appointed for it to come into force for remaining purposes.

In determining for the purposes of s 3ZA(2) (as added) what would be expected of a careful and competent driver in a particular case, regard is to be had not only to the circumstances of which he could be expected to be aware but also to any circumstances shown to have been within the knowledge of the accused: s 3ZA(3) (as so added).

NOTE 13--Road Safety Act 2006 s 30 in force 18 August 2008 for remaining purposes: SI 2008/1918.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131; VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(ii) Careless, and Inconsiderate, Driving and Cycling/972. Vehicles used in a manner causing alarm, distress or annoyance.

972. Vehicles used in a manner causing alarm, distress or annoyance.

Where a constable in uniform has reasonable grounds for believing that a motor vehicle<sup>1</sup> is being used on any occasion in a manner which contravenes certain provisions of the Road

Traffic Act 1988<sup>2</sup> and is causing, or is likely to cause, alarm, distress or annoyance to members of the public, he has the following powers<sup>3</sup>: (1) power, if the motor vehicle is moving, to order the person driving<sup>4</sup> it to stop the vehicle<sup>5</sup>; (2) power to seize and remove the motor vehicle; (3) power, for the purposes of exercising a power falling within head (1) or head (2) above, to enter any premises on which he has reasonable grounds for believing the motor vehicle to be<sup>6</sup>; and (4) power to use reasonable force, if necessary, in the exercise of any power conferred by any of the above provisions<sup>7</sup>.

A constable must not seize a motor vehicle in the exercise of the powers so conferred on him unless he has warned the person concerned<sup>8</sup> that he will seize it if that use continues or is repeated, and it appears to him that the use has continued or been repeated after the warning<sup>9</sup>. However, a constable is not required to give such a warning on any occasion on which he would otherwise have the power to seize a motor vehicle if: (a) the circumstances make it impracticable for him to give the warning; (b) the constable has already on that occasion given a warning in respect of any use of that motor vehicle or of another motor vehicle by that person or any other person; (c) the constable has reasonable grounds for believing that such a warning has been given on that occasion otherwise than by him; or (d) the constable has reasonable grounds for believing that the person whose use of that motor vehicle on that occasion would justify the seizure is a person to whom a warning has been given, whether or not by that constable or in respect of the same vehicle or the same or a similar use, on a previous occasion in the previous 12 months<sup>10</sup>.

The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision as to the removal and retention of motor vehicles seized under the above powers, and as to the release or disposal of such motor vehicles<sup>11</sup>.

1 'Motor vehicle' means any mechanically propelled vehicle, whether or not it is intended or adapted for use on roads: Police Reform Act 2002 s 59(9).

2 I.e. the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3 (as substituted) (careless and inconsiderate driving: see PARA 971 ante) or s 34 (as substituted and amended) (prohibition of off-road driving: see PARA 1007 post).

3 Police Reform Act 2002 s 59(1).

4 For these purposes, 'driving' has the same meaning as in the Road Traffic Act 1988 (see PARA 207 ante): Police Reform Act 2002 s 59(9).

5 A person who fails to comply with such an order is guilty of an offence and is liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: ibid s 59(6). As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante.

6 For these purposes the power to enter any premises does not authorise entry into a private dwelling house: ibid s 59(7). 'Private dwelling house' does not include any garage or other structure occupied with the dwelling house, or any land appurtenant to the dwelling house: s 59(9).

7 Ibid s 59(3). A constable in uniform also has the powers set out in s 59(3) where he has reasonable grounds for believing that a motor vehicle has been used on any occasion in a manner falling within s 59(1) (see the text and notes 1-3 supra): s 59(2). A constable's powers under s 59(3) may also be exercised by a suitably designated community support officer: see s 38(6), Sch 4 para 9; and POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 529-530.

8 I.e. the person appearing to him to be the person whose use falls within ibid s 59(1) (see the text and notes 1-3 supra).

10 Ibid s 59(5).

11 See ibid s 60. In exercise of this power, the Secretary of State has made the Police (Retention and Disposal of Motor Vehicles) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/3049 (amended by SI 2005/2702). The powers conferred on a constable by the Police Reform Act 2002 s 59 are exercisable only at a time when regulations under s 60 are in force: s 59(8).

974. Causing death by careless driving when under the influence of drink or drugs.

If a person causes the death<sup>1</sup> of another person by driving<sup>2</sup> a mechanically propelled vehicle<sup>3</sup> on a road or other public place<sup>4</sup> without due care and attention, or without reasonable consideration for other persons using the road or place<sup>5</sup> and:

- 882 (1) he is, at the time when he is driving, unfit to drive<sup>6</sup> through drink or drugs<sup>7</sup>; or
- 883 (2) he has consumed so much alcohol that the proportion of it in his breath, blood or urine at that time exceeds the prescribed limit<sup>8</sup>; or
- 884 (3) he is, within 18 hours after that time, required to provide a specimen<sup>9</sup>, but without reasonable excuse fails<sup>10</sup> to provide it<sup>11</sup>;
- 885 (4) he is required by a constable to give his permission for a laboratory test of a specimen of blood taken from him<sup>12</sup>, but without reasonable excuse fails to do so<sup>13</sup>, he is guilty of an offence<sup>14</sup>.

The forms of the offence under heads (2), (3) and (4) above do not apply in relation to a person driving a mechanically propelled vehicle other than a motor vehicle<sup>15</sup>.

On a charge under head (1) or head (2) above there is no need for proof of a causal connection between the drink or drugs and the death<sup>16</sup>.

963-1022 Offences and Penalties

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

974 Causing death by careless driving when under the influence of drink or drugs

TEXT AND NOTES 9-13--As offences contrary to heads (3) and (4) are not driving offences connected with drink or drugs, the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15 does not apply to them: R v Steven [2009] EWCA Crim 1452, [2009] All ER (D) 138 (Jul).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131; VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(iii) Offences relating to Drink or Drugs/A. CONDUCT UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF DRINK OR DRUGS/975. Driving, or being in charge, of a mechanically propelled vehicle when under the influence of drink or drugs.

975. Driving, or being in charge, of a mechanically propelled vehicle when under the influence of drink or drugs.

Without prejudice to the above provisions, a person who, when in charge<sup>8</sup> of a mechanically propelled vehicle which is on a road or other public place, is unfit to drive through drink or drugs is guilty of an offence<sup>9</sup>. For these purposes<sup>10</sup>, a person is deemed not to have been in charge of a mechanically propelled vehicle if he proves<sup>11</sup> that at the material time the circumstances were such that there was no likelihood of his driving it so long as he remained unfit to drive through drink or drugs<sup>12</sup>. The court may, in determining whether there was such a likelihood, disregard any injury to him and any damage to the vehicle<sup>13</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'drive' see PARA 207 ante.

2 The words 'driving or attempting to drive' create two separate offences: see R (Buck) v Londonderry County Justices [1952] NI 1. It is submitted that 'attempting' in this context is subject to the same tests as other criminal attempts: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 79 et seq. See also Harman v Wardrop [1971] RTR 127, DC (attempt doubted where defendant merely asked for return of car keys with intention of driving); R v Farrance [1978] RTR 225, CA (defendant running car engine and unable to move off owing to burnt out clutch; held attempting to drive); Kelly v Hogan [1982] RTR 352, DC (defendant putting wrong key into ignition switch; held attempting to drive).

3 As to the meaning of 'mechanically propelled vehicle' see PARA 211 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'road' see PARA 206 ante. As to the meaning of 'other public place' see PARA 206 note 2 ante.

5 For the purposes of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4 (as amended), a person is to be taken to be unfit to drive if his ability to drive properly is for the time being impaired: s 4(5). As to the use of specimens in proceedings for an offence under s 4 (as amended), and as to the use of documentary evidence as to specimens in such proceedings, see PARA 991 post.

The testimony of a witness of his impression whether the accused had taken drink is admissible in evidence if he also states the facts on which his impression is based, although he is not an expert medical witness; but evidence of such a witness that the defendant was fit or unfit to drive a motor vehicle is not admissible: R v Davies [1962] 3 All ER 97, [1962] 1 WLR 1111, C-MAC. Medical evidence as to the defendant's fitness to drive is admissible, but the court in the exercise of its discretion should refuse to admit such evidence if the defendant might have refused to subject himself to examination if he had realised that the doctor would give evidence on that matter: R v Payne [1963] 1 All ER 848, [1963] 1 WLR 637, CCA. The evidence of any doctor, whether a police surgeon or not, is to be accepted as the evidence of a professional expert giving independent evidence with the sole desire of assisting the court unless the doctor by his own conduct shows that his evidence ought not to be accepted: R v Nowell [1948] 1 All ER 794, 32 Cr App Rep 173. However, in R v Lanfear [1968] 2 QB 77, [1968] 1 All ER 683, CA, it was explained that the court in R v Nowell supra was dealing with assertions that the doctor should be treated as if he were the arm of the police and that an inducement to the defendant to submit to medical examination rendered the evidence of that examination inadmissible; and what was actually meant was that the evidence should be treated, as regards admissibility and other matters of that kind, like that of any other independent witness, and the word 'accepted', if taken out of that context, might give a false impression of the weight to be given to that evidence. Where a defendant was examined by a police surgeon, justices may still convict even though the surgeon is not called as prosecution witness: Leetham v DPP [1999] RTR 29, DC (the evidence consisted of the defendant's admitted consumption of cannabis, the presence of cannabis in a specimen of blood supplied by the defendant, the effects of that drug, and the slurred and slow character of the defendant's speech).

The prosecution must prove not only the influence but also that the defendant was impaired in the proper control of his vehicle as a result: see R v Hawkes (1931) 22 Cr App Rep 172. However, impairment of ability to drive properly may be inferred where the defendant, for no apparent reason, drove into collision with a stationary vehicle; and it is common knowledge that a person with blood alcohol concentration two-and-a-half times the prescribed limit is likely to be substantially intoxicated, from which a court is entitled, without expert evidence, to infer that such intoxication was responsible for the impairment of ability to drive resulting in the accident: R v Hunt [1980] RTR 29, CA. For the meaning of 'the prescribed limit' see PARA 978 note 9 post.

6 As to the meaning of 'drug' see PARA 974 note 7 ante. For the purposes of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4 (as amended), a substance used as a medicine is a drug and an offence would be committed by, for example, a person suffering from hypoglycaemic coma due to the overaction of a usual and prescribed insulin injection: see Armstrong v Clark [1957] 2 QB 391, [1957] 1 All ER 433. An acquittal is justified, however, where there is reasonable doubt as to whether the injected insulin was more than a predisposing or historical cause comprised in a situation of equilibrium upon which the reduction of cortisone (due to improved liver function) operated as the effective cause of the hypoglycaemic episode: Watmore v Jenkins [1962] 2 QB 572, [1962] 2 All ER 868, DC. See also R v Ealing Magistrates' Court, ex p Woodman [1994] RTR 189, DC (conviction quashed where no evidence that injected insulin was the effective cause of the hypoglycaemic attack, or that the attack was produced by the defendant's failure to manage his drug's regime).

A substance (in this case, glue) taken in the body which is not drink or food but which affects the control of the body is capable of being a drug: Bradford v Wilson [1984] RTR 116, (1983) 147 JP 573, DC.

7 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4(1) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 4). A person guilty of an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4(1) (as amended) is liable on summary conviction to a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months or to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum or to both; disqualification is obligatory; endorsement is obligatory; and 3-11 penalty points may be attributed if, for special reasons, the offender is not ordered to be disqualified: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 28 (as substituted) (see PARA 1049 post), s 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (entry amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 26, Sch 2). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 359 note 11 ante. As to the prosecution of offences see PARA 1027 post; as to disqualification see PARA 1057 et seq post; as to endorsement see PARA 1080 et seq post; as to penalty points see PARA 1048 et seq post; as to special reasons for not imposing obligatory disqualification see PARA 1059 post; and as to legal proceedings generally see PARA 1023 et seq post.

The Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4 (as amended), s 5 (see PARA 978 post), s 6 (see PARA 979 post), s 6A (as added) (see PARA 980 post), s 6B (as added) (see PARA 981 post), s 6C (as added) (see PARA 982 post), s 6D (as added) (see PARA 983 post), s 6E (as added) (see PARA 984 post), s 7 (as amended) (see PARA 986 post), s 7A (as added) (see PARA 987 post), s 8 (as amended) (see PARA 986 post), s 9 (as amended) (see PARA 989 post), s 10 (as amended) (see PARA 990 post) and s 11 (as amended) (see PARAS 978, 983, 985-986 post) do not apply, to the extent that apart from this provision they would, to vehicles on any transport system to which the Transport and Works Act 1992 Pt II Ch I (ss 26-40) (as amended) (offences involving drink or drugs on railways, tramways and certain other guided transport systems: see RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES vol 39(1A) (Reissue) PARA 377 et seq) applies: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 192A(1) (s 192A added by the Transport and Works Act 1992 s 39). The Secretary of State may by regulations provide that the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4 (as amended), s 5, s 6, ss 6A-6E (as added), s 7 (as amended), s 7A (as added), s 8 (as amended), s 9 (as amended), s 10 (as amended) and s 11 (as amended) apply to vehicles on a system of guided transport specified in the regulations with such modifications as he considers necessary or expedient, and such regulations may make different provision for different cases: s 192A(2), (3) (as so added). At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made. For these purposes, 'guided transport' means transport by vehicles guided by means external to the vehicles (whether or not the vehicles are also capable of being operated in some other way): s 192A(4) (as so added). For these purposes, 'vehicle' includes mobile traction unit: s 192A(4) (as so added). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

There is only one offence of driving (as opposed to attempting to drive: see note 2 supra) in a self-induced state of incapacity, whether the incapacity is due to drink or drugs, and a conviction for driving while 'under the influence of drink or a drug' is not bad for uncertainty: Thomson v Knights [1947] KB 336, [1947] 1 All ER 112, DC.

The defence of 'duress of circumstances' is available to a charge under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 5(1)(a) (driving or attempting to drive with an alcohol concentration in excess of the prescribed limit: see PARA 978 post) and it is submitted that the defence is similarly available to a charge under s 4(1) (as amended). As to the defence of duress of circumstances see PARA 964 note 5 ante.

8 In general, and subject to the defence of proving no likelihood of driving while still unfit to drive (see the text and notes 11-12 infra), a person who takes a motor vehicle onto a road remains in charge of it until he puts the vehicle in the charge of another: Haines v Roberts [1953] 1 All ER 344, [1953] 1 WLR 309, DC. However, the person, if the owner, lawful possessor or recent driver of the vehicle, will not be in charge if in all the circumstances he has ceased to be in actual control of the vehicle and there is no realistic possibility of his resuming actual control while unfit: DPP v Watkins [1989] QB 821, [1989] 1 All ER 1126, DC. See also Ellis v Smith [1962] 3 All ER 954, [1962] 1 WLR 1486, DC (bus driver remained in charge of his bus until he handed over to a relief driver even though his spell of duty was over); Woodage v Jones (No 2) [1975] RTR 119, DC (no justification for conclusion that defendant had abandoned his motor vehicle where he had driven onto the forecourt of a garage, walked away and had been intercepted by the police about half a mile from the forecourt).

A person can be in charge of a vehicle rendered immobile by the application of a wheel clamp: Drake v DPP [1994] RTR 411, DC.

Whether a person is in charge of a motor vehicle is a question of fact and degree: DPP v Webb [1988] RTR 374, DC. Detailed guidance as to the correct approach was given in DPP v Watkins supra:

1491 (1) although there is no hard and fast all-embracing test of what constitutes being 'in charge' for the purposes of the Road Traffic 1988 s 4 (as amended) or s 5, there has to be a close connection between the defendant and control of the vehicle;

1492 (2) two broad propositions are clear: the 'in charge' offence comes below driving and attempting to drive in the scale of drink-driving offences and a defendant can therefore be in charge although neither driving nor attempting to drive; but as the mischief aimed at is to prevent driving when unfit through drink or drugs the offence of being in charge must be intended to convict those who have not yet done more than a preparatory act towards driving, but who have already formed or may yet form the intention to drive the vehicle and may try to drive it whilst still unfit;

1493 (3) if the defendant is not the owner, lawful possessor or recent driver of the vehicle but is sitting in the vehicle or is otherwise involved with it, the question is whether he has assumed being in charge of it; and he will be in charge if, whilst unfit, he is voluntarily in de facto control of the vehicle or if, in the circumstances, including his position, his intentions and his actions, he may be expected imminently to assume control;

1494 (4) an intention to take control may be evident even though the defendant has not gained entry to the motor, eg by stealing the keys in circumstances showing that he means presently to drive it;

9 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4(2) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 4). A person guilty of an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4(2) (as amended) is liable on summary conviction to a term of imprisonment not exceeding three months or to a fine not exceeding level 4 on the standard scale or to both; disqualification is discretionary; endorsement is obligatory; and the number of penalty points attributed to the offence is 10: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 28 (as substituted) (see PARA 1049 post), s 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (entry amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 26, Sch 2). As from a day to be appointed, this provision is amended so as to refer to '51 weeks' instead of 'three months': Road Traffic Offenders Act 1998 Sch 2 Pt I (entry as so amended; and prospectively amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 280(2), (3), Sch 26 para 38(1), (2)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante.

10 Ie for the purposes of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4(2) (as amended): see the text and notes 8-9 supra.

11 The normal balance of probabilities standard of proof applies: Morton v Confer [1963] 2 All ER 765, [1963] 1 WLR 763, DC. Justices are not restricted to looking only at outside circumstances; the court may also consider what the defendant's intention was: Morton v Confer supra. However, if the court is satisfied that the defendant did not intend to drive whilst still unfit to drive through drink or drugs, the court must be further satisfied that there was no likelihood that he would depart from that intention: Morton v Confer supra (defendant claimed he did not intend to drive until he felt fit to do so, but the justices did not state specifically that they were satisfied that that intent would have been carried out).

A husband supervising the driving of his wife (who held a provisional licence) may, nevertheless, be able to discharge the burden of proving there was no likelihood of him driving: Sheldon v Jones [1970] RTR 38, DC.

It is open to justices to conclude, without hearing expert evidence, that a defendant, who was under the influence of drink at 3 am and gave a sample of breath on an evidential breath-testing device at 3.51 am containing 97 microgram's, will not remain unfit to drive through drink at 9 am (but not to conclude on those facts, without expert evidence, that the defence in the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 5(2) is made out (see PARA 978 post)): DPP v Frost [1989] RTR 11, DC. The burden of proof on the defendant is legal rather than evidential, but does not go beyond reasonable limits and so does not contravene the right to presumption of innocence under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953); Cmd 8969) art 6(2) (see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 142): Sheldrake v DPP, A-G's Reference (No 4 of 2002) [2004] UKHL 43, [2005] 1 AC 264, [2005] 1 All ER 237.

12 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4(3) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 4).

13 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 4(4). The presence of a wheel clamp may not be disregarded under this provision, since the application of such a clamp to a motor vehicle does not amount to 'any damage to the vehicle': Drake v DPP [1994] RTR 411, DC (defendant refused to pay a fine to release the clamp and his efforts to remove it with a claw hammer were doomed to failure).

Every person who is drunk while in charge, on any highway or other public place, of any carriage<sup>1</sup>, horse, cattle<sup>2</sup> or steam engine, or who is drunk while in possession of any loaded firearms, may be apprehended, and is liable to a penalty<sup>3</sup>.

Whether a person is drunk is a question of fact<sup>4</sup>. An honest, although mistaken, belief upon reasonable grounds that a person is drunk will justify his apprehension<sup>5</sup>.

1 A motor vehicle or trailer: (1) is to be deemed to be a carriage within the meaning of any Act of Parliament, whether a public general Act or a local Act, and of any rule, regulation or byelaw made under any Act of Parliament; and (2) if used as a carriage of any particular class is, for the purpose of any enactment relating to carriages of any particular class, to be deemed to be a carriage of that class: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 191. For the meanings of 'motor vehicle' and 'trailer' see PARA 210 ante. Section 191 does not apply to tramcars: Tramcars and Trolley Vehicles (Modification of Enactments) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/1217, reg 7. For the meaning of 'tramcar' see PARA 219 ante. A person guilty of such an offence is liable to a penalty not exceeding level 1 on the standard scale or, in the discretion of the court, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding one month: Licensing Act 1872 s 12 (as so amended). As from a day to be appointed, this provision is amended so as to refer to '51 weeks' instead of 'one month': see s 12 (as so amended; and prospectively amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 280(2), (3), Sch 26 para 2). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante.

Momentary and involuntary presence on the highway is sufficient for a charge under the Licensing Act 1872 s 12 (as amended) of being found drunk on the highway if the accused was perceived to be drunk there: Winzar v Chief Constable of Kent (1983) Times, 28 March, DC. A person liable to be charged with an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3A (as added) (see PARA 974 ante), s 4 (as amended) (see PARA 975 ante), s 5 (see PARA 978 post), s 7 (as amended) (see PARA 986 post) or s 30 (as amended) (see PARA 976 ante) is not liable to be charged under the Licensing Act 1872 s 12 (as amended) with the offence of being drunk while in charge, on a highway or other public place, of a carriage: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 5 (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 48, Sch 4 para 82).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131; VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(iii) Offences relating to Drink or Drugs/B. DRIVING OR BEING IN CHARGE OF A VEHICLE WITH EXCESS

ALCOHOL CONCENTRATION/978. Driving, or being in charge of, a motor vehicle with alcohol concentration above the prescribed limit.

B. DRIVING OR BEING IN CHARGE OF A VEHICLE WITH EXCESS ALCOHOL CONCENTRATION

978. Driving, or being in charge of, a motor vehicle with alcohol concentration above the prescribed limit.

If a person:

- 886 (1) drives or attempts to drive<sup>1</sup> a motor vehicle<sup>2</sup> on a road<sup>3</sup> or other public place<sup>4</sup>;
or

after consuming<sup>7</sup> so much alcohol that the proportion of it in his breath<sup>8</sup>, blood or urine exceeds the prescribed limit<sup>9</sup> he is guilty of an offence<sup>10</sup>.

It is a defence for a person charged under head (2) above to prove<sup>11</sup> that at the time he is alleged to have committed the offence the circumstances were such that there was no likelihood of his driving the vehicle whilst the proportion of alcohol in his breath, blood or urine remained likely to exceed the prescribed limit<sup>12</sup>. The court may, in determining whether there was such a likelihood, disregard any injury to him and any damage to the vehicle<sup>13</sup>.

Duress of circumstances is a defence for a person charged under head (1) above<sup>14</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'drive' see PARA 207 ante. As to the meaning of 'drives or attempts to drive' see PARA 975 note 2 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'motor vehicle' see PARA 210 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'road' see PARA 206 ante.

4 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 5(1)(a). As to the meaning of 'other public place' see PARA 206 note 2 ante.

5 As to the meaning of 'in charge' see PARA 975 note 8 ante.

6 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 5(1)(b).

7 'Consuming' is not limited to consumption by mouth but includes other methods of the ingestion of alcohol into the body, such as absorbing it by way of injection: DPP v Johnson [1995] 1 WLR 728, [1995] RTR 9, DC. Where the written statement of the analyst recorded that the defendant's urine sample contained micro-organisms capable of producing alcohol, but that any alcohol so contributed was unlikely to have contributed significantly to the alcohol found in the specimen provided by the defendant unless the defendant was diabetic, and the defendant called no evidence at the trial (with the result that there was no evidence one way or the other as to whether the defendant was a diabetic), the justices could not be satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the defendant had committed the offence since the analyst was not discounting reasonable possibilities: Collins v Lucking [1983] RTR 312, DC.

8 'Breath' is not limited to deep-lung air: Zafar v DPP [2004] EWHC 2468 (Admin), [2005] RTR 220.

9 'The prescribed limit' means, as the case may require: (1) 35 microgram's of alcohol in 100 millilitres of breath; (2) 80 milligrams of alcohol in 100 millilitres of blood; or (3) 107 milligrams of alcohol in 100 millilitres of urine, or such other proportion as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 11(1), (2) (s 11(1) amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 48, Sch 4 para 44). At the date at which this volume states the law no regulations had been made in relation to the definition of 'the prescribed limit'. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

The prosecution need only prove the proportion of alcohol exceeded the prescribed limit; it is unnecessary to prove any particular figure: R v Coomaraswamy [1976] RTR 21, CA; Thomas v Henderson [1983] RTR 293, DC;

Gordon v Thorpe [1986] RTR 358, DC. The line is drawn at the prescribed limit; there is no principle of de minimis: McGarry v Chief Constable of Bedfordshire [1983] RTR 172, DC. It is common practice to deduct 6 milligrams of alcohol from the results of blood alcohol analysis to allow a margin of error, but that approach is not necessarily appropriate where a whole range of results are produced by analysis and the court is not, in any event, obliged to make a further reduction to the nearest round figure: Oswald v DPP [1989] RTR 360, DC (conviction upheld where reading was 80.2 milligrams after deduction of 6 milligrams). See also Walker v Hodgins [1984] RTR 34, DC (prosecution analysis showed 96 milligrams, defence analysis showed 83 milligrams, justices could not choose between the two and deducted 6 milligrams from the latter as this had not already been done and acquitted: decision upheld); cf Stephenson v Clift [1988] RTR 171, DC (justices preferred prosecution analysis as a more accurate method of testing had been used). Where a sample is split by a laboratory into a number of sub samples for analysis it is lawful to use the average result and not necessary to use the lowest figure: DPP v Welsh (1996) 161 JP 57, DC. As for contamination of blood specimens due to the use of swabs containing ethanol see R v Bolton Justices, ex p Scally [1991] 1 QB 537, [1991] RTR 84, DC (convictions in this and other cases involving such swabs quashed even though there had been no dishonesty involved).

As to challenging the reliability of evidential breath test devices see PARA 991 note 3 post.

10 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 5(1). A person guilty of an offence under s 5(1)(a) (see head (1) in the text) is liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale or to both; disqualification is discretionary; endorsement is obligatory; and 3-11 penalty points may be attributed: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 28 (as substituted) (see PARA 1049 post), s 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (entry amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 26, Sch 2). A person guilty of an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 5(1)(b) (see head (2) in the text) is liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to a fine not exceeding level 4 on the standard scale or to both; disqualification is discretionary; endorsement is obligatory; and 10 penalty points may be attributed if, for special reasons, the offender is not ordered to be disqualified: Sch 2 Pt I. As from a day to be appointed, this provision is amended so as to refer to '51 weeks' instead of 'three months': see Sch 2 Pt I (entry prospectively amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 280(2), (3), Sch 26 para 38(1), (3)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. As to the prosecution of offences see PARA 1027 post; as to disqualification see PARA 1057 et seq post; as to endorsement see PARA 1080 et seq post; as to penalty points see PARA 1048 et seq post; as to special reasons for not imposing obligatory disqualification see PARA 1059 post; and as to legal proceedings generally see PARA 1023 et seq post. As to procedure and evidence on offences relating to drink see PARA 979 et seq post.

As to aiding and abetting the commission of an offence see Carter v Richardson [1974] RTR 314, [1974] Crim LR 190, DC (sufficient to be aware that the principal offender had consumed excessive alcohol even though precise amount had not been determined). The offence of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring can be committed by a person who secretly laces a friend's drinks leading to his conviction under what is now the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 5: see A-G's Reference (No 1 of 1975) [1975] QB 773, [1975] 2 All ER 684, CA. As to the imposition of penalty points, and the disapplication of obligatory disqualification, for an offence of aiding, abetting, counselling, procuring or inciting the commission of an offence involving obligatory disqualification see PARA 1058 post.

C. TESTING FOR DRINK AND DRUGS

979. Power to administer preliminary tests.

If any of the following circumstances apply<sup>1</sup>, a constable may require a person to co-operate with any one or more preliminary tests<sup>2</sup> administered to the person by that constable or another constable<sup>3</sup>. The circumstances are:

- 888 (1) if a constable reasonably suspects<sup>4</sup> that the person: (a) is driving<sup>5</sup>, attempting to drive<sup>6</sup> or in charge<sup>7</sup> of a motor vehicle<sup>8</sup> on a road or other public place<sup>9</sup>; and (b) has alcohol or a drug<sup>10</sup> in his body or is under the influence of a drug<sup>11</sup>;
- 889 (2) if a constable reasonably suspects that the person: (a) has been driving, attempting to drive or in charge of a motor vehicle on a road or other public place while having alcohol or a drug in his body or while unfit to drive because of a drug; and (b) still has alcohol or a drug in his body or is still under the influence of a drug<sup>12</sup>;
- 890 (3) if a constable reasonably suspects that the person: (a) is or has been driving, attempting to drive or in charge of a motor vehicle on a road or other public place; and (b) has committed a traffic offence<sup>13</sup> while the vehicle was in motion<sup>14</sup>;
- 891 (4) if (a) an accident<sup>15</sup> occurs owing to the presence of a motor vehicle<sup>16</sup> on a road or other public place; and (b) a constable reasonably believes<sup>17</sup> that the person was driving, attempting to drive or in charge of the vehicle at the time of the accident<sup>18</sup>.

1 If any of the provisions of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 6(2)-(5) (as substituted) apply.

2 In ibid s 6 (as substituted) a reference to a preliminary test is to any of the tests described in ss 6A-6C (as added) (see PARAS 980-982 post): s 6(8)(a) (s 6 substituted by the Railways and Transport Safety Act 2003 s 107, Sch 7 para 1).

3 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 6(1) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). A constable may administer a preliminary test only if he is in uniform: s 6(7) (as so substituted). Whether or not a constable is in uniform at the relevant time is a question of fact: see Wallwork v Giles [1970] RTR 117, DC (constable in uniform despite not wearing a helmet). The constable need not be in uniform when his suspicion was aroused; the requirement relates to the time when the specimen of breath is required: Taylor v Baldwin [1976] RTR 265, [1976] Crim LR 137, DC. In the absence of evidence a court may assume that a constable acting under this provision was wearing uniform at the time: Cooper v Rowlands [1971] RTR 291, [1972] Crim LR 53, DC. As to constables see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 101 et seq.

As to the disapplication of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 6 (as substituted) to vehicles on any transport system to which the Transport and Works Act 1992 Pt II Ch I (ss 26-40) (as amended) (offences involving drink or drugs on railways, tramways and certain other guided transport systems: see RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES vol 39(1A) (Reissue) PARA 377 et seq) applies see PARA 975 note 7 ante.

4 Evidence must be adduced to establish that the constable had reasonable cause so to suspect: Griffiths v Willett [1979] RTR 195, DC. See also Siddiqui v Swain [1979] RTR 454, DC (the mere fact that the constable required a specimen of breath did not necessarily establish that he had a suspicion of alcohol in the defendant's body). It seems that the constable must not only have reasonable cause to suspect or believe (as the case may be); he must actually so suspect or believe: R v Banks [1916] 2 KB 621 (but, in relation to reasonable cause to believe that for medical reasons an evidential breath specimen cannot be provided or should not be required, see Davis v DPP [1988] RTR 156, DC; and PARA 986 note 12 post). A constable may form a reasonable suspicion from what another constable has told him, and in such a case the first officer when giving evidence may relate what the second officer said: Moss v Jenkins [1975] RTR 25, DC. A reasonable suspicion may be formed on information given, even anonymously, by a third party: DPP v Wilson [1991] Crim LR 284, DC. There is no need for the constable's suspicion to have arisen when the defendant was driving: Blake v Pope [1986] 3 All ER 185, [1986] 1 WLR 1152, DC. See also DPP v Wilson supra; DPP v McGladrigan [1991] RTR 297, DC.

Provided there is no malpractice, there is no restriction on the random stopping of motorists, but a subsequent requirement to provide a specimen of breath can only be made if the constable has reasonable cause to suspect the consumption of alcohol: Chief Constable of Gwent v Dash [1986] RTR 41, [1985] Crim LR 674, DC. A requirement for a specimen of breath is not a lawful requirement if at the time the constable is a trespasser, but a lawful arrest under what is now the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 6 (as substituted) is no longer a prerequisite for a conviction of an offence under what is now s 5 (see PARA 978 ante): R v Fox [1986] AC 281, [1985] RTR 337, HL.

As to the exclusion of admissible evidence under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 in breath test device cases see PARA 991 note 2 post.

5 For the meaning of 'drive' see PARA 207 ante.

6 As to the meaning of 'drives or attempts to drive' see PARA 975 note 2 ante.

7 As to the meaning of 'in charge' see PARA 975 note 8 ante.

8 For the meaning of 'motor vehicle' see PARA 210 ante.

9 For the meaning of 'road' see PARA 206 ante. As to the meaning of 'other public place' see PARA 206 note 2 ante.

10 As to the meaning of 'drug' see PARA 974 note 7 ante.

12 Ibid s 6(3) (as substituted: see note 2 supra).

13 In ibid s 6 (as substituted), 'traffic offence' means an offence under: (1) a provision of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Pt II (ss 6-29) (as amended) (see PARA 1141 et seq post); (2) a provision of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 (see PARA 718 et seq ante); (3) a provision of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 other than a provision of Pt III (ss 51-90) (as amended) (see PARA 1023 et seq post); or (4) a provision of the Road Traffic Act 1988 other than a provision of Pt V (ss 123-142) (as amended) (see PARA 411 et seq ante): s 6(8)(b) (as substituted: see note 2 supra).

14 Ibid s 6(4) (as substituted: see note 2 supra).

15 'Accident' means an unintended occurrence which has an adverse physical result: R v Morris [1972] 1 All ER 384, [1972] RTR 201, CA. The term should be given its ordinary popular meaning and not a technical one: Chief Constable of West Midlands Police v Billingham [1979] 2 All ER 182, [1979] RTR 446, DC (untoward consequence of a deliberate act may well be an accident). No other vehicle need be involved: R v Pico [1971] RTR 500, CA.

16 The defendant's own vehicle does not have to be physically damaged or even involved, but there must be a direct cause or connection between the motor vehicle and the occurrence of the accident: Quelch v Phipps [1955] 2 QB 107, [1955] 2 All ER 302.

17 See note 4 supra. There is a difference in meaning between the words 'suspect' and 'believe', but it has been held that a constable had reasonable grounds to believe that the defendant had been driving where: (1)

there was an accident; (2) one of the drivers involved in the accident did not stop, but his vehicle registration number was passed to the constable; (3) the vehicle was found abandoned nearby; (4) the defendant and another were seen running away from the place where the vehicle had been abandoned and the constable did not know which of them had been driving; (5) the constable obtained information from a police computer that showed the defendant to be the registered keeper or owner; and (6) the defendant admitted being the owner of the vehicle, though neither he nor his colleague admitted being the driver: Baker v Oxford [1980] RTR 315, DC.

There must be an accident before a preliminary test can be required under what is now the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 6(5) (as substituted); it is not sufficient for a constable to have reasonable cause to believe that there has been one: R v Vardy [1978] RTR 202, CA.

18 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 6(5) (as substituted: see note 2 supra).

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(iii) Offences relating to Drink or Drugs/C. TESTING FOR DRINK AND DRUGS/980. Preliminary breath test.

980. Preliminary breath test.

A preliminary breath test is a procedure whereby the person to whom the test is administered provides a specimen of breath to be used for the purpose of obtaining, by means of a device of a type approved by the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup>, an indication whether the proportion of alcohol in the person's breath or blood is likely to exceed the prescribed limit<sup>2</sup>.

<sup>1</sup> As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante. Orders made approving breath test devices are not statutory instruments and are not recorded in this work.

Approval may be given by an appropriate official on behalf of the Secretary of State: R v Skinner [1968] 2 QB 700, [1968] 3 All ER 124, CA. A written statement from an appropriate official that a device is of an approved type is admissible: R v Holt [1968] 3 All ER 802, [1968] 1 WLR 1942, CA. A consignment note relating to delivery of devices to the police is inadmissible to prove that the device is of an approved kind: R v Gwilliam [1968] 3 All ER 821, [1968] 1 WLR 1839, CA. A print of the order may, however, be admitted as evidence of approval: R v Clarke [1969] 2 QB 91, [1969] 1 All ER 924, CA. The approval of a device can be established by oral evidence from a police officer, and judicial notice may be taken of approval orders due to the large and widely reported number of cases in which that has been so proved: R v Jones (Reginald) [1969] 3 All ER 1559, [1970] 1 WLR 16, CA; followed in Bentley v Chief Constable of Northumbria [1984] RTR 276, 148 JP 266. Proof of the identity of the device is essential, although the device need not be physically produced; a constable may give evidence of identification of the device in reliance on his knowledge and experience: Miller v Howe [1969] 3 All ER 451, [1969] 1 WLR 1510.

Except with regard to assembly of the device, there is no requirement that the manufacturer's instructions as to breath test devices need be followed strictly, but in administering a test a constable must act in good faith for the purpose of obtaining an indication of the proportion of alcohol and must try to use the device correctly to obtain a true indication of that: DPP v Carey [1970] AC 1072, [1969] 3 All ER 1662, HL. As to defective and incorrectly assembled devices see DPP v Carey supra; Rayner v Hampshire Chief Constable [1971] RTR 15; R v Coates [1971] RTR 74, CA; R v Parsons [1972] RTR 425, [1972] Crim LR 565, CA; R v Kaplan [1978] RTR 119, [1977] Crim LR 564, CA; Price v Davies [1979] RTR 204; Sparrow v Bradley [1985] RTR 122.

A constable's bona fides will not excuse a lack of knowledge of the manufacturer's instructions: A-G's Reference (No 2 of 1974) [1975] 1 All ER 658, [1975] 1 WLR 328, CA. However, improper administration of a breath test, but in a manner that is not potentially prejudicial to the driver (inflating the bag of the device in two breaths and not one, contrary to the manufacturer's instructions), will not vitiate the test: A-G's Reference (No 1 of 1978) [1978] RTR 377, CA. As to cases relating to the manufacturer's instructions see Sayer v Johnson [1970] RTR 286, DC (temperature at which device stored); Gill v Forster [1970] RTR 372, DC (temperature at which device stored); A-G's Reference (No 2 of 1974) supra (smoking); Darnell v Portal [1972] RTR 483, DC (smoking); R v Callum [1975] RTR 415, CA (smoking); R v Aspden [1975] RTR 456, CA (time when test administered); Butcher v Caterall [1975] RTR 436, 61 Cr App Rep 221, DC (smoking); R v Moore (George) [1979] RTR 98, CA (time when test administered); DPP v Kay [1999] RTR 109, DC (no duty to ask when a driver had taken his last drink or smoked his last cigarette).

2 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 6A(1) (s 6A added by the Railways and Transport Safety Act 2003 s 107, Sch 7 para 1). For the meaning of 'the prescribed limit' see PARA 978 note 9 ante.

A preliminary breath test administered in reliance on the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 6(2)-(4) (as substituted) (see PARA 979 heads (1)-(3) ante) may be administered only at or near the place where the requirement to co-operate with the test is imposed: s 6A(2) (as so added). A preliminary breath test administered in reliance on s 6(5) (as substituted) (see PARA 979 head (4) ante) may be administered: (1) at or near the place where the requirement to co-operate with the test is imposed; or (2) if the constable who imposes the requirement thinks it expedient, at a police station specified by him: s 6A(3) (as so added).

981. Preliminary impairment test.

A preliminary impairment test is a procedure whereby the constable administering the test: (1) observes the person to whom the test is administered in his performance of tasks specified by the constable; and (2) makes such other observations of the person's physical state as the constable thinks expedient<sup>1</sup>. The Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> must issue (and may from time to time revise) a code of practice about: (a) the kind of task that may be specified for the purpose of a preliminary impairment test; (b) the kind of observation of physical state that may be made in the course of a preliminary impairment test; (c) the manner in which a preliminary impairment test should be administered; and (d) the inferences that may be drawn from observations made in the course of a preliminary impairment test<sup>3</sup>. In issuing or revising the code of practice the Secretary of State must aim to ensure that a preliminary impairment test is designed to indicate whether a person is unfit to drive and, if he is, whether or not his unfitness is likely to be due to drink or drugs<sup>4</sup>.

A preliminary impairment test may be administered: (i) at or near the place where the requirement to co-operate with the test is imposed; or (ii) if the constable who imposes the requirement thinks it expedient, at a police station specified by him<sup>5</sup>. A constable administering a preliminary impairment test must have regard to the code of practice under these provisions<sup>6</sup>. A constable may administer a preliminary impairment test only if he is approved for that purpose by the chief officer of the police force to which he belongs<sup>7</sup>.

A constable may enter any place (using reasonable force if necessary) for the purpose of: (1) imposing a requirement to co-operate with any one or more preliminary tests<sup>1</sup> following an accident<sup>2</sup> in a case where the constable reasonably suspects that the accident involved injury of any person; or (2) arresting a person<sup>3</sup> following an accident in a case where the constable reasonably suspects that the accident involved injury of any person<sup>4</sup>.

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(iii) Offences relating to Drink or Drugs/C. TESTING FOR DRINK AND DRUGS/985. Failure to co-operate with preliminary test.

985. Failure to co-operate with preliminary test.

1 No excuse can be adjudged reasonable unless the person from whom the specimen is required is physically or mentally unable to provide it or the provision of the specimen would entail a substantial risk to his health: R v Lennard [1973] 2 All ER 831, [1973] 1 WLR 483, CA.

The following have been held not to provide a reasonable excuse: a mistaken view of the law (R v Reid [1973] QB 299, [1972] 2 All ER 1350, CA); an assertion that a relevant traffic offence had not been committed (R v Downey [1970] RTR 257, CA); a genuine but mistaken belief that a constable was not acting in good faith (McGrath v Vipas [1984] RTR 58, 148 JP 405, DC); constable mentioning an additional and inappropriate penalty as a consequence of refusal (Bryant v Morris [1972] RTR 214, DC).

The following have been held to provide a reasonable excuse: a bronchitic condition (Hirst v Wilson [1969] 3 All ER 1566, [1970] 1 WLR 47, DC); non-comprehension, though not where that arises from self-induced intoxication (Spalding v Paine [1985] Crim LR 673, DC; and see also Beck v Sager [1979] RTR 475, [1979] Crim LR 257, DC).

While the burden of proving the offence is on the prosecution, that burden will be discharged if the defence is unable to raise the question of excuse on the evidence given: Mallovs v Harris [1979] RTR 404, [1979] Crim LR 320, DC. See also Parker v Smith [1974] RTR 500, [1974] Crim LR 426, DC; Dawes v Taylor [1986] RTR 81, DC.

As to the meaning of 'reasonable excuse' in relation to evidential specimens see PARA 988 post.

2 As to the meaning of 'fail' see PARA 974 note 10 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'preliminary test' see PARA 979 note 2 ante. A person does not co-operate with a preliminary test or provide a specimen of breath for analysis unless his co-operation or the specimen: (1) is sufficient to enable the test or the analysis to be carried out; and (2) is provided in such a way as to enable the objective of the test or analysis to be satisfactorily achieved: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 11(1), (3) (s 11(1) amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 48, Sch 4 para 44; and the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 11(3) amended by the Railways and Transport Safety Act 2003 s 107, Sch 7 para 5(b)). Head (2) supra was introduced by the Transport Act 1982 s 59 (repealed) and should be looked at separately from the interpretation to be put on head (1) supra: DPP v Heywood [1998] RTR 1 at 15, DC, per Buxton J. A person, therefore, fails to provide a specimen of breath for a roadside test where he blows into a breath testing device in such a way as to illuminate light 'A' but not light 'B', when the operation of the device is such that if the 'Read' button is passed a positive result might be given which, if given, would be reliable, but a negative result might be given which, if given, might be false: DPP v Heywood supra (not applying Walker v Lovell [1975] 3 All ER 107, [1975] RTR 377, HL). In DPP v Heywood supra it was held that the amendment made by the Transport Act 1982 not only reversed the effect of the decision in Corp v Dalton [1983] RTR 160, DC (question of fact and degree whether non-compliance with manufacturer's instruction and ensuing negative result amounted to failure to provide a specimen) but also reversed the effect of the decision in Fawcett v Tebb [1984] Crim LR 175, (1983) 148 JP 303, DC (facts very similar to DPP v Heywood supra). It is submitted that the amendment has also reversed the effect of the decision in Walker v Lovell supra (motorist failed to inflate the bag of the device fully, but since the device indicated a positive test he had not failed to supply a specimen).

4 In pursuance of a requirement imposed under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 6 (as substituted).

5 Ibid s 6(6) (substituted by the Railways and Transport Safety Act 2003 s 107, Sch 7 para 1). A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale; disqualification is discretionary; endorsement is obligatory; and 4 penalty points may be attributed if, for special reasons, the offender is not ordered to be disqualified: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 28 (as substituted) (see PARA 1049 post), s 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (amended by the Railways and Transport Safety Act 2003 Sch 7 para 8). As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. As to the prosecution of offences see PARA 1027 post; as to disqualification see PARA 1057 et seq post; as to endorsement see PARA 1080 et seq post; as to penalty points see PARA 1048 et seq post; as to special reasons for not imposing obligatory disqualification see PARA 1059 post; and as to legal proceedings generally see PARA 1023 et seq post.

963-1022 Offences and Penalties

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(iii) Offences relating to Drink or Drugs/C. TESTING FOR DRINK AND DRUGS/986. Power to require specimens for analysis.

986. Power to require specimens for analysis.

In the course of an investigation<sup>1</sup> into whether a person has committed an offence relating to drink or drugs<sup>2</sup> a constable<sup>3</sup> may require him<sup>4</sup>:

- 892 (1) to provide two specimens of breath<sup>5</sup> for analysis by means of a device of a type approved by the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup>; or
- 893 (2) to provide a specimen of blood<sup>7</sup> or urine for a laboratory test<sup>8</sup>.

Such a requirement to provide specimens of breath can only be made: (a) at a police station; (b) at a hospital; or (c) at or near a place where a relevant breath test<sup>9</sup> has been administered to the person concerned or would have been so administered but for his failure to co-operate with it<sup>10</sup>. A requirement to provide a specimen of blood or urine can only be made at a police station or at a hospital<sup>11</sup>; and it cannot be made at a police station unless:

- 894 (i) the constable making the requirement has reasonable cause to believe<sup>12</sup> that for medical reasons<sup>13</sup> a specimen of breath cannot be provided or should not be required<sup>14</sup>;
- 895 (ii) specimens of breath have not been provided elsewhere, and at the time the requirement is made<sup>15</sup> a device or a reliable device<sup>16</sup> of the type mentioned in head (1) above is not available<sup>17</sup> at the police station or it is then for any other reason not practicable<sup>18</sup> to use such a device there<sup>19</sup>;
- 896 (iii) a device of the type mentioned in head (1) above has been used (at the police station or elsewhere) but the constable who required the specimens of breath has reasonable cause to believe that the device has not produced a reliable indication of the proportion of alcohol in the breath of the person concerned<sup>20</sup>;
- 897 (iv) as a result of the administration of a preliminary drug test<sup>21</sup>, the constable making the requirement has reasonable cause to believe that the person required to provide a specimen of blood or urine has a drug in his body<sup>22</sup>; or
- 898 (v) the suspected offence is one of causing death by careless driving when under the influence of drink or drugs<sup>23</sup>, or driving or being in charge when under the influence of drink or drugs<sup>24</sup> and the constable making the requirement has been advised by a medical practitioner<sup>25</sup> that the condition of the person required to provide the specimen might be due to some drug<sup>26</sup>, but it may then be made notwithstanding that the person required to provide the specimen has already provided or been required to provide two specimens of breath<sup>27</sup>.

If the provision of a specimen other than a specimen of breath may be required in pursuance of this provision the question whether it is to be a specimen of blood or a specimen of urine and, in the case of a specimen of blood, the question who is to be asked to take it, is to be decided<sup>28</sup> by the constable making the requirement<sup>29</sup>. However, where a constable decides for these purposes to require the provision of a specimen of blood, there is no requirement to provide such a specimen if the medical practitioner who is asked to take the specimen is of the opinion<sup>30</sup> that, for medical reasons, it cannot or should not be taken, or the registered health care professional who is asked to take it is of that opinion and there is no contrary opinion from a medical practitioner; and, where by virtue of this provision there can be no requirement to provide a specimen of blood, the constable may require a specimen of urine instead<sup>31</sup>. A specimen of urine must be provided within one hour of the requirement for its provision being made and after the provision of a previous specimen of urine<sup>32</sup>.

Of any two<sup>33</sup> specimens of breath provided by any person<sup>34</sup> that with the lower proportion of alcohol in the breath must be used and the other must be disregarded<sup>35</sup>. If the specimen with the lower proportion of alcohol contains no more than the specified amount<sup>36</sup>, the person who provided it may claim<sup>37</sup> that it should be replaced by such specimen of blood or urine, and if he then provides such a specimen neither specimen of breath is to be used<sup>38</sup>. If the person who makes such a claim was required to provide specimens of breath at or near a place mentioned in head (c) above, a constable may arrest him without warrant<sup>39</sup>.

1 The word 'investigation' bears its ordinary plain meaning, namely 'inquiring into': Graham v Albert [1985] RTR 352, DC. See also Pearson v Metropolitan Police Comr [1988] RTR 276, DC (a constable, who reasonably suspected that one of three men drove a car on the road and that they had consumed alcohol, was acting 'in the course of an investigation' when he required each to provide a specimen of breath for analysis).

2 le under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3A (as added) (see PARA 974 ante), s 4 (as amended) (see PARA 975 ante) or s 5 (see PARA 978 ante). As to the meaning of 'drug' see PARA 974 note 7 ante.

3 As to constables see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 101 et seq.

4 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(1) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 48, Sch 4 para 42). This is expressed to be subject to the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(2)-(7) (as amended) (see the text and notes 9-32 infra; and PARA 988 post) and s 9 (as amended) (see PARA 989 post). As to the disapplication of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7 (as amended) and s 8 (as amended) in relation to vehicles on any transport system to which the Transport and Works Act 1992 Pt II Ch I (ss 26-40) (as amended) (offences involving drink or drugs on railways, tramways and certain other guided transport systems: see RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES vol 39(1A) (Reissue) PARA 377 et seq) applies see PARA 975 note 7 ante.

5 As to the provision of a specimen of breath see PARA 985 note 3 ante.

6 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(1)(a). As to the approval of breath devices by the Secretary of State see PARA 980 note 1 ante. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

Where the two specimens of breath provided pursuant to the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(1)(a) are unreliable, a further two specimens may be requested: Stewart v DPP [2003] EWHC 1323 (Admin), [2003] RTR 529, DC.

7 A person provides a specimen of blood if and only if: (1) he consents to the taking of such a specimen from him; and (2) the specimen is taken from him by a medical practitioner or, if it is taken in a police station, either by a medical practitioner or by a registered health care professional: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 11(1), (4) (s 11(1) amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 Sch 4 para 44; and the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 11(4) substituted by the Police Reform Act 2002 s 55(5)). 'Registered health care professional' means a person (other than a medical practitioner) who is: (a) a registered nurse; or (b) a registered member of a health care profession which is designated for these purposes by an order made by the Secretary of State: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 11(2) (definition added by the Police Reform Act 2002 s 55(3)). A health care profession is any profession mentioned in the Health Act 1999 s 60(2) other than the profession of practising medicine and the profession of nursing: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 11(2A) (added by the Police Reform Act 2002 s 55(4)). See MEDICAL PROFESSIONS vol 30(1) (Reissue) PARA 291. An order under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 11(2) (as amended) must be made by statutory instrument; and any such statutory instrument is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 11(2B) (added by the Police Reform Act 2002 s 55(4)). The profession of paramedics has been designated as a health care profession for the purposes of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 11(2) (as amended): Registered Health Care Profession (Designation No 2) Order, SI 2003/2462.

8 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(1)(b).

9 For the purposes of ibid s 7 (as amended), 'a relevant breath test' is a procedure involving the provision by the person concerned of a specimen of breath to be used for the purpose of obtaining an indication whether the proportion of alcohol in his breath or blood is likely to exceed the prescribed limit: s 7(2A) (s 7(2A)-(2D) added by the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 s 154(4), (5)). A requirement to provide specimens of breath under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7 (as amended) may not be made at or near a place mentioned in head (c) in the text unless the constable making it: (1) is in uniform (see PARA 979 note 3 ante); or (2) has imposed a requirement on the person concerned to co-operate with a relevant breath test in circumstances in which s 6(5) (as substituted) (see PARA 979 head (4) ante) applies: s 7(2B) (as so added). Where a constable has imposed a requirement on the person concerned to co-operate with a relevant breath test at any place, he is entitled to remain at or near that place in order to impose on him there a requirement under s 7 (as amended): s 7(2C) (as so added). If a requirement under s 7(1)(a) (see head (1) in the text) to provide specimens of breath has been made at a place other than at a police station, such a requirement may subsequently be made at a police station if (but only if): (a) a device or a reliable device of the type mentioned in s 7(1)(a) was not available at that place or it was for any other reason not practicable to use such a device there; or (b) the constable who made the previous requirement has reasonable cause to believe that the device used there has not produced a reliable indication of the proportion of alcohol in the breath of the person concerned: s 7(2D) (as so added).

10 Ibid s 7(2) (substituted by the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 s 154(5)). It appears that the requirement to provide a specimen does not have to be made at the police station at which the specimen is actually provided: see Pascoe v Nicholson [1981] 2 All ER 769, [1981] 1 WLR 1061, HL. The requirement is not unlawful simply because the defendant's arrest was unlawful: Hartland v Alden [1987] RTR 253, DC. See also DPP v Porter (15 February 2000) Lexis, DC (no need to prove the defendant was lawfully detained at the police station when the intoximeter procedure was carried out).

11 For the meaning of 'hospital' see PARA 983 note 7 ante. Although the requirement to provide a specimen of blood must be made at a police station or a hospital, the specimen may be taken elsewhere: Russell (RUC Superintendent) v Devine [2003] UKHL 24, [2003] 1 WLR 1187.

12 As to the meaning of 'reasonable cause to believe' see PARA 979 note 17 ante. What is or is not 'reasonable cause to believe' is a question of fact to be objectively determined by justices; and if there is objectively determined as a matter of fact a reasonable cause to believe, it is immaterial whether the police constable actually believes, is dubious, sceptical, or disbelieves: Davis v DPP [1988] RTR 156 at 162, [1988] Crim LR 249 at 250, DC, per Mann J.

13 The decision is for the constable to make as a layman: see Dempsey v Catton [1986] RTR 194; and see also Davies v DPP [1989] RTR 391, [1990] Crim LR 60, DC. Intoxication may constitute a medical reason for this purpose: Young v DPP [1992] RTR 328, [1992] Crim LR 893, DC. Where an offender says that he takes tablets, that is capable of being a medical reason and should be considered by the constable before requiring a specimen of blood: Wade v DPP [1996] RTR 177, (1995) 159 JP 555, DC. Medical advice is required only if a constable is in doubt whether there is a medical reason for not providing a breath specimen: Steadman v DPP [2002] EWHC 810 (Admin), [2003] RTC 10, DC (distinguishing Wade v DPP supra).

14 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(3)(a).

15 The words 'at the time the requirement is made' refer to the requirement to provide blood or urine; therefore, if before completing its analysis the device indicates that it is operating at a temperature which prevents satisfactory analysis, a constable may then require a specimen of blood: Cotter v Kamil [1984] RTR 371, DC. See also Chief Constable of Kent v Berry [1986] RTR 321, DC (device malfunctioned during test; specimen of blood required and defendant transferred to another police station, where an approved device was available, for blood to be taken; but the operative time was when the defendant was at the first police station); Oxford v Baxendale [1987] RTR 247, [1986] Crim LR 631, DC (device found to be unreliable 100 minutes after breath provided; specimen of blood required; justices entitled to conclude, in the absence of further evidence, that the device was unreliable at the time of the requirement to provide a specimen of blood).

16 A device that is not capable of producing the correct date on its print-out has been held to be unreliable: Slender v Boothby [1986] RTR 385n, 149 JP 405, DC. However, it has been held that since a constable was in a position to give oral evidence of the readings and of the results of the self-calibration checks, he was not entitled to require a specimen of blood where no print-out had been produced due to the paper becoming entangled within the machine: Morgan v Lee [1985] RTR 409, [1985] Crim LR 515, DC (distinguished in Haghigat-Khon v Chambers [1988] RTR 95n, [1987] Crim LR 340, DC, where the fault in the print-out mechanism was known at the outset and entitled the constable to require blood without any breath specimens being required or given). In Fawcett v Gasparics [1986] RTR 375, DC, the view was expressed that, having regard to their apparent inconsistency, the decisions in Slender v Boothby supra and Morgan v Lee supra might need to be reconsidered in an appropriate case; and that in testing reliability for the purposes of what is now the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(3)(b) (as amended) the court could look to what is now the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16 (as amended) (see PARA 991 post), but in an attack upon the admissibility of the print-out the court was not in the same way concerned with the reliability of the machine as it was in connection with the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(3)(b).

The question of whether a device is 'reliable' must be viewed through the eyes of the constable making the requirement for a specimen of blood or urine, and the words 'reliable device' mean 'a device which he (the constable) reasonably believes to be reliable': Thompson v Thynne [1986] RTR 293, [1986] Crim LR 629. There must, however, be material on which the constable can reasonably come to the conclusion that a 'reliable device' is not available: Stokes v Sayers [1988] RTR 89, DC. See also DPP v Dixon [1993] RTR 22, DC.

The insertion of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 7(3)(bb) (see the text and note 20 infra) supports, and is not inconsistent with, the courts' interpretation of s 7(3)(b) (see the text and note 19 infra) and the test under s 7(3)(b) (as amended) remains a belief based upon reasonable grounds, although that belief may in the event be wrong: Kneale v DPP (15 May 2000) Lexis, DC (requirements of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 7(3)(b) satisfied where the intoximeter clock was inaccurate by one-and-a-half minutes and the operator followed the written advice of a superior officer that in those circumstances an alternative method of testing a suspect's alcohol level should be used, even though she knew that the manufacturer's handbook suggested a tolerance of four minutes).

Where a constable mistakenly thought that the device had not been properly calibrated and required the defendant to provide a specimen of blood, and the defendant failed to comply, and it was subsequently accepted that the device was reliable, the evidence of the breath specimen was admissible even if the constable reasonably believed that the device was unreliable when he required the specimen of blood (and, thus, it had been a lawful requirement): Hague v DPP [1997] RTR 146, DC. However, if blood is provided and analysed, any prosecution thereafter can only be based on the analysis of the blood: Badkin v DPP [1988] RTR 401, DC; followed in McLellan v DPP [1993] RTR 401, DC. However, evidence of a previous breath test result may properly be admitted if there is some relevant and clearly identified purpose for adducing it and subject to the discretion of the court: Slasor v DPP [1999] RTR 432, DC (driver raised the issue of possible contamination of the blood sample and the prosecution obtained leave to adduce evidence of the breath test result to show that the reading was compatible with the blood test analysis).

17 There must be proof that a device was not available; a statement by a constable to a defendant that a device was not available, the constable having been so informed by the station sergeant, without evidence being called as to whether or not that was true, proves nothing without some response from the defendant which indicated that he accepted it as being true or was not prepared to contradict it: Dye v Manns [1987] RTR 90, [1986] Crim LR 337, DC. Where, however, a constable informed a defendant at the police station that no device was available, and he gives evidence at the trial that he so informed the defendant, that evidence inherently includes evidence that no device was available: Tobi v Nicholas [1988] RTR 343 at 351, DC, per Glidewell LJ (see, however, at 358 per McNeill J, explaining this decision not to be a ruling of law on the point but a decision purely on the facts). Where a device failed to operate and the constable informed the defendant that an alternative specimen of blood or urine would be required, the justices, though they may not use their own knowledge gained from other cases that only one device was installed at that police station, are bound to draw the inference that no approved device was available: Jarvis v DPP [1996] RTR 192, DC.

If a device becomes unreliable, and therefore unavailable, before completion of its analysis of two specimens of breath, the constable is not confined to requiring a specimen of blood or urine and may require the motorist to provide two further specimens for analysis by another machine of the same type: Denny v DPP [1990] RTR 417, DC. Two valid specimens of breath are not provided unless the motorist has blown properly into the device, the device is working properly so as to receive and analyse properly those specimens and to record truly the result: Denny v DPP supra at 423 per Watkins LJ.

18 If there is no police officer at the police station trained in the use of the device it is not practicable to use it and it is not practicable to telephone other police stations to ascertain whether they have a suitably qualified operator to come and operate the device: Chief Constable of Avon and Somerset v Kelliher [1987] RTR 305, [1986] Crim LR 635, DC. The fact that a constable has difficulty deciding whether the requirements of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(3)(a) are satisfied does not mean that it is not practicable to use a device available at the police station: Horrocks v Binns [1986] RTR 202n, DC.

19 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(3)(b) (amended by the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 s 154(6)(a)).

20 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(3)(bb) (added by the Criminal Procedure and Investigations Act 1996 s 63(1); and amended by the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 s 154(6)(b)). This provision was added as a result of the development of new technology in devices that can detect and record in specimens substances that interfere with breath-test results. An operator had reasonable cause as required by the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 7(3)(bb) (as added and amended) where the higher and lower readings relating to the specimens provided by the defendant were, respectively, 43 and 33 microgram's (a 'blow difference' of 30.3%), and he followed written advice that, with an old generation (intoximeter) device, where there was a difference exceeding 20% the conclusion might be that the machine, though it might be operating correctly, had not produced a reliable indication: DPP v Smith [2000] RTR 341, DC. As to the reliability of devices generally see note 16 supra.

- 25 There should be a clear oral indication by the doctor to the police officer of the doctor's view found by him at the police station about the possible cause of the motorist's condition; in the absence of such an indication by the doctor of his view that the defendant's condition was due to either drugs or epilepsy, the justices are not entitled to infer from the defendant's behaviour that his condition was due to drugs: Cole v DPP [1988] RTR 224, DC.

- 29 Ibid s 7(4) (amended by the Police Reform Act 2002 s 55(1)).

The Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(4) (as amended) also applies to cases where there is a proposal to require a specimen of blood or urine at a hospital: Butler v DPP [2001] RTR 430, DC (police officer had duty to inform hospital doctor of driver's statement at police station that he was suffering from medical condition). As to the exercise of the police officer's discretion see Joseph v DPP [2004] EWHC 3078 (Admin), [2004] RTR 341, DC.

The constable is not required to invite the motorist to express any preference as to the type of specimen to be given: DPP v Warren [1993] AC 319, [1992] 4 All ER 865, HL. However, where the driver makes a representation in answer to the question about whether a specimen of blood or a specimen of urine should be taken, the constable must consider whether the statement proffered is capable in principle of being a valid medical reason and, if it is so capable, he must not usurp the functions of the medical practitioner under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(4) (as amended) by holding that it is not valid: Johnson v West Yorkshire Metropolitan Police [1986] RTR 167, DC; followed in R v Epping Justices, ex p Quyy [1998] RTR 158n, [1993] Crim LR 970, DC (although in that case it was held that if the driver claimed he was afraid of needles that did not necessarily mean that a doctor had to be called; the driver had not given a reason for his fear and if the officer had questioned him about his reasons it might have been established that the fear was unfounded). See also DPP v Wythe [1996] RTR 137, DC; Wade v DPP [1996] RTR 177, (1995) 159 JP 555, DC.

The officer is entitled to change his mind as to the type of specimen to be required, and that right continues up to the time that the specimen is taken: DPP v Garrett [1995] RTR 302, 159 JP 561, DC. See also Barnes v Chief Constable of Durham [1997] 2 Cr App Rep 505, DC (constable entitled to require specimen of urine after motorist refused to provide specimen of blood). An invalid but unproductive request for a specimen of blood does not render inadmissible evidence of the analysis of a subsequently correctly taken specimen of urine: DPP v Garrett supra.

In DPP v Warren supra guidance was given that the constable should: (1) tell the motorist why specimens of breath cannot be taken or used; (2) tell him that in these circumstances he is required to give a specimen of blood or urine, but that it is for the constable to decide which; (3) warn him that a failure to provide the specimen required may render him liable to prosecution; and (4) if blood is required, ask him if there are any reasons why a specimen cannot or should not be taken from him by a doctor. As to the application of these guidelines see Edge v DPP [1993] RTR 146, DC; Meade v DPP [1993] RTR 151, DC (strict compliance with guidelines required); cf Hayes v DPP [1994] RTR 163, DC; Baldwin v DPP [1996] RTR 238, DC (guidance not to be treated or analysed as if it were statutory). The latter view was preferred in DPP v Jackson [1999] 1 AC 406, [1998] 3 All ER 769, HL, in which it was held that only the requirements in heads (1) and (3) supra were mandatory in a case under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(3) (as amended), so that non-compliance should lead to an acquittal; the guidelines should continue to be used for the non-mandatory requirements, but failure to bring those matters to the attention of the driver should result in an acquittal only if he suffered prejudice as a consequence and the justices should not acquit the driver on that ground without having heard evidence from the driver raising the issue that he had suffered prejudice. It was further held in DPP v Jackson supra that neither the statutory provisions nor considerations of fairness required a police officer to ask the driver if there were any non-medical reasons why a specimen of blood could not or should not be taken; and that the matters set out in the guidelines relating to the role of the doctor should be explained to the driver at the outset before he has to make the decision to give blood (overruling, on this point, Fraser v DPP [1997] RTR 373, DC; DPP v Donnelly [1998] RTR 188, DC). The information as to why specimens of breath cannot be taken or used (see head (1) supra) need not come from the officer making the request for the sample of blood or urine; it can be supplied by some other officer: Bobin v DPP [1999] RTR 375 at 385, DC, per Smedley J.

In hospital cases, it is not necessary for the police officer to ask a separate or separately phrased 'medical question'; it is sufficient if the driver is asked simply whether there is any reason why the specimen of blood should not be taken from him: R v Burton-upon-Trent Justices, ex p Woolley [1995] RTR 139, 159 JP 165, DC.

30 Whether that opinion is right or wrong is irrelevant, but if a medical reason for not giving blood is irrationally rejected and the driver is required to give blood and refuses, he can then only be prosecuted under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(6) (see PARA 988 post) and if he raises the medical issue as a reasonable excuse the prosecution will have to prove that the excuse was not reasonable; alternatively, in any case where the driver has been deprived of his claim under s 8(2) (see the text and notes 36-38 infra) by not being permitted to replace the breath specimen by urine because of a police officer acting on an irrational medical opinion it would be open to the driver to rely on the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 78 (as amended) (exclusion of unfair evidence: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1365), and if he establishes that the doctor's opinion is seriously wrong it will be difficult for the court to refuse to exclude the breath-analysis evidence: Andrews v DPP [1992] RTR 1, DC.

31 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(4A) (added by the Police Reform Act 2002 s 55(2)).

32 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(5). It has been held that nothing in the previous legislation (ie the Road Traffic Act 1972) required either specimen to be of any particular quantity and it was, therefore, unnecessary for the driver to empty his bladder when providing the first specimen: R v Radcliffe [1977] RTR 99, CA. The purpose of the one hour limit is to provide the driver with a full and generous opportunity to provide the sample, and if the specimen of urine is provided outside that limit evidence of the proportion of alcohol in it will not thereby be rendered inadmissible: Roney v Matthews [1975] RTR 273, 61 Cr App Rep 195, DC (followed in DPP v Baldwin [2000] RTR 314, DC). Where the provision of urine was interrupted only momentarily by the initial specimen being discarded and the sample bottle being rinsed and immediately returned to the driver with a direction to continue urinating, and he did so and the entire procedure took no more than two minutes, the justices were entitled to conclude that there was only one specimen of urine: Prosser v Dickeson [1982] RTR 96, DC. See, however, Over v Musker [1985] RTR 84, DC (two samples provided in one-and-a-half minutes, the driver having adjusted his clothing and sat down in between; held that two specimens had been given). The specimen must be of sufficient quantity to be divided into two parts and for each part to be capable of analysis: R v Coward [1976] RTR 425, 63 Cr App Rep 54, CA. Once the driver has supplied a second specimen he has fulfilled his obligations and cannot be required to provide a third: R v Hyams [1972] 3 All ER 651, [1973] RTR 68, CA (police officer wrongly thought that the second specimen was of insufficient quantity, after being divided, to be capable of analysis). See also Beck v Watson [1980] RTR 90, [1979] Crim LR 533, DC; Gabrielson v Richards [1976] RTR 223, [1976] Crim LR 722. However, the specimen sent for analysis may be the third or even a later specimen, provided that it was supplied after the provision of a previous specimen and within an hour of the request for a specimen of urine for the purposes of the legislation: Nugent v Ridley [1987] RTR 412, DC.

33 Where the print-out shows identical readings for the each of the two specimens both are admissible in evidence: R v Brentford Magistrates' Court, ex p Clarke [1987] RTR 205, [1986] Crim LR 633.

34 Ie in pursuance of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7 (as amended): see the text and notes 1-32 supra; and PARA 988 post.

35 Ibid s 8(1). This is expressed to be subject to s 8(2): see the text and note 38 infra. See also note 4 supra.

36 Ie 50 micrograms of alcohol in 100 millilitres of breath: see ibid s 8(2). The Secretary of State may by regulations substitute another proportion of alcohol in the breath for that specified in s 8(2) (see the text and note 38 infra): s 8(3). At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made.

37 As to the information required to be given to the driver see note 29 supra. The guidelines in such a case to tell the driver why specimens of breath cannot be taken or used, and to warn him that failure to provide the specimen required may render him liable to prosecution, are inapplicable in a case under ibid s 8(2) (see the text and note 38 infra). Instead, the police officer: (1) should inform the driver of the nature of the option open to him and what will be involved if he exercises it; (2) must inform the driver that the specimen of breath which he has given containing the lower proportion of alcohol does not exceed 50 micrograms of alcohol in 100 millilitres of breath; (3) should inform the driver that in these circumstances he is entitled to claim to have this specimen replaced by a specimen of blood or urine if he wishes, but that, if he does so, it will be for the officer to decide whether the replacement specimen is to be of blood or urine and that if the officer requires a specimen of blood it will be taken by a doctor unless the doctor considers that there are medical reasons for not taking blood, in which case urine may be given instead; and (4) should ask the driver if there are any medical reasons why a specimen cannot or should not be taken from him by a doctor: DPP v Jackson [1999] 1 AC 406, [1998] 3 All ER 769, HL. If the officer complies with the mandatory requirement (see head (2) supra), but not the non-mandatory requirements (see heads (1), (3) and (4) supra), the issue for the justices to decide is whether that failure deprived the driver of the opportunity to exercise the option, or caused him to exercise it in a way which he would not have done if everything had been said; if the answer is in the affirmative then the driver should be acquitted, but if the answer is in the negative the failure by the police officer to use the full formula should not be a reason for an acquittal: DPP v Jackson supra. As failure to comply with the non-mandatory requirements is directed to the question whether the driver has suffered prejudice, only in exceptional cases should the justices acquit without have heard evidence from the driver himself raising the issue that he had suffered prejudice, but if, having heard that evidence, the justices are left with a reasonable doubt as to whether or not the driver was prejudiced they should acquit: DPP v Jackson supra. For an example of a case of lack of prejudice where the officer failed to comply with the non-mandatory requirement in head (4) supra see DPP v Orchard [2000] All ER (D) 1457.

The prosecution does not have to prove that the breath-testing device was working properly when the defendant was put to his election under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 8(2) (see the text and note 38 infra): Branagan v DPP [2000] RTR 235, DC.

It has been held that it did not destroy the driver's choice where the driver asked the officer whether provision of blood would make any difference and the officer replied 'Probably not': Sharp v Spencer [1987] Crim LR 420, DC.

As to medical reasons for not providing blood see note 30 supra. If a driver gives unconditional consent to a blood specimen being taken, but despite that the doctor declines to take a blood specimen, the justices must come to the conclusion that the procedures laid down by the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 8 (as amended) have not been carried out; but the onus is on the driver to establish to the doctor that he is consenting to a blood sample being taken and if he so behaves that the doctor is left with the impression that he is not consenting he cannot complain if the doctor does not proceed with the taking of that sample: Rawlins v Brown [1987] RTR 238, DC.

Whether the driver's rejection of the opportunity to claim replacement of the breath specimen has ended the statutory procedure under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 8(2) is for the justices to decide: Smith v DPP [1989] RTR 159, DC (where the driver rejected the opportunity to provide blood, but changed his mind 63 minutes later and blood was taken from him; the conviction (based on the breath specimen) was upheld on the ground that the justices were entitled to decide that the statutory procedure ended when the defendant firmly rejected the option to provide blood). Where a driver exercises his right under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 8(2) and states he is willing to provide blood, but he thereafter resiles from that, he must take the consequences, namely that the prosecution will be able to rely on the breath analysis; but whether (and with what effect) a driver has changed his mind as to whether he would provide a sample of any kind are matters that should be unequivocally resolved by the court: Hope v DPP [1992] RTR 305, DC.

The obligation under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(7) to warn a driver that a failure to provide a specimen may render him liable to prosecution (see PARA 988 post) arises only when he can be required under s 7 (as amended) to provide a specimen and it does not apply to the procedure under s 8(2) where there is nothing to prevent a driver from changing his mind and allowing the specimen of breath to be used: Hayes v DPP [1994] RTR 163, DC.

A police officer is under a legal duty to take all reasonable steps to explain the driver's options; but if, by reason of his own acts, the driver frustrates the performance of that duty, he is not entitled to be acquitted: DPP v Poole [1992] RTR 177, DC. The prosecution must prove, however, that the statutory procedure was followed: Rush v DPP [1994] RTR 268, DC. Inability to comprehend the offer made to replace the breath specimen with a specimen of blood or urine will not entitle the driver to complain that he has been denied his rights if his consumption of alcohol contributed to that inability: DPP v Berry (1995) 160 JP 707. A driver is not entitled to legal advice before deciding whether to exercise this right: DPP v Ward [1999] RTR 11, (1997) 162 JP 162, DC.

38 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 8(2). This is mandatory and the use of the breath specimen is precluded even if the blood specimen is lost or is otherwise unusable (Archbold v Jones [1986] RTR 178, [1985] Crim LR 740, DC) or the blood specimen is inadmissible (Wakely v Hyams [1987] RTR 49, [1987] Crim LR 342, DC (distinguished in DPP v Winstanley [1993] RTR 222, 158 JP 1062, DC)). Evidence of the breath readings may not be taken into account by the justices in deciding which blood sample reading, the prosecutor's or the driver's, should be preferred; but such evidence may be admitted to establish that the proper procedure was followed and, consequently, the prosecution's right to rely on the blood sample: Yhnell v DPP [1989] RTR 250, (1988) 153 JP 364, DC.

Where a driver requested a replacement specimen, the officer decided it would be blood, no doctor was available to take blood and the officer changed his mind and asked for a specimen of urine instead, and the driver was then unable to provide a urine sample, the specimen of breath remained available for use: DPP v Winstanley supra.

987. Specimens of blood taken from persons incapable of consenting.

A constable<sup>1</sup> may make a request to a medical practitioner for him to take a specimen of blood from a person ('the person concerned') irrespective of whether that person consents if: (1) that person is a person from whom the constable would, in the absence of any incapacity of that person and of any objection<sup>2</sup>, be entitled<sup>3</sup> to require the provision of a specimen of blood for a laboratory test; (2) it appears to that constable that that person has been involved in an accident<sup>4</sup> that constitutes or is comprised in the matter that is under investigation or the circumstances of that matter; (3) it appears to that constable that that person is or may be incapable, whether or not he has purported to do so, of giving a valid consent to the taking of a specimen of blood; and (4) it appears to that constable that that person's incapacity is attributable to medical reasons<sup>5</sup>.

A request under the above provision must not be made to a medical practitioner who for the time being has any responsibility, apart from the request, for the clinical care of the person concerned, and must not be made to a medical practitioner other than a police medical practitioner<sup>6</sup> unless it is not reasonably practicable for the request to be made to a police medical practitioner, or it is not reasonably practicable for such a medical practitioner, assuming him to be willing to do so, to take the specimen<sup>7</sup>. It is lawful for a medical practitioner to whom such a request is made, if he thinks fit, to take a specimen of blood from the person concerned irrespective of whether that person consents, and to provide the sample to a constable<sup>8</sup>.

If a specimen is taken in pursuance of a request, the specimen must not be subjected to a laboratory test unless the person from whom it was taken has been informed that it was taken, has been required by a constable to give his permission for a laboratory test of the specimen, and has given his permission<sup>9</sup>. On requiring a person to give his permission, a constable must warn that person that a failure to give the permission may render him liable to prosecution<sup>10</sup>. A person who, without reasonable excuse, fails to give his permission for a laboratory test of a specimen of blood taken from him under the above provisions is guilty of an offence<sup>11</sup>.

988. Failure to provide specimen.

A constable must, on requiring any person to provide a specimen<sup>5</sup>, warn him that a failure to provide it may render him liable to prosecution<sup>6</sup>.

1 See generally para 985 note 1 ante. The finding of physical or mental inability is a finding which is achievable only on evidence, which will, in almost all imaginable cases, be evidence of a medical character: DPP v Ambrose [1992] RTR 285, DC. See also Smith (Nicholas) v DPP [1992] RTR 413n, DC; DPP v Brodzky [1997] RTR 425n, DC. Such a finding should not be made on an assumptive basis and the justices should not embark on an investigation of their own: DPP v Ambrose supra. See also DPP v Radford [1995] RTR 86, DC. However, evidence of physical or mental inability or risk to health does not necessarily have to come from a medical practitioner and can come from other sources, even the defendant himself: Grady v Pollard [1988] RTR 316, DC; DPP v Pearman [1992] RTR 407; DPP v Crofton [1994] RTR 279, DC. However, simple evidence that the defendant had tried as hard as he could to provide the specimen of breath did not of itself provide, even if accepted, a reasonable excuse for the failure to provide the specimen: Grady v Pollard supra. See also DPP v Eddowes [1991] RTR 35, DC (defendant was in his mid thirties with what was described as a good pair of lungs and there was nothing to suggest that he was upset or distraught in any way; held that the justices were wrong to assume he was under some stress as a consequence of being involved in a road traffic accident and were not entitled to find that the defendant had a reasonable excuse). In Cotgrove v Cooney [1987] RTR 124, DC, it was held that the justices were entitled to conclude the defendant had a reasonable excuse where they found as fact that the driver was co-operative and tried as hard as he could to provide a specimen; Cotgrove v Cooney supra was, however, disapproved in DPP v Eddowes supra, and there are many cases establishing that 'doing one's best' does not suffice to avoid a conviction unless supported by evidence that at the relevant time the driver was suffering from some physical or mental inability to provide a specimen: see eg Grady v Pollard supra; Anderton v Waring [1986] RTR 74, DC; Dawes v Taylor [1986] RTR 81, DC; DPP v Pearman supra; Smith (Nicholas) v DPP supra; DPP v Coyle [1996] RTR 287, DC (in which it was also held that failure to mention the three-minute time limit for completion of the breath test could not count as a reasonable excuse for failing to provide specimens, though the court left open the possibility that reasonable excuse could be argued if there was an evidential or factual basis for concluding that the failure to mention the time limit had an actual effect on the driver's compliance with the requirement to provide a specimen); DPP v Simpson (19 January 2000) Lexis, DC.

See also DPP v Mukandiwa [2005] EWHC 2977 (Admin), [2006] RTR 304, 170 JP 17, DC (danger of falling into trance not a reasonable excuse for failure to supply blood specimen).

Justices are not entitled to act upon material which is beyond the evidence before them; thus it is wholly unreasonable for justices to find, from their own experience or knowledge of asthma, that a driver's failure to provide a specimen was due to an asthma attack when the driver made no such complaint to the police officer and was not manifesting anything more than nervousness and anxiety about the situation: DPP v Curtis [1993] RTR 72, DC. An asthmatic condition cannot amount to a reasonable excuse where the driver deliberately failed to provide a specimen: Teape v Godfrey [1986] RTR 213, DC. If a driver knows that he suffers from a medical condition that prevents him from giving sufficient breath his duty to provide a specimen includes, in those circumstances, a duty to inform the officer of the medical condition: Teape v Godfrey supra. See also DPP v Furby [2000] RTR 181, DC. Teape v Godfrey supra and DPP v Furby supra were applied in DPP v Lonsdale [2001] RTR 444, DC (duty to inform officer of medical condition). See DPP v Falzarano [2001] RTR 217, DC (no error of law where justices preferred to medical evidence defendant's evidence of panic attack causing physical inability to provide specimen).

Refusal to permit the driver under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 58 (as amended) (see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 953) to consult a solicitor before providing a specimen does not give the driver a reasonable excuse: DPP v Billington [1988] 1 All ER 435, [1988] 1 WLR 535, DC. The position in DPP v Billington supra is not affected by the right, under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953); Cmd 8969) art 6(3) (see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 142), to legal advice as art 6 does not impose a blanket right to legal advice prior to any co-operation with police requests: Campbell v DPP [2002] EWHC 1314 (Admin), [2004] RTR 64; followed in Kennedy v DPP [2002] EWHC 2297 (Admin), [2004] RTR 77; applied in Kirkup v DPP [2003] EWHC 2354 (Admin), (2004) 168 JP 255. See also Law v Stephens [1971] RTR 358, DC; Pettigrew v Northumbria Police Authority [1976] RTR 177, DC; Salter v DPP [1992] RTR 386, DC; Myles v DPP [2004] EWHC 594 (Admin), [2004] 2 All ER 902, [2005] RTR 1. A driver does not have a reasonable excuse where he wishes to consult the Codes of Practice made under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 before providing specimens: DPP v Cornell [1990] RTR 254, 153 JP 605, DC. See also DPP v Noe [2000] RTR 351, DC (driver asked to see officer's 'law book' before providing breath specimens). Further, it does not avail the driver in such a case to claim he was confused or misled by anything the officer might have said as to his right to see the Code of Practice, to consult a solicitor or other matters of that kind: DPP v Whalley [1991] RTR 161, DC. A reasonable excuse might, however, be provided if the driver were told affirmatively that he would not have to provide a specimen until after he had consulted a solicitor: DPP v Billington [1988] 1 All ER 435 at 441, [1988] 1 WLR 535 at 553-554 per Lloyd LJ. See also Smith v Hand [1986] RTR 265 (permission given to speak to a solicitor before providing specimens; no refusal); DPP v Skinner [1990] RTR 254 (no reasonable excuse where motorist not positively told that she could make a telephone call before providing specimens). As to the possibility of excluding under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 78 (as amended) (see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1365) evidence of failure to provide a specimen in a case of alleged belief of entitlement to consult a solicitor see Hudson v DPP [1992] RTR 27, DC.

Whether the facts before the court are capable of constituting a reasonable excuse is a question of law, and fear of contracting a disease is not so capable: DPP v Fountain [1988] RTR 385, DC (distinguished in DeFreitas v DPP [1993] RTR 98 [1992] Crim LR 894, DC, where the driver maintained that he had a genuine fear, amounting to a phobia, of contracting AIDS from any kind of contact with a receptacle such as a glass or a mouthpiece, such as that attached to the breath test device; and there was substantial medical opinion as to the presence and genuineness of the phobia in the defendant's mind, which the court accepted; it also accepted that the only reason the defendant would not breathe into the device was because he could not use his own method of doing so and the police officer would allow no other; held that this was uniquely an occasion when the excuse was genuine and the court should have quashed the conviction). See also DPP v Kinnersley [1993] RTR 105, DC (justices did not find a reasonable excuse, but were entitled to find special reasons for not imposing disqualification having formed the opinion that the defendant genuinely feared contracting HIV leading to AIDS even though he had not told the police about his fear of AIDS).

Incapacity by fear of a needle from submitting to the necessary insertion to obtain a sample of blood is capable of amounting to a reasonable excuse; although such a fear must amount to a phobia recognised by medical science to be as strong and inhibiting as, for example, claustrophobia to afford a reasonable excuse: R v Harding [1974] RTR 325, CA. See also Alcock v Read [1980] RTR 71, DC (invincible repugnance to giving blood).

In addition to the cases as to reasonable excuse cited supra and in PARA 985 note 1 ante, the following circumstances have been held not to constitute a reasonable excuse for a failure to provide a specimen: where the driver provided the first specimen of breath which was found to contain less than the legal limit of alcohol and he could not, therefore, be convicted of the offence under what is now the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 5(1)(a) (see PARA 978 ante) (Stepniewski v Metropolitan Police Comr [1985] RTR 330, DC); where the driver did not believe he was in charge of a motor vehicle (Williams v Osborne [1975] RTR 181, DC); where the driver consumed alcohol after he ceased to drive (R v Lennard [1973] 2 All ER 831, [1973] 1 WLR 483, CA); where the driver suffered from a mere dislike of the sight of blood which did not amount to a phobia which physically prevented him from supplying a specimen (Sykes v White [1983] RTR 419, DC); where the driver had already provided a sample of blood to the hospital authorities and was not physically incapable of providing a further specimen (Kemp v Chief Constable of Kent [1987] RTR 66, DC); where the driver was not told after his second failed attempt to provide breath that he could blow again when the device was only part way through its three-minute cycle (two minutes were left) (Cosgrove v DPP [1997] RTR 153, DC); religious beliefs (R v John [1974] 2 All ER 561, [1974] RTR 332, CA); embarrassment (Palmer v Killion [1983] RTR 138, DC).

2 As to the meaning of 'fail' see PARA 974 note 10 ante. As to the provision of a specimen of breath see PARA 985 note 3 ante. Where a driver is required to provide specimens of breath, and he provides only one, he fails to provide a specimen (Cracknell v Willis [1988] AC 450, [1988] RTR 1, HL), even if the single specimen provided is found to contain less than the prescribed limit of alcohol (though in such a case the authorities should consider very carefully indeed whether it is appropriate to prosecute) (Stepniewski v Metropolitan Police Comr [1985] RTR 330, DC). For a quantity of urine to be a specimen it has to be large enough to be divided into two parts by the police officer and each part has to be capable of analysis: R v Coward [1976] RTR 425, 63 Cr App Rep 54, CA.

Where an approved evidential breath-testing device did not record any sample being provided by the driver, justices must assume that the device was in good working order in the absence of evidence to the contrary: Anderton v Waring [1986] RTR 74, DC. The print-out is admissible in evidence in proceedings for an offence under what is now the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(6) to show that the defendant failed to provide sufficient specimens (Castle v Cross [1985] 1 All ER 87, [1985] RTR 62, DC), but production of the print-out is not an essential prerequisite for a conviction (Teape v Godfrey [1986] RTR 213, DC). Evidence is not required that the breath analysis device was properly calibrated, since what is in issue is not the measurement of alcohol in the driver's breath but whether he failed to provide a specimen; however, where one but not two specimens were provided, and there is a conflict of evidence between the police officer and the driver, evidence of the proportion of alcohol in the specimen could be prejudicial and should be excluded: Oldfield v Anderton [1986] RTR 314, (1985) 150 JP 40, DC.

Whether or not there was failure to provide a specimen is a question of fact: R v Reid [1973] RTR 536 at 544, CA, per Scarman LJ (jury entitled to find failure notwithstanding the driver's repentance of his refusal and subsequent offer to provide a specimen). See also DPP v Fountain [1988] RTR 385, DC; Smyth v DPP [1996] RTR 59, DC. Refusal may be inferred from conduct: R v Mackey [1977] RTR 146, CA. The reason for non-provision of the specimen, if fault is not attributable to the police officer, is immaterial to the question of failure: R v Miles [1979] RTR 509, CA (interference by the driver's wife). In assessing whether there was refusal, relevant words and conduct should be taken into account: Smyth v DPP supra (driver refused when asked to provide breath specimens, but within five seconds said 'Can I change my mind?', followed by 'I want to change my mind'; conviction quashed because the justices had ignored those words). In general a person cannot fail to do something that he had no opportunity to do, but it is unnecessary actually to show the driver the device to establish that the opportunity was provided: Campbell v DPP [1989] RTR 256, DC (device in another room at the police station, but driver could reasonably be expected to know it was present).

Where the driver wanted to read a form of consent to the provision of a blood sample before signing it, and the officer did not permit him to read it and did not explain that if he refused to sign the form the doctor would not attend to take the sample, the justices were wrong to treat that refusal to sign as in itself tantamount to a refusal to provide a specimen of blood; the proper approach was whether or not the defendant had agreed to provide the specimen: Hier v Head [1978] RTR 114, DC. The imposition of a condition might amount to a refusal, but where a blood specimen was required and both the driver's own doctor and a police doctor were present, and the driver was willing for the sample to be taken by the former but not by the latter, there was no refusal: Bayliss v Thames Valley Police Chief Constable [1978] RTR 328, [1978] Crim LR 363, DC. There is no general right, however, to insist on a particular medical practitioner: DPP v Smith (Alan) (1993) Times, 1 June. If a qualified medical practitioner asks to be permitted to take a specimen in accordance with ordinary medical practice it is unreasonable for the driver to respond that he requires the specimen to be taken in a different way: Solesbury v Pugh [1969] 2 All ER 1171, [1969] 1 WLR 1114, DC. See also Rushton v Higgins [1972] RTR 456, DC (conviction upheld where a medical practitioner requested an intravenous specimen and the driver agreed only to supply a capillary specimen).

Once the driver has complied with a request, he probably cannot be required to provide a further specimen of blood or urine: R v Hyams [1972] 3 All ER 651, 136 JP 842, CA; Gabrielson v Richards [1976] RTR 223, [1975] Crim LR 722. This does not, however, prevent the police officer from changing his mind as to the kind of specimen required if he does so before there has been either compliance or refusal: R v Paduch (1973) 57 Cr App Rep 676, CA. A specimen of urine is not provided if it is lost, accidentally or deliberately, before a police officer has taken charge of it: Ross v Hodges [1975] RTR 55, [1975] Crim LR 46 (jar containing urine sample dropped before officer had hold of it). Where, however, a driver provided a specimen of blood sufficient and suitable for analysis, it did not cease to be so because the doctor dropped part of it rendering the remainder unsuitable for analysis: Beck v Watson [1980] RTR 90, [1979] Crim LR 533, DC. If a driver provides a specimen but, subsequent to and distinct from that provision, he steals it, he cannot be convicted of failing to provide a specimen: R v Rothery [1976] RTR 550, [1976] Crim LR 691, CA.

A police officer, before proceeding under what is now the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7 (as amended), has a discretion to allow a driver to contact a solicitor, relative or doctor, but if he allows such a concession and then considers that it has to be ended he is at liberty and under a duty to end it: Brown v Ridge [1979] RTR 136, DC. A person who gives conditional acceptance fails to provide a specimen: Pettigrew v Northumbria Police Authority [1976] RTR 177, [1976] Crim LR 259, DC (see also note 1 supra).

3 le in pursuance of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7 (as amended): see PARA 986 ante.

4 Ibid s 7(6). An offence may be committed under s 7(6) regardless of the guilt or innocence of the person being investigated under s 7(1) (see PARA 986 ante) and thereby giving rise to the requirement to provide a specimen: Metropolitan Police Comr v Curran [1976] 1 All ER 162, [1976] 1 WLR 87, HL.

A person guilty of an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(6) is liable on summary conviction: (1) where the specimen was required to ascertain ability to drive or the proportion of alcohol at the time the offender was driving or attempting to drive, to a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months or to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale or to both; and (2) in any other case, to a term of imprisonment not exceeding three months or to a fine not exceeding level 4 on the standard scale or to both; disqualification is obligatory in a case mentioned in head (1) supra, and discretionary in any other case; endorsement is obligatory; and 3-11 penalty points may be attributed in a case mentioned in head (1) supra, or 10 in any other case, if for special reasons, the offender is not ordered to be disqualified: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 28 (as substituted) (see PARA 1049 post), s 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (entry amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 26, Sch 2). As from a day to be appointed, this provision is amended so as to refer to '51 weeks' instead of 'three months': see the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 Sch 2 Pt I (entry prospectively amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 280(2), (3), Sch 26 para 38(1), (4)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. As to the prosecution of offences see PARA 1027 post; as to disqualification see PARA 1057 et seq post; as to endorsement see PARA 1080 et seq post; as to penalty points see PARA 1048 et seq post; as to special reasons for not imposing obligatory disqualification see PARA 1059 post; and as to legal proceedings generally see PARA 1023 et seq post.

Although different penalties are provided, the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(6) creates only one offence and an information is not bad for duplicity if it is framed in the terms of s 7(6) alone and does not specify which, if any, of the offences was being investigated by the officer: DPP v Butterworth [1995] 1 AC 381, [1994] 3 All ER 289, HL (overruling DPP v Corcoran [1993] 1 All ER 912, [1992] RTR 289, DC). Moreover, an information is not duplicitous if it alleges failing to provide 'breath/blood/urine': Worsley v DPP [1995] Crim LR 572. If the prosecution is conducted on the basis that the defendant was in charge of the motor vehicle, the justices may not sentence on the basis that he was driving or attempting to drive: George v DPP [1989] RTR 217, DC. The converse is not, however, true; if the information alleges that the defendant had been driving or attempting to drive the prosecution must prove that allegation beyond reasonable doubt or it will not be open to the justices to disqualify mandatorily: Crampsie v DPP [1993] RTR 383.

An offence may be committed under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(6) even though the defendant was neither driving, attempting to drive nor in charge of a motor vehicle at the relevant time: Metropolitan Police Comr v Curran supra. In such a case, words in the information referring to the defendant being in charge are surplus; and if the defendant is not misled by their inclusion no formal amendment is required and the surplus words are to be wholly disregarded: Roberts v Griffiths [1978] RTR 362, DC.

5 le in pursuance of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7 (as amended): see PARA 986 ante.

6 Ibid s 7(7). The duty to warn is mandatory so that failure to warn will render ineffective the requirement to provide a specimen, even where the subject is himself a police officer: Simpson v Spalding [1987] RTR 221, DC; Chief Constable of Avon and Somerset Constabulary v Singh [1988] RTR 107, DC. It is implicit in the requirement for a warning to be given that an alleged warning must be capable of informing the person to whom it is given of the possible consequences of failing to comply, and if it is not understood as a warning by the person to whom it is given it is not a warning within what is now the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(7): Chief Constable of Avon and Somerset Constabulary v Singh supra (lack of English prevented the defendant from understanding the warning). There is a clear distinction, however, between cases where the failure to understand was due to language and cases where the failure to understand the warning was brought about by self-induced intoxication: DPP v Beech [1992] RTR 239, [1992] Crim LR 64, DC.

Failure to give the warning renders inadmissible the results of the breath, blood or urine test: Murray v DPP [1993] RTR 209, 158 JP 261, DC. However, failure to repeat the warning, where the subject voluntarily provides further specimens following an unreliable result, does not render the requirement ineffective: see Edmond v DPP [2006] EWHC 463 (Admin), [2006] RTR 229, [2006] All ER (D) 287 (Mar).

Where a warning was given under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7(7), but the breath-testing device broke down and the police officer took the defendant six miles to another police station at which he knew a device was available, and specimens of breath were provided on that device 39 minutes after the time of the first requirement without the warning being repeated, it was a question of fact and degree if the original warning continued to be sufficient and the justices were entitled to find that that was not the case and that it had ceased to operate on the mind of the defendant at the time of the second requirement: DPP v Palmer (21 March 1997) Lexis, DC.

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

988 Failure to provide specimen

NOTE 1--Failure to communicate an excuse when attempting to provide a specimen is highly relevant in deciding whether the excuse is a reasonable one: Piggott v DPP [2008] EWHC 305 (Admin), [2008] RTR 199, [2008] All ER (D) 114 (Feb).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(iii) Offences relating to Drink or Drugs/C. TESTING FOR DRINK AND DRUGS/989. Protection for hospital patients.

While a person is at a hospital<sup>1</sup> as a patient<sup>2</sup> he must not be required to co-operate with a preliminary test<sup>3</sup> or to provide a specimen for analysis<sup>4</sup> unless the medical practitioner in immediate charge of his case<sup>5</sup> has been notified<sup>6</sup> of the proposal to make the requirement<sup>7</sup>. If the requirement is then made, it must be for co-operation with a test administered, or for the provision of a specimen, at the hospital<sup>8</sup>; but if the medical practitioner objects on the ground that the requirement or the provision of the specimen or (if one is required) the required warning<sup>9</sup> would be prejudicial to the proper care and treatment of the patient<sup>10</sup>, the requirement must not be made<sup>11</sup>.

While a person is at a hospital as a patient, no specimen of blood may be taken from him without his consent<sup>12</sup> and he may not be required to give his permission for a laboratory test of a specimen taken without his consent unless the medical practitioner in immediate charge of his case has been notified of the proposal to take the specimen or to make the requirement, and has not objected on the ground that the taking of the specimen, the requirement or the required warning<sup>13</sup> would be prejudicial to the proper care and treatment of the patient<sup>14</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'hospital' see PARA 983 note 7 ante.

2 The phrase 'as a patient' means a person who is at the hospital for the purpose of receiving treatment, but that person ceases to be a patient as soon as the treatment contemplated for that visit is over: A-G's Reference (No 1 of 1976) [1977] 3 All ER 557, [1977] 1 WLR 646, CA.

A person at a hospital as a patient must not be required to provide a specimen unless a doctor has first been notified and has no objection: R v Crowley [1977] RTR 153, 64 Cr App Rep 225, CA. Evidence of non-objection is not hearsay and may be given by a witness to whom the indication of no objection was given: R v Chapman [1969] 2 QB 436, [1969] 2 All ER 321, CA; Burn v Kernohan [1973] RTR 82, DC. A requirement of a patient lawfully made under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 9(1)(b) (see the text and notes 9-11 infra) could remain valid once that person was no longer a patient at the hospital and had been arrested under s 6(5)(b) (see PARA 979 ante): Webber v DPP [1998] RTR 111n, DC (driver refused to take the screening test at the hospital, and was required to provide a specimen of blood but before being able to do so was discharged from hospital; driver was then arrested in reliance on the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 6(5)(b) and provided a blood specimen at the police station; it was held that nothing in the Road Traffic Act 1988 drove the court to the view that the locus at which the specimen was taken was so vital that, if it was not provided at the hospital, a specimen and its analysis ceased to be admissible).

3 As to co-operation with a preliminary test see PARA 985 note 3 ante.

4 Ie under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 7 (as amended): see PARA 986 ante.

5 Where a constable gives evidence that he notified the person who appeared to be in charge of the casualty ward, but he did not check any medical list to see if that person was in fact a medical practitioner, that is sufficient to raise a prima facie case that the person was a medical practitioner and was in immediate charge of the defendant's case: Jones v Brazil [1970] RTR 449, DC.

6 The doctor must be notified of, and not object to, both the proposal to require a specimen of breath and the proposal to require a specimen of blood or urine: see R v Green [1970] 1 All ER 408n. There is no reason, however, why a doctor cannot consent to both requirements at the same time: Ratledge v Oliver [1974] RTR 394, DC.

990. Detention of persons affected by alcohol or a drug.

A person required<sup>1</sup> to provide a specimen of breath<sup>2</sup>, blood<sup>3</sup> or urine may afterwards be detained at a police station (or, if the specimen was provided otherwise than at a police station, arrested and taken to and detained at a police station) if a constable<sup>4</sup> has reasonable grounds for believing that, were that person then driving<sup>5</sup> or attempting to drive a mechanically propelled vehicle<sup>6</sup> on a road<sup>7</sup>, he would commit an offence<sup>8</sup>. This provision does not apply to the person if it ought reasonably to appear to the constable that there is no likelihood of his driving or attempting to drive a mechanically propelled vehicle whilst his ability to drive properly is impaired or whilst the proportion of alcohol in his breath, blood or urine exceeds the prescribed limit<sup>9</sup>. A person who is at a hospital<sup>10</sup> as a patient<sup>11</sup> must not be arrested and taken from there to a police station in pursuance of the above provision if it would be prejudicial to his proper care and treatment as a patient<sup>12</sup>.

A constable must consult a medical practitioner on any question arising under these provisions whether a person's ability to drive properly is or might be impaired through drugs<sup>13</sup> and must act on the medical practitioner's advice<sup>14</sup>.

963-1022 Offences and Penalties

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(iii) Offences relating to Drink or Drugs/C. TESTING FOR DRINK AND DRUGS/991. Evidence.

991. Evidence.

The following provisions apply in respect of proceedings for driving offences connected with drink or drugs<sup>1</sup>. Evidence of the proportion of alcohol or any drug in a specimen of breath, blood or urine provided by or taken from the accused must, in all cases (including cases where the specimen was not provided or taken in connection with the alleged offence), be taken into account<sup>2</sup> and it must be assumed that the proportion of alcohol in the accused's breath, blood or urine at the time of the alleged offence was not less than in the specimen<sup>3</sup>. That assumption must not be made if the accused proves:

- 899 (1) that he consumed alcohol before he provided the specimen or had it taken from him and: (a) in relation to an offence of causing death by careless driving when under the influence of drink or drugs<sup>4</sup>, after the time of the alleged offence<sup>5</sup>; and (b) otherwise, after he had ceased to drive, attempt to drive or be in charge of a vehicle on a road<sup>6</sup> or other public place<sup>7</sup>; and
- 900 (2) that had he not done so the proportion of alcohol in his breath, blood or urine would not have exceeded the prescribed limit<sup>8</sup> and, if it is alleged that he was unfit to drive through drink, would not have been such as to impair his ability to drive properly<sup>9</sup>.

A specimen of blood must be disregarded unless it was taken from the accused with his consent and either in a police station by a medical practitioner or a registered health care professional<sup>10</sup> or elsewhere by a medical practitioner, or it was taken from the accused by a medical practitioner without his consent<sup>11</sup> and the accused subsequently gave his permission for a laboratory test of the specimen<sup>12</sup>. Where, at the time a specimen of blood or urine was provided by the accused, he asked to be provided with such a specimen, evidence of the proportion of alcohol or any drug found in the specimen is not admissible on behalf of the prosecution unless<sup>13</sup> the specimen in which the alcohol or drug was found is one of two parts into which the specimen provided by the accused was divided at the time it was provided<sup>14</sup>, and the other part was supplied to the accused<sup>15</sup>. Where a specimen of blood was taken from the accused without his consent, evidence of the proportion of alcohol or any drug found in the specimen is not admissible on behalf of the prosecution unless the specimen in which the alcohol or drug was found is one of two parts into which the specimen taken from the accused was divided at the time it was taken, and any request to be supplied with the other part which was made by the accused at the time when he gave his permission for a laboratory test of the specimen was complied with<sup>16</sup>.

Evidence of the proportion of alcohol or a drug in a specimen of breath, blood or urine may be given by the production of a document or documents purporting to be whichever of the following is appropriate, that is to say<sup>17</sup>:

- 901 (i) a statement<sup>18</sup> automatically produced by the device by which the proportion of alcohol in a specimen of breath was measured and a certificate signed<sup>19</sup> by a constable<sup>20</sup> (which may, but need not, be contained in the same document as the statement) that the statement relates to a specimen provided by the accused at the date and time shown in the statement<sup>21</sup>; and
- 902 (ii) a certificate signed by an authorised analyst<sup>22</sup> as to the proportion of alcohol or any drug found in a specimen of blood or urine identified in the certificate<sup>23</sup>.

Evidence that a specimen of blood was taken from the accused with his consent by a medical practitioner or a registered health care professional may be given by the production of a document purporting to certify that fact and to be signed by a medical practitioner or a registered health care professional<sup>24</sup>. A document purporting to be such a statement or such a certificate (or both such a statement and such a certificate) as is mentioned in head (i) above is admissible in evidence on behalf of the prosecution in pursuance of this provision only if a copy<sup>25</sup> of it either has been handed<sup>26</sup> to the accused when the document was produced or has been served<sup>27</sup> on him not later than seven days before the hearing<sup>28</sup>, and any other document is so admissible only if a copy of it has been served on the accused not later than seven days before the hearing<sup>29</sup>. A document purporting to be a certificate (or so much of a document as purports to be a certificate) is not so admissible if the accused, not later than three days before the hearing or within such further time as the court may in special circumstances allow, has served notice on the prosecutor requiring the attendance at the hearing of the person by whom the document purports to be signed<sup>30</sup>. A copy of a certificate required by this provision to be served on the accused or a notice so required to be served on the prosecutor may be served personally or sent by registered post or recorded delivery service<sup>31</sup>.

The above provisions, in their application to persons subject to service discipline, apply outside as well as within Great Britain<sup>32</sup>.

1 The offences under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3A (as added) (see PARA 974 ante), s 4 (as amended) (see PARA 975 ante), s 5 (see PARA 978 ante): see the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(1) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 48, Sch 4 para 87(1), (2)). As to the meaning of 'drug' see PARA 974 note 7 ante; definition applied by the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(1) (as so amended).

2 Only evidence which has been obtained in accordance with the procedures prescribed by the Road Traffic Act 1988 ss 7, 8 (as amended) (see PARA 986 ante) may be taken into account: Howard v Hallett [1984] RTR 353, [1984] Crim LR 565, DC; Simpson v Spalding [1987] RTR 221, DC; Murray v DPP [1993] RTR 209, 158 JP 261, DC.

Proof of the offence under what is now the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 5(1)(a) (see PARA 978 ante) is not dependent on the accused being validly arrested, and there is no general principle that a conviction is invalid if the evidence by which it was proved was obtained unlawfully: R v Fox [1986] AC 281, sub nom Fox v Chief Constable of Gwent [1985] 3 All ER 392, HL. See also DPP v Porter (15 February 2000) Lexis, DC (no need to prove lawful detention). However, if the driver was lured to the police by some trick or deception or if the police officers behaved oppressively towards him, the justices' jurisdiction to exclude admissible evidence might come into play: R v Fox supra at 293 and 397 per Lord Fraser. R v Fox supra was decided before the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 78 (as amended) (see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1365) came into force, and a finding of mala fides opens the possibility of excluding the evidence of the analysis of the specimen provided by the driver under that provision: Matto v Crown Court at Wolverhampton [1987] RTR 337, DC. Moreover, it is not essential to establish mala fides before the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 78 (as amended) can operate: R v Samuel [1988] QB 615, [1988] 2 All ER 135, CA; DPP v McGladrigan [1991] RTR 297 (explaining Thomas v DPP [1991] RTR 292n, DC); DPP v Goodwin [1991] RTR 303, DC; Daniels v DPP [1992] RTR 140, DC. Conversely, if the justices find mala fides they are not required to exercise their discretion under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 78 (as amended) in the driver's favour: Sharpe v DPP [1993] RTR 392, DC.

3 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(2) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 Sch 4 para 87(1), (3); and the Police Reform Act 2002 s 57(1)). This is expressed to be subject to the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(3) (as substituted): see the text and notes 4-9 infra.

There is no requirement for the assumption under s 15(2) (as amended) to operate that the prosecution must prove that the driving, attempting to drive or being in charge occurred at a time proximate to the finding of alcohol in the driver's body: DPP v Williams [1989] Crim LR 382, DC.

Evidence which, if believed, provides material from which it can reasonably be inferred that an evidential breath-testing device was unreliable is admissible; the wording of what is now the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(2) (as amended) does not confine the challenge to the validity of the device to a particular type of evidence: Cracknell v Willis [1988] AC 450, [1987] 3 All ER 801, HL (overruling Hughes v McConnell [1986] 1 All ER 268, [1985] RTR 244, DC; Burridge v East [1986] RTR 328n, DC). Cracknell v Willis supra was concerned with evidence in relation to a particular driver which could, if accepted, cast doubt on the readings obtained from a particular machine; it was not concerned with casting doubt on all machines: DPP v Charles [1996] RTR 247n at 272, DC, per Kennedy LJ; and see also R v Skegness Magistrates' Court, ex p Cardy [1985] RTR 49, DC. To rebut the statutory presumption of reliability it is not necessary for a defendant asserting a lower consumption of alcohol than that compatible with the reading to adduce expert evidence of the reading that would be produced by the consumption, and in the circumstances claimed by the defendant; but in many cases expert evidence as to the effect of such variables as consumption and absorption rates is necessary: DPP v Spurrier [2000] RTR 60, DC (in which guidance was given as to the factors that justices should have in mind). See also DPP v Hill [1991] RTR 351, DC.

The Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 97(1) (as amended) (issue of witness summonses) (see MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 734) should not be used as a disguised attempt to obtain disclosure of documents relating to a device where the relevance of such documents was entirely speculative: DPP v McKeown, DPP v Jones [1997] RTR 162 at 170, HL, per Lord Hoffmann. See also R v Tower Bridge Magistrates' Court, ex p DPP [1989] RTR 118, DC; R v Coventry Magistrates' Court, ex p Perks [1985] RTR 74, DC; R v Skegness Magistrates' Court, ex p Cardy supra.

Whether or not a disparity between the readings of the two specimens of breath provided by the driver raises sufficient doubt about the reliability of the device to justify an acquittal is a question of fact and degree, but a conviction has been upheld where the disparity was 23.1%: Lodge v Chief Constable of Greater Manchester [1988] Crim LR 533, DC. See also Gordon v Thorpe [1986] RTR 358, [1986] Crim LR 61, DC; Maharaj v Solomon [1987] RTR 295; Newton v Woods [1987] RTR 41. A substantial discrepancy between the proportion of alcohol recorded by the breath-testing device and the results of a subsequent, voluntary blood analysis may cast sufficient doubt as to the accuracy of the former to justify an acquittal: Lucking v Forbes [1986] RTR 97, [1985] Crim LR 793.

In Snelson v Thompson [1985] RTR 220, DC, a specimen of breath was provided which showed that the defendant exceeded the prescribed limit, but a further breath test an hour later on a non-evidential (ie roadside) device proved negative and the defendant adduced expert evidence at his trial that the two results were inconsistent; held, having regard to the comparative accuracies of the devices, it was impossible to say that the justices were disentitled from concluding that they could safely rely on the reading of the evidential device. This decision does not, however, mean that a subsequent, negative breath sample is inadmissible or should be ignored: Parish v DPP [2000] RTR 143, DC. See also O'Sullivan v DPP (27 March 2000) Lexis, DC (specimen provided at 1 am which contained 56 micrograms of alcohol; further specimen provided between 2.30 am and 2.45 am containing 23 micrograms; the defendant adduced evidence from controlled scientific tests of the defendant as to the rate of decline of alcohol in her blood thereby seeking to show that the court could not be satisfied that the 1 am reading was reliable; held (quashing the conviction) that: (1) in most cases the accuracy and reliability of a device is not in dispute; (2) there is at least an evidential burden on the defence to raise the issue of unreliability, but in the present case that was plainly discharged; and (3) following the discharge of that burden there is no presumption of accuracy that the defence must disprove).

The assumption contained in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(2) (as amended) does not preclude the prosecution from calling evidence other than the results of the analysis to show that the proportion of alcohol in the driver's blood exceeded the prescribed limit at a time when he was driving: Gumbley v Cunningham [1989] AC 281, [1989] 1 All ER 5, HL. The prosecution should not, however, seek to rely on evidence of back-calculation save where the evidence is both easily understood and clearly establishes the presence of excess alcohol at the time when the accused was driving: Gumbley v Cunningham supra. Where the issue is not the precise percentage of blood alcohol but the degree to which the driver's ability to recognise risk and drive properly, different and less stringent considerations apply: see R v Downes [1991] RTR 395, CA. Back-calculation does not work both ways; it is not open to justices to receive evidence designed to show that, though the analysis of the specimen provided by the driver showed alcohol in excess of the prescribed limit, a lower level of alcohol may have been present when he was driving: Beachamp-Thompson v DPP [1989] RTR 54n, DC.

The assumption in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(2) (as amended) is compatible with the presumption of innocence guaranteed by the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953); Cmd 8969) art 6(2) (see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 142): R v Drummond [2002] EWCA Crim 527, [2002] RTR 371, [2002] 2 Cr App Rep 352; Parker v DPP [2001] RTR 240, DC; Griffiths v DPP [2002] EWHC 792 (Admin), 166 JP 629. See also DPP v Brown, DPP v Teixeira [2001] EWHC 931 (Admin), [2002] RTR 395 (evidence intended to rebut assumption must relate directly to facts of a specific case). 9 Ibid s 15(3)(b) (as substituted: see note 5 supra).

The burden is on the defendant to establish that he was not over the limit or unfit at the time of driving or attempting to drive or being in charge of a motor vehicle: DPP v Williams [1989] Crim LR 382, DC. See also Patterson v Charlton [1986] RTR 18, DC. As to the need for scientific evidence unless the case is an obvious one that post-driving consumption of alcohol caused the driver to exceed the limit see Dawson v Lunn [1986] RTR 234n, (1984) 149 JP 491; DPP v Singh [1988] RTR 209, DC.

14 Ibid s 15(5)(a). The words 'at the time' mean that the taking of the specimen and its division into two must be closely linked in time and performed as part of the same event, but the driver does not have to present at the division: DPP v Elstob [1992] RTR 45, [1992] Crim LR 518, DC.

15 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(5)(b). The driver need not be supplied with his part of the specimen at the time that it is taken but only within a reasonable time thereafter: R v Sharp [1968] 2 QB 564, [1968] 3 All ER 182, CA. The part given to the driver must be of a quantity and quality to be capable of analysis (Smith v Cole [1971] 1 All ER 200n, DC); it must be in a condition enabling it to remain fit for analysis for a reasonable time (Ward v Keene [1970] RTR 177, DC); and it must be capable of being analysed by the use of ordinary skill and equipment by a reasonably competent analyst (Earl v Roy [1969] 2 All ER 684, [1968] 1 WLR 1050, DC; R v Nixon [1969] 2 All ER 688, [1969] 1 WLR 1055, CA; Nugent v Hobday [1973] RTR 41, DC). See also Kiernan v Willcock [1972] RTR 270, DC; Nicholson v Watts [1973] RTR 208, [1973] Crim LR 246, DC (defence expert's doubts as to quality are relevant only to whether the offence has been proved and not to compliance with what is now the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(5)); R v Wright (John) [1975] RTR 193, CA.

In each case the question whether a specimen or part is 'supplied' in accordance with what is now the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(5)(b) turns on the facts: R v Jones (Colin) [1974] RTR 117, CA (conviction upheld where driver's part put with the rest of his belongings).

The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(5) must be strictly complied with, so that where the part provided to the driver was mixed with a minimal quantity taken from him a short while earlier the analysis of the part retained by the police was inadmissible: Dear v DPP [1988] RTR 148, [1988] Crim LR 316, DC. The driver must not be misled by anything said or done by the prosecution into believing that the part supplied to him could not be submitted for independent analysis: Perry v McGovern [1986] RTR 240, DC. However, once the part of the specimen has been supplied and is capable of being analysed it is only if it was supplied in such circumstances that the driver would be expected to be deterred or prevented from having it analysed that there could be a defence: Butler v DPP [1990] RTR 377, DC (conviction upheld where the police doctor wrongly put the police officer's and not the driver's name on the driver's part and the analyst approached by the defendant declined, in consequence, to carry out the analysis). See also DPP v Snook [1993] Crim LR 883 (supply in an envelope is not part of the statutory requirement).

17 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(1) (amended by the Police Reform Act 2002 s 57(5)). This is expressed to be subject to the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 15(5), (5A) (as added), and s 16(3), (4).

18 The print-out of a breath test device is to be considered as a whole, as containing both a 'statement' and a 'certificate', and when so considered it is plainly intelligible; but even if to most people it is not immediately intelligible without explanation that does not prevent it from being a 'statement': Gaimster v Marlow [1984] QB 218, [1985] 1 All ER 82, DC. It may be unwise to alter the print-out in any way, and where it is necessary to inform the court of such a fact it should be done by oral evidence at the hearing: Beck v Scammel [1986] RTR 162, DC.

The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(1) is an enabling provision and oral evidence may be given by the police operator of the device in place of the print-out, such evidence not being hearsay; but to reach the required standard of proof such evidence must relate not only the breath test results but also that the device was properly calibrated: Owen v Chesters [1985] RTR 191, (1984) 149 JP 295, DC; Denneny v Harding [1986] RTR 350, DC; Mayon v DPP [1988] RTR 281, DC; Hasler v DPP [1989] RTR 148, [1989] Crim LR 76, DC; DPP v Hutchings [1991] RTR 380, DC; Thom v DPP [1994] RTR 11, DC; Greenaway v DPP [1994] RTR 17, DC. The officer giving such oral evidence must, however, be trained in the use and manner of performance of the device: Denneny v Harding supra. The evidence need not establish the precise calibration results, provided that the officer has considered the calibration readings, among others, and tells the court that the device was reliable: Greenaway v DPP supra at 21 per Buckley J; Thom v DPP supra. The officer does not need to give specific evidence of the 'purging' process that follows after the first calibration check and after each of the two breath analyses: DPP v Parkin [1989] Crim LR 379. The need to prove proper calibration does not arise where the breath test results are relied upon not as evidence of an offence but as satisfying the pre-condition for obtaining a replacement specimen under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 8(2) (see PARA 986 ante): Prince v DPP [1996] Crim LR 343.

A print-out is not adduced in evidence if the officer merely states that it is available in court if the justices wish to see it, but they do not ask for it and neither the officer nor the prosecutor seeks to produce it in evidence: Hasler v DPP supra. Similarly, a document used to refresh memory in the course of giving evidence is not, without more, formally in evidence, even if it is plainly visible to the justices: Greenaway v DPP supra. Once, however, an exhibit is produced, the court has jurisdiction over it; it does not matter that the court does not formally examine it before the prosecution closes its case: R v Pydar Justices, ex p Foster (1995) 160 JP 87, DC.

Typographical errors or misspellings do not affect the validity of the print-out: Reid v DPP [1999] RTR 357, DC; Burditt v Roberts [1986] RTR 391n, sub nom Burdett v Rogers [1986] Crim LR 636, DC; Toovey v Chief Constable of Northumbria [1986] Crim LR 475, DC.

Where the first print-out has been lost, a second print-out produced by the same device may be adduced in evidence provided the necessary evidence of the accuracy of the device is again given: DPP v Hutchins [1991] RTR 380, DC.

The lawfulness of type approval of a breath-testing device may not be raised as a defence to a charge of driving with excess alcohol: DPP v Wood, DPP v McGillicuddy [2005] EWHC 2986 (Admin), (2006) 170 JP 177, DC.

19 Where the police officer conducting the test fails to sign either the copy handed to the driver or the copy retained by the police, but the justices hear that officer's evidence linking the driver to the print-out, the print-out is admissible as real evidence independently of the provisions of what is now the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(1)(a): Garner v DPP [1990] RTR 208, (1989) 154 JP 277, DC.

20 As to constables see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 101 et seq.

21 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(1)(a). There is nothing wrong with a statement that shows the time recorded as Greenwich mean time instead of British Summer Time (see TIME vol 97 (2010) PARAS 316-317): Parker v DPP [1993] RTR 283, (1992) 157 JP 218.

22 For these purposes, 'authorised analyst' means: (1) any person possessing the qualifications prescribed by regulations made under the Food Safety Act 1990 s 27 (as amended) (see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 268) as qualifying persons for appointment as public analysts under that Act; and (2) any other person authorised by the Secretary of State to make analyses for the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16 (as amended): s 16(7) (amended by the Food Safety Act 1990 s 59(1), Sch 3 para 38). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante. The requirement that an authorised analyst must sign the certificate does not import a requirement that the analysis itself must be carried out by an authorised analyst: R v Rutter [1977] RTR 105, CA.

23 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(1)(b). As to identifying the sample analysed as being the sample taken from the driver see R v Shaw (Derek) [1974] RTR 458, CA (conviction upheld despite absence of evidence that the police officer had labelled the specimen with the details set out in the analyst's certificate, since there was no ground for suggesting that some mistake in the labelling of the specimen had been made at the police station or there had been some mistake at the laboratory). See also Dickson v Atkins [1972] RTR 209, DC (typographical errors in the certificate as to driver's first name and police officer's surname, but the certificate could not have referred to anyone else and it sufficiently identified the specimen); R v Orrell [1972] RTR 14, CA (neither the container of the specimen nor the label need be produced since the best evidence rule does not apply). For cases where the necessary link was not, however, established see Bentley v Northumbria Police [1984] RTR 276, DC (no certificate in fact produced and the sample simply bore the name 'Bentley'); Paterson v DPP [1990] RTR 329, DC (no evidence as to what the police officer wrote on the label and the certificate of analysis stated that the police station named on the label was 'Asfordby Street' whereas the sample had in fact been taken at Charles Street police station). See also Rawal v DPP (21 March 2000) Lexis, DC (specimen taken at Hall Lane police station and labelled SPR1, but when collected it bore the reference JWT/1 and, following laboratory analysis, by the words 'police station' on the label was written 'Elizabeth Slinger Road'; held, despite these inconsistencies, it would have been wholly fanciful to conclude that the analysed specimen was not the specimen provided by the defendant). It has been held that on the true construction of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16 (as amended) there is no requirement that evidence can only be given by an authorised analyst; s 16(1) is permissive and does not stipulate any manner in which the evidence of analysis must be given: R (on the application of the Crown Prosecution Service) v Sedgemoor Magistrates' Court [2007] All ER (D) 24 (Jul).

24 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(2) (amended by the Police Reform Act 2002 s 57(6)). This is expressed to be subject to the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 16(3), (4). Section 16(2) (as amended) is simply permissive; evidence of consent may be given in another form, such as from a police officer present throughout the taking of the blood sample: Rathbone v DPP (20 January 1995) Lexis.

25 The copy, unlike the original, need not be signed: Chief Constable of Surrey v Wickens [1985] RTR 277, (1984) 149 JP 333, DC. An incorrect forename on the copy, where the error is purely formal and causes no prejudice to the defendant, does not affect its admissibility: Toovey v Chief Constable of Northumbria [1986] Crim LR 475.

26 A document is not 'handed to' the driver if it is left on a counter at the police station and no indication is given that it is his to take away: Walton v Rimmer [1986] RTR 31, DC. See also McCormack v DPP [2002] EWHC 173 (Admin), [2002] RTR 355 (physical transfer of document not necessary).

27 Notwithstanding the provisions of what is now the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(6) (see the text and note 31 infra), service may be validly effected on the defendant's authorised agent: Anderton v Kinnard [1986] RTR 11, DC (defendant's solicitor). The defendant's counsel, however, has a discretion to refuse to accept service: Penman v Parker [1986] 2 All ER 862, [1986] RTR 403, DC.

28 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(3)(a). If the defendant wishes to submit that service was not effected as required by this provision, he must object to the admissibility of the contents of the certificate before it is put in evidence or his right to object will be waived: R v Banks [1972] 1 All ER 1041, [1972] 1 WLR 346, CA. 'The hearing' is the hearing at which the document is to be adduced in evidence, and not the hearing at which the defendant first appeared on the summons: Williams v DPP [1991] 3 All ER 651, 93 Cr App Rep 319.

The requirements of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(3) are mandatory; if they are not complied with the document as such is not admissible evidence, and if it is not admissible then no purported waiver of objection on behalf of the defendant can make it admissible: Tobi v Nicholas [1988] RTR 343, (1987) 86 Cr App Rep 323, DC (distinguishing R v Banks supra). If the certificate was served in due time, however, the defendant can waive the requirement that such service be formally proved: Louis v DPP [1998] RTR 354, 162 JP 287, DC.

29 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(3)(b). See also note 28 supra.

30 Ibid s 16(4). However, the print-out remains admissible and can be put in evidence by the police operator of the device: Temple v Botha [1985] Crim LR 517, DC. Where the proceedings mentioned in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 15(1) (as amended) are proceedings before a magistrates' court inquiring into an offence as examining justices, s 16 (as amended) has effect with the omission of s 16(4): s 16(6A) (added, in relation to alleged offences into which no criminal procedure had begun before 1 April 1997, by the Criminal Procedure and Investigations Act 1996 s 47, Sch 1 para 37). This provision is repealed, as from a day to be appointed, by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 ss 41, 332, Sch 3 Pt 2 para 61(1), (4), Sch 37, Pt 4. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

31 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 16(6). Where there is prima facie evidence of service of certificates in the usual way the onus is on the defendant to show, on a balance of probabilities, that he has not been served: Hawkins v DPP [1988] RTR 380, DC. As to postal service see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 7; and STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1388. As to proof of service by certificate see the CrimPR r 4.11 (substituted by SI 2007/699); and MAGISTRATES.

32 The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 15, 16 (both as amended), in their application to persons subject to service discipline apply outside as well as within Great Britain and have effect as if: (1) references to proceedings for an offence under any enactment included references to proceedings for the corresponding service offence; (2) references to the court included a reference to any naval, military, or air force authority before whom the proceedings take place; (3) references to a constable included references to a member of the provost staff; and (4) in s 15 (as amended), s 15(4) were omitted: s 93 (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 48, Sch 4 para 110). 1 A person guilty of such an offence is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years or to a fine or to both, or on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum or to both: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (entry added by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 26, Sch 2). ### 1005. Control of dogs on roads.

A person who causes or permits a dog to be on a designated road<sup>1</sup> without the dog being held on a lead is guilty of an offence<sup>2</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'designated road' means a length of road specified by an order in that behalf of the local authority in whose area the length of road is situated: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 27(2). For the meaning of 'road' see PARA 206 ante. 'Local authority' means in relation to England and Wales, the council of a county, metropolitan district or London borough or the Common Council of the City of London: s 27(7). As to local government areas and authorities in England and Wales see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq. As to London boroughs and their councils see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 30, 35 et seq. As to the Common Council of the City of London see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 51 et seq.

The powers which under s 27(2) are exercisable by a local authority in England and Wales are, in the case of a road part of the width of which is in the area of one local authority and part in the area of another, exercisable by either authority with the consent of the other: s 27(3).

An order under s 27 may provide that s 27(1) is to apply subject to such limitations or exceptions as may be specified in the order, and (without prejudice to the generality of s 27(4)) s 27(1) does not apply to dogs proved: (1) to be kept for driving or tending sheep or cattle in the course of a trade or business; or (2) to have been at the material time in use under proper control for sporting purposes: s 27(4). Such an order must not be made except after consultation with the chief officer of police: s 27(5). As to chief officers of police see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 165, 178 et seq. The power conferred by s 27 to make an order includes power, exercisable in like manner and subject to the like conditions, to vary or revoke it: s 27(8).

The Secretary of State may make regulations prescribing the procedure to be followed in connection with the making of orders under s 27, and requiring the authority making such an order to publish in such manner as may be prescribed by the regulations notice of the making and effect of the order: s 27(6). At the date at which this volume states the law no regulations had been made under s 27(6) but, by virtue of the Road Traffic (Consequential Provisions) Act 1988 s 2(2) and the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b), the Control of Dogs on Roads Orders (Procedure) (England and Wales) Regulations 1962, SI 1962/2340 (amended by SI 1965/640; and revoked by SI 1995/2767 subject to a transitional provision); and the Control of Dogs on Roads Orders (Procedure) (England and Wales) Regulations 1995, SI 1995/2767, have effect as if so made. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante. For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 205 note 6 ante.

2 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 27(1). A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 1 on the standard scale: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I. As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. As to the prosecution of offences see PARA 1027 post; and as to legal proceedings generally see PARA 1023 et seq post.

(vii) Use of Motor Vehicles away from Roads

1006. Use of footpaths and bridleways for motor vehicle trials.

A person must not promote or take part in a trial of any description between motor vehicles<sup>1</sup> on a footpath<sup>2</sup>, bridleway<sup>3</sup> or restricted byway<sup>4</sup> unless the holding of the trial has been authorised under this provision by the local authority<sup>5</sup>. A local authority must not give such an authorisation unless satisfied that consent in writing to the use of any length of footpath, bridleway or restricted byway for the purposes of the trial has been given by the owner and by the occupier of the land over which that length of footpath, bridleway or restricted byway runs, and any such authorisation may be given subject to compliance with such conditions as the authority thinks fit<sup>6</sup>. A person who contravenes this provision, or fails to comply with any conditions subject to which such an authorisation has been granted, is guilty of an offence<sup>7</sup>. The holding of a trial so authorised is not affected by any statutory provision prohibiting or restricting the use of footpaths, bridleways or restricted byways or a specified footpath, bridleway or restricted byway; but this provision does not prejudice any right or remedy of a person as having any interest in land<sup>8</sup>.

5 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 33(1) (amended by the Restricted Byways (Application and Consequential Amendment of Provisions) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1177, Schedule Pt I). For these purposes, 'local authority' in relation to England and Wales, means the council of a county, metropolitan district or London borough: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 33(5)(a). As to local government areas and authorities in England and Wales see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq. As to London boroughs and their councils see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 30, 35 et seq.

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(vii) Use of Motor Vehicles away from Roads/1007. Driving elsewhere than on roads.

1007. Driving elsewhere than on roads.

Subject to the following provisions, if without lawful authority a person drives<sup>1</sup> a mechanically propelled vehicle<sup>2</sup>: (1) on to or on any common land, moorland or land of any other description, not being land forming part of a road<sup>3</sup>; or (2) on any road being a footpath<sup>5</sup>, bridleway<sup>6</sup> or restricted byway<sup>7</sup>, he is guilty of an offence<sup>8</sup>. It is not an offence under this provision for a person with an interest<sup>9</sup> in land, or a visitor to any land, to drive a mechanically propelled vehicle on a road if, immediately before 2 May 2006 in England or 11 May 2006 in Wales<sup>10</sup>, the road was: (a) shown in a definitive map and statement as a road used as a public path; and (b) in use for obtaining access to the land by the driving of mechanically propelled vehicles by a person with an interest in the land or by visitors to the land<sup>11</sup>. It is not an offence under this provision to drive a motor vehicle on any land within 15 yards of a road, being a road on which a motor vehicle may lawfully be driven, for the purpose only of parking the vehicle on that land<sup>12</sup>. A person is not to be convicted of an offence under this provision with respect to a vehicle if he proves to the satisfaction of the court that it was driven in contravention of it for the purpose of saving life or extinguishing fire or meeting any other like emergency<sup>13</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'drive' see PARA 207 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'mechanically propelled vehicle' does not include a vehicle falling within the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 189(1)(a), (b) or (c) (see PARA 210 heads (1)-(3) ante): s 34(7) (s 34 substituted by the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 s 67, Sch 7 para 5).

3 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34(1)(a) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). For the meaning of 'road' see PARA 206 ante. See Massey v Boulden [2002] EWCA Civ 1634, [2003] 2 All ER 87 ('land of any other description' not to be construed ejusdem generis with the words 'common land' and 'moorland'; thus prescriptive rights to vehicular access can never be acquired except over 'land forming part of a road').

5 For the meaning of 'footpath' see PARA 206 ante.

6 For the meaning of 'bridleway' see PARA 206 ante.

7 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34(1)(b) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). 'Restricted byway' means a way over which the public has restricted byway rights within the meaning of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 Pt II (ss 47-72) (see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 603), with or without a right to drive animals of any description along the way, but no other rights of way: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34(7) (as so substituted). For the purposes of head (2) in the text, a way shown in a definitive map and statement as a footpath, bridleway or restricted byway is, without prejudice to the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 s 56(1) (see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 592), to be taken to be a way of the kind shown, unless the contrary is proved: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34(2) (s 34 as so substituted; and s 34(2) amended by the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006 ss 70(2), (3), 105(2), Sch 12). 'Definitive map and statement' has the same meaning as in the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 Pt III (ss 53-66) (see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 591): Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34(7) (as so substituted).

As from a day to be appointed, the following exceptions to the presumption in s 34(2) (as substituted and amended) apply: s 34A (added by the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 Sch 7 para 6). Where a person is charged with an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34 (as substituted and amended) in respect of the driving of any vehicle, it is open to that person to prove under s 34(2) (as substituted and amended) that a way shown in a definitive map and statement as a footpath, bridleway or restricted byway is not a way of the kind shown only:

1499 (1) if he proves to the satisfaction of the court: (a) that he was a person interested in any land and that the driving of the vehicle by him was reasonably necessary to obtain access to the land; (b) that the driving of the vehicle by him was reasonably necessary to obtain access to any land, and was for the purpose of obtaining access to the land as a lawful visitor; or (c) that the driving of the vehicle by him was reasonably necessary for the purposes of any business, trade or profession (s 34A(1)(a) (as so added)); or 1500 (2) in such circumstances as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State (and head (1) supra is without prejudice to this head) (s 34A(1)(b) (as so added)).

For these purposes, 'interest', in relation to land, includes any estate in land and any right over land, whether the right is exercisable by virtue of the ownership of an estate or interest in land or by virtue of a licence or agreement, and in particular includes rights of common and sporting rights, and the reference to a person interested in land is to be construed accordingly; and 'lawful visitor', in relation to land, includes any person who enters the land for any purpose in the exercise of a right conferred by law: s 34A(2) (as so added). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

8 Ibid s 34(1) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (Sch 2 amended by the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 Sch 7 para 8). As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. An offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34 (as substituted and amended) of driving a motor vehicle elsewhere than on a road is a fixed penalty offence: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 51, Sch 3 (amended by the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 Sch 7 para 9). As to fixed penalty offences see PARA 1093 post; and as to fixed penalties generally see PARA 1089 et seq post. As to the prosecution of offences see PARA 1027 post; and as to legal proceedings generally see PARA 1023 et seq post. As to police powers to seize a motor vehicle being used in a manner which contravenes the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34 (as substituted and amended) see the Police Reform Act 2002 s 59; and PARA 972 ante.

9 For these purposes, 'interest', in relation to land, includes any estate in land and any right over land (whether exercisable by virtue of the ownership of an estate or interest in the land or by virtue of a licence or agreement) and, in particular, includes rights of common and sporting rights: ibid s 34(7) (as substituted) (see note 2 supra); definition added by the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006 s 70(6)).

10 Ie the commencement of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 s 47(2): see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 602.

11 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34(2A) (added by the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006 s 70(4)). A person: (1) entering any land in exercise of rights conferred by virtue of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 s 2(1) (see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 583); or (2) entering any land which is treated by s 15(1) as being accessible to the public apart from that Act (see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 580), is not, for the purposes of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34(2A) (as added), a visitor to the land: s 34(8) (added by the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006 s 70(7)).

12 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34(3) (as substituted: see note 2 supra).

13 Ibid s 34(4) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). Nothing in s 34 (as substituted and amended) prejudices the operation of the Law of Property Act 1925 s 193 (see COMMONS vol 13 (2009) PARAS 581-582) or any byelaws applying to any land, or affects the law of trespass to land or any right or remedy to which a person may by law be entitled in respect of any such trespass or in particular confers a right to park a vehicle on any land: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 34(5) (as so substituted). As to trespass see TORT vol 45(2) (Reissue) PARA 505 et seq.

963-1022 Offences and Penalties

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(viii) Taking Conveyances without Authority; Theft/1008. Taking motor vehicle or other conveyance without authority.

(viii) Taking Conveyances without Authority; Theft

1008. Taking motor vehicle or other conveyance without authority.

If a person, without having the consent<sup>1</sup> of the owner<sup>2</sup> or other lawful authority takes<sup>3</sup> any conveyance<sup>4</sup> for his own or another's use or, knowing that any conveyance has been taken without such authority<sup>5</sup>, drives<sup>6</sup> it or allows himself to be carried in or on it<sup>7</sup>, he is guilty of an offence<sup>8</sup>.

The above provisions do not apply in relation to pedal cycles; but a person who, without having the consent of the owner or other lawful authority, takes a pedal cycle for his own or another's use, or rides a pedal cycle knowing it to have been taken without such authority, is guilty of an offence<sup>9</sup>.

A person does not commit any of the above offences by anything done in the belief<sup>10</sup> that he has lawful authority to do it or that he would have the owner's consent if the owner knew of his doing it and the circumstances of it<sup>11</sup>.

Possession of an article for use in committing any of the above offences is itself an offence<sup>12</sup>.

1 If consent is given to use a vehicle for a particular purpose and for a given time, the person to whom that consent is given may be convicted of the offence if he uses the vehicle for a different purpose or beyond that time: R v Phipps [1970] RTR 209, 54 Cr App Rep 300, CA; McKnight v Davies [1974] RTR 4, DC. Consent obtained by intimidation is not 'consent' for the purpose of this offence: R v Hogdon [1962] Crim LR 563, CCA. Consent is not, however, vitiated by the fact that it was obtained by deception: R v Peart [1970] 2 QB 672, [1970] 2 All ER 823, CA (false pretence as to the destination and purpose of the journey); Whittaker v Campbell [1984] QB 318, [1983] 3 All ER 582, DC (false representations as to the identity of the driver and the holding of a full driving licence).

2 'Owner', in relation to a conveyance which is the subject of a hiring agreement or hire-purchase agreement, means the person in possession of the conveyance under that agreement: Theft Act 1968 s 12(7) (b).

3 To constitute a taking there must be some movement, however slight, of the conveyance: R v Bogacki [1973] QB 832, [1973] 2 All ER 864, CA. The taking need not be accomplished by driving, but may be accomplished by removing the conveyance on a transporter: R v Pearce [1973] Crim LR 321, CA (inflatable dinghy taken away on a trailer). The taking must, however, be for the defendant's (or another's) use as a conveyance; thus no offence was committed when a conveyance was pushed around the corner to make its owner think (as a practical joke) that it had been stolen: R v Stokes [1983] RTR 59, [1982] Crim LR 695, CA. See also R v Bow [1977] RTR 6, CA (defendant released the handbrake and coasted downhill for 200 yards without turning the engine on; held, as the vehicle had been taken and moved in such a way as necessarily involved its use as a conveyance, the offence had been committed). Taking a conveyance with intent to use it on some future occasion as a conveyance suffices: R v Marchant (1984) 80 Cr App Rep 361, CA.

Using a conveyance in an unauthorised way can amount to a taking: see R v Phipps [1970] RTR 209, 54 Cr App Rep 300, CA; McKnight v Davies [1974] RTR 4, DC. In the case of an employed driver, however, not every brief, unauthorised diversion from his proper route will necessarily involve a 'taking' of the vehicle for his own use:

McKnight v Davies supra at 8 per Lord Widgery CJ. See also R v Wibberley [1966] 2 QB 214, [1965] 3 All ER 718, CCA.

Where a conveyance has been taken without the consent of its owner and abandoned, a second such taking constitutes an offence under the Theft Act 1968 s 12 (as amended): DPP v Spriggs [1994] RTR 1, [1993] Crim LR 622, DC (distinguishing D (An Infant) v Parsons [1960] 2 All ER 493, [1960] 1 WLR 797, DC; R v Stally [1959] 3 All ER 814, [1960] 1 WLR 79, CCA).

4 'Conveyance' means any conveyance constructed or adapted for the carriage of a person or persons whether by land, water or air, except that it does not include a conveyance constructed or adapted for use only under the control of a person not carried in or on it; and 'drive' is to be construed accordingly: Theft Act 1968 s 12(7)(a). A horse is not a conveyance within this definition: Neal v Gribble [1978] RTR 409, 68 Cr App Rep 9, DC.

5 This includes knowledge that the conveyance has been stolen: Tolley v Giddings [1964] 2 QB 354, [1964] 1 All ER 201, DC. There must be some movement of the conveyance after the defendant knew it had been unlawfully taken: R v Diggin [1981] RTR 83, CA.

6 In relation to the former offence of taking and driving away (ie the Road Traffic Act 1960 s 217 (repealed)) it was held that merely releasing the brake of a lorry, so that it ran away without a driver, did not constitute 'taking and driving away': R v Roberts [1965] 1 QB 85, [1964] 2 All ER 541, CCA.

7 There must be some movement of the conveyance for the defendant to be carried in it: R v Diggin [1981] RTR 83, CA. See also R v Miller [1976] Crim LR 147. If the driver tells a hitch-hiker that he is using his employer's van, contrary to the employer's instructions, to go to Blackpool for the day, then the hitch-hiker will be liable if he allows himself to be carried further: Boldizar v Knight [1980] Crim LR 653, DC (though such a requirement to dissociate from the driver upon learning that the conveyance had been taken without consent was doubted in R v Diggin supra at 86 per Boreham J).

8 Theft Act 1968 s 12(1). This is expressed to be subject to s 12(5) (as amended) and s 12(6). A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale, or to both: s 12(2) (amended by the Criminal Justice Act 1988 s 37(1)). Disqualification is discretionary: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34 (as amended: see PARA 1061 post), Sch 2 Pt II (entry amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 83, Sch 8). As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. As to disqualification see PARA 1057 et seq post.

If on the trial of an indictment for theft the jury is not satisfied that the accused committed theft, but it is proved that the accused committed an offence under the Theft Act 1968 s 12(1), the jury may find him guilty of the offence under s 12(1) and if he is found guilty of it, he is liable as he would have been liable under s 12(2) (as amended) on summary conviction: s 12(4) (amended by the Criminal Justice Act 1988 s 37(1)).

Proceedings for an offence under the Theft Act 1968 s 12(1) (but not proceedings of a kind falling within s 12(4) (as amended)) in relation to a mechanically propelled vehicle: (1) must not be commenced after the end of the period of three years beginning with the day on which the offence was committed; but (2) subject to that, may be commenced at any time within the period of six months beginning with the relevant day: s 12(4A) (s 12(4A)-(4C) added by the Vehicles (Crime) Act 2001 s 37(1)). For these purposes, 'the relevant day' means: (a) in the case of a prosecution for an offence under the Theft Act 1968 s 12(1) by a public prosecutor, the day on which sufficient evidence to justify the proceedings came to the knowledge of any person responsible for deciding whether to commence any such prosecution; (b) in the case of a prosecution for an offence under s 12(1) which is commenced by a person other than a public prosecutor after the discontinuance of a prosecution falling within head (a) supra which relates to the same facts, the day on which sufficient evidence to justify the proceedings came to the knowledge of the person who has decided to commence the prosecution or (if later) the discontinuance of the other prosecution; (c) in the case of any other prosecution for an offence under s 12(1), the day on which sufficient evidence to justify the proceedings came to the knowledge of the person who has decided to commence the prosecution: s 12(4B) (as so added). For the purposes of head (2) supra a certificate of a person responsible for deciding whether to commence a prosecution of a kind mentioned in head (a) supra as to the date on which such evidence as is mentioned in the certificate came to the knowledge of any person responsible for deciding whether to commence any such prosecution is conclusive evidence of that fact: s 12(4C) (as so added).

9 Ibid s 12(5). A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: s 12(5) (amended by virtue of the Criminal Justice Act 1982 ss 37, 38, 46).

10 The issue is whether the defendant has a genuine belief that he was driving the vehicle with the consent of the owner; it is irrelevant whether the owner did in fact consent or would have consented if he had known that the defendant was uninsured: R v Clotworthy [1981] RTR 477, CA. Where the issue arises, the onus of disproving belief of lawful authority is upon the prosecution: R v McPherson [1973] RTR 157, CA; R v Gannon [1988] RTR 49, CA.

11 Theft Act 1968 s 12(6).

12 See ibid s 25(1), (5) (as amended); and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 296. Disqualification is discretionary: see the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 Sch 2 Pt II (entry amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 Sch 8).

963-1022 Offences and Penalties

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131; VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(viii) Taking Conveyances without Authority; Theft/1009. Aggravated vehicle-taking.

1009. Aggravated vehicle-taking.

A person is guilty of aggravated taking of a vehicle<sup>1</sup> if, without having the consent of the owner or other lawful authority, he takes any mechanically propelled vehicle<sup>2</sup> for his own or another's use or, knowing that any conveyance has been taken without such authority, drives it or allows himself to be carried in or on it<sup>3</sup>, and it is proved that, at any time after the vehicle was unlawfully taken (whether by him or another) and before it was recovered<sup>4</sup>, the vehicle was driven, or injury or damage was caused, in any of the following circumstances<sup>5</sup>. The circumstances are that:

- 916 (1) the vehicle was driven dangerously<sup>6</sup> on a road or other public place<sup>7</sup>;
- 917 (2) owing to the driving of the vehicle, an accident occurred by which injury was caused to any person<sup>8</sup>;
- 918 (3) owing to the driving of the vehicle, an accident occurred by which damage was caused to any property, other than the vehicle<sup>9</sup>; or
- 919 (4) damage<sup>10</sup> was caused to the vehicle<sup>11</sup>.

A person does not commit an offence of aggravated taking of a motor vehicle if he proves that, as regards any proven driving, injury or damage as is referred to in heads (1) to (4) above, either the driving, accident or damage occurred before he committed the basic offence; or he was neither in nor on nor in the immediate vicinity of the vehicle when that driving, accident or damage occurred<sup>12</sup>.

A person guilty of an offence under these provisions is liable on conviction to a penalty<sup>13</sup>.

1 If a person charged with aggravated vehicle-taking under the Theft Act 1968 s 12A (as added) is found not guilty of that offence, but it is proved that he committed the basic offence under s 12(1) (see PARA 1008 ante), he may be convicted of the basic offence and is liable to the same penalties as apply on summary conviction: see s 12A(5), (6) (s 12A added by the Aggravated Vehicle-Taking Act 1992 s 1(1)).

The offence of aggravated vehicle-taking is triable either way except where the only alleged aggravating circumstance is damage, whether to the vehicle or other property or both, and the total value of the damage alleged to have been caused does not exceed £5,000: see the Magistrates Courts Act 1980 ss 17, 22 (as amended), Schs 1, 2 (as amended); and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 655, 661.

2 As to the meaning of 'mechanically propelled vehicle' see PARA 211 ante. Cf the definition of 'conveyance' in the Theft Act 1968 s 12 (as amended) (see PARA 1008 note 4 ante).

3 Is an offence under ibid s 12(1): see PARA 1008 ante.

4 For these purposes a vehicle is recovered when it is restored to its owner or to other lawful possession or custody: ibid s 12A(8) (as added: see note 1 supra). For the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 1008 note 2 ante; definition applied by s 12A(8) (as so added).

5 Ibid s 12A(1) (as added: see note 1 supra). This is expressed to be subject to s 12A(3) (as added).

6 For these purposes a vehicle is driven dangerously if: (1) it is driven in a way which falls far below what would be expected of a competent and careful driver; and (2) it would be obvious to a competent and careful driver that driving the vehicle in that way would be dangerous: ibid s 12A(7) (as added: see note 1 supra). As to the meaning of 'dangerously' see further PARA 965 ante.

7 Ibid s 12A(2)(a) (as added: see note 1 supra).

8 Ibid s 12A(2)(b) (as added: see note 1 supra). These words do not import a requirement of fault in the driving of the vehicle; the driving need only be a cause of the accident: R v Marsh [1997] 1 Cr App Rep 67, [1997] RTR 195, CA.

9 Theft Act 1968 s 12A(2)(c) (as added: see note 1 supra).

10 This includes damage caused by the defendant in an attempt to escape from the vehicle: Dawes v DPP [1995] 1 Cr App Rep 65, [1994] RTR 209, DC. The position may be otherwise if the person attempting to escape was at the time being unlawfully detained because of the provisions of the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 28(1) (see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 931): Dawes v DPP supra.

11 Theft Act 1968 s 12A(2)(d) (as added: see note 1 supra).

12 Ibid s 12A(3) (as added: see note 1 supra).

13 On conviction on indictment a person is liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or, if it is proved that, in the circumstances falling within head (2) in the text, the accident caused the death of the person concerned, 14 years: ibid s 12A(4) (as added (see note 1 supra); and amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 285(1)). As a result of the different maximum penalties the Theft Act 1968 s 12A (as added and amended) creates two offences: R v Sherwood [1995] RTR 60, CA. It is not sufficient to find that the facts necessary to establish the more serious offence have been proved if the indictment itself does not set out those facts: R v Sherwood supra. The offence of aggravated vehicle-taking carries obligatory disqualification and endorsement; and 3-11 penalty points may be attributed if, for special reasons, the offender is ordered not to be disqualified: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34 (as amended) (see PARA 1061 post), Sch 2 Pt II (entry added by the Aggravated Vehicle-Taking Act 1992 s 3(1)). Where a person is convicted of an offence under the Theft Act 1968 s 12A (as added), the fact that he did not drive the vehicle in question at any particular time or at all cannot amount to a special reason for him not to be disqualified: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(1A) (added by the Aggravated Vehicle-Taking Act 1992 s 3(2)). It is not appropriate, in the case of a passenger, to order an extended driving test: R v Bradshaw (1994) Times, 31 December; R v Wiggins (2000) Times, 23 June, CA. The provisions of the Theft Act 1968 s 12A(4) (as added) are without prejudice to the operation of: (1) the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 163 (under which the Crown Court has a general power to fine an offender convicted on indictment); and (2) the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 17, Sch 1 (as amended) (see MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 655) (under which, with certain exceptions not material to the Theft Act 1968 s 12A (as added), offences under the Theft Act 1968 are triable either way): Aggravated Vehicle-Taking Act 1992 s 1(2) (amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 304, Sch 32 Pt 1 para 65). Nothing in the Theft Act 1968 s 12A (as added) applies to: (a) an offence under s 12(1) which was committed before 25 August 2000; or (b) any driving, injury or damage which occurred before that date: Aggravated Vehicle-Taking Act 1992 s 1(3).

On summary conviction a person is liable to a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months or a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum or to both: see the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 32 (as amended), Sch 1; and MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 656. As to the statutory maximum see PARA 359 note 11 ante. Where the offence of aggravated vehicle-taking is triable only summarily (see note 1 supra) the restriction on the maximum penalty to a term of imprisonment not exceeding three months or a fine not exceeding level 4 on the standard scale or both does not apply: see s 33(1), (3) (s 33(1) amended by the Criminal Justice Act 1991 s 17(3)(b), Sch 4 Pt II; and the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 33(1), (3) amended by the Aggravated Vehicle-Taking Act 1992 s 2(3)). As from a day to be appointed, the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 33(1) (as amended) is further amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 ss 41, 304, 332, Sch 3 Pt I paras 1, 13, Sch 32 Pt 1 paras 25, 27, Sch 37 Pt 4 so as to refer to '51 weeks' instead of 'three months'. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. See MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 661.

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) OFFENCES AND PENALTIES/(x) Forgery and False Statements/1012. Forgery of documents.

(x) Forgery and False Statements

1012. Forgery of documents.

A person who, with intent to deceive<sup>1</sup>:

- 925 (1) forges<sup>2</sup>, alters or uses<sup>3</sup> any of the documents or other things listed in heads (a) to (n) below<sup>4</sup>; or
- 926 (2) lends to, or allows to be used by, any other person any of those documents or other things<sup>5</sup>; or
- 927 (3) makes or has in his possession any document or other thing so closely resembling any of the documents or other things listed in heads (a) to (n) below as to be calculated to deceive<sup>6</sup>, is guilty of an offence<sup>7</sup>. The documents and other things referred to are:

- 928 (a) a licence under any part of the Road Traffic Act 1988 or, in the case of a licence to drive, any counterpart<sup>8</sup> of such a licence<sup>9</sup>;
- 929 (b) any counterpart of a Northern Ireland licence or Community licence<sup>10</sup>;
- 930 (c) any test certificate<sup>11</sup>, goods vehicle test certificate<sup>12</sup>, plating certificate<sup>13</sup>, certificate of conformity<sup>14</sup> or Minister's approval certificate<sup>15</sup>;
- 931 (d) any certificate required as a condition of any exception<sup>16</sup> to the wearing of seat belts<sup>17</sup>;
- 932 (e) any seal required by regulations made with respect to speed limiters<sup>18</sup>;
- 933 (f) any goods vehicle plate<sup>19</sup>;
- 934 (g) any document concerning the appointment of a vehicle examiner<sup>20</sup>;
- 935 (h) any operators' records required to be kept<sup>21</sup>;
- 936 (i) any document issued<sup>22</sup> as evidence of the result of a test of competence to drive<sup>23</sup>;
- 937 (j) any document evidencing the successful completion of a driver training course<sup>24</sup>;
- 938 (k) any driving instructor's badge or certificate<sup>25</sup>;
- 939 (l) specified certificates of insurance or surety<sup>26</sup>;
- 940 (m) any international road haulage permit<sup>27</sup>; and 941 (n) any certificate of successful completion of a drink-drive offenders' course<sup>28</sup>.

1 'To deceive' means to use a deceit which induces a state of mind: Welham v DPP [1961] AC 103, [1960] 1 All ER 805, HL. The fact that a document is invalid does not prevent its being used to deceive: R v Cleghorn [1938] 3 All ER 398, CCA. See also CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 310.

2 In the application of this provision to England and Wales, 'forges' means makes a false document or other thing that it may be used as genuine: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(3).

3 A person is guilty of 'using' even if the document in question is a forgery and incomplete: R v Pilditch [1981] RTR 303, [1981] Crim LR 184, CA. The production and handing over of a driving licence to the police is not use with intent to deceive where the request to produce is unconnected with driving on the road: R v Howe [1982] RTR 45, CA.

4 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(1)(a). See note 8 infra. As to the documents and things see heads (a)-(n) in the text. As from a day to be appointed a new category (o) is added, referring to any document produced as evidence of the passing of an appropriate driving test within the meaning of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36 (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 1071 post): Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(2)(n) (added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 37(8)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

5 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(1)(b). See note 8 infra.

6 Ibid s 173(1)(c). See note 8 infra. As to the meaning of 'calculated to deceive' see R v Cleghorn [1938] 3 All ER 398, CCA (offence committed by use of a certificate of insurance no longer valid due to cancellation of the policy).

7 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(1). A person guilty of such an offence is liable on conviction on indictment to a term of imprisonment not exceeding two years, or on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (entry amended by the Driving Licences (Community Driving Licence) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1974, reg 3, Sch 2 para (h); and prospectively amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 3 para 63(1), (4), Sch 7). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 359 note 11 ante. As to the prosecution of offences see PARA 1027 post; and as to legal proceedings generally see PARA 1023 et seq post.

The provisions of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(1)(a), (b) and (c) create three separate offences; therefore a charge under s 173(1)(a) cannot cover a forged document which has never been an international road haulage permit, but has only resembled such a permit: Holloway v Brown [1978] RTR 537, DC.

8 For the meaning of 'counterpart' see PARA 415 note 19 ante; definition applied by the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(4) (added by the Driving Licences (Community Driving Licence) Regulations 1990, SI 1990/144, reg 2(1), Sch 1 para 11(b); and substituted by the Driving Licences (Community Driving Licence) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1974, reg 2, Sch 1 para 32(3)). This provision is repealed, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 ss 10(12), 59, Sch 3 paras 2, 28(1), (3), Sch 7. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

9 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(2)(a) (amended by the Driving Licences (Community Driving Licence) Regulations 1990, SI 1990/144, Sch 1 para 11(a)). As from a day to be appointed, this provision is amended so as to remove the reference to a counterpart of a licence to drive: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(2)(a) (amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 3 para 28(2)(a), Sch 7). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

10 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(2)(aa) (added by the Driving Licences (Community Driving Licence) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1974, Sch 1 para 32(2); and amended by the Crime (International Co-operation) Act 2003 s 91(1), Sch 5 paras 17, 29(a)). This provision is repealed, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 3 para 28(2)(b), Sch 7. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. For the meaning of 'Community licence' see PARA 415 note 16 ante; definition applied by the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(4) (as added and substituted: see note 8 supra). See PARA 484 ante.

This provision refers to any certificate under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 133A (as added) (see PARA 433 ante) or any badge or certificate prescribed by regulations made by virtue of s 135 (see PARA 418 ante).

As from a day to be appointed, head (k) in the text is substituted so as to refer to any document evidencing the passing of a required examination (or part of an examination) or the successful completion of training, or any certificate: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 173(2)(g), (ga), (gb) (s 173(2)(g) substituted, and s 173(2)(ga), (gb) added, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 42, Sch 6 paras 1, 27). ### 1023-1042 Application of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 to the Crown ... Admissibility of evidence in relation to speeding offences etc

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(i) In general/1024. Community licence holders.

1024. Community licence holders.

Certain provisions of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 apply to Community licence holders<sup>1</sup>.

Where a court orders the endorsement<sup>2</sup> of the counterpart of any Community licence held by a person, it must send notice of the endorsement to the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup>. Where a court orders the holder of a Community licence to be disqualified<sup>4</sup>, it must send the Community licence and its counterpart (if any), on their being produced to the court, to the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup>.

Where a Community licence held by a person who is ordered by the court to be disqualified is sent to the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup>, the Secretary of State<sup>7</sup>:

- 954 (1) must send to the licensing authority in the EEA state<sup>8</sup> in respect of which the Community licence was issued the holder's name and address and particulars of the disqualification<sup>9</sup>; and
- 955 (2) must return the Community licence to the holder on: (a) the expiry of the period of disqualification<sup>10</sup>; or (b) if earlier, on being satisfied that the holder has left Great Britain and is not normally resident there<sup>11</sup>.

Where the Secretary of State would, apart from this provision, be under a duty on the expiry of the period of disqualification to return a Community licence to a person in pursuance of head (2)(a) above<sup>12</sup>, but at that time the person would not be authorised<sup>13</sup> to drive in Great Britain a motor vehicle of any class<sup>14</sup>, the Secretary of State must send the Community licence to the licensing authority in the EEA state in respect of which it was issued and explain to it his reasons for so doing<sup>15</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'Community licence' see PARA 415 note 16 ante; definition applied by the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 98(1) (definition added by the Driving Licences (Community Driving Licence) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1974, reg 3, Sch 2 para 6(a)(ii)). Until a day to be appointed, a Community licence and its counterpart (if any) sent in pursuance of s 91A(5) (as added; prospectively amended) must be sent to such address as the Secretary of State may determine: s 91A(6) (as so added; prospectively repealed (see note 3 supra)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

As from a day to be appointed, where a Community licence has been sent to the Secretary of State in pursuance of s 91A(5) (as added; prospectively amended), he must return the Community licence to the holder on the expiry of the period of disqualification or, if earlier, on being satisfied that the holder has left Great Britain and is not normally resident there: s 91A(7) (added by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 3 para 59(6)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

6 le in pursuance of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 91A(5) (as added).

9 Ibid s 91A(7)(a) (as added: see note 1 supra).

10 Ibid s 91A(7)(b)(i) (as added: see note 1 supra). 'Period of disqualification' means, in relation to a Community licence holder, the period for which he is ordered by the court to be disqualified (otherwise than under s 36 (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 1071 post)): s 91A(10) (as so added). ### 1023-1042 Application of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 to the Crown ... Admissibility of evidence in relation to speeding offences etc

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

1025 Northern Ireland licence holders

NOTE 1--Day appointed in relation to Road Safety Act 2006 s 9, Sch 2 is 1 April 2009: SI 2008/3164.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(i) In general/1026. Duty to give information as to identity of driver etc in certain circumstances.

1026. Duty to give information as to identity of driver etc in certain circumstances.

Where the driver<sup>1</sup> of a vehicle is alleged to be guilty of any of certain offences<sup>2</sup> then:

- 956 (1) the person keeping the vehicle must give such information as to the identity of the driver as he may be required to give by or on behalf of a chief officer of police<sup>3</sup>; and
- 957 (2) any other person<sup>4</sup> must, if required as stated above, give any information which it is in his power to give and may lead to identification of the driver<sup>5</sup>.

A person who fails to comply with such a requirement is guilty of an offence<sup>6</sup>. A person is not, however, guilty of an offence by virtue of head (1) above if he shows that he did not know, and could not with reasonable diligence have ascertained, who the driver of the vehicle was<sup>7</sup>.

Where a body corporate is guilty of such an offence and the offence is proved to have been committed with the consent or connivance of, or to be attributable to neglect on the part of, a director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate, or a person who was purporting to act in any such capacity, he, as well as the body corporate, is guilty of that offence and liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly<sup>8</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'driver' see PARA 207 ante. For these purposes, references to the driver of a vehicle include references to the rider of a cycle: Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(10) (s 172 substituted by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 21). For the meaning of 'cycle' see PARA 409 note 3 ante.

2 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(2) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). The provisions of s 172 (as substituted) apply to:

- 1509 (1) any offence under ss 1-171 (as amended) except: (a) an offence under Pt V (ss 123-142) (as amended); or (b) an offence under s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 993 ante), s 16 (see PARA 639 ante), s 51(2) (see PARA 679 ante), s 61(4) (see PARA 711 ante), s 67(9) (see PARA 684 ante), s 68(4) (see PARA 686 ante), s 96 (see PARA 461 ante) or s 120 (as substituted) (see PARA 488 ante) (see s 172(1)(a) (as substituted: see note 1 supra));
- 1510 (2) any offence under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 25 (as amended), s 26 (as substituted and amended) or s 27 (as amended) (see PARAS 1045-1047 post) (see the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(1)(b) (as so substituted));
- 1511 (3) any offence against any other enactment relating to the use of vehicles on roads (see s 172(1)(c) (as so substituted; and amended by the Statute Law (Repeals) Act 2004)); and
- 1512 (4) manslaughter by the driver of a motor vehicle (see the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(1)(d) (as so substituted)).

As to manslaughter see PARA 966 ante. For the meaning of 'motor vehicle' see PARA 210 ante.

3 Ibid s 172(2)(a) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). See also note 5 infra. As to chief officers of police see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 165, 178 et seq. The obligation is a personal one, and disclosure by the defendant's solicitor may not be sufficient: see Hodgson v Burn (1966) 110 Sol Jo 151, DC. Although no time limit is specified, the information must be provided forthwith or within a reasonable time: Lowe v Lester [1987] RTR 30, DC. As long as the requirement to give information is reasonable, it is lawful: Boss v Measures (1989) 87 LGR 667, [1990] RTR 26, DC. See Jones v DPP [2004] EWHC 236 (Admin), [2004] RTR 331, DC (police stipulated form for the purposes of seeking information; defendant answered by signed letter which included all information which form had required; defendant had complied with the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(2)(a) (as substituted)). A chief officer of police is entitled to require that the person keeping the vehicle signs the information provided: Francis v DPP [2004] EWHC 591 (Admin), 168 JP 492, DC. Where applicants claimed that under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(2)(a) they had been subjected to compulsion to give incriminating evidence in violation of the right to remain silent and the privilege against self-incrimination in contravention of the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953); Cmd 8969) art 6 (see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 142), it was held that there had been no such violation: O'Halloran v United Kingdom [2007] All ER (D) 07 (Jul), ECtHR (the right to remain silent and the right not to incriminate oneself are not absolute rights; the right to require an actual or potential suspect to provide information which contributed or might contribute to his conviction would not automatically result in a violation of the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms art 6; the right to a fair trial is an unqualified right, but what constitutes a fair trial depends on the circumstances).

A requirement under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(2) (as substituted) may be made by written notice served by post; and, where it is so made: (1) it has effect as a requirement to give the information within the period of 28 days beginning with the day on which the notice is served; and (2) the person on whom the notice is served is not guilty of an offence under s 172 (as substituted and amended) if he shows either that he gave the information as soon as reasonably practicable after the end of that period or that it has not been reasonably practicable for him to give it: s 172(7) (as so substituted). Where the person on whom a notice under s 172(7) (as substituted) is to be served is a body corporate, the notice is duly served if it is served on the secretary or clerk of that body: s 172(8) (as so substituted).

For the purposes of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 7 (see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1388) as it applies for the purposes of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172 (as substituted and amended), the proper address of any person in relation to the service on him of a notice under s 172(7) (as substituted) is: (a) in the case of the secretary or clerk of a body corporate, that of the registered or principal office of that body or (if the body corporate is the registered keeper of the vehicle concerned) the registered address; and (b) in any other case, his last known address at the time of service: s 172(9) (as so substituted). For these purposes, 'registered address', in relation to the registered keeper of a vehicle, means the address recorded in the record kept under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 (see PARA 518 et seq ante) with respect to that vehicle as being that person's address; and 'registered keeper', in relation to a vehicle, means the person in whose name the vehicle is registered under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 (see PARA 519 ante): Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(10) (as so substituted; and amended by the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 63, Sch 3 para 24(1)).

4 'Any other person' includes the driver (Bingham v Bruce [1962] 1 All ER 136, [1962] 1 WLR 70, DC) and a doctor who has obtained information in his professional capacity (Hunter v Mann [1974] QB 767, [1974] 2 All ER 414, DC). The police are not bound first to specify the nature of the offence: Pulton v Leader [1949] 2 All ER 747, DC. The use in criminal proceedings of evidence that a driver is obliged to give under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172 (as substituted and amended) does not infringe his privilege against self-incrimination: DPP v Wilson [2001] EWHC Admin 198, 165 JP 715, DC. See PARA 1036 note 7 post.

5 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(2)(a) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). Before the answer to a request for such information is admissible, the prosecution must prove that the person requesting the information was specifically authorised: Foster v Farrell 1963 SLT 182; Osgerby v Walden [1967] Crim LR 301, DC. There must be proof that the request for information was made by or on behalf of a chief officer of police: Record Tower Cranes Ltd v Gisbey [1969] 1 All ER 418, [1969] 1 WLR 148, DC (distinguished in Nelms v Roe [1969] 3 All ER 1379, [1970] 1 WLR 4, DC).

The Secretary of State may make payments to police authorities in relation to the prevention, detection and enforcement of offences under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172 (as substituted): see the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 s 155.

6 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(3) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). This is expressed to be subject to s 172(4)-(10) (as substituted and amended). A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale; disqualification is discretionary if committed otherwise than by virtue of s 172(5) (as substituted) (see the text to note 8 infra); endorsement is obligatory if committed otherwise than by virtue of s 172(5) (as substituted); and 6 penalty points may be attributed: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 9, 28 (as substituted) (see PARA 1049 post), s 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (entry amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 26, Sch 2; and the Road Safety Act 2006 s 29). As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. An offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172 (as substituted) is a fixed penalty offence: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 51, Sch 3 (entry added by the Fixed Penalty Offences Order 2003, SI 2003/1253, art 2(3)(c)). As to the prosecution of offences see PARA 1027 post; as to disqualification see PARA 1057 et seq post; as to endorsement see PARA 1080 et seq post; as to penalty points see PARA 1048 et seq post; as to fixed penalty offences see PARA 1093 post; and as to fixed penalties generally see PARA 1089 et seq post. The obligation to provide information leading to the identification of a driver creates a single offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(3) (as substituted) even though the nature of the obligation varies: Mohindra v DPP, Browne v Chief Constable of Greater Manchester [2004] EWHC 490 (Admin), 168 JP 448.

7 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(4) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). See also note 8 infra. Before considering this defence the justices must first be satisfied that the vehicle involved is the defendant's vehicle: see Neal v Fior [1968] 3 All ER 865, [1968] 1 WLR 1875, DC. The prosecution is not required to prove the commission of an offence by the driver at the time and place of the complaint: Jacob v Garland [1974] RTR 40 DC.

8 Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172(5) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). Where the alleged offender is a body corporate, or the proceedings are brought against him by virtue of s 172(5) (as substituted), the provisions of s 172(4) (as substituted) (see the text to note 7 supra) do not apply unless, in addition to the matters there mentioned, the alleged offender shows that no record was kept of the persons who drove the vehicle and that the failure to keep a record was reasonable: s 172(6) (as so substituted).

1027. Pleading by post.

The duty of the Director of Public Prosecutions<sup>1</sup> to take over the conduct of all criminal proceedings instituted on behalf of a police force does not apply to specified proceedings<sup>2</sup> which are commenced, so as to give the accused the opportunity of pleading by post<sup>3</sup>.

1 As to the Director of Public Prosecutions see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1066, 1079 et seq.

2 'Specified proceedings' means proceedings which fall within any category for the time being specified by order made by the Attorney General for these purposes: Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 s 3(3). As to the Attorney General see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1065. In exercise of this power, the Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 (Specified Proceedings) Order 1999, SI 1999/904, has been made. The following offences are specified for the purposes of the Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 s 3 (as amended):

1513 (1) fixed penalty offences within the meaning of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 51(1) (see PARA 1093 post) (Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 (Specified Proceedings) Order 1999, SI 1999/904, art 3, Schedule para 1);

1514 (2) the offences under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29(1) (see CUSTOMS AND EXCISE vol 12(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 777) (Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 (Specified Proceedings) Order 1999, SI 1999/904, Schedule para 2);

1515 (3) the offences under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 17(2) (see PARA 640 ante), s 18(3) (see PARA 641 ante), s 24(3) (see PARA 1002 ante), s 26(1), (2) (see PARA 1004 ante), s 29 (as amended) (see PARA 973 ante), s 31(1) (see PARA 995 ante), s 42(b) (as substituted) (see PARA 265 ante), s 47(1) (see PARA 657 ante), s 87(2) (as amended) (see PARA 444 ante), s 143 (as amended) (see PARA 937 ante), s 164(6), (9) (s 164(6) as amended) (see PARA 647 ante), s 165(3), (6) (see PARA 648 ante), s 168 (as amended) (see PARA 968 ante) and s 172(3) (as substituted) (see PARA 1026 ante) (Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 (Specified Proceedings) Order 1999, SI 1999/904, Schedule para 3);

1516 (4) all offences under the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 other than those under s 35A(2) (as added) (see PARA 791 ante), s 43(5), (12) (s 43(5) as amended) (see PARAS 799-800 ante), s 47(3) (as amended) (see PARA 812 ante), s 52(1) (see PARA 816 ante), s 108(3) (see PARA 885 ante), s 115(1), (2) (s 115(1) as substituted) (see PARA 861 ante), s 116(1) (see PARA 861 ante) and s 129(3) (repealed) or those mentioned in head (1) supra (Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 (Specified Proceedings) Order 1999, SI 1999/904, Schedule para 4); and 1517 (5) the offences arising by contravention of the Royal Parks and Other Open Spaces Regulations 1997, SI 1997/1639, reg 3(9)(a) (involving a pedal cycle), reg 3(9)(b) and reg 4(27), (28) and (30) (Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 (Specified Proceedings) Order 1999, SI 1999/904, Schedule para 5).

Where a summons has been issued in respect of an offence mentioned in heads (1)-(5) supra, proceedings for that offence cease to be specified for the purposes of the Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 s 3 (as amended) when the summons is served on the accused unless the documents described in the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 12(3)(b) (as substituted) (pleading guilty by post, etc) (see MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 705) are served upon the accused with the summons: Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 (Specified Proceedings) Order 1999, SI 1999/904, reg 3(2). Proceedings for an offence also cease to be specified if at any time a magistrates' court begins to receive evidence in those proceedings; and for the purpose of this provision nothing read out before the court under the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 12(7) (as substituted and amended) (see MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 706) is to be regarded as evidence: Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 (Specified Proceedings) Order 1999, SI 1999/904, reg 3(3).

3 See the Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 s 3(2)(a); the Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 (Specified Proceedings) Order 1999, SI 1999/904, reg 3; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1080.

1023-1042 Application of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 to the Crown ... Admissibility of evidence in relation to speeding offences etc

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(ii) Trial/A. IN GENERAL/1028. Requirement of warning of intended prosecution.

(ii) Trial

A. IN GENERAL

1028. Requirement of warning of intended prosecution.

- 958 (1) he was warned<sup>3</sup> at the time the offence was committed<sup>4</sup> that the question of prosecuting him for some one or other of the specified offences would be taken into consideration<sup>5</sup>; or
- 959 (2) within 14 days of the commission of the offence a summons for the offence was served on him<sup>6</sup>; or
- 960 (3) within 14 days of the commission of the offence a notice of the intended<sup>7</sup> prosecution specifying the nature of the alleged offence<sup>8</sup>, and the time and place where it is alleged to have been committed<sup>9</sup>, was: (a) in the case of cycling offences<sup>10</sup>, served on him<sup>11</sup>; or (b) in the case of any other offence, served on him or on the person, if any, registered as the keeper of the vehicle at the time of the commission of the offence<sup>12</sup>.

A notice required by the above provisions to be served on any person may be served on that person by delivering it to him<sup>13</sup>, by addressing it to him and leaving it at his last known address<sup>14</sup>, or by sending it by registered post, recorded delivery service or first class post addressed to him at his last known address<sup>15</sup>. A notice is deemed for the purposes of head (3) above to have been served on a person if it was sent by registered post or recorded delivery service addressed to him at his last known address, notwithstanding that the notice was returned as undelivered or was for any other reason not received by him<sup>16</sup>.

The requirement to give notice of intended prosecution is in every case deemed to have been complied with unless and until the contrary is proved<sup>17</sup>.

The requirement to give notice of intended prosecution does not apply in relation to an offence if, at the time of the offence or immediately after it, an accident<sup>18</sup> occurs owing to the presence on a road<sup>19</sup> of the vehicle in respect of which the offence was committed<sup>20</sup>.

The requirement to give notice of intended prosecution also does not apply in relation to an offence in respect of which a fixed penalty notice has been given or fixed<sup>21</sup>, or a notice of an on the spot fine has been given<sup>22</sup>.

Failure to comply with the requirement to give notice of intended prosecution is not a bar to the conviction of the accused in a case where the court<sup>23</sup> is satisfied<sup>24</sup> that neither the name and address of the accused nor the name and address of the registered keeper<sup>25</sup>, if any, could with reasonable diligence<sup>26</sup> have been ascertained in time for a summons or, as the case may be, a complaint to be served or for a notice to be served or sent<sup>27</sup>, or that the accused by his own conduct contributed to the failure<sup>28</sup>.

Failure to comply with the requirement to give notice of intended prosecution is not a bar to a conviction in respect of an alternative offence<sup>29</sup>.

1 The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1 (as amended) applies to the offences specified for that purpose in s 1(4), Sch 1 (as amended), namely:

- 1518 (1) dangerous driving (see the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 2 (as substituted); and PARA 964 ante);
- 1519 (2) careless, and inconsiderate, driving (see s 3 (as substituted); and PARA 971 ante);
- 1520 (3) leaving vehicles in dangerous positions (see s 22 (as amended); and PARA 999 ante);
- 1521 (4) dangerous cycling (see s 28 (as substituted); and PARA 967 ante);
- 1522 (5) careless, and inconsiderate, cycling (see s 29 (as amended); and PARA 973 ante);
- 1523 (6) failing to comply with traffic directions (see s 35; and PARA 642 ante); and
- 1524 (7) failing to comply with traffic signs (see s 36 (as amended); and PARA 643 ante).

The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1 (as amended) also applies to the offences specified in Sch 1 para 1A (added by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 22, Sch 1 para 2), namely:

- 1525 (a) an offence under the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 s 16 (as amended) consisting in the contravention of a temporary restriction on the speed of vehicles imposed under s 14 (as substituted) (see PARA 757 ante);
- 1526 (b) an offence under s 17(4) consisting in the contravention of a restriction on the speed of vehicles on a special road imposed under s 17 (see PARA 764 ante); and
- 1527 (c) an offence under s 88(7) (contravention of minimum speed limit) (see PARA 855 ante) or s 89(1) (exceeding the speed limit) (see PARA 856 ante).

The provisions of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1 (as amended) do not apply to any other offences however akin they be to any of the offences specified above: see Sulston v Hammond [1970] 1 WLR 1164, [1970] RTR 361, DC.

2 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(1) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 48, Sch 4 para 80).

3 The warning may be oral or written, but if given orally the warning must get through and it is open to the defendant to prove, if he can, that he did not understand or hear or appreciate the warning and therefore that he was not warned, and if the issue is raised it is a question of fact for the court to determine whether or not he was warned: Gibson v Dalton [1980] RTR 415, DC. See also Offen v Ranson [1980] RTR 484, DC. In determining the sufficiency of the content of the warning, each case will turn on its own facts: see eg Jessopp v Clarke (1908) 72 JP 358; Parkes v Cole (1922) 86 JP 122; Alston v Nurse (17 March 1933, unreported); Watt v Smith 1942 JC 109.

4 'At the time the offence was committed' is not to be limited to a particular point in time; in every case the question is one of fact and degree and the test is one of reasonableness, whether or not the chain of circumstances was unbroken and whether or not all that took place was connected with the incident: R v Stacey [1982] RTR 20, CA (warning given just under three hours after the offence was not unreasonable in the circumstances of that particular case). See also Jefferies v Wells (1936) 100 JP 406; Jollye v Dale [1960] 2 QB 258, [1960] 2 All ER 369; Sinclair v Clark [1962] Crim LR 777; Shield v Crighton [1974] Crim LR 605, [1978] RTR 494n, DC; R v Okike [1978] RTR 489, CA.

5 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(1)(a).

6 Ibid s 1(1)(b). The general rule in cases where an act is to be done within a specified period is that the day from which it runs is not to be counted (see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1441) (this rule was applied in Stewart v Chapman [1951] 2 KB 792, [1951] 2 All ER 613 to a notice served under what is now the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1 (as amended)) and the full period up to midnight on the last day is available (Manorlike Ltd v Le Vitas Travel Agency and Consultancy Services Ltd [1986] 1 All ER 573, CA). See also note 16 infra.

7 If a person is charged within 14 days and given a copy of the charge, the requirement to give notice of intended prosecution is satisfied: Sage v Townsend (1986) Times, 27 May. In other cases, it is sufficient if the notice states that a prosecution is being considered; it need not show an irrevocable intention to prosecute: Milner v Allen [1933] 1 KB 698, DC. If notice of intended prosecution has been given a prosecution may be validly brought even if, after sending the notice, the police wrote to the defendant stating that proceedings would not be instituted against him: Lund v Thompson [1959] 1 QB 283, [1958] 3 All ER 356.

8 A warning or a notice of an allegation of dangerous driving is a sufficient warning or notice when proceedings are later taken for driving without due care and attention; it is the 'nature' and not the 'particulars' of the offence that must be specified: Milner v Allen [1933] 1 KB 698, DC. The notice may identify the offence merely by reference to the section number: Venn v Morgan [1949] 2 All ER 562, DC. See also Harris v Dudding [1954] Crim LR 796. The object is to call the driver's attention to the time and circumstances in respect of which he may be charged so as to give him an opportunity in good time and while memories are still fresh to prepare his defence: Venn v Morgan supra; Pope v Clarke [1953] 2 All ER 704, [1953] 1 WLR 1060, DC.

9 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(1)(c). Whether the time and place are sufficiently stated is a question of fact and degree and the test appears to be whether the defendant was misled: Pope v Clarke [1953] 2 All ER 704, [1953] 1 WLR 1060 (notice stating 'pm' instead of 'am' valid); Goody v Fletcher [1962] Crim LR 324, DC (date one day out held not to invalidate the notice); Beresford v St Albans Justices (1905) 22 TLR 1, DC (notice valid where it gave an alleged speed between two places 20 miles apart; however, the relevant statutory provision did not require that the 'place' of the offence be specified). For examples of notices held to be deficient see Young v Day (1959) 123 JP 317, DC (notice specified a road that extended for four miles); R v Rowbotham [1960] Crim LR 429 (notice specified wrong parish). It has been stated that a notice misstating the place of the offence could be misleading: see Shield v Crighton [1974] Crim LR 605, [1978] RTR 494 at 497-498 obiter per Bridge J (however, in this case oral warning had been given at the time; therefore, the requirements of what is now the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1 (as amended) had been satisfied). See also R v Budd [1962] Crim LR 49, CCA.

10 Is an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 28 (as substituted) (see PARA 967 ante) or s 29 (as amended) (see PARA 973 ante).

11 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(1)(c)(i). Service on the defendant's wife at his address is good, it being within the scope of her authority to accept letters on his behalf: Burt v Kirkcaldy [1965] 1 All ER 741, [1965] 1 WLR 474, DC.

12 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(1)(c)(ii). See note 16 infra. As to the registration of vehicles see PARA 518 et seq ante.

13 Ibid s 1(1A)(a) (s 1(1A) added by the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 s 168(1), Sch 9 para 6(3)).

14 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(1A)(b) (as added: see note 13 supra).

15 Ibid s 1(1A)(c) (as added: see note 13 supra). As to the meaning of 'last known address' see Phipps v McCormick [1972] RTR 21, DC; Price v West London Investment Building Society Ltd [1964] 2 All ER 318, [1964] 1 WLR 616, CA (a case based on another statute).

16 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(2). The effect of this provision is that a notice sent as provided by s 1(1A)(c) (as added) is deemed to have been served if posted within 14 days of the offence, even if the notice was not in fact received within that period: see Groome v Driscoll [1969] 3 All ER 1638n, [1970] RTR 105. As to computing the 14-day period see note 6 supra. Notice is deemed to be given at the time when it would be delivered in the ordinary course of post and this must be within 14 days: Nicholson v Tapp [1972] 3 All ER 245, [1972] 1 WLR 1044. See also Stanley v Thomas [1939] 2 KB 462, [1939] 2 All ER 636, DC. Where the notice is sent by registered post and accepted by the defendant's wife who does not show it to him, there is sufficient service: Hosier v Goodall [1962] 2 QB 401, [1962] 1 All ER 30, DC; cf Layton v Shires [1960] 2 QB 294, [1959] 3 All ER 587, DC. Notice to a firm is not notice to a particular member of that firm, even though that member in fact receives it: Clarke v Mould [1945] 2 All ER 551, DC. As to service on a company see R v Bilton (1964) 108 Sol Jo 880, CCA. A minor misdescription of the name of the company will not invalidate the notice: see Rogerson v Edwards (1951) 49 LGR 358, 95 Sol Jo 172, DC; Springate v Questier [1952] 2 All ER 21, DC.

The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(2) prevents that presumption from being gainsaid by proof that the notice had not in fact been received within that period: Groome v Driscoll supra.

17 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(3). The point may be raised by the defendant at any stage during the proceedings: R v Edmonton Justices, ex p Brooks [1960] 2 All ER 475, [1960] 1 WLR 697. It is necessary for the defendant to establish non-compliance with each of the alternatives set out in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(1)(a)-(c) (see heads (1)-(3) in the text); this requires evidence from both the driver and the registered keeper (where they are different persons) that neither received notice: Sanders v Scott [1961] 2 QB 326, [1961] 2 All ER 403, DC; Archer v Blacker [1965] Crim LR 165, DC. A notice sent to the owner (now keeper) stating that he would be prosecuted, when the intention was to prosecute the driver, is good: Taylor v Campbell [1956] Crim LR 342, DC. As to errors in the notice see note 9 supra.

The defendant must prove non-compliance on a balance of probabilities; merely to raise a doubt in the minds of the justices is not enough: Offen v Ranson [1980] RTR 484.

18 As to evidence see Metropolitan Police v Scarlett [1978] Crim LR 234. This exemption applies only to an accident of which at the time the defendant was aware and so did not need a notice or warning to bring the circumstances likely to give rise to prosecution to mind: Bentley v Dickinson [1983] RTR 356, [1983] Crim LR 403, DC. Bentley v Dickinson supra, however, concerned a trivial accident and the rationale of the decision does not apply where the defendant was involved in a serious road traffic accident that rendered him unconscious for a number of days and without any recollection of the accident: DPP v Pidhajeckyj [1991] RTR 136, DC. Where there are issues of fact to be determined in order to decide whether there had been an accident for the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 2(1), they must be determined by the judge: R v Currie [2007] EWCA Crim 926, [2007] All ER (D) 233 (Apr).

19 As to the meaning of 'owing to the presence on a road of the vehicle' see Quelch v Phipps [1955] 2 QB 107, [1955] 2 All ER 302; and PARA 645 ante. For the meaning of 'road' see PARA 206 ante.

20 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 2(1). The policy behind s 2 is that drivers who have committed an offence in which their vehicle has been concerned in an accident need not be notified because the very fact that they have been involved is sufficient indication of the risk of prosecution; if there is a sufficient causal link between the accident and the presence on the road of his vehicle the defendant does not need to be warned: R v Myers [2007] EWCA Crim 599, [2007] All ER (D) 241 (Feb), CA.

21 See PARA 1093 et seq post.

22 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 2(2). As to such notices see PARA 1097 post.

23 'Court' here refers to the judge and not the jury: see R v Bolkis (1932) 24 Cr App Rep 19, CCA; R v Stacey [1982] RTR 20 at 26, CA, per Woolf J.

24 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 2(3).

25 If the name and address of either has been ascertained in time but no notice has been served or sent, there is a good defence under this provision: R v Bolkis (1932) 24 Cr App Rep 19, CCA.

26 The reasonable diligence is diligence on the part of the officer in the case: R v Bolkis (1932) 24 Cr App Rep 19, CCA. See also Clarke v Mould [1945] 2 All ER 551, DC (no lack of diligence in seeking information by telephone and being given wrong information by the licensing authority); Haughton v Harrison [1976] RTR 208, DC (police acted with reasonable diligence where they were given the wrong name of the registered keeper at the relevant time and accordingly the notice was sent to the wrong person at the wrong address). See also Carr v Harrison [1967] Crim LR 54, DC (police acted with reasonable diligence where they approached the licensing authority in good time and the latter was slow in supplying the information).

27 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 2(3)(a).

28 Ibid s 2(3)(b). Notice addressed to a firm is not notice to every individual in that firm, and where the owner caused the vehicle to be registered in the firm's name that was not conduct on his part contributing to the failure to comply with the requirement of notice of intended prosecution: Clarke v Mould [1945] 2 All ER 551, DC. Merely going away on holiday with no intent to evade service of the notice is not conduct on the defendant's part within this provision: Beer v Davies [1958] 2 QB 187, [1958] 2 All ER 255, DC; and see also Macleod v Anderson 1961 JC 32. See now, however, the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 1(2), under which posting a notice now suffices: see the text and note 16 supra.

29 Failure to comply with the requirement of ibid s 1(1) (as amended) in relation to an offence is not a bar to the conviction of a person of that offence by virtue of the provisions of s 24 (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 1044 post) or by virtue of any of the enactments mentioned in s 24(6) (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 1044 post); but a person is not to be convicted of an offence by virtue of any of those provisions if s 1 (as amended) applies to the offence with which he was charged and the requirement of s 1(1) (as amended) was not satisfied in relation to the offence charged: s 2(4) (substituted by the Road Traffic Act 1991 Sch 4 para 81).

1031. Time limits.

Summary proceedings for specified offences<sup>1</sup> may be brought<sup>2</sup> within a period of six months from the date on which evidence sufficient in the opinion of the prosecutor<sup>3</sup> to warrant the proceedings came to his knowledge<sup>4</sup>. No such proceedings can be brought by virtue of this provision more than three years after the commission of the offence<sup>5</sup>. For these purposes, a certificate signed by or on behalf of the prosecutor and stating the date on which evidence sufficient in his opinion to warrant the proceedings came to his knowledge is conclusive evidence of that fact<sup>6</sup>. A certificate stating that matter and purporting to be so signed is deemed to be so signed unless the contrary is proved<sup>7</sup>.

1528 (1) the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 92(10) (as added) (see PARA 455 ante) (driving after making false declaration as to physical fitness);

1531 (4) s 94A (as added and amended) (see PARA 463 ante) (driving after refusal of licence under s 92(3) (see PARA 455 ante), revocation under s 93 (as amended) (see PARA 456 ante) or service of a notice under s 99C (as added) (see PARA 475 ante) or s 109B (as added) (see PARA 484 ante));

1532 (5) as from a day to be appointed, s 98A(7) (prospectively added) (see PARA 467 ante) (driving licence holder failing to surrender licence and counterpart);

1533 (6) s 99(5) (as amended) (see PARA 471 ante) (driving licence holder failing to surrender licence and counterpart);

1534 (7) s 99B(11) (as added) (see PARA 474 ante) and s 99B(11) (as added) as applied by s 109A(5) (as added) (see PARA 484 ante) (driving after failure to comply with a requirement under s 99B(6), (7) or (10) (as added) (see PARA 474 ante) or a requirement under s 99B(6) or (7) as applied by s 109A(5) (as added));

1535 (8) s 103(1)(a) (as substituted) (see PARA 481 ante) (obtaining driving licence while disqualified);

- 1536 (9) s 103(1)(b) (as substituted) (see PARA 481 ante) (driving while disqualified);
- 1537 (10) s 143 (as amended) (see PARA 937 ante) (using motor vehicle, or causing or permitting it to be used, while uninsured or unsecured against third party risks);
- 1538 (11) as from a day to be appointed, s 144A (prospectively added) (see PARA 941 ante) (keeping vehicle which does not meet insurance requirements);
- 1539 (12) s 174(1) (as amended) or s 174(5) (see PARA 1013 ante) (making false statements in connection with licences under the Road Traffic Act 1988 and with registration as an approved driving instructor, or making false statement or withholding material information in order to obtain the issue of insurance certificates, etc); and
- 1540 (13) s 175 (prospectively substituted) (see PARA 660 ante) (issuing false documents, or falsely amending certificate of conformity).

The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 6 (as amended) also applies to the offences specified in Sch 1 para 2 (amended by the Road Traffic (Driver Licensing and Information Systems) Act 1989 s 16, Sch 6; the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 22, Sch 1 para 3; the Road Traffic (New Drivers) Act 1995 s 10(4), Sch 2 para 7; and the Statute Law (Repeals) Act 2004), namely:

Where the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 6 applies, it applies also to aiding and abetting any of the specified offences: Homolka v Osmond [1939] 1 All ER 154. As to aiding and abetting see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 49.

2 Proceedings are 'brought' within the meaning of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 6 when the information is laid (Thorpe v Priestnall [1897] 1 QB 159; R v Manchester Stipendiary Magistrate, ex p Hill [1983] 1 AC 328, sub nom Hill v Anderton [1982] 2 All ER 963, HL); or, where no information is laid and the person is arrested and charged, when the person first appears before a court (R v Amersham Juvenile Court, ex p Wilson [1981] QB 969, [1981] 2 All ER 315, DC). As to discounting the day from which time begins to run see PARA 1028 note 6 ante.

3 A traffic examiner employed by the vehicle inspectorate but not authorised to take the decision to prosecute is not a prosecutor for the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 6: see Swan v Vehicle Inspectorate [1997] RTR 187, DC.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(ii) Trial/B. PROCEDURE AND EVIDENCE/1035. Evidence by certificate as to driver, user or owner.

1035. Evidence by certificate as to driver, user or owner.

In any proceedings in England and Wales for specified offences<sup>1</sup>, a certificate in the prescribed<sup>2</sup> form, purporting to be signed by a constable<sup>3</sup> and certifying that a person specified in the certificate stated to the constable that:

- 964 (1) a particular mechanically propelled vehicle<sup>4</sup> was being driven<sup>5</sup> or used by, or belonged to, that person on a particular occasion<sup>6</sup>;
- 965 (2) a particular mechanically propelled vehicle on a particular occasion was used by, or belonged to, a firm and that he was, at the time of the statement, a partner in that firm<sup>7</sup>; or
- 966 (3) a particular mechanically propelled vehicle on a particular occasion was used by, or belonged to, a corporation and that he was, at the time of the statement, a director, officer or employee of that corporation<sup>8</sup>,

is admissible as evidence for the purpose of determining by whom the vehicle was being driven or used, or to whom it belonged, as the case may be, on that occasion<sup>9</sup>.

Nothing in the above provision makes a certificate admissible as evidence in proceedings for an offence except in a case where and to the like extent to which oral evidence to the like effect would have been admissible in those proceedings<sup>10</sup>; nor does anything in the above provision make a certificate admissible as evidence in proceedings for an offence unless a copy of it has, not less than seven days before the hearing or trial, been served in the prescribed manner on the person charged with the offence<sup>11</sup>, or if that person, not later than three days before the hearing or trial or within such further time as the court may in special circumstances allow, serves a notice in the prescribed form and manner on the prosecutor requiring attendance at the trial of the person who signed the certificate<sup>12</sup>.

8 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 11(1)(c) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 Sch 4 para 84).

9 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 11(1). Where the proceedings mentioned in s 11(1) (as amended) are proceedings before a magistrates' court inquiring into an offence as examining justices, then s 11 (as amended) has effect with the omission of s 11(2), and s 11(3)(b) and the word 'or' immediately preceding it: s 11(3A) (added by the Criminal Procedure and Investigations Act 1996 s 47, Sch 1 para 35). This provision is repealed, as from a day to be appointed, by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 ss 41, 332, Sch 3 Pt 2 para 61(1), (2), Sch 37 Pt 4. - 1652 (b) any offence against any other enactment relating to the use of vehicles on roads.

For the meaning of 'road' see PARA 206 ante.

As from a day to be appointed, s 12(1) also applies to an offence under s 34D(12) (prospectively added) (see PARA 1066 text and notes 16-18 post) (offences in connection with alcohol ignition interlock): Sch 1 para 4

(amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 15(3)(b)). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

6    Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 12(1)(b). It cannot be inferred, from a form which requires information as to the driver of a vehicle involved in a road traffic offence, which form includes the accused's name but no signature, that the insertion of a name amounts to a statement in writing purporting to be signed by the accused: Mawdesley v Chief Constable of Cheshire Constabulary, Yorke v DPP [2003] EWHC 1586 (Admin), [2004] 1 All ER 58, [2004] RTR 209.

It has been now been held that the use under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 12(1) of evidence obtained under s 172 (as substituted and amended) does not breach the right of the defendant to a fair trial under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms art 6: Brown v Stott (Procurator Fiscal, Dunfermline) [2003] 1 AC 681, [2001] 2 All ER 97, PC. See also O'Halloran v United Kingdom [2007] All ER (D) 07 (Jul), ECtHR (where the applicants, both British nationals, argued that the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 172 (as substituted and amended) breached their rights under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms art 6 in compelling them to name the person driving the car caught by speed cameras; the court found in favour of the United Kingdom and concurred with the decision of the Privy Council in Brown v Stott (Procurator Fiscal, Dunfermline) supra).

UPDATE

1023-1042 Application of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 to the Crown ... Admissibility of evidence in relation to speeding offences etc

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(ii) Trial/B. PROCEDURE AND EVIDENCE/1037. Admissibility of records as evidence.

1037. Admissibility of records as evidence.

In any case where a person is convicted by a magistrates' court of a summary offence<sup>9</sup>, such a statement is produced to the court in the proceedings<sup>10</sup>, the statement specifies an alleged previous conviction of the accused of an offence involving obligatory endorsement<sup>11</sup> or an order made on the conviction<sup>12</sup>, and the accused is not present in person before the court when the statement is so produced<sup>13</sup>, the court may take account of the previous conviction or order as if the accused had appeared and admitted it<sup>14</sup>.

In any case where such a statement is produced to a magistrates' court in any proceedings for an offence involving obligatory or discretionary disqualification<sup>15</sup> other than a summary offence<sup>16</sup>, the statement specifies an alleged previous conviction of an accused person of any such offence or any order made on the conviction<sup>17</sup>, it is proved to the satisfaction of the court, on oath or in such manner as may be prescribed by Criminal Procedure Rules<sup>18</sup>, that not less than seven days before the statement is so produced a notice was served on the accused, in such form and manner as may be so prescribed, specifying the previous conviction or order and stating that it is proposed to bring it to the notice of the court in the event of or, as the case may be, in view of his conviction<sup>19</sup>, and the accused is not present in person before the court when the statement is so produced<sup>20</sup>, the court may take account of the previous conviction or order as if the accused had appeared and admitted it<sup>21</sup>.

Nothing in these provisions enables evidence to be given in respect of any matter other than a matter of a description prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State<sup>22</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'statement' means any representation of fact, however made: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 13(3) (substituted by the Civil Evidence Act 1995 s 15(1), Sch 1 para 15).

2 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

The functions referred to in the text are functions exercisable by virtue of the Road Traffic Act 1988 Pt III (ss 87-109) (as amended): see PARA 444 et seq ante. The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 13(1)(a) is prospectively amended by the Road Traffic (Consequential Provisions) Act 1988 s 4, Sch 2 para 20, so as to refer also to a part of any other records maintained by the Secretary of State with respect to vehicles or of any records maintained with respect to vehicles by an approved testing authority in connection with the exercise by that authority of any functions conferred on such authorities, or on that authority as such an authority, by or under any enactment. At the date at which this volume states the law this amendment had not been brought into force. As to testing authorities see PARA 699 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'copy', in relation to a document, means anything onto which information recorded in the document has been copied, by whatever means and whether directly or indirectly: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 13(3) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). 'Document' means anything in which information of any description is recorded: s 13(3) (as so substituted).

8 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 13(2). Where the proceedings mentioned in s 13(2) are proceedings before a magistrates' court inquiring into an offence as examining justices, s 13 (as amended) has effect as if:

1653 (1) in s 13(2) the words 'to the same extent as oral evidence of that fact is admissible in those proceedings' were omitted (s 13(7)(a) (s 13(7) added, in relation to alleged offences into which no criminal procedure has begun before 1 April 1997, by the Criminal Procedure and Investigations Act 1996 s 47, Sch 1 para 36));

1654 (2) in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 13(4) (as amended) the word 'and' were inserted at the end of s 13(4)(a) (as amended) (s 13(7)(b) (as so added));

1655 (3) in s 13(4) (as amended), s 13(4)(c), (d) and the words 'as if the accused had appeared and admitted it' were omitted (s 13(7)(c) (as so added)).

Section 13(7) is repealed by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 ss 41, 332, Sch 3 Pt 2 para 61(1), (3), Sch 37 Pt 4, as from a day to be appointed under s 336(3). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

9 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 13(3A)(a) (s 13(3A) added by the Magistrates' Courts (Procedure) Act 1998 s 2(1)). ### 1023-1042 Application of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 to the Crown ... Admissibility of evidence in relation to speeding offences etc

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131; VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(ii) Trial/B. PROCEDURE AND EVIDENCE/1042. Admissibility of evidence in relation to speeding offences etc.

1042. Admissibility of evidence in relation to speeding offences etc.

A record produced or measurement made by a prescribed device is not admissible as evidence of a fact relevant to proceedings for the specified offences<sup>7</sup> unless<sup>8</sup> the device is of a type approved by the Secretary of State<sup>9</sup>, and any conditions subject to which the approval was given are satisfied<sup>10</sup>.

In proceedings for specified offences<sup>11</sup>, evidence of a measurement made by a device, or of the circumstances in which it was made<sup>12</sup>, or that a device was of a type approved for these purposes, or that any conditions subject to which an approval was given were satisfied<sup>13</sup>, may be given by the production of a document which is signed as mentioned in head (2) above and which, as the case may be, gives particulars of the measurement or of the circumstances in which it was made, or states that the device was of such a type or that, to the best of the knowledge and belief of the person making the statement, all such conditions were satisfied<sup>14</sup>.

For these purposes a document purporting to be a record of the kind mentioned in head (1) above, or to be a signed certificate or other document<sup>15</sup>, is deemed to be such a record, or to be so signed, unless the contrary is proved<sup>16</sup>.

- 1656 (1) an offence under the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 s 16 (as amended) (see PARA 758 ante) consisting in the contravention of a restriction on the speed of vehicles imposed under s 14 (as substituted) (see PARA 755 ante);
- 1657 (2) an offence under s 17(4) (see PARA 764 ante) consisting in the contravention of a restriction on the speed of vehicles imposed under s 17 (as amended) (see PARA 764 ante);
- 1658 (3) an offence under s 88(7) (see PARA 855 ante) (temporary minimum speed limits);
- 1659 (4) an offence under s 89(1) (see PARA 856 ante) (speeding offences generally);
- 1660 (5) an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 36(1) (as substituted) (see PARA 643 ante) consisting in the failure to comply with an indication given by a light signal that vehicular traffic is not to proceed;
- 1661 (6) an offence under the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 Pt I (ss 1-13A) (as amended) (see PARA 742 et seq ante) or Pt II (ss 14-22) (as amended) (see PARA 755 et seq ante) of contravening or failing to comply with an order or regulations made under either of those Parts relating to the use of an area of road which is described as a bus lane or a route for use by buses only; and
- 1662 (7) an offence under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 29(1) (using or keeping an unlicensed vehicle on a public road: see CUSTOMS AND EXCISE vol 12(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 777).

The Secretary of State may by order amend the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 20(2) (as substituted and amended) by making additions to or deletions from the list of offences for the time being set out there; and an order under s 20(3) (as substituted) may make such transitional provision as appears to the Secretary of State to be necessary or expedient: s 20(3) (as so substituted). The powers to make orders under s 20(3), (9) (as substituted) are exercisable by statutory instrument, which is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 20(10) (as so substituted). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

2 Ibid s 20(1) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). This is expressed to be subject to s 20(2)-(10) (as substituted and amended). See also note 14 infra.

3 Ibid s 20(1)(a) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). For these purposes, 'prescribed device' means a device of a description specified in an order made by the Secretary of State: s 20(9) (as so substituted). As to the power to make orders see note 1 supra. The following orders have been made under s 20(9) (as substituted): the Road Traffic Offenders (Prescribed Devices) Order 1992, SI 1992/1209; the Road Traffic Offenders (Prescribed Devices) (No 2) Order 1992, SI 1992/2843; the Road Traffic Offenders (Prescribed Devices) Order 1993, SI 1993/1698; the Road Traffic Offenders (Additional Offences and Prescribed Devices) Order 1997, SI 1997/384; the Road Traffic Offenders (Prescribed Devices) Order 1999, SI 1999/162; and the Road Traffic Offenders (Additional Offences and Prescribed Devices) Order 2001, SI 2001/1814.

There is a presumption that a device was in order when used: R v Skegness Magistrates' Court, ex p Cardy [1985] RTR 49, [1985] Crim LR 237, DC. However, in relation to an approved automatic camera set up on a gantry on the M25, justices were entitled to acquit where the prosecution witness was mistaken as to where that gantry was on the M25 and he had no knowledge of how the manual system worked and what effect it had, if any, on the displays on the overhead gantry: DPP v Underwood (4 June 1997) Lexis, DC. See also Darby v DPP [1995] RTR 294, 159 JP 533, DC.

As to the offence committed by a person who warns a driver of the presence of police officers with apparatus for detecting the speed of vehicles see PARA 1022 ante.

4 As to constables see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 101 et seq.

5 As to chief officers of police see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 165, 178 et seq; and as to police areas see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 136.

6 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 20(1)(b) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

7 See note 1 supra.

8 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 20(4) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

9 Ibid s 20(4)(a) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). Any approval given by the Secretary of State for these purposes may be given subject to conditions as to the purposes for which, and the manner and other circumstances in which, any device of the type concerned is to be used: s 20(5) (as so substituted).

Justices may not take judicial notice of the approval of a device solely on the basis that the officer concerned regularly used the device in question; if no point is expressly taken proof will not normally be necessary, but where the prosecution has been given notice that a serious issue is being raised in relation to the evidence based on the device it is a simple matter to establish approval either by the production of the relevant schedule or by evidence from the police operator that the device he used was an approved device: Roberts v DPP [1994] RTR 31, DC.

10 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 20(4)(b) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

11 See note 1 supra.

12 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 20(6)(a) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

13 Ibid s 20(6)(b) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

14 Ibid s 20(6) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). Nothing in s 20(1) or (6) (as substituted) makes a document admissible as evidence in proceedings for an offence unless a copy of it has, not less than seven days before the hearing or trial, been served on the person charged with the offence; and nothing in s 20(1) or (6) (as substituted) makes a document admissible as evidence of anything other than the matters shown on a record produced by a prescribed device if that person, not less than three days before the hearing or trial or within such further time as the court may in special circumstances allow, serves a notice on the prosecutor requiring attendance at the hearing or trial of the person who signed the document: s 20(8) (as so substituted). Where the proceedings for an offence to which s 20 (as substituted and amended) applies are proceedings before a magistrates' court inquiring into an offence as examining justices, s 20 (as substituted and amended) has effect as if in s 20(8) (as substituted) the words from 'and nothing' to the end of s 20(8) (as substituted) were omitted: s 20(8A) (added, in relation to alleged offences into which no criminal procedure has begun before 1 April 1997, by the Criminal Procedure and Investigations Act 1996 s 47, Sch 1 para 38). The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 20(8A) (as added) is repealed, as from a day to be appointed, by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 ss 41, 332, Sch 3 Pt 2 para 61(1), (5), Sch 37 Pt 4. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

15 Ie as mentioned in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 20(1) or (6) (as substituted).

1043. Notification of disability.

If in any proceedings for an offence committed in respect of a motor vehicle<sup>1</sup> it appears to the court<sup>2</sup> that the accused may be suffering from any relevant disability<sup>3</sup> or prospective disability<sup>4</sup> the court must notify the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup>. A notice so sent by a court to the Secretary of State must be sent in such manner and to such address and contain such particulars as the Secretary of State may determine<sup>6</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'motor vehicle' see PARA 210 ante.

2 There must be material before the court, though that may consist only of something said in mitigation, suggesting that the defendant suffers from a relevant disability or a prospective disability, before the court can properly refer the matter to the Secretary of State: R v Chichester Justices, ex p Crouch (1981) 146 JP 26.

3 For the meaning of 'relevant disability' see PARA 417 note 1 ante; definition applied by the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 22(1).

4 For the meaning of 'prospective disability' see PARA 417 note 2 ante; definition applied by ibid s 22(1).

C. VERDICTS

1044. Alternative verdicts.

Where a person charged with an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 specified in heads (1) to (6) below is found not guilty of that offence, but the allegations in the indictment or information amount to or include an allegation of an offence under one or more of the alternatives specified in each head, he may be convicted of that offence or of one or more of those offences<sup>1</sup>. The offences (which are indicated by their general nature) and alternative provisions are as follows:

- 975 (1) in the case of a person charged with an offence of causing death by dangerous driving<sup>2</sup>, he may be convicted in the alternative of an offence of dangerous driving<sup>3</sup> or of an offence of careless, or inconsiderate, driving<sup>4</sup>;
- 976 (2) in the case of a person charged with an offence of dangerous driving<sup>5</sup>, he may be convicted in the alternative of an offence of careless, or inconsiderate, driving<sup>6</sup>;
- 977 (3) in the case of a person charged with an offence of causing death by careless driving when under the influence of drink or drugs<sup>7</sup>, he may be convicted in the alternative of an offence of careless, or inconsiderate, driving<sup>8</sup>, of driving when unfit to drive through drink or drugs<sup>9</sup>, of driving with excess alcohol in breath, blood or urine<sup>10</sup>, of failing to provide a specimen<sup>11</sup>, or of failing to give permission for a laboratory test<sup>12</sup>;
- 978 (4) in the case of a person charged with an offence of driving when unfit to drive through drink or drugs<sup>13</sup>, he may be convicted in the alternative of an offence of being in charge of a vehicle when unfit to drive through drink or drugs<sup>14</sup>;
- 979 (5) in the case of a person charged with an offence of driving, or attempting to drive with excess alcohol in his breath, blood or urine<sup>15</sup>, he may be convicted in the alternative of an offence of being in charge of a vehicle with excess alcohol in breath, blood or urine<sup>16</sup>; and
- 980 (6) in the case of a person charged with an offence of dangerous cycling<sup>17</sup>, he may be convicted in the alternative of an offence of careless, and inconsiderate, cycling<sup>18</sup>.

Where the offence with which a person is charged is an offence of causing death by careless driving when under the influence of drink or drugs<sup>19</sup>, the above provisions do not authorise his conviction of any offence of attempting to drive<sup>20</sup>.

Where a person is charged with having committed an offence of driving when unfit to drive through drink or drugs<sup>21</sup>, or of driving or attempting to drive with excess alcohol in his breath, blood or urine<sup>22</sup>, he may be convicted of having committed an offence under the provision in question by attempting to drive<sup>23</sup>.

Where, by virtue of the above provisions, a person is convicted before the Crown Court of an offence triable only summarily, the court has the same powers and duties as a magistrates' court would have had on convicting him of that offence<sup>24</sup>.

1 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 24(1) (s 24 substituted by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 24). The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 24 (as substituted) has effect without prejudice to the Criminal Law Act 1967 s 6(3) (alternative verdicts on trial on indictment) (see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1335): Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 24(6) (as so substituted).

As to the circumstances in which there is an obligation on a judge to direct the jury on the possibility of an alternative verdict see R v Fairbanks [1986] 1 WLR 1202, [1986] RTR 309, CA; R v Maxwell [1988] 1 WLR 1265, CA; R v Jeavons [1990] RTR 263, DC. The judge's task is to see that the issues are laid before the jury as clearly as possible and that the indictment covers the offence or offences which the facts disclose; it is equally his task to see that irrelevant allegations and irrelevant charges are excluded: R v Jeavons supra at 266 per Lord Lane CJ. Where a judge proposes to introduce the possibility of an alternative conviction under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 24 (as substituted), and that possibility has not previously been canvassed in the course of the hearing, he should give ample warning to counsel: R v Hazell [1985] RTR 369, [1985] Crim LR 513, CA; R v Cristini [1987] Crim LR 504, CA; R v White [1987] Crim LR 505; R v Hammett [1993] RTR 275, CA. This duty is not discharged merely by giving defence counsel an opportunity to address the jury further if counsel's hands are by then tied in a way that can only be seen as having been grossly unfair to the defendant: R v Hammett supra at 278 per Owen J.

In the absence of a verdict of not guilty on the count of dangerous driving there is no power under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 24(1) (as substituted) for the jury to return a verdict of guilty of careless driving: R v Griffiths [1998] Crim LR 348, CA. As to the separateness of the offences of careless driving and inconsiderate driving see PARA 971 ante.

The six-month time limit imposed by the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 127 (see MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 589) does not apply to the alternative offence: R v Coventry Justices, ex p Sayers [1979] RTR 22, DC. Where justices convict of dangerous driving and dismiss a charge of inconsiderate driving arising from the same incident (the prosecution offering no evidence on that charge), in any appeal against conviction the possibility of a conviction on the lesser offence is no longer available in view of the express acquittal: DPP v Khan [1997] RTR 82, DC.

Where justices heard separate summonses alleging dangerous driving and careless driving arising from the same incident, and they acquitted on the former and convicted on the latter, but it was then discovered that the careless driving summons was defective (out of time) and that conviction was therefore quashed under the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 142, the justices were entitled to return to the dangerous driving summons and to return a conviction for careless driving as an alternative verdict: R v Haywards Heath Justices, ex p White (2000) 164 JP 629, DC.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(ii) Trial/D. PROCEDURE AFTER CONVICTION/1046. Interim disqualification.

1046. Interim disqualification.

Where a magistrates' court commits an offender to the Crown Court<sup>1</sup>, or remits an offender to another magistrates' court<sup>2</sup>, to be dealt with for an offence involving obligatory<sup>3</sup> or discretionary disqualification<sup>4</sup>, it may order him to be disqualified<sup>5</sup> until he has been dealt with in respect of the offence<sup>6</sup>.

Where a court defers passing sentence on an offender<sup>7</sup> in respect of an offence involving obligatory or discretionary disqualification<sup>8</sup>, or adjourns after convicting an offender of such an offence but before dealing with him for the offence<sup>9</sup>, it may order the offender to be disqualified until he has been dealt with in respect of the offence<sup>10</sup>.

An order for interim disqualification<sup>11</sup> ceases to have effect at the end of the period of six months beginning with<sup>12</sup> the day on which it is made, if it has not ceased to have effect before that time<sup>13</sup>.

Where a court makes an order for interim disqualification ('the first order'), no court can make a further order for interim disqualification in respect of the same offence or any offence in respect of which an order could have been made at the time the first order was made<sup>14</sup>.

Where a court makes an order for interim disqualification in respect of any person it must require him to produce to the court any licence<sup>15</sup> held by him and its counterpart<sup>16</sup>, and retain the licence and counterpart until it deals with him or (as the case may be) cause them to be sent to the proper officer of the court which is to deal with him<sup>17</sup>. If the holder of the licence has not caused it and its counterpart to be delivered, or has not posted them<sup>18</sup>, and does not produce the licence and counterpart as so required, then he is guilty of an offence<sup>19</sup>.

Where on any occasion a court deals with an offender for an offence in respect of which an order for interim disqualification was made<sup>20</sup>, or for two or more offences in respect of any of which such an order was made<sup>21</sup>, any period of obligatory disqualification which is on that occasion imposed<sup>22</sup> is to be treated as reduced by any period during which he was disqualified by reason only of an order for interim disqualification made in respect of any of those offences<sup>23</sup>.

Any statutory reference<sup>24</sup> to the length of a period of disqualification, unless the context otherwise requires, is to be construed as a reference to its length before any reduction under this provision<sup>25</sup>.

1047. Production of licence.

Where a person who is the holder of a licence<sup>1</sup> is convicted of an offence involving obligatory<sup>2</sup> or discretionary disqualification<sup>3</sup>, and a court proposes to make an order disqualifying him or an order relating to the endorsement of licences<sup>4</sup>, the court must, unless it has already received them, require the licence and its counterpart<sup>5</sup> to be produced to it<sup>6</sup>. If the holder of the licence has not caused it and its counterpart to be delivered, or posted them<sup>7</sup>, and does not produce them as required<sup>8</sup> then, unless he satisfies the court that he has applied for a new licence and has not received it he is guilty of an offence<sup>9</sup>, and the licence must be suspended from the time when its production was required until it and its counterpart are produced to the court and, while suspended, are of no effect<sup>10</sup>.

The above provision does not apply where the holder of the licence:

- 981 (1) has caused a current receipt for the licence and its counterpart<sup>11</sup> to be delivered to the clerk of the court not later than the day before the date appointed for the hearing<sup>12</sup>;
- 982 (2) has posted such a receipt, at such time that in the ordinary course of post it would be delivered not later than that day, in a letter duly addressed to the clerk and either registered or sent by the recorded delivery service<sup>13</sup>; or
- 983 (3) surrenders such a receipt to the court at the hearing<sup>14</sup>, and produces the licence and its counterpart to the court immediately on their return<sup>15</sup>.

1048. Penalty points generally.

Where a person is convicted of an offence involving obligatory endorsement<sup>1</sup>, and he is not ordered to be disqualified<sup>2</sup>, the court must order there to be endorsed on the counterpart<sup>3</sup> of any licence<sup>4</sup> held by him particulars of the conviction and also the penalty points to be attributed<sup>5</sup> to the offence unless there are special reasons for not endorsing his licence<sup>6</sup>.

Where there are 12 or more penalty points to be taken into account<sup>7</sup>, the court must disqualify the offender for the minimum period<sup>8</sup> unless the court is satisfied, on the basis of non-excluded circumstances<sup>9</sup>, that there are grounds for mitigating the normal consequences of the conviction<sup>10</sup>.

There are three different three-year rules<sup>11</sup> in relation to:

- 984 (1) the aggregation of penalty points for different offences<sup>12</sup>;
- 985 (2) determining the minimum length of points' disqualification<sup>13</sup>; and
- 986 (3) excluded circumstances for mitigating the normal consequences of the conviction<sup>14</sup>.

Points' disqualification 'wipes the slate clean' of any penalty points previously imposed<sup>15</sup>.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/A. IN GENERAL/1049. Penalty points to be attributed to an offence.

1049. Penalty points to be attributed to an offence.

Where a person is convicted of an offence involving obligatory endorsement<sup>1</sup>, then, subject to the following provisions, the number of penalty points to be attributed to the offence is the number shown in relation to the offence in heads (1) to (38) below or, where a range of numbers is shown, a number within that range<sup>2</sup>. Where both a range of numbers and a number followed by the words '(fixed penalty)' appears in relation to an offence<sup>3</sup>, that number is the number of penalty points to be attributed<sup>4</sup> to the offence if it is dealt with by way of a fixed penalty; and, where only a range of numbers is shown there, the lowest number in the range is the number of penalty points to be attributed to the offence for those purposes<sup>5</sup>. The penalty points to be attributed to the following offences are:

- 1005 (19) failing to allow a specimen to be subjected to a laboratory test, 3 to eleven points where the test would be for ascertaining ability to drive or the proportion of alcohol at the time offender was driving or attempting to drive, or 10 penalty points in any other case<sup>27</sup>;
- 1006 (20) motor racing and speed trials on public ways, 3 to 11 penalty points<sup>28</sup>;

Where a person is convicted of an offence committed by aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring, or inciting to the commission of, an offence involving obligatory disqualification<sup>49</sup>, the number of penalty points to be attributed to the offence is 10<sup>50</sup>.

Where a person is convicted, whether on the same occasion or not, of two or more offences committed on the same occasion<sup>51</sup> and involving obligatory endorsement, the total number of penalty points to be attributed to them is the number or highest number that would be attributed on a conviction of one of them, so that, if the convictions are on different occasions, the number of penalty points to be attributed to the offences on the later occasion or occasions is to be restricted accordingly<sup>52</sup>. In a case where that provision would otherwise apply to two or more offences, the court may, if it thinks fit, determine that that provision is not to apply to the offences or, where three or more offences are concerned, to any one or more of them<sup>53</sup>. Where a court makes such a determination, it must state its reasons in open court and, if it is a magistrates' court, must cause them to be entered in the register of its proceedings<sup>54</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'offence involving obligatory endorsement' see PARA 1080 post.

2 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 28(1) (s 28 substituted by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 27). The offences and penalty points are set out in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 28, Sch 2 (as amended). The Secretary of State may by order made by statutory instrument: (1) alter a number or range of numbers shown in relation to an offence in the last column of Sch 2 Pt I (as amended) or Pt II (as amended) (by substituting one number or range for another, a number for a range, or a range for a number); (2) where a range of numbers is shown in relation to an offence in the last column of Pt I (as amended), add or delete a number together with the words '(fixed penalty)'; and (3) alter the number of penalty points shown in s 28(2) (as substituted) (see the text and note 47 infra); and an order so made may provide for different numbers or ranges of numbers to be shown in relation to the same offence committed in different circumstances: s 28(7) (as so substituted). Where the Secretary of State exercises his power under s 28(7) (as substituted) by substituting or adding a number which appears together with the words '(fixed penalty)', that number must not exceed the lowest number in the range shown in the same entry: s 28(8) (as so substituted). No order may be made under s 28(7) (as substituted) unless a draft of it has been laid before and approved by resolution of each House of Parliament: s 28(9) (as so substituted). As to penalty points where a fixed penalty is also in question see PARA 1051 post.

As from a day to be appointed, s 28(7) (as substituted) is amended so that head (2) provides that the Secretary of State may, where a range of numbers is shown in relation to an offence in the last column of Pt I (as amended), add or delete a number together with the words '(fixed penalty)' or the words 'or appropriate penalty points (fixed penalty)'; and so that a new head is added, providing that the Secretary of State may substitute the words 'or appropriate penalty points (fixed penalty)' for a number together with the words '(fixed penalty)', or substitute a number together with the words '(fixed penalty)' for the words 'or appropriate penalty points (fixed penalty)', in relation to an offence in the last column of P 1 (as amended) or Pt 2 (as amended): s 28(7) (s 28 as so substituted; and s 28(7)(b) amended, and s 28(7)(ba) added, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 4(1), (3), (4)). The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 28(9) (as substituted) is amended so as to refer to 's 28' instead of 's 28(7)': see s 28(9) (as so substituted; and amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 4(6)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

3 Ie appears in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 Sch 2 Pt I col 7 (as amended).

4 Ie for the purposes of ibid s 57(5) (see PARA 1100 post) and s 77(5) (see PARA 1119 post).

5 Ibid s 28(3) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). As from a day to be appointed, s 28(3) is substituted and s 28(3A), (3B) added, as follows. For the purposes of s 57(5) and s 77(5), the number of penalty points to be attributed to an offence is: (1) where both a range of numbers and a number followed by the words '(fixed penalty)' is shown in the last column of Sch 2 Pt 1 (as amended) in relation to the offence, that number; (2) where a range of numbers followed by the words 'or appropriate penalty points (fixed penalty)' is shown there in relation to the offence, the appropriate number of penalty points for the offence; and (3) where only a range of numbers is shown there in relation to the offence, the lowest number in the range: s 28(3) (substituted, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 4(3)). For the purposes of head (2) above the appropriate number of penalty points for an offence is such number of penalty points as the Secretary of State may by order made by statutory instrument prescribe: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 28(3A) (s 28(3A), (3B) added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 4(3)). An order made under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 28(3A) (as added) in relation to an offence may make provision for the appropriate number of penalty points for the offence to be different depending on the circumstances, including (in particular): (a) the nature of the contravention or failure constituting the offence; (b) how serious it is; (c) the area, or sort of place, where it takes place; and (d) whether the offender appears to have committed any offence or offences of a description specified in the order during a period so specified: s 28(3B) (as so added). Before making any order under s 28(3A) (as added) the Secretary of State must consult with such representative organisations as he thinks fit: s 28(8A) (added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 4(5)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 28(3) (as substituted) is amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 9(6), Sch 2 paras 2, 3, so that it also applies for the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 57A(6) (as added) (see PARA 1101 post) and s 77A(8) (prospectively added) (see PARA 1119 note 23 post); and s 28(3) (as substituted) is also amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 10(12), Sch 3 paras 30, 34, so that it applies only for the purposes of s 57A(6) (prospectively added) and s 77A(8) (prospectively added). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

7 See PARA 764 ante. The offence referred to is an offence under ibid s 17(4). The number of penalty points is amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 17, to 2-6 or appropriate penalty points (fixed penalty) if the offence is committed in respect of a speed limit, and 3 in any other case. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

1050. Penalty points to be taken into account on conviction.

Where a person is convicted of an offence involving obligatory endorsement<sup>1</sup>, the penalty points to be taken into account on that occasion<sup>2</sup> are<sup>3</sup>:

- 1025 (1) any that are to be attributed to the offence or offences of which he is convicted, disregarding any offence in respect of which a disqualification order is made<sup>4</sup>; and
- 1026 (2) any that were on a previous occasion ordered to be endorsed on the counterpart<sup>5</sup> of any licence held by him, unless the offender has since that occasion and before the conviction been disqualified for repeated offences<sup>6</sup>.

If any of the offences was committed more than three years before another, the penalty points in respect of that offence must not be added to those in respect of the other<sup>7</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'offence involving obligatory endorsement' see PARA 1080 post.

2 'On that occasion' refers to the occasion of sentencing, and 'conviction' for the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 29 (as substituted) bears the wider meaning of the date of sentence: R v Brentwood Justices, ex p Richardson [1993] RTR 374, 95 Cr App Rep 187, DC.

3 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 29(1) (s 29 substituted by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 28), which is expressed to be subject to the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 29(2) (as substituted) (see the text and note 7 infra).

4 Ibid s 29(1)(a) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). A disqualification order is made under s 34 (as amended): see PARA 1061 post.

For the problem of circularity that arises from the provisions of s 29(1)(a) (as substituted) and s 34(2) (as substituted) in the case of offences involving discretionary disqualification where the number of penalty points to be taken into account depends on whether or not the court exercises its power to impose discretionary disqualification see PARA 1061 note 4 post.

5 For the meaning of 'counterpart' see PARA 415 note 19 ante; definition applied by ibid s 98(1). In relation to licences which came into force before 1 June 1990, the reference in s 29(1) (as substituted) to the counterpart of a licence is to be construed as a reference to the licence itself: s 29(3) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). For the meaning of 'licence' see PARA 1032 note 3 ante. The reference to the meaning of 'counterpart' in s 98(1) is removed, and s 29(3) is repealed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 ss 10(12), 59, Sch 3 paras 30, 35(3), 61(b), Sch 7, as from a day to be appointed. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

6 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 29(1)(b) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). An offender is so disqualified under s 35 (as amended): see PARA 1070 post. As from a day to be appointed, s 29(1)(b) is amended: (1) by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 9(6), Sch 2 paras 2, 4, to add after the reference to any penalty points endorsed on the counterpart of any licence held by the convicted person, a reference to, alternatively, any points endorsed on his driving record; and (2) by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 3 para 35(2), Sch 7 to remove the reference to the counterpart of any licence held by the convicted person. The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 29(1)(b) is made subject to s 30A(4) (prospectively added): s 29(2A) (added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 34(1), (2)). ### 1051 Penalty points where fixed penalty also in question

NOTES 6, 11--Day appointed in relation to Road Safety Act 2006 s 9, Sch 2 is 1 April 2009: SI 2008/3164.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/A. IN GENERAL/1052. Reduced penalty points for attendance on course.

1052. Reduced penalty points for attendance on course.

The provisions will apply<sup>2</sup> where: (1) a person is convicted of a specified offence<sup>3</sup> by or before a court<sup>4</sup>; (2) penalty points<sup>5</sup> are to be attributed to the offence and the court does not order him to be disqualified<sup>6</sup>; and (3) at least seven but no more than eleven penalty points are to be taken into account on the occasion of the conviction<sup>7</sup>. Where these provisions apply, the court may make an order that three of the penalty points attributed to the offence (or all of them if three or fewer are so attributed) are not to be taken into account<sup>8</sup> on the occasion of any conviction of an offence after the end of the period of 12 months beginning with the date of the order if, by the relevant date<sup>9</sup>, the offender completes an approved course<sup>10</sup> specified in the order<sup>11</sup>.

A court may not make an order under these provisions in the case of an offender convicted of an offence<sup>12</sup> if: (a) the offender has, during the period of three years ending with the date on which the offence was committed, committed a specified offence and successfully completed an approved course pursuant to an order made<sup>13</sup> on conviction of that offence<sup>14</sup>; or (b) the offence was committed during his probationary period<sup>15</sup>.

A court may not make an order under these provisions in the case of an offender<sup>16</sup> unless: (i) the court is satisfied that a place on the course specified in the order will be available for the offender<sup>17</sup>; (ii) the offender appears to the court to be of or over the age of 17<sup>18</sup>; (iii) the court has informed the offender (orally or in writing and in ordinary language) of the effect of the order and of the amount of the fees which he is required to pay for the course and when he must pay them<sup>19</sup>; and (iv) the offender has agreed that the order should be made<sup>20</sup>.

If an application is made to the appropriate national authority for the approval of a course for these purposes, the appropriate national authority must decide whether to grant or refuse the application<sup>21</sup>. In reaching that decision the appropriate national authority must have regard to the nature of the course<sup>22</sup> and to whether the course provider<sup>23</sup> is an appropriate person to provide the course and administer its provision efficiently and effectively<sup>24</sup>, and may take into account any recommendations made by any persons appointed to consider the application<sup>25</sup>. A course may be approved subject to conditions specified by the appropriate national authority<sup>26</sup>. An approval of a course is for the period specified by the appropriate national authority (which must not exceed seven years), subject to withdrawal of approval<sup>27</sup>.

Regulations made by the appropriate national authority may make provision in relation to the approval of courses and may, in particular, include provision: (A) in relation to the making of applications for approval; (B) for the payment in respect of applications for approval, or of approvals, (or of both) of fees of such amounts as are prescribed by the regulations; (C) specifying the maximum fees that a person may be required to pay for a course and by when they are to be paid; (D) for the monitoring of courses and course providers; (E) in relation to withdrawing approval; (F) for an appeal to lie to the Transport Tribunal<sup>28</sup> against a refusal of an application for approval, the imposition of conditions on the grant of such an application or the withdrawal of approval; and (G) authorising the appropriate national authority to make available (with or without charge) information about courses and course providers<sup>29</sup>.

The appropriate national authority may issue guidance to course providers, or to any category of course provider, as to the conduct of courses approved for these purposes<sup>30</sup>. Course providers must have regard to any such guidance given to them<sup>31</sup>, and in determining<sup>32</sup> whether any instructions or requirements of a course provider were reasonable, a court must have regard to any such guidance given<sup>33</sup>.

1 The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 30A, 30C, 30D are added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 34(1), (3), as from a day to be appointed. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

An offender is to be regarded for the purposes of the provisions as to the reduction of the penalty points attributed to his offence<sup>2</sup> as having completed a course satisfactorily if (and only if) a certificate that he has done so is received by the proper officer<sup>3</sup> of the supervising court<sup>4</sup>. A course provider<sup>5</sup> must give a certificate<sup>6</sup> to the offender not later than 14 days after the date specified in the order as the latest date for the completion of the course<sup>7</sup> unless the offender: (1) fails to make due payment of fees for the course<sup>8</sup>; (2) fails to attend the course in accordance with the course provider's reasonable instructions<sup>9</sup>; or (3) fails to comply with any other reasonable requirement of the course provider<sup>10</sup>.

Where a course provider decides not to give a certificate to the offender, he must give written notice of the decision to the offender as soon as possible, and in any event not later than 14 days after the date specified in the order as the latest date for completion of the course<sup>11</sup>. An offender to whom such a notice is given may, within such period as may be prescribed by rules of court, apply to the supervising court, or (if the supervising court is not the Crown Court or the relevant local court<sup>12</sup>) to either the supervising court or the relevant local court, for a declaration that the course provider's decision not to give a certificate was contrary to the statutory requirements<sup>13</sup> above<sup>14</sup>. If the court grants the application, the provisions as to the reduction of penalty points will have effect as if the certificate had been duly received by the proper officer of the supervising court<sup>15</sup>.

If, 14 days after the date specified in the order as the latest date for completion of the course, the course provider has given neither the certificate nor a notice, the offender may, within such period as may be prescribed by rules of court, apply to the supervising court, or (if the supervising court is not the Crown Court or the relevant local court) to either the supervising court or the relevant local court, for a declaration that the course provider is in default<sup>16</sup>. If the court grants the application, the provisions as to the reduction of penalty points will have effect as if the certificate had been duly received by the proper officer of the supervising court<sup>17</sup>.

Where the proper office of a court receives a certificate of the completion of a course<sup>18</sup>, or a court grants an application for a declaration<sup>19</sup>, the proper officer or court must send notice of that fact to the Secretary of State; and the notice must be sent in such manner and to such address, and must contain such particulars, as the Secretary of State may determine<sup>20</sup>.

1 The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 30B, 30D are added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 34(1), (3), as from a day to be appointed. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

3 For these purposes, 'proper officer' means: (1) in relation to a magistrates' court in England and Wales, the designated officer for the court; and (2) otherwise, the clerk of the court: ibid s 30D(3) (as added: see note 1 supra).

4 Ibid s 30B(1) (as added: see note 1 supra). 'Supervising court', in relation to an order under s 30A (prospectively added), means, if the Crown Court made the order, the Crown Court and, otherwise, a magistrates' court acting for the same local justice area as the court which made the order: s 30D(3) (as so added).

5 For the meaning of 'course provider' see PARA 1052 note 23 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'counterpart' see PARA 415 note 19 ante; definition applied by the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 98(1). The reference to the meaning of 'counterpart' in s 98(1) is removed by the Road Safety Act 2006 ss 10(12), 59, Sch 3 paras 30, 61(b), Sch 7, as from a day to be appointed. 6 The purpose of this provision is only to enable justices to obtain an account of the defendant's record before he is sentenced; it does not prescribe a method of proof of conviction or disqualification superseding that provided by a certificate under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 s 73 (see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARAS 1347, 1500): Stone v Bastick [1967] 1 QB 74, [1965] 3 All ER 713.

As from a day to be appointed, s 31(1) is substituted, to the following effect. Where a person is convicted of an offence involving obligatory or discretionary disqualification, any existing endorsement on the counterpart of his licence or on his driving record is prima facie evidence of the matters endorsed, and the court may, in determining what order to make in pursuance of the conviction, take those matters into consideration: s 31(1) (substituted by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 9(6), Sch 2 paras 2, 6). The words 'on the counterpart of his licence or' are repealed as from a day to be appointed: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 31 (amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 3 paras 30, 37, Sch 7). ## B. FINE AND IMPRISONMENT

1055. In general.

Where a person is convicted of a road traffic offence<sup>1</sup>, the maximum punishment by way of fine or imprisonment which may be imposed on him is that provided for by the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988<sup>2</sup>.

1     le an offence against a provision of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, the Road Traffic Act 1988, the Road Traffic (Consequential Provisions) Act 1988 and the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988, specified in s 33, Sch 2 Pt I col 1 (as amended), or regulations made under any such provision.

2     Ibid s 33(1). The fine or imprisonment is that shown in Sch 2 Pt I col 4 (as amended) against the offence and (where appropriate) the circumstances or the mode of trial there specified: see s 33(1). Any reference in Sch 2 Pt I col 4 (as amended) to a period of years or months is to be construed as a reference to a term of imprisonment of that duration: s 33(2). The punishment for each offence is set out where the offence is dealt with in this title.

Where multiple road traffic offences are committed on the same occasion the problem is one of determining what sentence is appropriate for the offences taken as a whole and it is immaterial whether the length of the sentence is determined by imposing shorter, but consecutive, terms or by imposing longer terms to run concurrently: R v Lawrence (Justin) [1990] RTR 45, CA.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/B. FINE AND IMPRISONMENT/1056. Sentencing guidelines.

1056. Sentencing guidelines.

Guidelines for sentencing in respect of the offence of causing death by dangerous driving<sup>1</sup>, have been laid down as follows.

Factors that tend to aggravate the offence include:

- 1027 (1) the consumption of drugs (including legal medication known to cause drowsiness) or of alcohol;
- 1028 (2) greatly excessive speed; racing, or competitive driving against another vehicle; and 'showing off';
- 1029 (3) disregard of warnings from fellow passengers;
- 1030 (4) a prolonged, persistent and deliberate course of very bad driving;
- 1031 (5) aggressive driving (such as driving much too close to the vehicle in front, persistent inappropriate attempts to overtake, or cutting in after overtaking);

- 1032 (6) driving while the driver's attention is avoidably distracted (for example, by reading or by use of a mobile phone);
- 1033 (7) driving when knowingly suffering from a medical condition which significantly impairs the offender's driving skills;
- 1034 (8) driving when knowingly deprived of adequate sleep or rest;
- 1035 (9) driving a poorly maintained or dangerously loaded vehicle, especially where this has been motivated by commercial concerns;
- 1036 (10) other offences committed at the same time (such as driving without ever having held a licence, driving while disqualified, driving without insurance, driving while a learner without supervision, taking a vehicle without consent, or driving a stolen vehicle);
- 1037 (11) previous convictions for motoring offences, particularly offences which involve bad driving or the consumption of excessive alcohol before driving;
- 1038 (12) the death of more than one person as a result of the offence (especially if the offender knowingly put more than one person at risk or the occurrence of multiple deaths was foreseeable);
- 1039 (13) serious injury to one or more victims, in addition to the death or deaths;
- 1040 (14) behaviour at the time of the offence (such as failing to stop, falsely claiming that one of the victims was responsible for the crash, or trying to throw the victim off the bonnet of the car by swerving in order to escape);
- 1041 (15) causing death in the course of dangerous driving in an attempt to avoid detection or apprehension;
- 1042 (16) offence committed while the offender was on bail<sup>2</sup>.

- 1043 (a) a good driving record;
- 1044 (b) the absence of previous convictions;
- 1045 (c) a timely plea of guilty;
- 1046 (d) genuine remorse or shock (which may be greater if the victim is either a close relation or a friend);
- 1047 (e) the offender's age (but only in cases where lack of driving experience has contributed to the commission of the offence);
- 1048 (f) the fact that the offender has also been seriously injured as a result of the accident caused by the dangerous driving<sup>3</sup>.

It has been held that where an aggravating feature is present a custodial sentence is generally necessary<sup>4</sup>. In considering the appropriate sentence for the offence of causing death by dangerous driving, four categories have been devised, depending on the degree of culpability: (i) where there were no aggravating circumstances; (ii) where there was intermediate culpability; (iii) where there was higher culpability; (iv) where there was most serious culpability<sup>5</sup>. Similar principles have been applied in relation to the offence of causing death by careless driving under the influence of drink or drugs<sup>6</sup>. Where consumption of alcohol or drugs is not in point, the broad range of sentences that has been upheld or substituted illustrates the many factors and combinations of sentences that can be considered<sup>7</sup>. Length of disqualification in cases of bad driving is considered elsewhere in this title<sup>8</sup>.

It has been held that, in relation to the offence of aggravated vehicle taking<sup>9</sup>, the most important circumstance in judging gravity is the fact (where it is present) that the vehicle was driven dangerously, as that affects the culpability of the driver, whereas the incidence and severity of any injury or damage caused are to some extent a matter of chance, although the higher maximum penalty provided for in a case where death results shows that the extent of the physical harm done is an aggravating feature<sup>10</sup>; a guilty plea showing contrition is a mitigating feature, but the youth of the defendant is less significant in relation to this offence than others<sup>11</sup>. A custodial sentence may not be wrong in principle where the defendant was only a passenger in the vehicle<sup>12</sup>.

1 See the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 1 (as substituted); and PARA 963 ante. The maximum term of imprisonment for the offences of causing death by dangerous driving (see s 1 (as substituted)) and causing death by careless driving when under the influence of drink or drugs (see s 3A (as added); and PARA 974 ante) was increased from five to ten years (see the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 33, Sch 2 Pt I (amended by the Criminal Justice Act 1993 s 67)), and has subsequently been increased from ten years to 14 years (see the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 33, Sch 2 Pt I (amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 285)). Those changes came into effect on 16 August 1993 and 27 February 2004 respectively, and older authorities must be viewed accordingly.

4 R v Boswell (1984) 6 Cr App Rep (S) 257, CA. See also R v Smith (Gary) [1991] RTR 109 at 111, CA, per Drake J (where it was held that the 'Boswell' aggravating factors were examples, and that it was a wrong approach to try exactly and precisely to fit the circumstances of any individual piece of driving into one of the 'Boswell' categories).

5 R v Richardson [2006] EWCA Crim 3186, [2007] 2 All ER 601, updating R v Cooksley, R v Stride, R v Cook, A-G's Reference (No 152 of 2002) [2003] EWCA Crim 996, [2003] 3 All ER 40, [2003] RTR 483. In R v Richardson supra it was suggested that for an offence of causing death by dangerous driving falling within the first category, the starting point should be a sentence of 12 months to two years; for an offence in the second category, the starting point should be a sentence of two years to four and a half years; for an offence in the third category, the starting point should be a sentence of four and a half to seven years; and for an offence in the fourth category, the starting point should be a sentence of seven to 14 years. In this case it was also said that at the lowest levels of seriousness, the guidance in R v Cooksley, R v Stride, R v Cook, A-G's Reference (No 152 of 2002) supra might remain appropriate (namely, for the first category, 12 to 18 months; for the second category, two to three years; for the third category, four or five years; and for the fourth category, six years or over). However, it should be noted that the Sentencing Advisory Panel consultation paper Causing Death by Driving Offences (January 2007) has proposed that for the first category there should be a range of 12 months to two years (with a starting point of 18 months); for the second category there should be a range of two to five years (with a starting point of three years); for the third category there should be a range of four to seven years (with a starting point of five years); and for the fourth category there should be a range of seven to 14 years (with a starting point of eight years).

6 Ie under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3A (as added): see PARA 974 ante. See R v Cooksley, R v Stride, R v Cook, A-G's Reference (No 152 of 2002) [2003] EWCA Crim 996, [2003] 3 All ER 40, [2003] RTR 483; R v Richardson [2006] EWCA Crim 3186, [2007] 2 All ER 601; and see the text and notes 2-5 supra. In relation to the offence of causing death by careless driving under the influence of drink or drugs, the four categories are: (1) circumstances where there is impairment just in excess of the limit; (2) circumstances where the alcohol intake is up to double the legal limit; (3) circumstances where the alcohol level is over twice the limit and there are one or more aggravating features; (4) circumstances where the alcohol level is three times or over the limit. Note, however, that the Sentencing Advisory Panel consultation paper Causing Death by Driving Offences (January 2007) has proposed that the third category should be abolished, and that for such offences falling within the first category there should be a range of 12 months to four years (with a starting point of two years); for the second category there should be a range of four to seven years (with a starting point of five years); and for the fourth category there should be a range of seven to 14 years (with a starting point of eight years).

Note that the Road Safety Act 2006 creates two new offences: causing death by careless driving, without having consumed excess alcohol (with a maximum sentence of five years' imprisonment); and causing death when the driver is unlicensed, disqualified or uninsured (with a maximum sentence of two years' imprisonment). It was suggested in R v Richardson supra that when the relevant provisions of the Road Safety Act 2006 come into force it will no longer be appropriate for the difference between dangerous and careless driving to be elided.

The following case law is illustrative of previous sentencing decisions, but must now be read in the light of R v Richardson supra.

It has been held that the offence of causing death by careless driving under the influence of drink or drugs may not require a custodial sentence if the circumstances are exceptional, the alcohol level is just over the borderline, the carelessness is momentary, and there is strong personal mitigation: A-G's References (Nos 14 and 24 of 1993) (R v Shephard; R v Wernet) (1993) 15 Cr App Rep (S) 640, CA. See also R v Brown (13 June 2000) Lexis, CA (sentenced reduced from 24 to 12 months' detention where the defendant was 17, had just passed the driving test, he was only 10% over the limit, the accident was perhaps more due to inexperience as a driver than to the effect of alcohol, he was of exemplary character and he had been remorseful and devastated by the consequences of the accident (the death of a friend)); A-G's Reference (No 56 of 2002) [2002] EWCA Crim 2292, [2003] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 476 (two years' imprisonment unduly lenient where offence resulted in two deaths and permanent serious injury); HM Advocate v Macpherson 2005 SLT 397, HCJ (18 months' imprisonment unduly lenient where offender, who had been disqualified from driving, had temporarily taken over driving while under the influence of cannabis; sentence increased to four years' imprisonment). However, four years' imprisonment was held not to be excessive where the offence consisted of erratic driving by an unqualified and uninsured driver, when he was under the influence of drugs, and this resulted in multiple collisions, one death and serious injuries to two other drivers: R v Suddaby (1995) 16 Cr App Rep (S) 853, CA. See also R v Zanardelli (5 October 2000) Lexis, CA (five years' imprisonment not manifestly excessive, despite a guilty plea, where the defendant was driving in the wrong lane and collided with an oncoming car, killing the driver of that car and injuring the defendant and his passenger; the defendant was substantially over the legal limit of alcohol; and the defendant has just completed a disqualification for driving with excess alcohol, which showed that his remorse was not as complete as it might have been).

Where the charge is causing death by careless driving and failing without reasonable excuse to provide an evidential specimen, it has been held that a court should approach a submission with caution that only a limited amount of alcohol was consumed; the ordinary inference to be drawn, unless the court is convinced it should not do so, is that the defendant refused to provide the specimen because he knew he had consumed alcohol well in excess of the prescribed limit: A-G's Reference (No 21 of 2000) (R v Hartwell) [2001] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 173, CA (30 months substituted for 12 months' imprisonment despite guilty plea, long friendship with the deceased, absence of animosity towards the defendant by those who knew the deceased, good driving record and the element of double jeopardy).

It has been held that in cases of careless driving (ie under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3 (as substituted): see PARA 971 ante), although culpability or criminality remains the primary consideration, where the driving causes death that consequence may be taken into account: R v Simmonds [1999] RTR 257, CA (distinguishing R v Krawec [1985] RTR 1, CA, on the ground that that case, though valid in its time, had been overtaken by various statutory changes that envisaged causing death as a factor leading to an enhanced sentencing bracket). See also R v Morling [1998] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 421, CA. See also R v King [2001] EWCA Crim 709, [2002] RTR 1 (multiple deaths readily foreseeable as consequence of lack of care).

7 See, by way of example of a case towards the top of the range, A-G's Reference (No 67 of 1995) (R v Lloyd) [1996] 2 Cr App Rep (S) 373, CA (seven years' imprisonment substituted for five years where the offender was convicted of causing death by dangerous driving, and pleaded guilty to aggravated vehicle taking; the facts were that he took a car from a car park and was later seen driving it, apparently in convoy with another car, at high speed, overtaking in a dangerous manner, and eventually he crossed a junction and collided with another car, killing a passenger; the defendant ran away from the scene and was arrested some weeks later; and he was on bail for aggravated vehicle taking at the time of the offence). See also A-G's Reference (No 69 of 1996) (R v Jackson) [1996] 2 Cr App Rep (S) 360, CA (where, after allowing for the element of double jeopardy involved in references by the Attorney General, a term of three years' imprisonment was increased to five years due to the aggregate of aggravating factors (which did not include evidence of excessive alcohol consumption or racing)). In R v Kyle (7 July 2000) Lexis, a term of seven years was upheld for causing death by dangerous driving where the defendant was convicted after a trial and the aggravating factors were not just the death of one passenger, but causing another to be so afraid that he wanted to leave the vehicle; the amount of drink taken and the conduct of the defendant in the public houses concerned; the factor of speed and horseplay or lack of control, the weather conditions (thick fog); leaving the scene to avoid the possibility of being breathalysed; and a poor driving record. A sentence that would have been near the maximum if the case had been contested is not appropriate for an offence that is by no means the worst of its kind: R v McGowan [1998] 2 Cr App Rep (S) 219, CA (seven years' imprisonment reduced to five). A case towards the other extreme is R v Carr [1996] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 107, CA, where the offender was driving at about 90 mph on the motorway and failed to see a car in front of him until immediately before colliding with it; the case crossed the custody threshold and a sentence of six months' imprisonment was upheld. See also R v Bailey [1996] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 129, CA (offender pulled out to overtake just before overtaking was prohibited by signs and collided head on with a motorcyclist; 12 months' imprisonment reduced to three to reflect the offender's excellent driving record, good employment, genuine and deep remorse, co-operation with the police and early guilty plea). For an example of a case of falling asleep while driving see R v de Meersman [1997] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 106, CA; and for an example of a case of driving for excessive periods see R v Kallaway [1998] 2 Cr App Rep (S) 228, CA. Where the danger arises from the defective state of the vehicle, and the vehicle is a heavy goods vehicle, thus enhancing the risk to the public arising from defective maintenance, an element of deterrence is required in the sentence: R v Balvinder Singh Kang [1997] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 306, CA (30 months' imprisonment upheld where a trailer had a braking efficiency of only 7% and the offender knew the brakes required attention). A deterrent element is similarly necessary where a person drives in defiance of medical warnings that it may be unsafe for him to drive due to a medical condition: R v Lowe [1997] 2 Cr App Rep (S) 324, CA (offender had had a number of epileptic fits over a period of years and his doctor had warned him against driving, but the sentence was reduced from three years' imprisonment to 18 months having regard to 'very strong mitigating factors').

9 See PARA 1009 ante.

10 See the guidelines laid down in R v Bird (1993) 14 Cr App Rep (S) 343, [1993] RTR 1, CA. See also R v Marron (1993) 14 Cr App Rep (S) 615, CA (defendant driving too fast and knocked down, and injured, a three-year-old child who had run into the road, but sentence reduced from 12 to six months because the consequences might have ensued in any event).

11 It is because the Aggravated Vehicle Taking Act 1992 (see PARA 1009 ante) was primarily aimed at young offenders among whom the offence was prevalent: R v Bird (1993) 14 Cr App Rep (S) 343, [1993] RTR 1, CA. See also R v Bradshaw, R v Waters (1994) Times, 31 December, CA.

However, it is not appropriate to order a passenger to take an extended driving test in addition to an order of obligatory disqualification: R v Bradshaw, R v Waters (1994) Times, 31 December, CA; followed in R v Wiggins (2000) Times, 23 June, CA.

C. DISQUALIFICATION

1057. Disqualification generally.

The most serious road traffic offences carry obligatory disqualification<sup>1</sup> and the minimum period of such disqualification is increased where there are relevant previous disqualifications<sup>2</sup>. Some of these offences further require the court to disqualify the offender until he has passed an extended driving test<sup>3</sup>.

Where a person is convicted of an offence involving discretionary disqualification<sup>4</sup> and the number of penalty points to be taken into account<sup>5</sup> on that occasion is 12 or more, the court must order the offender to be disqualified for the minimum period<sup>6</sup> unless there are grounds<sup>7</sup> for mitigating the normal consequences of the conviction<sup>8</sup>.

Where a person is convicted of an offence involving discretionary disqualification, and the number of penalty points to be taken into account on that occasion is less than 12<sup>9</sup>, the court may order the offender to be disqualified<sup>10</sup>.

Where an offender is convicted of an offence involving obligatory endorsement<sup>11</sup>, the court may, whether or not it imposes any other form of disqualification, disqualify the offender until he passes a test of competence to drive<sup>12</sup>.

There are other powers of disqualification from driving that are available in particular circumstances<sup>13</sup>.

3 See PARA 1071 post.

4 As to offences involving discretionary disqualification see PARA 1060 post.

5 As to penalty points to be taken into account on conviction see PARA 1050 ante.

6 This will be six months, one year or two years depending upon the existence, number and length of any previous disqualifications of at least 56 days imposed within the three years immediately preceding the commission of the latest offence in respect of which penalty points are taken into account under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 29 (as substituted): see PARA 1070 post.

7 No account may be taken of certain circumstances: see PARA 1070 post.

8 In such a case the court may order the offender to be disqualified for a shorter period or not at all: see PARA 1070 post.

9 This may depend on whether the court imposes discretionary disqualification for the current offence; for the procedure to be followed where liability to points' disqualification so depends see PARA 1061 note 4 post.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/C. DISQUALIFICATION/1058. Offences involving obligatory disqualification.

1058. Offences involving obligatory disqualification.

An offence involves obligatory disqualification if it is an offence under the road traffic legislation<sup>1</sup>, and either the word 'obligatory' without qualification appears in the schedule of offences<sup>2</sup> against the offence or that word appears there qualified by conditions or circumstances relating to the offence which are satisfied or obtain<sup>3</sup>.

- 1049 (1) causing death by dangerous driving<sup>4</sup>;
- 1050 (2) dangerous driving<sup>5</sup>;
- 1051 (3) causing death by careless driving when under the influence of drink or drugs<sup>6</sup>;
- 1052 (4) driving or attempting to drive when unfit through drink or drugs<sup>7</sup>;
- 1053 (5) driving or attempting to drive with excess alcohol in breath, blood or urine<sup>8</sup>;
- 1054 (6) failing to provide a specimen for analysis or laboratory test where the specimen was required to ascertain ability to drive or the proportion of alcohol at the time the offender was driving or attempting to drive<sup>9</sup>;
- 1055 (7) failing to allow specimen to be subjected to laboratory test where the test would be for ascertaining ability to drive or the proportion of alcohol at the time the offender was driving or attempting to drive<sup>10</sup>;
- 1056 (8) motor racing and speed trials on public ways<sup>11</sup>;
- 1057 (9) manslaughter by the driver of a motor vehicle<sup>12</sup>; and
- 1058 (10) aggravated vehicle-taking<sup>13</sup>.

Where a person is convicted of an offence involving obligatory disqualification, the court must order him to be disqualified for such period not less than 12 months<sup>14</sup> as the court thinks fit unless the court for special reasons<sup>15</sup> thinks fit to order him to be disqualified for a shorter period or not to order him to be disqualified<sup>16</sup>.

  - 1663 (1) causing death by careless driving when under the influence of drink or drugs (see the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3A (as added); and PARA 974 ante);
  - 1664 (2) driving or attempting to drive while unfit (see s 4(1) (as amended); and PARA 975 ante);

  - 1667 (5) failing to allow a specimen to be subjected to laboratory test where that is an offence involving obligatory disqualification (see s 7A(6) (as added); and PARA 987 ante), has within the ten years immediately preceding the commission of the offence been convicted of any such offence, the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(1) applies in relation to him as if the reference to 12 months were a reference to three years: s 34(3) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 29(1), (3); and the Police Reform Act 2002 ss 56(3), 107(2), Sch 8). In the circumstances described above, the court is bound to disqualify for a minimum of three years even if the defendant escaped disqualification for the earlier offence on the ground of special reasons: Bolliston v Gibbons [1985] RTR 176, DC.

Subject to the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(3) (as amended), s 34(1) applies as if the reference to 12 months were a reference to two years in relation to a person convicted of:

- 1668 (a) manslaughter, an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 1 (as substituted) (see PARA 963 ante) (causing death by dangerous driving) or an offence under s 3A (as added) (see PARA 974 ante) (causing death by careless driving while under the influence of drink or drugs) (Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(4)(a) (s 34(4) substituted by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 29(1), (4))); and
- 1669 (b) in relation to a person on whom more than one disqualification for a fixed period of 56 days or more has been imposed within the three years immediately preceding the commission of the offence (Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(4)(b) (as so substituted)).

Two disqualifications imposed for the same offence (which is no longer possible) count as one for the purpose of s 34(4)(b) (as substituted), but the question as to whether two disqualifications imposed on the same occasion for different offences count as one remains open: Learmont v DPP [1994] RTR 286, DC. For the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(4)(b) (as substituted) there must be disregarded any disqualification imposed under s 26 (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 1046 ante) or the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 147 (see SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 314) or the Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act 1975 s 223A (as added) or s 436A (as added) (offences committed by using vehicles) and any disqualification imposed in respect of an offence of stealing a motor vehicle, an offence under the Theft Act 1968 s 12 or s 25 (see PARA 1008 ante), an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 178, or an attempt to commit such an offence: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(4A) (added by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 29(1), (4); and amended by the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 165(1), Sch 9 para 121). For the meaning of 'motor vehicle' see PARA 210 ante.

Where a person convicted of an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 40A (as added) (using vehicle in dangerous condition etc) (see PARA 625 ante) has within the three years immediately preceding the commission of the offence been convicted of any such offence, s 34(1) applies in relation to him as if the reference to 12 months were a reference to six months: s 34(4B) (added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 25(1)).

The provisions of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(1)-(4A) (as amended) apply in relation to a conviction of an offence committed by aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring, or inciting to the commission of, an offence involving obligatory disqualification as if the offence were an offence involving discretionary disqualification: s 34(5). For the meaning of 'offence involving discretionary disqualification' see PARA 1060 post. No other concession is made in respect of the liability to punishment of a secondary party: see Ullah v Luckhurst [1977] RTR 401, DC; and PARA 1080 note 42 post. Where a person convicted of aiding and abetting a drink-driving offence commits within ten years another such offence he is liable to a minimum of three years' disqualification: Makeham v Donaldson [1981] RTR 511, [1981] Crim LR 570.

15 As to the special reasons see PARA 1059 post.

16 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(1). Where a person is convicted of an offence under the Theft Act 1968 s 12A (as added) (aggravated vehicle-taking) (see PARA 1009 ante), the fact that he did not drive the vehicle in question at any particular time or at all is not to be regarded as a special reason for the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(1): s 34(1A) (added by the Aggravated Vehicle-Taking Act 1992 s 3(2)). For the meaning of 'drive' see PARA 207 ante.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/C. DISQUALIFICATION/1059. Special reasons for not imposing obligatory disqualification.

1059. Special reasons for not imposing obligatory disqualification.

An offender convicted of an offence involving obligatory disqualification<sup>1</sup> must be disqualified for at least the prescribed minimum period<sup>2</sup> unless the court for special reasons thinks fit to disqualify him for a shorter period or not to disqualify him at all<sup>3</sup>.

To constitute special reasons the matter in question must meet the following requirements:

- 1059 (1) it must be a mitigating or extenuating circumstance;
- 1060 (2) it must not amount in law to a defence to the charge;

- 1061 (3) it must be directly connected with the commission of the offence; and 1062 (4) it must be a matter that the court ought properly to take into consideration when imposing punishment<sup>4</sup>.

The onus is upon the defendant to establish special reasons on a balance of probabilities<sup>5</sup>. For this purpose it is necessary for him to adduce evidence<sup>6</sup>.

It is a question of law whether, on the facts, it is open to the court to conclude that special reasons exist<sup>7</sup>. There are general considerations<sup>8</sup>, and there are reasons that apply more specifically to drink-driving offences<sup>9</sup>, including medical and other emergencies<sup>10</sup>, mistakes<sup>11</sup>, laced drinks<sup>12</sup>, failure to provide specimens<sup>13</sup> and other cases<sup>14</sup>. If the court finds special reasons, it is not bound to disqualify the offender, but it has a discretion to do so which it must exercise judicially. If the court finds special reasons a number of penalty points<sup>15</sup> will be attributed to the offence unless the court also finds special reasons for not endorsing the offender's driving licence<sup>16</sup>.

If the court refrains from imposing obligatory disqualification for special reasons it must state those reasons in open court and, if it is a magistrates' court, cause them to be entered in the register of its proceedings<sup>17</sup>.

The special reason exception applies only to circumstances peculiar to the offence in question and not to the offender: Jarvis v DPP (2000) 165 JP 15, DC (the offender, a diabetic suffering hypoglycaemia at time of offence, not eligible for exception).

5 Pugsley v Hunter [1973] 2 All ER 10, [1973] 1 WLR 578, DC.

7 See Knowler v Rennison [1947] KB 488, sub nom Rennison v Knowler [1947] 1 All ER 302.

8 The effect of a finding of special reasons is that the court is no longer bound to disqualify; however, it may in its discretion do so and in certain circumstances should do so: see eg Agnew v DPP [1991] RTR 144, DC, where a police officer engaged in police driver training was convicted of careless driving, and the court held that where there were competing considerations, namely the need for realistic police driver training and the safety of road users, the second must always be paramount. Where, however, special reasons are found to exist and there is no suggestion that the driving undertaken or contemplated could have posed any appreciable risk of danger to anyone at all it is hard to justify a period of disqualification in excess of the mandatory 12 months: R v St Albans Crown Court, ex p O'Donovan [2000] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 344 (a drink-driving case where the special reason was shortness of distance driven and intended to be driven).

Factors special to the offender and unconnected with the offence cannot give rise to special reasons; eg considerations of financial hardship, previous good character and many years of driving without complaint: see Whittall v Kirby [1947] KB 194, [1946] 2 All ER 552; R v Wickens (1958) 42 Cr App Rep 236, 122 JP 518; Nicholson v Brown [1974] RTR 177, DC; DPP v O'Meara [1989] RTR 24, DC. See also Jarvis v DPP (2000) 165 JP 15, DC (no special reasons for not imposing disqualification for an offence of dangerous driving, where the offence was the result of the defendant suffering a hypoglycaemic episode for which she was not culpable, since this was a circumstance peculiar to the offender).

The mere fact that the offence was a minor one cannot constitute special reasons: Nicholson v Brown supra (a case on the offence of careless driving); Delaroy-Hall v Tadman [1969] 2 QB 208, [1969] 1 All ER 25 (blood-alcohol level only slightly over the prescribed limit). However, unintentional commission of the offence can be a special reason if combined with some other factor: Marks v West Midlands Police [1981] RTR 471 at 475, DC, per Donaldson LJ (a speeding case).

Where an offender is liable to an enhanced minimum obligatory period of disqualification as a result of a relevant previous conviction (see PARA 1058 note 14 ante), it is not a special reason for not imposing that period that special reasons were found in relation to the previous offence or that the conviction in respect of it was only just within the relevant ten-year period and the offence itself was not within that period: Bolliston v Gibbons [1985] RTR 176, DC.

For cases involving driving offences by members of the emergency or rescue services or police officers and the need for a balance to be struck between effective response and not exposing road users to risk see R v Lundt-Smith [1964] 2 QB 167, [1964] 3 All ER 225n; R v O'Toole [1974] RTR 88, (1971) 55 Cr App R 206, CA; R v Collins (Lezlie) [1997] RTR 439, CA.

9 Where the shortness of distance driven is the basis of a submission of special reasons the following factors, of which the last is the most important, should be taken into account: (1) how far the vehicle was driven; (2) the manner in which it was driven; (3) the state of the vehicle; (4) whether it was the driver's intention to go further; (5) the prevalent road and traffic conditions; (6) whether there was a possibility of danger by coming into contact with other road users or pedestrians; and (7) the reason why the vehicle was being driven: Chatters v Burke [1986] 3 All ER 168, [1986] RTR 396, DC; applied in DPP v Conroy [2003] EWHC 1674 (Admin), [2004] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 244 (short distance travelled, passenger's condition and no intention to drive when consuming alcohol not giving rise to special reasons). See also James v Hall [1968] Crim LR 507; R v Agnew [1969] Crim LR 152, CA; R v Mullarkey [1970] Crim LR 406; Coombs v Kehoe [1972] 2 All ER 55, [1972] RTR 224, DC; Redmond v Parry [1986] RTR 146, DC; DPP v Rose (1988) 156 JP 733. In a case of attempt, the court must look not only at what the defendant achieved but also at what he had intended: DPP v Humphries [2000] RTR 52, DC (defendant pushed vehicle only a very short distance, but was very drunk and intended to drive the vehicle some considerable distance).

As to factors that complement the above in so-called emergency cases see DPP v Bristow [1998] RTR 100, DC.

10 A medical emergency is capable of amounting to a special reason: Brown v Dyerson [1969] 1 QB 45, [1968] 3 All ER 39. A genuine medical emergency may now, however, give rise to a complete defence, namely the defence of necessity or as it is sometimes called 'duress of circumstances', and it has been stated that the interrelation between special reasons and the defence may be a matter for future consideration: DPP v Whittle [1996] RTR 154 at 159, DC, per Simon Brown LJ. See further PARA 978 note 9 ante.

'Medical emergency' here refers to an unexpected situation arising in which a motorist who has been drinking but not intending to drive is impelled to drive by a sudden medical necessity: Brown v Dyerson supra. If the evidence of emergency is nebulous special reasons will not be established: Jacobs v Reed [1974] RTR 81, DC; Park v Hicks [1979] RTR 259, DC. The test which justices must apply is objective and not subjective: Jacobs v Reed supra.

The emergency must be such as to necessitate driving by the defendant: R v Baines [1970] Crim LR 590, CA; Evans v Bray [1977] RTR 24, DC. It will generally be very much more difficult to justify driving after an emergency has been dealt with as opposed to driving on an outward journey to deal with an emergency (Taylor v Rajan [1974] QB 424, [1974] 1 All ER 1087), and justices erred in finding special reasons in relation to a journey away from an emergency where there must have been means other than driving available to the defendant (DPP v Waller [1989] RTR 112, DC). See also DPP v Feeney (1988) 89 Cr App Rep 173; DPP v Goddard [1998] RTR 463. Special reasons may, however, extend within reasonable limits after the emergency has ceased to exist: Jacobs v Reed supra; followed in Williams v Tierney [1988] RTR 118, DC.

Driving as a result of a crisis occasioned by irresponsible planning on the defendant's part cannot amount to special reasons: Powell v Gliha [1979] RTR 126, DC. It is also very doubtful whether going to see a near relative because an emotional need is felt to make the journey can ever amount to a special reason: Thompson v Diamond [1985] RTR 316, DC.

It is not open to justices to find special reasons where a driver decides to drink knowing he will or will probably have to drive: DPP v Doyle [1993] RTR 369, DC. Neither may justices find special reasons where the emergency has no bearing on the offence of which the defendant is convicted: Anderton v Anderton [1977] RTR 424, DC (driving to hospital with cut hand, but convicted of refusing to supply a specimen).

The key question justices should ask themselves in so-called emergency cases is would a sober, reasonable and responsible friend of the defendant present at the time, but himself a non-driver and thus unable to help, have advised in the circumstances to drive or not to drive: DPP v Bristow [1998] RTR 100, DC. The most critical circumstances influencing that advice would be how much the defendant had had to drink; what threat he would pose to others driving in that condition; given the distance proposed, likely state of the roads and condition of the vehicle, how acute a problem there was; and what, if any, alternatives were open to the defendant: DPP v Bristow supra. Those four circumstances complement the seven listed in Chatters v Burke [1986] 3 All ER 168, [1986] RTR 396, DC (see note 9 heads (1) to (7) supra).

Even where the facts disclose special reasons, there is a serious burden upon justices to decide whether in the exercise of their discretion they should not disqualify; they should have very much in mind that a person who deliberately drives knowing that he has consumed a considerable quantity of drink presents a potential source of danger to the public that no private crisis can lightly excuse: Taylor v Rajan supra. Justices should consider the whole of the circumstances including the nature and degree of the crisis or emergency; whether there were alternative means of transport or alternative methods of dealing with the crisis other than the defendant's use of his own car; the manner in which the defendant drove; generally whether the defendant acted responsibly or otherwise; and the alcohol content in the defendant's body: Taylor v Rajan supra. Rarely, if ever, should justices exercise their discretion in favour of a defendant whose alcohol level exceeded by more than 25% the prescribed limit of alcohol: Taylor v Rajan supra. As to the prescribed limit see PARA 978 ante.

For examples of cases in which special reasons were found to exist see DPP v Upchurch [1994] RTR 366, DC (driving injured friends to hospital when no ambulances were available and no taxi would come to the scene); DPP v Knight [1994] RTR 374, DC (driving home after being implored to do so by 14-year-old babysitter who had received a number of very threatening telephone calls); DPP v Enston [1996] RTR 324, DC (defendant blackmailed into driving by woman threatening to cry rape); DPP v Cox [1996] RTR 123, DC (club steward driving 300 yards, but only using 150 yards of road, following activation of intruder alarm).

11 A mere mistake as to the amount of alcohol consumed cannot constitute a special reason (Newnham v Trigg [1970] RTR 107); neither can ignorance of the long term effect of alcohol (DPP v O'Meara [1989] RTR 24, DC); nor a mistake or miscalculation as to whether a particular quantity of beer could result in a reading in excess of the prescribed limit (Knight v Baxter [1971] RTR 270, DC); nor driving after a first, negative roadside test follow by a later positive one where the defendant was ignorant of the delayed effect of alcohol and his consequent risk in driving, but his decision to continue driving was not made by reason of the result of the first test (DPP v White [1988] RTR 267, DC). Special reasons may be found, however, where the act or default of a third party contributed to the defendant's mistake: R v Messom [1973] RTR 140, CA (motorist asked for a large ginger ale topped up with a small whisky, but was given a small ginger ale topped up with a large brandy); Alexander v Latter [1972] RTR 441, DC (publican not warning defendant that a particular beer was of extra strength; although the case was described as borderline and was distinguished in Adams v Bradley [1975] RTR 233, DC, where the defendant gave no attention to the type or strength of lager that another had bought for him). Special reasons may also be found where the defendant's breath reading (40 micrograms) was only just at the figure justifying prosecution and that included 1.7 micrograms attributable to cough linctus that the defendant had taken in ignorance of the fact that it contained alcohol: R v Cambridge Magistrates' Court, ex p Wong [1992] RTR 382, DC. See also Robinson v DPP [2003] EWHC 2718 (Admin), (2004) 168 JP 522, DC (special reasons not established where person who did not consume alcohol for religious reasons drank punch mistakenly believed to be non-alcoholic, as there was duty to inquire whether drink contained alcohol).

The fact that a motorist had no idea that a combination of sleeping tablets and drink would produce a greater reaction in terms of her ability to drive than drink alone cannot be a special reason: R v Scott [1970] 1 QB 661, [1969] 2 All ER 450, CA. However, an injured motorist who took drugs not knowing he would be more susceptible to the effect of alcohol (see Chapman v O'Hagan [1949] 2 All ER 690, DC), and a motorist ignorant of the fact that prolonged exposure to trichloroethylene fumes would heighten the effect of later drinks (see Brewer v Metropolitan Police Comr [1969] 1 All ER 513, [1969] 1 WLR 267, DC) could plead special reasons.

12 If a motorist establishes that: (1) his drink was laced; (2) he did not know or suspect that it was laced; and (3) he would not have been over the prescribed limit but for the alcohol he unwittingly consumed, the court may find special reasons: Pugsley v Hunter [1973] 2 All ER 10, [1973] RTR 284, DC. The defendant cannot discharge the burden of proving special reasons in a laced drink case without calling medical evidence, unless a layman could reliably and confidently say that the lacing was responsible for the excess alcohol in the defendant's blood: Pugsley v Hunter supra at 291 per Lord Widgery CJ. See also Smith v DPP [1990] RTR 17, DC; DPP v Younas [1990] RTR 22n, DC; DPP v O'Connor [1992] RTR 66, DC. In responding to a submission of special reasons in a laced drink case, the prosecutor is entitled, if this can be done by straightforward and relatively simple evidence, to show that at the time of the offence the defendant's blood-alcohol concentration was higher than that shown in his certified analysis presented to the court: Smith v Geraghty [1986] RTR 222, DC.

Even if a court finds special reasons due to laced drinks, it may still in its discretion impose disqualification: R v Newton [1974] RTR 451, CA; DPP v O'Connor supra. In this respect it is relevant to consider whether the defendant should have realised that he was unfit to drive: Pridige v Grant [1985] RTR 196, DC; DPP v Barker [1990] RTR 1, DC; Donahue v DPP [1993] RTR 156, DC.

13 A genuine fear of contracting HIV as a result of blowing into the mouthpiece of an evidential breath-testing device is capable of amounting to special reasons, and while the failure to give that explanation at the time of the refusal will usually be a factor in the court's deliberations and may bear upon the bona fides of the defendant it does not exclude as a matter of law the possibility of a finding of special reasons: DPP v Kinnersley [1993] RTR 105, DC.

Special reasons existed where the defendant helped another to 'bump start' a motor cycle, drove it only 35 yards, was arrested on suspicion of theft, the owner went to the police station to exculpate the defendant but the latter was not told that the charge of theft was no longer being explored, the defendant was required to provide a specimen of breath for analysis and was warned of the consequences of failure but he was still focusing on the allegation of theft, and if the defendant had known the charge of theft was no longer being explored he might have taken a different view of the request for a specimen: Daniels v DPP [1992] RTR 140, DC.

Post-accident consumption of alcohol (which is no longer a defence to a drink-driving charge) cannot amount to a special reason for not supplying a specimen for analysis: Courtman v Masterson [1978] RTR 457, DC.

The fact that the defendant was not driving at the material time can amount to special reasons: McCormick v Hitchins [1988] RTR 182n, DC; Bunyard v Hayes [1985] RTR 348n, DC. However, where the defendant intended to drive and would have done so but for the intervention of another, justices may either conclude that there are no special reasons or find special reasons but decline to exercise their discretion not to endorse the defendant's licence: R v Ashford and Tenterden Magistrates' Court, ex p Wood [1988] RTR 178, DC.

14 Where a defendant was informed that he was not going to be prosecuted and consequently destroyed the sample of blood he had been given for analysis, but was then prosecuted on a prosecution analysis showing only marginal excess alcohol, there were special reasons for not ordering disqualification in that the defendant had been deprived of a possible defence: R v Anderson [1972] RTR 113, CA. Where, however, a defendant was informed six weeks after the incident that he would not be prosecuted and he destroyed his part specimen as a result, and he was then prosecuted on a prosecution analysis showing that he was more than twice the limit, the special reason was not such as to justify not imposing the normal disqualification: Doyle v Leroux [1981] RTR 438, DC. See, however, Harding v Oliver [1973] RTR 497, DC (held that R v Anderson supra was not to be extended beyond its own very special facts and loss of the defendant's part of the specimen was incapable of amounting to a special reason); Lodwick v Brow [1984] RTR 394, DC (held that the decision in Doyle v Leroux supra was per incuriam as Harding v Oliver supra had not been cited and it was not, therefore, to be looked upon as authority for the proposition that loss of a specimen can be treated as a special reason).

A mistaken, but genuine, belief that a constable, aware of the defendant's consumption of alcohol, wanted the defendant to move his car (because it was blocking a side turning), is capable of amounting to a special reason: R v McIntyre [1976] RTR 330, CA (distinguished in De Munthe v Stewart [1982] RTR 27, DC, where the defendant drove with excess alcohol before being asked to re-park his vehicle by the constable).

16 As to the endorsement of licences see PARA 1080 et seq post.

17 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 47(1). The requirement to state the grounds is discretionary, not mandatory, and non-compliance does not provide grounds of appeal: Barnes v Gevaux [1981] RTR 236.

1060. Offences involving discretionary disqualification and other powers of disqualification.

An offence involves discretionary disqualification if it is an offence under the road traffic legislation<sup>1</sup>, and either the word 'discretionary' without qualification appears in the schedule of offences<sup>2</sup> against the offence or that word appears there qualified by conditions or circumstances relating to the offence which are satisfied or obtain<sup>3</sup>.

1063 (1) contravening a temporary prohibition or restriction<sup>4</sup>;

- 1074 (12) failing to allow a specimen to be subjected to laboratory test, except where the test would be for ascertaining the ability to drive or the proportion of alcohol at the time offender was driving or attempting to drive<sup>16</sup>;
- 1075 (13) leaving a vehicle in a dangerous position if committed in respect of a motor vehicle<sup>17</sup>;
- 1076 (14) unlawfully carrying a passenger on a motor cycle<sup>18</sup>;
- 1077 (15) failing to comply with traffic directions if committed in respect of a motor vehicle by failure to comply with a direction of a constable or traffic warden<sup>19</sup>;
- 1078 (16) failing to comply with traffic signs if committed in respect of a motor vehicle by failure to comply with an indication given by a sign specified for these purposes<sup>20</sup>;

Where a person is convicted of an offence involving discretionary disqualification and either: (a) the penalty points to be taken into account on that occasion number fewer than 12<sup>36</sup>; or (b) the offence is not one involving obligatory endorsement<sup>37</sup>, the court may order him to be disqualified for such period as it thinks fit<sup>38</sup>. This provision applies in relation to a conviction of an offence committed by aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring, or inciting to the commission of an offence involving obligatory disqualification<sup>39</sup>.

Disqualification may also be imposed in respect of:

- 1093 (i) certain offences where the court is satisfied that a motor vehicle was used (by the person convicted or by anybody else) for the purpose of committing, or facilitating the commission of, the offence<sup>40</sup>;
- 1094 (ii) common assault or any other offence involving an assault, including aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring, or inciting any such offence, where the court is satisfied that the assault was committed by driving a motor vehicle<sup>41</sup>;
- 1095 (iii) any offence instead of or in addition to dealing with the offender in any other way<sup>42</sup>; and
- 1096 (iv) default in payment of a sum adjudged to be paid by a conviction of a magistrates' court<sup>43</sup>.

- 40 Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 147. This provision is amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 ss 10(12), 59, Sch 3 paras 71, 73, Sch 7. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

This power is exercisable only by the Crown Court and is limited to offences punishable on indictment with imprisonment for a term of at least two years (including any such offence committed to the Crown Court for sentence by a magistrates' court): Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 147(1). Facilitating the commission of an offence for the purposes of s 147 is taken to include the taking of any steps after it has been committed for the purpose of disposing of any property to which it relates or of avoiding apprehension or detection: s 147(6). Facilitating the commission of an offence also includes using a motor vehicle to pursue another car prior to assaulting its driver: R v Rajesh Patel (1994) 16 Cr App Rep (S) 756, CA. See also R v Mathews [1975] RTR 32, CA; R v Brown (Edward) [1975] RTR 36, CA; R v Thomas (Derek) [1975] RTR 38, CA; R v Devine (1990) 12 Cr App Rep (S) 235, CA; R v Riley [1984] Crim LR 40, CA; R v Arif (1985) 7 Cr App Rep (S) 92, CA. As to the length of disqualification where a vehicle was used, on a regular basis over a sustained period, to carry goods in the fraudulent evasion of duty see R v Long (9 December 1999) Lexis, CA (three years' disqualification upheld). A court which disqualifies an offender under this provision must require him to produce any driving licence he holds together with its counterpart or, in the case where he holds a Northern Ireland licence or a Community licence, his Northern Ireland licence or Community licence and its counterpart (if any): Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 147(5) (amended by the Crime (International Co-operation)

Act 2003 s 91(1), Sch 5 paras 72, 74, Sch 6). For the meaning of 'Northern Ireland licence' see PARA 443 note 7 ante; for the meaning of 'counterpart' see PARA 415 note 19 ante; and for the meaning of 'Community licence' see PARA 415 note 16 ante (definitions applied by ss 146(5), 147(7)).

References to counterpart in s 147(5) and to the definition of 'counterpart' are repealed as from a day to be appointed: ss 146(5), 147(5), (7) (amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 3 paras 72, 73, Sch 7). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

41 Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 147(2), (4). A court which disqualifies an offender under this provision must require him to produce any driving licence he holds together with its counterpart or, in the cases where he holds a Community licence, his Community licence and its counterpart (if any): see note 40 supra.

42 Ibid s 146(1). Where the sentence for the offence is fixed by a law, or is a minimum mandatory sentence under s 109(2), s 110(2) or s 111(2), s 146(1) has effect as if the words 'instead of or' were omitted. A court may not make an order under this provision unless it has been notified by the Secretary of State that the power to make such orders is exercisable by the court and the notice has not been withdrawn: s 146(3). A court which disqualifies an offender under this provision must require him to produce any driving licence he holds together with its counterpart: s 146(4) (amended by the Crime (International Co-operation) Act 2003 Sch 5 para 73, Sch 6). As from a day to be appointed, the references to counterpart in the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 146(4) (as amended) are repealed: s 146(4) (amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 3 para 72, Sch 7). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. The power to disqualify under the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 146 (as amended) is not limited to a particular offence; nor is it necessary that the offence is connected with the use of a motor vehicle: R v Cliff [2004] EWCA Crim 3139, [2005] RTR 147. See also R v Waring [2005] EWCA Crim 1080, [2006] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 56.

43 Crime (Sentences) Act 1997 s 40 (amended by the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 165(1), Sch 9, PARA 185 and the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 s 456, Sch 11 paras 1, 32(1), (3)). This provision is repealed, as from a day to be appointed, by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 ss 303(b)(iii), 332, Sch 37 Pt 7. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

A court may not make an order under this provision unless it has been notified by the Secretary of State that the power to make such orders is exercisable by the court and the notice has not been withdrawn: Crime (Sentences) Act 1997 s 40(3). Section 40 (as amended) applies only to offences committed on or after 1 January 1998: see the Crime (Sentences) Act 1997 (Commencement No 2 and Transitional Provisions Order 1997, SI 1997/2200, art 3. It does not apply to sums ordered to be paid under the Criminal Justice Act 1988 s 71 (as amended), the Drug Trafficking Act 1994 s 2 (as amended) or the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 s 6: Crime (Sentences) Act 1997 s 40(1)(a) (amended by the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 s 456, Sch 11 paras 1, 32(1), (3)). The power to disqualify under this provision is exercisable where a magistrates' court would, but for the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 89 have power under the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 Pt III (ss 75-96A) (as amended) (see MAGISTRATES) to issue a warrant of commitment for default: Crime (Sentences) Act 1997 s 40(1)(b) (amended by the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 165(1), Sch 9 para 185). As from a day to be appointed, this provision is further amended by the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000 s 74, Sch 7 Pt II paras 135, 140. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. The court may then, instead of issuing a warrant of commitment or proceeding under the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 81 (as amended) (enforcement of fines imposed on young offenders), disqualify the defaulter for up to 12 months: Crime (Sentences) Act 1997 s 40(2). The Secretary of State may by order made by statutory instrument vary the aforementioned period, provided a draft of the order has been laid before and approved by resolution of each House of Parliament: s 40(5). On payment of the whole of the outstanding sum the order ceases to have effect: s 40(4)(a). Part payment reduces the period of disqualification proportionately, rounded down to the nearest number of complete weeks or months: s 40(4)(b). A court which disqualifies an offender under this provision must require him to produce any driving licence he holds together with its counterpart: s 40(6) (substituted by the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 165(1), Sch 9 para 185(1), (3)).

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/C. DISQUALIFICATION/1061. Procedure and general principles in relation to disqualification.

1061. Procedure and general principles in relation to disqualification.

An order for disqualification does not need to be attached to a separate sentence of the court<sup>1</sup>.

If a court is considering the imposition of a period of disqualification which the defendant or his counsel might not be anticipating, it should in fairness warn the defendant and afford him an opportunity to make representations as to why he should not be disqualified<sup>2</sup>.

A magistrates' court may not in a person's absence impose any disqualification upon him except on resumption of the hearing; and where a trial is adjourned in pursuance of this provision the notice of the time and place of the resumed hearing must include notice of the reason for the adjournment<sup>3</sup>.

It is not possible to impose discretionary disqualification unless the penalty points to be taken into account on that occasion number fewer than 12, or the offence is not one involving obligatory endorsement<sup>4</sup>.

Subject to the minimum periods prescribed for offences involving obligatory disqualification<sup>5</sup> and for disqualification for repeated offences<sup>6</sup>, the court may disqualify for such period as it thinks fit<sup>7</sup>.

Disqualification commences from the moment that it is announced<sup>8</sup> and runs concurrently with any other order of disqualification imposed on that or a previous occasion<sup>9</sup>.

Offences for which disqualification or endorsement is a proper penalty should not be taken into consideration when an offender is being sentenced for another offence<sup>10</sup>.

See, however, R v Surrey Quarter Sessions, ex p Metropolitan Police Comr [1963] 1 QB 990, [1962] 1 All ER 825, DC, in which it was held that an order of disqualification is not a sentence except where it falls to be so regarded by virtue of particular statutory provisions.

2 R v Ireland [1989] Crim LR 458; R v Scott [1989] Crim LR 920, CA.

3 Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 11(4). A person may not be convicted in his absence and disqualified in the same proceedings; there must be an adjournment under what is now s 11(4): R v Afan Justices, ex p Chaplin [1983] RTR 168, DC. See also R v Totton Justices, ex p McDiarmant [1958] Crim LR 543; R v Llandrindod Wells Justices, ex p Gibson [1968] 2 All ER 20, [1968] 1 WLR 598, DC; R v Mason [1965] 2 All ER 308, DC. See, however, R v Macclefield Justices, ex p Jones [1983] RTR 143, DC (application for judicial review refused where the defendant had been given an ample opportunity to defend himself over a long period and had deliberately elected to go abroad on business; the only effect of his absence was that the justices would have had to adjourn the hearing yet again to deal with the question of disqualification; the defendant was liable to a minimum period of three years disqualification in the absence of special reasons; there was no indication or possibility of raising special reasons; therefore, it was futile to send the case back to the justices to consider the question of disqualification in the defendant's presence).

Where an order for disqualification is invalid because the defendant is not given an opportunity to be heard on the question of disqualification and the defendant, ignorant of its invalidity, subsequently pleads guilty to driving in contravention of that disqualification, a quashing order (formerly known as an order of certiorari) may be made to quash the latter as well as the former conviction: R v Middleton, Bromley and Bexley Justices, ex p Collins [1970] 1 QB 216, [1969] 3 All ER 800, DC.

4 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(2) (substituted by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 29(1), (2)). As to the number of penalty points to be taken into account see PARA 1050 ante. In Jones v Chief Constable West Mercia Police Authority [2000] All ER (D) 1344, (2000) 165 JP 6, DC, the court resolved the circular difficulty arising from the fact that discretionary disqualification cannot be imposed unless the penalty points to be taken into account on that occasion number fewer than 12 (ie under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(2) (as substituted)), but the number of penalty points to be taken into account on that occasion will not include any (normally) attributable to any offence in respect of which a disqualification order is made (ie under s 29(1)(a) (as substituted) (see PARA 1050 ante)), by holding: (1) the regimes under s 34 (as amended) and s 35 (as amended) ran in parallel and were not mutually exclusive; (2) when faced with a choice between the two, justices should first consider their powers under s 34 (as amended) and should only consider the current offence; (3) the discretion whether or not to disqualify should, however, be exercised in the light of the offender's entire record; and (4) therefore, if the justices concluded that the defendant was a repeat offender and a longer period of disqualification was appropriate, they had the discretion not to disqualify under s 34 (as amended) and to impose penalty points.

As to reduced disqualification for attendance at a course see PARA 1062 post; as to suspension of disqualification pending appeal see PARA 1074 post; as to removal of disqualification see PARA 1078 post; and as to the effect of orders of disqualification see PARA 1072 post.

6 As to disqualification for repeated offences see PARA 1070 post.

7 The court cannot disqualify for an indefinite period: R v Fowler [1937] 2 All ER 380, 26 Cr App Rep 80, CCA. Disqualification for life is, however, for a certain period and is therefore permissible: R v Tunde-Orlarinde [1967] 2 All ER 491n, [1967] 1 WLR 911, CA. Disqualification for life is wrong, however, unless there are unusual circumstances: R v North [1971] RTR 366, CA. See also R v Tantrum (1989) 11 Cr App Rep (S) 348, CA; R v Devall (1992) 13 Cr App Rep (S) 598, CA; R v Lark (1993) 14 Cr App Rep (S) 196, CA; R v Rivano (1993) 14 Cr App Rep (S) 578, CA; R v Fazal [1999] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 152, CA.

Where a defendant is shown by his bad driving to be a menace, a sufficiently long period of disqualification is necessary to allow him to mature: R v Gibbons (1987) 9 Cr App Rep (S) 21, CA. Multiple drink-driving convictions may also justify a very long period of disqualification: R v McClaughlin [1978] RTR 452, [1978] Crim LR 300, CA (20 years upheld on a driver with a drink problem convicted of four drink-driving offences committed on three different occasions, who had three previous drink-driving convictions); R v Ealing Justices, ex p Scrafield [1994] RTR 195, DC (ten years' disqualification not irrational, harsh or oppressive for a third drink-driving conviction within two years). It is accepted sentencing policy, however, that with persons who seem incapable of leaving motor vehicles alone periods of disqualification that extend substantially beyond their release from prison may well invite them to commit further offences and thus be counter-productive and contrary to the public interest: R v Thomas [1983] 3 All ER 756, 5 Cr App Rep (S) 354, CA; followed in R v Matthews (1987) 9 Cr App Rep (S) 1, CA. See also R v Shirley [1969] 3 All ER 678, [1969] 1 WLR 1357, CA; R v Pashley [1974] RTR 149, CA; R v West (1986) 8 Cr App Rep (S) 266, CA; R v Russell (Ian) [1993] RTR 249n, CA. This principle has been followed in respect of a defendant who might in future want to earn his living from driving, even though he had not previously done so: R v King [1993] RTR 245, (1992) 13 Cr App Rep (S) 668, CA.

Where the complaint is solely as to the length of disqualification, the appropriate course is to appeal to the Crown Court; the Divisional Court will only interfere and grant judicial review if the length of the order was 'truly astonishing': R v Croydon Crown Court, ex p Miller (1986) 85 Cr App Rep 152 at 155 per Watkins LJ; R v Ealing Justices, ex p Scrafield supra at 202 per Evans LJ. The same test applies to appeals by way of case stated: Universal Salvage Ltd v Boothby [1984] RTR 289; Tucker v DPP [1992] 4 All ER 901, [1994] RTR 203n, DC. See also R v St Alban's Crown Court, ex p O'Donovan [2000] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 344, DC (20 month's disqualification wholly disproportionate to the gravity of a drink-driving offence in which special reasons had been found not to impose obligatory disqualification).

8 R v Phillips [1955] 3 All ER 273n, [1955] 1 WLR 1103, CCA; R v Bradley [1961] 1 All ER 669, [1961] 1 WLR 398, CCA; R v Meese [1973] 2 All ER 1103, [1973] 1 WLR 675, CA; R v Kent [1983] 3 All ER 1, [1983] 1 WLR 794, CA.

9 R v Kent [1983] 3 All ER 1, [1983] 1 WLR 794, CA; R v Sandwell [1985] RTR 45.

10 R v Collins [1947] KB 560, [1947] 1 All ER 147, CCA; R v Simons [1953] 2 All ER 599, sub nom R v Simons and Simons [1953] 1 WLR 1014, CCA. However, a court may take into consideration another offence of a similar kind: R v Jones [1970] 3 All ER 815, [1970] 1 WLR 1494, CA. If such an offence is so taken into consideration it does not entitle the court to impose disqualification if the offence for which sentence is being passed is not disqualifiable: R v Williams [1962] 3 All ER 639, [1962] 1 WLR 1268, CCA.

1063. Certificates of completion of courses.

An offender is to be regarded<sup>2</sup> as having completed a course satisfactorily if, and only if, a certificate that he has done so is received by the proper officer of the supervising court<sup>3</sup> before the end of the period of disqualification<sup>4</sup>. If the certificate referred to above is received by the proper officer of the supervising court before the end of the period of disqualification<sup>4</sup> but after the end of the period as it would have been reduced by the order, the order has effect as if the reduced period ended with the day on which the certificate is received by the proper officer<sup>5</sup>. The certificate must be in such form, containing such particulars, and given by such person, as may be prescribed by, or determined in accordance with, regulations made by the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup>. A course organiser<sup>7</sup> must give the certificate to the offender not later than 14 days after the date specified in the order as the latest date for completion of the course, unless the offender fails to make due payment of the fees for the course, fails to attend the course in accordance with the organiser's reasonable instructions, or fails to comply with any other reasonable requirements of the organiser<sup>8</sup>. Where a course organiser decides not to give the certificate, he must give written notice of his decision to the offender as soon as possible, and in any event not later than 14 days after the date specified in the order as the latest date for completion of the course<sup>9</sup>. If 14 days after the date specified in the order as the latest date for completion of the course the course organiser has given neither the certificate of completion nor such a notice, the offender may, within such period as may be prescribed by rules of court, apply to the supervising court for a declaration that the course organiser is in default<sup>10</sup>. Where the proper officer of a court receives a certificate, or a court grants an application<sup>11</sup>, the proper officer or court must send notice of that fact to the Secretary of State; and the notice must be sent in such manner and to such address, and must contain such particulars, as the Secretary of State may determine<sup>12</sup>.

9 Ibid s 34B(4) (as added: see note 4 supra).

10 Ibid s 34B(5) (as added: see note 4 supra). The Road Traffic (Courses for Drink-Drive Offenders) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/3013, are made under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34B(8) (as so added). An application to the supervising court under s 34B(6), (7) (as added) must be served on the clerk of that court within 28 days after the date specified in an order under s 34A(2) (as added) (see PARA 1062 ante): see CrimPR r 55.3(1). An application under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34B(6) (as added) must be accompanied by the notice under s 34B(5) (as added): CrimPR r 55.3(2). On being served with such an application, the clerk of the court must: (1) fix a date and time for the hearing of the application; (2) serve a copy of the application on the course organiser; and (3) serve notice of the hearing on the applicant and course organiser: CrimPR r 55.3(3). If the course organiser fails to appear or be represented at the hearing of the application without reasonable excuse, the court may proceed to decide the application in his absence: CrimPR r 55.3(4).

If the court grants the application, s 34A (as added) (see PARA 1062 ante) has effect as if the certificate had been duly received by the clerk of the court: s 34B(7) (as so added). As to references to the clerk see note 2 supra.

Where: (1) a person is convicted of a relevant drink offence<sup>2</sup> or a specified offence<sup>3</sup> by or before a court; and (2) the court makes an order<sup>4</sup> disqualifying him for a period of not less than 12 months<sup>5</sup>, the court may make an order that the period of disqualification ('the unreduced period') is to be reduced if, by the relevant date<sup>6</sup>, the offender satisfactorily completes an approved course<sup>7</sup> specified in the order<sup>8</sup>. The reduction made in a period of disqualification by an order under these provisions is a period specified in the order of not less than three months and not more than one quarter of the unreduced period (and, accordingly, where the unreduced period is 12 months, the reduced period is nine months)<sup>9</sup>.

A court may not make an order in the case of an offender convicted of a specified offence if<sup>10</sup>: (a) the offender has, during the period of three years ending with the date on which the offence was committed, committed a specified offence and successfully completed an approved course<sup>11</sup> on conviction of that offence<sup>12</sup>; or (b) the specified offence was committed during his probationary period<sup>13</sup>.

A court may not make an order under these provisions in the case of an offender unless<sup>14</sup>: (i) the court is satisfied that a place on the course specified in the order will be available for the offender<sup>15</sup>; (ii) the offender appears to the court to be of or over the age of 17<sup>16</sup>; (iii) the court has informed the offender (orally or in writing and in ordinary language) of the effect of the order and of the amount of the fees which he is required to pay for the course and when he must pay them<sup>17</sup>; and (iv) the offender has agreed that the order should be made<sup>18</sup>.

If an application is made to the appropriate national authority for the approval of a course for the above purposes, the appropriate national authority must decide whether to grant or refuse the application<sup>19</sup>. In reaching that decision the appropriate national authority must have regard to the nature of the course and to whether the course provider<sup>20</sup> is an appropriate person to provide the course and administer its provision efficiently and effectively, and may take into account any recommendations made by any persons appointed to consider the application<sup>21</sup>.

A course may be approved subject to conditions specified by the appropriate national authority<sup>22</sup>. An approval of a course is for the period specified by the appropriate national authority (which must not exceed seven years), subject to withdrawal of approval<sup>23</sup>.

Regulations made by the appropriate national authority may make provision in relation to the approval of courses and may, in particular, include provision: (A) in relation to the making of applications for approval; (B) for the payment in respect of applications for approval, or of approvals (or of both), of fees of such amounts as are prescribed by the regulations; (C) specifying the maximum fees that a person may be required to pay for a course and by when they are to be paid; (D) for the monitoring of courses and course providers; (E) in relation to withdrawing approval; (F) for an appeal to lie to the Transport Tribunal<sup>24</sup> against a refusal of an application for approval, the imposition of conditions on the grant of such an application or the withdrawal of approval; and (G) authorising the appropriate national authority to make available (with or without charge) information about courses and course providers<sup>25</sup>.

The appropriate national authority may issue guidance to course providers, or to any category of course provider, as to the conduct of courses approved for the above purposes<sup>26</sup>. Course providers must have regard to any such guidance given to them<sup>27</sup>; and in determining<sup>28</sup> whether any instructions or requirements of a course provider were reasonable, a court must have regard to any guidance given to him under this provision<sup>29</sup>.

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

1064 Reduced disqualification period for attendance at courses: replacement provisions

TEXT AND NOTE 24--Reference to Transport Tribunal is now to First-tier Tribunal: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34BA(5) (amended by SI 2009/1885).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131; VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/C. DISQUALIFICATION/1065. Certificates of completion of courses: replacement provisions.

1065. Certificates of completion of courses: replacement provisions.

An offender is to be regarded<sup>2</sup> as having completed a course satisfactorily if (and only if) a certificate<sup>3</sup> that he has done so is received by the proper officer<sup>4</sup> of the supervising court<sup>5</sup> before the end of the unreduced period<sup>6</sup>. If a certificate is so received before the end of the unreduced period but after the end of the period which would (apart from this provision) be the reduced period, the reduced period is to be taken to end with the day on which the certificate is so received<sup>7</sup>.

A course provider must give a certificate to the offender not later than 14 days after the date specified in the order as the latest date for the completion of the course<sup>8</sup> unless the offender: (1) fails to make due payment of fees for the course<sup>9</sup>; (2) fails to attend the course in accordance with the course provider's reasonable instructions<sup>10</sup>; or (3) fails to comply with any other reasonable requirement of the course provider<sup>11</sup>.

Where a course provider decides not to give a certificate to the offender, he must give written notice of the decision to the offender as soon as possible, and in any event not later than 14 days after the date specified in the order as the latest date for completion of the course<sup>12</sup>. An offender to whom such a notice is given may, within such period as may be prescribed by rules of court, apply to the supervising court, or (if the supervising court is not the Crown Court or the relevant local court<sup>13</sup>) to either the supervising court or the relevant local court, for a declaration that the course provider's decision not to give a certificate was contrary to the statutory requirements<sup>14</sup> above<sup>15</sup>. If the court grants the application, the provisions as to reduced disqualification<sup>16</sup> will have effect as if the certificate had been duly received by the proper officer of the supervising court<sup>17</sup>.

If, 14 days after the date specified in the order as the latest date for completion of the course, the course provider has given neither a certificate nor a notice, the offender may, within such period as may be prescribed by rules of court, apply to the supervising court, or (if the supervising court is not the Crown Court or the relevant local court) to either the supervising court or the relevant local court, for a declaration that the course provider is in default<sup>18</sup>. If the court grants the application, the provisions as to reduced disqualification will have effect as if the certificate had been duly received by the proper officer of the supervising court<sup>19</sup>.

Where the proper officer of a court receives a certificate,<sup>20</sup> or a court grants an application for a declaration<sup>21</sup>, the proper officer or court must send notice of that fact to the Secretary of State; and the notice must be sent in such manner and to such address, and must contain such particulars, as the Secretary of State may determine<sup>22</sup>.

1 The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 34B, 34C (as added) (see PARA 1063 ante) are substituted by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 35 as from a day to be appointed. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

2 le for the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34A (prospectively substituted): see PARA 1064 ante.

3 A certificate under ibid s 34B(1) (as added and substituted) is to be given by the course provider and must be in such form, and contain such particulars, as may be prescribed by, or determined in accordance with, regulations made by the appropriate national authority: s 34B(3) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). For the meaning of 'course provider' see PARA 1064 note 20 ante. For the meaning of 'appropriate national authority' see PARA 1064 note 7 ante.

As to the making of regulations see PARA 1064 note 5 ante. A statutory instrument containing regulations made under s 34B (as substituted) by the Secretary of State is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 34C(7) (as so substituted). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'proper officer' means: (1) in relation to a magistrates' court in England and Wales, the designated officer for the court; and (2) otherwise, the clerk of the court: ibid s 34C(3) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

5 'Supervising court', in relation to an order under ibid s 34A (as substituted), means, in England and Wales, if the Crown Court made the order, the Crown Court and otherwise a magistrates' court acting for the same local justice area as the court which made the order: s 34C(3) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

6 Ibid s 34B(1) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

7 Ibid s 34B(2) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

8 Ibid s 34B(4) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

- 11 Ibid s 34B(4)(c) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

As to the making of regulations see note 3 supra.
- 13 'Relevant local court', in relation to an order under ibid s 34A (as substituted) in the case of an offender, means, in England and Wales, a magistrates' court acting for the local justice area in which the offender resides: s 34C(3) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

1055-1066 In general ... Reduced disqualification period: alcohol ignition interlock programme orders

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/C. DISQUALIFICATION/1066. Reduced disqualification period: alcohol ignition interlock programme orders.

1066. Reduced disqualification period: alcohol ignition interlock programme orders.

Where:

- 1101 (1) a person is convicted of a relevant drink offence<sup>2</sup> by or before a court;
- 1102 (2) he has committed another relevant drink offence at any time during the period of ten years ending with the date of the conviction;

- 1103 (3) the court makes an order disqualifying him<sup>3</sup> but does not make an order under reducing the period of disqualification<sup>4</sup>; and
- 1104 (4) the period stated by the court as that for which, apart from these provisions, he would be disqualified ('the unreduced period') is not less than two years, the court may specify a lesser period of disqualification ('the reduced period') if it also makes an order (an 'alcohol ignition interlock programme order') requiring the offender to comply with the alcohol ignition interlock conditions<sup>5</sup>. The difference between the unreduced period and the reduced period is to be a period specified in the order of not less than 12 months and not more than one half of the unreduced period<sup>6</sup>. If the offender contravenes the alcohol ignition interlock conditions, a further order disqualifying him for the rest of the unreduced period is to be treated as having been made by the court immediately before the contravention<sup>7</sup>.

'The alcohol ignition interlock conditions' are that the offender: (a) must participate fully in an approved alcohol ignition interlock programme<sup>8</sup> specified in the order during such part of the unreduced period as is so specified; and (b) during the part of that period following the reduced period, must not drive a motor vehicle<sup>9</sup> unless it is fitted with an alcohol ignition interlock in good working order and must not drive a motor vehicle which is so fitted when not using the alcohol ignition interlock properly<sup>10</sup>.

A court may not make an alcohol ignition interlock programme order in the case of an offender<sup>11</sup> unless: (i) the court is satisfied that a place on the approved alcohol ignition interlock programme specified in the order will be available for the offender<sup>12</sup>; (ii) the offender appears to the court to be of or over the age of 17<sup>13</sup>; (c) the court has informed the offender (orally or in writing and in ordinary language) of the effect of the order and the amount of the fees which he is required to pay for the programme and when he must pay them<sup>14</sup>; and (d) the offender has agreed that the order should be made<sup>15</sup>.

Where an alcohol ignition interlock is fitted to a motor vehicle as part of an approved alcohol ignition interlock programme relating to an offender, a person commits an offence<sup>16</sup> if: (A) he interferes with the alcohol ignition interlock with intent to cause it not to function or not to function properly<sup>17</sup>; or (B) he is a person other than the offender and provides or attempts to provide a specimen of breath for the purposes of the alcohol ignition interlock with intent to enable the driving (or continued driving) of the vehicle by the offender<sup>18</sup>.

1 The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 34D, 34F, 34G are added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 15(1), and the entry in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 Sch 2 Pt 1 is added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 15(4), as from a day to be appointed by order under s 61(1). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

2 For these purposes, 'relevant drink offence' means: (1) an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3A(1) (a) (as added) (causing death by careless driving when unfit to drive through drink) committed when unfit to drive through drink (see PARA 974 ante); (2) an offence under s 3A(1)(b) (as added) (causing death by careless driving with excess alcohol) (see PARA 974 ante); (3) an offence under s 3A(1)(c) (as added) (failing to provide a specimen) where the specimen is required in connection with drink or consumption of alcohol (see PARA 974 ante); (4) an offence under s 4 (as amended) (driving or being in charge when under influence of drink) committed by reason of unfitness through drink (see PARA 975 ante); (5) an offence under s 5(1) (driving or being in charge with excess alcohol) (see PARA 978 ante); (6) an offence under s 7(6) (failing to provide a specimen) committed in the course of an investigation into an offence within any of heads (1)-(5) supra (see PARA 988 ante); or (7) an offence under s 7A(6) (as added) (failing to allow a specimen to be subjected to a laboratory test) in the course of an investigation into an offence within any of heads (1)-(6) supra (see PARA 987 ante); Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34D(2) (as added: see note 1 supra).

3 Ie under ibid s 34 (as amended): see PARA 1058 ante.

4 Ie under ibid s 34A (prospectively substituted): see PARA 1064 ante.

5 Ibid s 34D(1), (3) (as added: see note 1 supra). The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision amending s 34D(1)(b) or (d) (as added) (see heads (2), (4) in the text) by substituting for the period for the time being specified there a different period: s 34G(2)(a), (b) (as so added). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante.

Any power to make regulations under ss 34D-34G (as added) includes power to make different provision for different cases, and to make such incidental or supplementary provision as appears to the appropriate national authority to be necessary or appropriate: s 34G(4) (as so added). Any power to make such regulations is exercisable by statutory instrument: s 34G(5) (as so added). A statutory instrument containing regulations made under s 34D, 34E or 34F (as added) by the Secretary of State is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 34G(6) (as so added). No regulations may be made under s 34G (as added) unless a draft of the regulations has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: s 34G(7) (as so added). 'Appropriate national authority' means (as respects Wales) the Welsh Ministers and (otherwise) the Secretary of State: s 34G(3) (as so added).

6 Ibid s 34D(4) (as added: see note 1 supra). The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision amending s 34D(4) (as added) by substituting for the period for the time being specified there a different period, or by substituting for the fraction of the unreduced period for the time being specified there a different fraction of that period, (or by doing both): s 34G(2)(c) (as so added).

7 Ibid s 34D(5) (as added: see note 1 supra). 'Contravention' includes failure to comply: s 34G(3) (as so added).

8 For these purposes, an 'approved alcohol ignition interlock programme' is a programme approved by the appropriate national authority and involving the provision of an alcohol ignition interlock for use by the offender, training in its use and other education and counselling relating to the consumption of alcohol and driving: ibid s 34D(8) (as added: see note 1 supra). 'Alcohol ignition interlock' means a device of a type approved by the Secretary of State and designed to be fitted to a motor vehicle with the purpose of preventing the driving of the vehicle by a person who does not, both before starting driving the vehicle and at regular intervals while driving it, provide specimens of breath in which the proportion of alcohol is likely not to exceed the specified limit: s 34D(9) (as so added). That limit is 9 micrograms of alcohol in 100 millilitres of breath or such other proportion of alcohol to breath as the Secretary of State may by regulations prescribe: s 34D(10) (as so added).

9 For the meaning of 'motor vehicle' see PARA 210 ante.

10 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34D(6) (as added: see note 1 supra). For the purposes of this provision an offender uses an alcohol ignition interlock properly if (and only if) he is complying with all the instructions given to him about its use as part of the approved alcohol ignition interlock programme: s 34D(11) (as so added).

11 Ibid s 34D(7) (as added: see note 1 supra).

12 Ibid s 34D(7)(a) (as added: see note 1 supra).

13 Ibid s 34D(7)(b) (as added: see note 1 supra).

14 Ibid s 34D(7)(c) (as added: see note 1 supra).

15 Ibid s 34D(7)(d) (as added: see note 1 supra).

16 Ibid s 34D(12) (as added: see note 1 supra). A person guilty of an offence under s 34D(12) (as added) is liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding level 4 on the standard scale if the motor vehicle to which the alcohol ignition interlock is fitted is a goods vehicle or a vehicle adapted to carry more than eight passengers, or to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale in any other case: ss 9, 28 (as substituted) (see PARA 1049 ante), s 33(1), Sch 2 Pt I (entry prospectively added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 15(4)). As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. As to the prosecution of offences see PARA 1027 ante; and as to legal proceedings generally see PARA 1023 et seq ante.

17 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34D(12)(a) (as added: see note 1 supra).

1067. Approval of alcohol ignition interlock programmes.

If an application is made to the appropriate national authority<sup>2</sup> for the approval of an alcohol ignition interlock programme<sup>3</sup>, the appropriate national authority must decide whether to grant or refuse the application<sup>4</sup>. In reaching that decision the appropriate national authority must have regard to the nature of the programme and to whether the programme provider<sup>5</sup> is an appropriate person to provide the programme and administer its provision efficiently and effectively, and may take into account any recommendations made by any persons appointed to consider the application<sup>6</sup>. A programme may be approved subject to conditions specified by the appropriate national authority<sup>7</sup>. An approval of a programme is for the period specified by the appropriate national authority (which must not exceed seven years), subject to withdrawal of approval<sup>8</sup>.

Regulations made by the appropriate national authority may make provision in relation to the approval of programmes and may, in particular, include provision: (1) in relation to the making of applications for approval; (2) for the payment in respect of applications for approval or of approvals (or of both) of fees of such amounts as are prescribed by the regulations; (3) specifying the maximum fees that a person may be required to pay for a programme and by when they are to be paid; (4) for the monitoring of programmes and programme providers; (5) in relation to withdrawing approval; (6) for an appeal to lie to the Transport Tribunal<sup>9</sup> against a refusal of an application for approval, the imposition of conditions on the grant of such an application or the withdrawal of approval; and (7) authorising the appropriate national authority to make available (with or without charge) information about programmes and programme providers<sup>10</sup>.

The appropriate national authority may issue guidance to programme providers, or to any category of programme provider, as to the conduct of programmes approved for the purposes of the statutory provisions<sup>11</sup> as to alcohol ignition interlock programmes<sup>12</sup>. Programme providers must have regard to any guidance given to them under this provision<sup>13</sup>; and in determining<sup>14</sup> whether any instructions or requirements of a programme provider were reasonable, a court must have regard to any guidance given to him under this provision<sup>15</sup>.

1067 Approval of alcohol ignition interlock programmes

TEXT AND NOTE 9--Reference to Transport Tribunal is now to First-tier Tribunal: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34F(5) (amended by SI 2009/1885).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/C. DISQUALIFICATION/1068. Certificates of failing fully to participate in programmes.

1068. Certificates of failing fully to participate in programmes.

An offender is to be regarded<sup>2</sup> as not fully participating in an approved alcohol ignition interlock programme<sup>3</sup> if (and only if) a certificate<sup>4</sup> that that is so is received by the proper officer<sup>5</sup> of the supervising court<sup>6</sup>. A certificate may be given if (and only if) the offender has failed<sup>7</sup>: (1) to make due payment of fees for the programme<sup>8</sup>; (2) to attend for training, education or counselling forming part of the programme in accordance with the programme provider's reasonable instructions<sup>9</sup>; (3) to attend at a place specified by the programme provider for the monitoring and maintenance of the alcohol ignition interlock, at a time specified by the programme provider or a person with whom the programme provider has made arrangements for its monitoring and maintenance<sup>10</sup>; or (4) to comply with any other reasonable requirement of the programme provider<sup>11</sup>.

Where a programme provider decides to give a certificate of failure fully to participate in a programme, he must give written notice of the decision to the offender as soon as possible<sup>12</sup>. An offender to whom such a notice is given may, within such period as may be prescribed by rules of court, apply to the supervising court, or (if the supervising court is not the Crown Court or the relevant local court<sup>13</sup>) to either the supervising court or the relevant local court, for a declaration that the programme provider has given the certificate in contravention of the statutory requirements<sup>14</sup>. If the court grants the application, the provision for reducing the disqualification period<sup>15</sup> will have effect as if the certificate had not been duly received by the proper officer of the supervising court<sup>16</sup>.

Where the proper office of a court receives a certificate<sup>17</sup>, or a court grants an application for a declaration<sup>18</sup>, the proper officer or court must send notice of that fact to the Secretary of State; and the notice must be sent in such manner and to such address, and must contain such particulars, as the Secretary of State may determine<sup>19</sup>.

1 The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 34E, 34G are added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 15(1), as from a day to be appointed by order under s 61(1). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

2 le for the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34D (as added): see PARA 1066 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'approved alcohol ignition interlock programme' see PARA 1066 note 8 ante.

4 A certificate under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34E(1) (as added) is to be given by the programme provider and must be in such form, and contain such particulars, as may be prescribed by, or determined in accordance with, regulations made by the appropriate national authority: s 34E(3) (as added: see note 1 supra). For the meaning of 'appropriate national authority' see PARA 1066 note 5 ante. As to the making of regulations see PARA 1066 note 5 ante.

5 For these purposes, 'proper officer' means: (1) in relation to a magistrates' court in England and Wales, the designated officer for the court; and (2) otherwise, the clerk of the court: ibid s 34G(3) (as added: see note 1 supra).

6 Ibid s 34E(1) (as added: see note 1 supra). 'Supervising court', in relation to an alcohol ignition interlock programme order, means, in England and Wales, if the Crown Court made the order, the Crown Court and otherwise a magistrates' court acting for the same local justice area as the court which made the order: s 34G(3) (as added: see note 1 supra).

7 Ibid s 34E(2) (as added: see note 1 supra).

8 Ibid s 34E(2)(a) (as added: see note 1 supra).

9 Ibid s 34E(2)(b) (as added: see note 1 supra).

10 Ibid s 34E(2)(c) (as added: see note 1 supra).

11 Ibid s 34E(2)(d) (as added: see note 1 supra).

12 Ibid s 34E(4) (as added: see note 1 supra). A notice under s 34E(4) (as added) must specify the ground on which it is given; and the appropriate national authority may by regulations make provision as to the form of notices under that provision and as to the circumstances in which they are to be treated as given: s 34E(7) (as so added).

13 'Relevant local court', in relation to an alcohol ignition interlock programme order in the case of an offender, means, in England and Wales, a magistrates' court acting for the local justice area in which the offender resides: s 34G(3) (as added: see note 1 supra).

14 Ibid s 34E(5) (as added: see note 1 supra).

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/C. DISQUALIFICATION/1069. Experimental period for alcohol ignition interlock programme orders.

1069. Experimental period for alcohol ignition interlock programme orders.

No alcohol ignition interlock programme order<sup>2</sup> is to be made after the end of 2010 or such later time as may be specified in an order made by the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup>. However, at any time before the above restriction has taken effect, the Secretary of State may by order provide that it is not to do so<sup>4</sup>.

During the experimental period<sup>5</sup>: (1) no alcohol ignition interlock programme order may be made by virtue of a person's conviction of causing death by careless driving when under the influence of drink or drugs<sup>6</sup>; and (2) no alcohol ignition interlock programme order may be made except by a magistrates' court acting for a local justice area which is for the time being designated for these purposes<sup>7</sup>. The power to designate an area or district for these purposes is exercisable by the Secretary of State by order, and includes power to revoke a designation previously made<sup>8</sup>.

1 The Road Safety Act 2006 s 16 is to be brought into force as from a day to be appointed. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

2 Ie an order under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34D (as added): see PARA 1066 ante.

3 Road Safety Act 2006 s 16(1). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. The power to make an order under s 16(1) is not exercisable after the end of 2010, and no more than one order may be made under s 16(1): s 16(8). Any power of the Secretary of State to make orders under s 16 is exercisable by statutory instrument, and no order is to be made under s 16(1) or (2) unless a draft of it has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: s 16(9)(a).

4 Ibid s 16(2).

5 'The experimental period' means the period beginning when ibid s 15 comes into force (see PARA 1066 note 1 ante) and ending: (1) when the restriction imposed by s 16(1) takes effect; or (2) if the Secretary of State makes an order under s 16(2), on a date specified in the order: s 16(3).

6 Ie under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 3A (as added): see PARA 974 ante.

7 Road Safety Act 2006 s 16(4). In relation to orders made under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34D (as added) during the experimental period, s 34E(5) (as added) (see PARA 1068 text and notes 13-14 ante) is to have effect with the omission of the references to the relevant local court: Road Safety Act 2006 s 16(5).

8 Ibid s 16(6). An order under s 16(6) must specify the period for which an area or district is designated, and may: (1) specify different periods for different areas or districts; and (2) extend or shorten any period previously specified: s 16(7). As to the making of orders see note 3 supra. Any statutory instrument containing an order under s 16(6) is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 16(9)(b).

UPDATE

1069-1072 Experimental period for alcohol ignition interlock programme orders ... Effect of order of disqualification

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/C. DISQUALIFICATION/1070. Disqualification for repeated offences.

1070. Disqualification for repeated offences.

Where a person is convicted of: (1) an offence involving discretionary disqualification<sup>1</sup> and obligatory endorsement<sup>2</sup>; or (2) an offence involving obligatory disqualification<sup>3</sup> in respect of which no order has been made<sup>4</sup>, and the penalty points to be taken into account on the occasion number 12 or more<sup>5</sup>, the court must order him to be disqualified<sup>6</sup> for not less than the minimum period unless the court is satisfied, having regard to all the circumstances, that there are grounds for mitigating the normal consequences of the conviction and thinks fit to order him to be disqualified for a shorter period or not to order him to be disqualified<sup>7</sup>.

The minimum period referred to above is:

- 1105 (a) six months if no previous disqualification imposed on the offender is to be taken into account<sup>8</sup>; and
- 1106 (b) one year if one such disqualification is to be taken into account, and two years if more than one such disqualification is to be taken into account<sup>9</sup>.

Where an offender is convicted on the same occasion of more than one offence mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above<sup>10</sup>, not more than one disqualification may be imposed on him under those heads<sup>11</sup>, in determining the period of the disqualification the court must take into account all the offences<sup>12</sup>, and for the purposes of any appeal any disqualification imposed under heads (1) and (2) above are to be treated as an order made on the conviction of each of the offences<sup>13</sup>.

No account is to be taken<sup>14</sup> of any of the following circumstances<sup>15</sup>:

- 1107 (i) any circumstances that are alleged to make the offence or any of the offences not a serious one<sup>16</sup>;
- 1108 (ii) hardship, other than exceptional hardship<sup>17</sup>; or
- 1109 (iii) any circumstances which, within the three years immediately preceding the conviction, have been taken into account<sup>18</sup> in ordering the offender to be disqualified for a shorter period or not ordering him to be disqualified<sup>19</sup>.

The above provisions apply in relation to a conviction of an offence committed by aiding, abetting, counselling, procuring, or inciting to the commission of, an offence involving obligatory disqualification as if the offence were an offence involving discretionary disqualification<sup>20</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'offence involving discretionary disqualification' see PARA 1060 ante.

2 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 35(1)(a), (1A)(a) (s 35(1)(a) amended, and s 35(1A) added, by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 48, Sch 4 para 95(1), (2), (3)). For the meaning of 'offence involving obligatory endorsement' see PARA 1080 post.

3 For the meaning of 'offence involving obligatory disqualification' see PARA 1058 ante.

4 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 35(1)(a) (as amended: see note 2 supra), s 35(1A)(b) (as added: see note 2 supra). An order for disqualification is made under s 34 (as amended): see PARA 1061 ante.

5 Ibid s 35(1)(b). As to the penalty points to be taken into account on conviction see PARA 1050 ante. Where a court sentences a person to obligatory disqualification for an offence it cannot impose penalty points in respect of other offences of which he has been convicted on the same occasion: Martin v DPP [2000] RTR 188, [2000] Crim LR 320, DC. It is submitted that any such imposition of points that appears on a defendant's driving record is of no effect.

The court has now resolved the circular difficulty arising from the potential conflict between the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34 (as amended) and s 35 (as amended): see Jones v Chief Constable West Mercia Police Authority [2000] All ER (D) 1344, (2000) 165 JP 6, DC; and PARA 1061 note 4 ante.

6 For the meaning of 'disqualified' see PARA 1046 note 5 ante. References in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 35 (as amended) to disqualification do not include a disqualification imposed under s 26 (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 1046 ante), the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 147 (see PARA 1060 ante), the Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act 1975 s 223A (as added) or s 436A (as added) (offences committed by using vehicles) or a disqualification imposed in respect of an offence of stealing a motor vehicle, an offence under the Theft Act 1968 s 12 (as amended) or s 25 (see PARA 1008 ante), an offence under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 178, or an attempt to commit such an offence: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 35(5) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 Sch 4 para 95(1), (6); and the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 s 165(1), Sch 9 para 122). For the meaning of 'motor vehicle' see PARA 210 ante.

7 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 35(1). In any case where a court exercises its power under s 35 (as amended) not to order any disqualification or endorsement or to order disqualification for a shorter period than would otherwise be required, it must state the grounds for doing so in open court and, if it is a magistrates' court, must cause them to be entered in the register of its proceedings: s 47(1).

8 Ibid s 35(2)(a). A previous disqualification imposed on an offender is to be taken into account if it was for a fixed period of 56 days or more and was imposed within the three years immediately preceding the commission of the latest offence in respect of which penalty points are taken into account under s 29 (as substituted) (see PARA 1050 ante): s 35(2) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 Sch 4 para 95(1), (3)). 'Imposed' means by a court after conviction and, therefore, does not include for this purpose disqualification by reason of age: R v Scurry (1992) 13 Cr App Rep (S) 517, CA. Two disqualifications imposed for the same offence (which is no longer possible) count as one for the purpose of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 34(4)(b) (as substituted) (see PARA 1061 ante), but the question as to whether two disqualifications imposed on the same occasion for different offences count as one remains open: Learmont v DPP [1994] RTR 286, DC (see PARA 1058 note 14 ante). It is submitted that the position is the same in relation to the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 35(2) (as amended).

9 Ibid s 35(2)(b). See also note 8 supra.

13 Ibid s 35(3)(c).

14 Ie for the purposes of ibid s 35(1) (as amended).

16 Ibid s 35(4)(a).

17 Ibid s 35(4)(b). Evidence will normally be necessary to support a submission of exceptional hardship; but on rare occasions justices when considering the existence of exceptional hardship will be entitled to rely on their own knowledge, gathered from past events and experience, to satisfy themselves that exceptional hardship is established: Owen v Jones [1988] RTR 102, 9 Cr App Rep (S) 34, DC.

A sentencing policy that a term of disqualification extending substantially beyond an offender's release from prison is counter-productive and contrary to the public interest can constitute grounds for mitigation here: R v Thomas [1983] 3 All ER 756, [1983] 1 WLR 1490, CA.

18 Ie under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 35(1) (as amended).

19 Ibid s 35(4)(c). It is for the defendant to establish that the mitigating circumstance now being advanced is different from that put forward on an earlier occasion: R v Sandbach Justices, ex p Pescud (1983) 5 Cr App Rep (S) 177, DC.

20 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 35(5A) (added by the Road Traffic Act 1991 Sch 4 para 95(1), (7)). The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 35 (as amended) is subject to s 48 (as substituted) (see PARA 1087 post): see s 35(7).

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions): see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

1070 Disqualification for repeated offences

TEXT AND NOTE 20--See further Serious Crime Act 2007 Sch 6 para 15(c) (references to common law offence of incitement).

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/C. DISQUALIFICATION/1071. Disqualification until test is passed.

1071. Disqualification until test is passed.

Where:

- 1110 (1) a person is disqualified<sup>1</sup> on conviction of manslaughter by the driver of a motor vehicle<sup>2</sup>, or an offence of causing death by dangerous driving<sup>3</sup> or dangerous driving<sup>4</sup>;
- 1111 (2) a person is disqualified<sup>5</sup> in such circumstances or for such period as the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup> may by order prescribe<sup>7</sup>; or the court must order him to be disqualified until he passes the appropriate driving test<sup>10</sup>.
- 1112 (3) a person is convicted of such offences involving obligatory endorsement<sup>8</sup> as may be so prescribed<sup>9</sup>,

Where a person to whom the above provisions do not apply is convicted of an offence involving obligatory endorsement, the court may<sup>11</sup> order him to be disqualified until he passes the appropriate driving test (whether or not he has previously passed any test)<sup>12</sup>. In determining whether to make such an order, the court must have regard to the safety of road users<sup>13</sup>.

A disqualification by virtue of an order under this provision is deemed to have expired on production to the Secretary of State of evidence, in such form as may be prescribed by regulations<sup>14</sup>, that the person disqualified has passed the test in question since the order was made<sup>15</sup>.

Where there is issued to a person a licence<sup>16</sup> on the counterpart<sup>17</sup> of which are endorsed particulars of a disqualification under this provision, there must also be endorsed the particulars of any test of competence to drive that he has passed since the order of disqualification was made<sup>18</sup>.

7     Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(3)(a) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). The power to make an order under s 36(3) (as substituted) is exercisable by statutory instrument; and no such order may be made unless a draft of it has been laid before and approved by resolution of each House of Parliament: s 36(13) (as so substituted). The Secretary of State must not make an order under s 36(3) (as substituted) after the end of 2001 if he has not previously made such an order: s 36(14) (as so substituted). The Driving Licences (Disqualification until Test Passed) (Prescribed Offence) Order 2001, SI 2001/4051, was made under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(3) (as substituted).

The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(3)(a) (as substituted) is amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 37(1), (2), with the effect that head (1) in the text will read 'a person is disqualified for such period, in such circumstances or for such period and in such circumstances as the Secretary of State may by order specify'. The following provision is added. Before making an order under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(3) (as substituted and amended) the Secretary of State must consult with such representative organisations as he thinks fit: s 36(13A) (added, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 37(6)). The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(14) is repealed by the Road Safety Act 2006 ss 37(7), 59, Sch 7, as from a day to be appointed. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day or days had been appointed.

10    Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(1) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). For these purposes, 'appropriate driving test' means: (1) an extended driving test, where a person is convicted of an offence involving obligatory disqualification (see PARA 1058 ante) or is disqualified under s 35 (as amended) (see PARA 1070 ante); or (2) a test of competence to drive, other than an extended driving test, in any other case: s 36(5) (as so substituted). 'Extended driving test' means a test of competence to drive prescribed for the purposes of s 36 (as substituted and amended): s 36(5) (as so substituted). 'Test of competence to drive' means a test prescribed by virtue of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 89(3) (as amended) (see PARA 449 ante): Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(5) (as so substituted). For the meaning of 'offence involving obligatory disqualification' see PARA 1058 ante.

The definitions of 'appropriate driving test' is substituted as follows: 'appropriate driving test' means: (a) in such circumstances as the Secretary of State may prescribe, an extended driving test; and (b) otherwise, a test of competence to drive which is not an extended driving test: s 36(5) (as so substituted; definition substituted, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 37(3)). The definition of 'extended driving test' is amended to read as follows: 'extended driving test' means a test of competence to drive prescribed for the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36 (as substituted and amended) by regulations made by the Secretary of State: s 36(5) (as so substituted; definition amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 37(3)).

Where a person is disqualified until he passes the extended driving test any earlier order under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36 (as substituted and amended) ceases to have effect, and a court must not make a further order under s 36 (as substituted and amended) while he is so disqualified: s 36(7) (as so substituted).

For the effect of an order of disqualification under s 36 (as substituted and amended) see PARA 1072 post. If a person while so disqualified obtains a provisional licence but fails to comply with the conditions of that licence he commits the offence of driving whilst disqualified: Scott v Jelf [1974] RTR 256, DC (applying the dictum of Atkinson J in Hunter v Coombs [1962] 1 All ER 904 at 908, [1962] 1 WLR 573 at 579, DC); Stewart v Paterson [1960] Crim LR 196. The burden on the driver to prove that he is entitled to drive when he is seen driving is proportionate: DPP v Barker [2004] EWHC 2502 (Admin), (2004) 168 JP 617.

11 This power is not intended to be punitive, but is largely confined to cases involving drivers who are growing old or infirm or show some incompetence in the offence which requires looking into: see eg R v Donnelly [1975] 1 All ER 785, [1975] 1 WLR 390, CA; R v Banks [1978] RTR 535, CA; R v Peat [1985] Crim LR 110, CA. Incompetence may take the form of not showing proper regard for other road users (R v Bannister [1991] RTR 1, [1991] Crim LR 71, CA); but an offender whose offence arose out of a temporary condition of his mind due to an illness who, but for that illness, was competent to drive, should not be disqualified until passing a test (though whether he should be allowed to hold a driving licence is another matter) (Hughes v Challes [1984] RTR 283, 148 JP 170, DC). Where an inexperienced driver has his driving career interrupted for a long period by disqualification it is in the public interest that his driving skill should be checked again before he returns to driving as an occupation: R v Guilfoyle [1973] 2 All ER 844, [1973] RTR 272, CA.

14 The regulations made under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 105 (as amended): see PARA 443 ante.

15 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(8) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). A disqualification is deemed to have expired only in relation to vehicles of such classes as may be prescribed in relation to the test passed by regulations under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 105 (as amended) (see PARA 443 ante): Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(9) (as so substituted).

Section 36(8) (as substituted) is amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 37(4), to the effect that instead of referring to regulations made under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 105 (as amended) it refers to regulations made by the Secretary of State, and s 36(9) (as substituted) is correspondingly amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 37(5), as from a day to be appointed. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

16 For the meaning of 'licence' see PARA 1032 note 3 ante.

17 For the meaning of 'counterpart' see PARA 415 note 19 ante; definition applied by the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 98(1). The reference to the meaning of 'counterpart' in s 98(1) is removed by the Road Safety Act 2006 ss 10(12), 59, Sch 3 paras 30, 61(b), Sch 7, as from a day to be appointed.

18 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(10) (as substituted: see note 2 supra). For the purposes of an order under s 36 (as substituted and amended), a person is to be treated as having passed a test of competence to drive other than an extended driving test if he passes a corresponding test conducted: (1) under the law of Northern Ireland, the Isle of Man, any of the Channel Islands, another EEA state, Gibraltar or a designated country or territory; or (2) for the purposes of obtaining a British Forces licence; and accordingly the provisions of s 36(8)-(10) (as substituted) apply in relation to such a test as they apply in relation to a test prescribed by virtue of the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 89(3) (as amended) (see PARA 449 ante): Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(11) (as so substituted; and amended by the Driving Licence (Community Driving Licence) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1974, reg 3, Sch 2 para 3(a), (b)). For the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(11) (as substituted and amended), 'designated country or territory' means a country or territory designated by order under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 108(2) (as substituted) (see PARA 446 ante) but a test conducted under the law of such a country or territory is not to be regarded as a corresponding test unless a person passing such a test would be entitled to an exchangeable licence (see PARA 445 note 26 ante): Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36(11A) (added by the Driving Licence (Community Driving Licence) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1974, Sch 2 para 3(3)).

The Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36 (as substituted and amended) is subject to s 48 (as substituted) (see PARA 1087 post): s 36(12) (as so substituted).

Section 36(10) (as substituted) is repealed by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 3 paras 30, 39, Sch 7, as from a day to be appointed. As from such day, where a person's driving record is endorsed with particulars of a disqualification under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 36 (as substituted and amended), it must also be endorsed with the particulars of any test of competence to drive that he has passed since the order of disqualification was made: s 36(10A) (amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 9(6), Sch 2 paras 2, 7). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. For the meaning of 'driving record' see PARA 1024 note 11 ante.

Where a person given a certificate of failing fully to participate in approved alcohol ignition interlock programme<sup>2</sup> makes an application to a court<sup>3</sup>, the court may suspend the effect of the certificate pending the determination of the application<sup>4</sup>. Where a court exercises its power under these provisions it must send notice of the suspension to the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup>. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/C. DISQUALIFICATION/1078. Removal of disqualification.

1078. Removal of disqualification.

A person who by an order of a court is disqualified<sup>1</sup> may apply to the court by which the order was made<sup>2</sup> to remove the disqualification<sup>3</sup>.

On any such application the court may, as it thinks proper having regard to the character of the person disqualified and his conduct subsequent to the order<sup>4</sup>, the nature of the offence<sup>5</sup>, and any other circumstances of the case<sup>6</sup>, either by order remove the disqualification as from such date as may be specified in the order or refuse the application<sup>7</sup>.

No such application can be made for the removal of a disqualification before the expiration of whichever is relevant of the following periods from the date of the order by which the disqualification was imposed, that is:

- 1113 (1) two years, if the disqualification is for less than four years<sup>8</sup>;
- 1114 (2) one half of the period of disqualification, if it is for less than ten years but not less than four years<sup>9</sup>; and
- 1115 (3) five years in any other case<sup>10</sup>, and in determining the expiration of the period after which under this provision a person may apply for the removal of a disqualification, any time after the conviction during which the disqualification was suspended or he was not disqualified must be disregarded<sup>11</sup>.

Where such an application is refused, a further application cannot be entertained if made within three months after the date of the refusal<sup>12</sup>.

If under this provision a court orders a disqualification to be removed, the court must cause particulars of the order to be endorsed on the counterpart<sup>13</sup> of the licence<sup>14</sup>, if any, previously held by the applicant<sup>15</sup>, and may in any case order the applicant to pay the whole or any part of the costs of the application<sup>16</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'disqualified' see PARA 1046 note 5 ante.

2 Where the disqualification was imposed by the Crown Court the application should be made to the same Crown Court location: Practice Note [2001] 4 All ER 635, CA. Where the disqualification was varied on appeal to the Crown Court it is submitted that the application may be made to the magistrates' court against whose decision the appeal was brought: see the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 110; and CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(4) (2006 Reissue) PARA 2004. Where the disqualification was imposed by a magistrates' court the application may be made to any magistrates' court sitting for the same place: McIntyre v Henderson 1911 SC (J) 73, 48 Sc LR 588.

An application to a magistrates' court is brought by way of complaint and where such a complaint is made a summons must be issued to the chief officer of police to show cause why an order should not be made: see CrimPR r 55.2.

Legal aid may be granted for an application to remove disqualification: R v Liverpool Crown Court, ex p McCann [1995] RTR 23, DC. See generally LEGAL AID.

There is no distinction under what is now the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 42 (as amended) between discretionary disqualification and mandatory disqualification and justices can, therefore, remove a minimum mandatory disqualification of three years: Damer v Davison [1976] RTR 44, DC. However, justices may, if they think fit, regard a mandatory disqualification as one which they are less ready to remove than a discretionary disqualification: Damer v Davison supra at 49 per Lord Widgery CJ.

3 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 42(1), which is expressed to be subject to s 42(2)-(6) (as amended). Section 42(1)-(5B) (as amended) does not apply where the disqualification was imposed by order under s 36(1) (as substituted) (see PARA 1071 ante): s 42(6).

4 Ibid s 42(2)(a).

5 Ibid s 42(2)(b).

6 Ibid s 42(2)(c).

7 Ibid s 42(2). A disqualification cannot be removed in part: R v Cottrell [1955] 3 All ER 817, [1956] 1 WLR 70. Neither can a court, when removing a disqualification, tack on an additional requirement, for example to pass a driving test, to so much of the disqualification that it was ordering to survive: R v Bentham [1982] RTR 357, CA; R v Wintoure [1982] RTR 361n, CA. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iii) Sentence/D. ENDORSEMENT/1081. Endorsement of licences and special reasons.

1081. Endorsement of licences and special reasons.

Where a person is convicted of an offence involving obligatory endorsement<sup>1</sup>, the court must order there to be endorsed on the counterpart<sup>2</sup> of any licence<sup>3</sup> held by him particulars of the conviction and also<sup>4</sup>:

- 1151 (1) if the court orders him to be disqualified<sup>5</sup>, particulars of the disqualification<sup>6</sup>;
- 1152 (2) if the court does not order him to be disqualified<sup>7</sup>, particulars of the offence, including the date when it was committed<sup>8</sup>, and the penalty points to be attributed to the offence<sup>9</sup>.

Where the court does not order the person convicted to be disqualified, it need not make such an order if for special reasons it thinks fit not to do so<sup>10</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'offence involving obligatory endorsement' see PARA 1080 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'counterpart' see PARA 415 note 19 ante; definition applied by the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 98(1). As from a day to be appointed, where a person who is not the holder of a licence is convicted of an offence involving obligatory endorsement, s 44(1) applies as if the reference to the counterpart of any licence held by him were a reference to his driving record: s 44(3A) (added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 9(1), (2)(a)). As from a day to be appointed, the reference to the meaning of 'counterpart' in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 98(1) is removed by the Road Safety Act 2006 ss 10(12), 59, Sch 3 paras 30, 61(b), Sch 7; and the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 44(3A) (as added) is repealed by the Road Safety Act 2006 ss 10(1),

As from a day to be appointed, the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 44(1) (as amended) is amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 10(2), substituting 'his driving record' for 'the counterpart of any licence held by him'. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

5 For the meaning of 'disqualified' see PARA 1046 note 5 ante.

6 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 44(1)(a).

7 In any case where a court exercises its power under ibid s 44 (as amended) not to order any disqualification or endorsement or to order disqualification for a shorter period than would otherwise be required, it must state the grounds for doing so in open court and, if it is a magistrates' court, must cause them to be entered in the register of its proceedings: s 47(1).

8 Ibid s 44(1)(b)(i).

9 Ibid s 44(1)(b)(ii). As to the penalty points to be attributed to an offence see PARA 1049 ante. If the court orders disqualification in respect of an offence it cannot at the same time impose penalty points, whether in relation to that offence or any other offence: R v Kent (Peter) [1983] 3 All ER 1, [1983] 1 WLR 794, CA; R v Preston [1986] RTR 136, CA. This remains the position despite the absence after the word 'disqualified' of the words 'whether on that or any other conviction' which appeared in parenthesis after the word 'disqualified' in the Transport Act 1981 s 19(1) (repealed), which was the predecessor to this provision: Martin v DPP [2000] RTR 188, [2000] Crim LR 320, DC.

10 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 44(2). Section 44 (as amended) is subject to s 48 (as substituted) (see PARA 1087 post): s 44(4). For the criteria for special reasons, the onus and standard of proof and the residual discretion to endorse if special reasons are found see PARA 1059 ante. Ignorance of the law cannot amount to a special reason (Swell v McKechnie [1956] Crim LR 423, DC); neither can lack of intention to break the law (Surtees v Benewith [1954] 3 All ER 261, [1954] 1 WLR 1335, DC). Where, however, on unusual facts a defendant acted reasonably in not regarding himself as being under an obligation to have insurance or to display 'L' plates the justices were entitled to find special reasons in relation to those offences (but not careless driving): DPP v Powell [1993] RTR 266, DC (test drive of a toy motor cycle at no more than 2 mph across a narrow road with engine on).

A driver's belief that he was insured cannot be regarded as a special reason unless it was based on reasonable grounds: Knowler v Rennison [1947] KB 488, sub nom Rennison v Knowler [1947] 1 All ER 302 (distinguished in East v Bladen [1987] RTR 291, DC, where injuries to the defendant reduced his ability to behave with the standard of prudence normally expected of an insurance policy holder in checking the conditions of his insurance). For further cases on lack of insurance see Labrum v Wilkinson [1947] KB 816, [1947] 1 All ER 824, DC; Lyons v May [1948] 2 All ER 1062; Blows v Chapman [1947] 2 All ER 576, DC; Boss v Kingston [1963] 1 All ER 177, [1963] 1 WLR 99, DC; Carlton v Garrity [1964] Crim LR 146, DC.

It is not a special reason to exceed a speed limit only slightly (Marks v West Midlands Police [1981] RTR 471, DC); nor to be mistaken as to the speed limit in force on a particular road or to be the last in a line of vehicles travelling at the same, excess speed (Jones v Nicks [1977] RTR 72, DC). See also Walker v Robinson [1976] RTR 94, DC. Where, however, a motorist came from a 40 mph area to a 30 mph area, there was no 30 mph sign and he believed he was still in a 40 mph area, the justices were entitled to find special reasons: Burgess v West [1982] RTR 269, DC.

On special facts, justices were entitled to find special reasons for not endorsing the licences of several motorists who had performed U-turns across the central reservation of a motorway: DPP v Fruer, DPP v Siba, DPP v Ward [1989] RTR 29, DC.

An order that any particulars or penalty points are to be endorsed on the counterpart of any licence<sup>2</sup> held by the person convicted, whether he is at the time the holder of a licence or not, operates as an order that the counterpart of any licence he may then hold or may subsequently obtain is to be so endorsed until he becomes entitled<sup>3</sup> to have a licence issued to him with its counterpart free from the particulars or penalty points<sup>4</sup>.

On the issue of a new licence to a person, any particulars or penalty points ordered to be endorsed on the counterpart of any licence held by him must be entered on the counterpart of the licence unless he has become entitled<sup>5</sup> to have a licence issued to him with its counterpart free from those particulars or penalty points<sup>6</sup>.

A person the counterpart of whose licence has been ordered to be endorsed is entitled to have issued to him with effect from the end of the period for which the endorsement remains effective a new licence with a counterpart free from the endorsement if he applies for a new licence<sup>7</sup>, surrenders any subsisting licence and its counterpart, pays the prescribed fee<sup>8</sup> and satisfies certain other requirements<sup>9</sup>.

An endorsement ordered on a person's conviction of an offence remains effective<sup>10</sup>:

- 1153 (1) if an order is made for the disqualification<sup>11</sup> of the offender, until four years have elapsed since the conviction<sup>12</sup>; and
- 1154 (2) if no such order is made, until either four years have elapsed since the commission of the offence<sup>13</sup>, or an order is made for the disqualification of the offender<sup>14</sup>.

The following provisions take effect as from a day to be appointed<sup>15</sup>.

An order that any particulars or penalty points are to be endorsed on a person's driving record operates as an order that his driving record is to be so endorsed until the end of the period for which the endorsement remains effective<sup>16</sup>. At the end of the period for which the endorsement remains effective the Secretary of State must remove the endorsement from the person's driving record<sup>17</sup>. On the issue of a new licence to a person, any particulars ordered to be endorsed on his driving record must be entered on the counterpart of the licence unless he has become entitled<sup>18</sup> to have a licence issued to him with its counterpart free from those particulars or penalty points<sup>19</sup>.

A person the counterpart of whose licence has been endorsed under the above provision is entitled to have issued to him with effect from the end of the period for which the endorsement remains effective a new licence with a counterpart free from the endorsement if he applies for a new licence<sup>20</sup>, surrenders any subsisting licence and its counterpart, pays the fee prescribed<sup>21</sup> and satisfies the other statutory<sup>22</sup> requirements<sup>23</sup>.

1088. Offender escaping consequences of endorseable offences by deception.

Where, in dealing with a person convicted of an offence involving obligatory endorsement<sup>1</sup>, a court was deceived regarding any circumstances that were or might have been taken into account in deciding whether or for how long to disqualify him<sup>2</sup>, if the deception constituted or was due to an offence committed by that person<sup>3</sup>, and he is convicted of that offence<sup>4</sup>, the court by or before which he is convicted has the same powers and duties regarding an order for disqualification<sup>5</sup> as had the court which dealt with him for the offence involving obligatory endorsement but must, in dealing with him, take into account any order made on his conviction of the offence involving obligatory endorsement<sup>6</sup>.

(iv) Fixed Penalties

1089. Fixed penalties generally.

Many road traffic offences, including some which are endorseable<sup>1</sup>, may be dealt with by way of a fixed penalty<sup>2</sup> rather than by way of prosecution. Payment of the amount<sup>3</sup> of the fixed penalty discharges any liability to conviction of the offence to which a fixed penalty notice<sup>4</sup> relates. A fixed penalty notice may be given to a person<sup>5</sup> or affixed to a vehicle<sup>6</sup>.

In relation to a fixed penalty notice given to a person:

- 1157 (1) where a constable in uniform<sup>7</sup> has reason to believe that a person he finds is committing or has on that occasion committed a fixed penalty offence the constable may give him a fixed penalty notice in respect of the offence<sup>8</sup>;
- 1158 (2) if the fixed penalty offence is an offence involving obligatory endorsement<sup>9</sup> a fixed penalty notice may be given on the spot, provided the offender would not be liable to points' disqualification if he were convicted of that offence<sup>10</sup> and he surrenders his licence<sup>11</sup> and its counterpart<sup>12</sup> to the constable<sup>13</sup>;
- 1159 (3) if the offender does not produce his licence and its counterpart to the constable for inspection, the constable may issue a 'provisional' fixed penalty notice, and if the licence and its counterpart are then surrendered at the police station specified in the notice within seven days and the offender would not be liable to points' disqualification for the offence concerned, the offer of a fixed penalty must be confirmed<sup>14</sup>;
- 1160 (4) the fixed penalty notice acts as a bar to any criminal proceedings against that person for the fixed penalty offence unless he requests a hearing in respect of the offence before the end of the suspended enforcement period<sup>15</sup>;
- 1161 (5) failure to request a hearing or to pay the fixed penalty within the suspended enforcement period enables an sum equal to 150 per cent of the value of the fixed penalty to be registered for enforcement against the recipient as a fine<sup>16</sup>.

In relation to a fixed penalty notice affixed to a vehicle:

- 1162 (a) provided that the offence does not involve obligatory endorsement, a fixed penalty notice may, instead of being given to a person, be affixed to the vehicle in respect of which the fixed penalty offence is being, or has on that occasion been, committed<sup>17</sup>;

- 1163 (b) during the subsequent suspended enforcement period only the driver of the vehicle on the occasion in question may request a court hearing<sup>18</sup> and, if he does not do so, and the fixed penalty remains unpaid at the end of the suspended enforcement period, a notice to owner may be served on the person who appears to be the owner of the vehicle<sup>19</sup>, and that person may then, within the period allowed for responding to the notice: (i) pay the fixed penalty; (ii) give notice requesting a hearing; (iii) if somebody else was the driver on the relevant occasion and that person wishes to give notice requesting a hearing, furnish a statutory statement of ownership<sup>20</sup> and a statutory statement of facts<sup>21</sup>, and this renders ineffective any notice requesting a hearing that he purports to give on his own account<sup>22</sup>; or (iv) provide a statutory statement of ownership to the effect that he was not the owner of the vehicle at the time of the alleged offence<sup>23</sup>;
- 1164 (c) subject to heads (d), (e) and (f) below, where the fixed penalty remains unpaid by the end of the period allowed for response to the notice to owner a sum equal to 150 per cent of the value of the fixed penalty may be registered for enforcement against the person on whom the notice to owner was served<sup>24</sup>;
- 1165 (d) where the recipient of the notice responds as in head (b)(ii) above (and in no other circumstances), he may be prosecuted for the offence and it must conclusively be presumed that he was the driver of the vehicle on the occasion in question unless he proves that at that time the vehicle was in the possession of some other person without his consent<sup>25</sup>;
- 1166 (e) where the recipient of the notice responds as in head (b)(iii) above, the person identified as the driver of the vehicle may be prosecuted (but in no other circumstances may proceedings for the offence be brought against any person other than the person on whom the notice to owner was served)<sup>26</sup>, but if no summons is served on that person within the period of two months immediately following the period allowed for response to the notice to owner, a sum equal to 150 per cent of the value of the fixed penalty may be registered for enforcement against the person on whom the notice to owner was served<sup>27</sup>; and
- 1167 (f) where the recipient of the notice responds as in head (b)(iv) above he is not liable in respect of the alleged offence and a penalty may not be registered against him for enforcement as a fine<sup>28</sup>.

There are separate provisions in relation to hired vehicles<sup>29</sup>.

There are provisions to deal with cases of invalid registration of a fixed penalty for enforcement as a fine and invalid endorsements<sup>30</sup>.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iv) Fixed Penalties/A. IN GENERAL/1090. Power to make regulations and orders and duty to issue guidance.

1090. Power to make regulations and orders and duty to issue guidance.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> may by regulations make provision as to any matter incidental to the operation of the provisions relating to fixed penalties<sup>2</sup>. Any power conferred on the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> to make any order or regulations is exercisable by statutory instrument<sup>4</sup>. As from a day to be appointed, the Secretary of State may by regulations provide that where: (1) a conditional offer has been issued<sup>5</sup>; (2) the amount of the penalty stated in the offer is not the higher amount applicable in a case where the offender was disqualified from driving or had penalty points endorsed<sup>6</sup>; and (3) it subsequently appears that that higher amount is in fact applicable, the fixed penalty clerk may issue a further notice (a 'surcharge notice') requiring payment of the difference between the two amounts<sup>7</sup>.

The Secretary of State must issue guidance to chief officers of police<sup>8</sup> for police areas and to the chief constable of the British Transport Police<sup>9</sup> in respect of the operation of the provisions relating to fixed penalties<sup>10</sup> with the objective so far as possible of working towards uniformity<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

2 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 84 (prospectively renumbered as s 84(1) by the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004 s 16(1), (3)). The provisions relating to fixed penalties are contained in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 Pt III (ss 51-90) (as amended): see PARA 1093 et seq post. In particular the Secretary of State may make provision:

1670 (1) for prescribing any information or further information to be provided in any notice, notification, certificate or receipt under s 52(1) (see PARA 1094 post), s 54(4) (as amended) (see PARA 1097 post), s 56 (as amended) (see PARA 1099 post), s 59(1) (repealed), s 63(2) (see PARA 1105 post), s 70(2), (3)(b) (see PARA 1113 post), s 73(4)(b) (see PARA 1116 post), s 75(2), (3) (as substituted) (see PARA 1118 post) or s 76(5), (6) (as substituted) (see PARA 1118 post), or in any official form for a statutory statement mentioned in Sch 4 (see PARAS 1106-1107 post), or a statement under s 66(2) (see PARA 1110 post) (s 84(a) (amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 59, Sch 7));

1671 (2) for requiring any such official form to be served with any notice served under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 63 (see PARA 1105 post) or 73(4) (see PARA 1116 post) (s 84(b)); and 1672 (3) for prescribing the duties of designated officers or clerks of courts of summary jurisdiction and the information to be supplied to them (s 84(c) (amended by the Courts Act 2003 s 109(1), Sch 8 para 322)).

The Road Traffic (Owner Liability) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2546 (amended by SI 2001/1222), have been made under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 84 (as amended), and, by virtue of the Road Traffic (Consequential Provisions) Act 1988 s 2(2), the Fixed Penalty (Procedure) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/1330 (amended by SI 2001/926; SI 2005/617) have effect as if so made.

- 1219 (1) he produces his licence<sup>7</sup> and its counterpart<sup>8</sup> for inspection by the constable<sup>9</sup>;
- 1220 (2) the constable is satisfied, on inspecting the licence and its counterpart, that he would not be liable to be disqualified<sup>10</sup> if he were convicted of that offence<sup>11</sup>; and
- 1221 (3) he surrenders his licence and its counterpart to the constable to be retained and dealt with in accordance with the provisions relating to fixed penalties<sup>12</sup>.

Where the offence appears to the constable to involve obligatory endorsement<sup>13</sup>, and the person concerned does not produce his licence and its counterpart for inspection by the constable<sup>14</sup>, the constable may give him a notice stating that if, within seven days after the notice is given, he produces the notice together with his licence and its counterpart in person to a constable or authorised person<sup>15</sup> at the police station specified in the notice (being a police station chosen by the person concerned) and the following requirements are met he will then be given a fixed penalty notice in respect of the offence<sup>16</sup>. If a person to whom such a notice has been given produces the notice together with his licence and its counterpart in person to a constable or authorised person at the police station specified in the notice within seven days after the notice was so given to him, the constable or authorised person must give him a fixed penalty notice in respect of the offence to which the notice relates, provided the following requirements are met, that is<sup>17</sup>:

- 1222 (a) the constable or authorised person is satisfied, on inspecting the licence and its counterpart that he would not be liable to be disqualified<sup>18</sup> if he were convicted of the offence<sup>19</sup>; and
- 1223 (b) he surrenders his licence and its counterpart to the constable or authorised person to be retained and dealt with in accordance with the provisions relating to fixed penalties<sup>20</sup>.

A licence and a counterpart of a licence surrendered in accordance with the above provisions must be sent to the fixed penalty clerk<sup>23</sup>.

The following provisions are added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 9(1), (4), as from a day to be appointed. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. Where the offence appears to the constable or vehicle examiner to involve obligatory endorsement, and the person is not the holder of a licence, the constable or vehicle examiner may only give him a fixed penalty notice under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 54(2) (see the text and note 4 supra) in respect of the offence if the constable or vehicle examiner is satisfied, on accessing information held on his driving record, that he would not be liable to be disqualified under s 35 (as amended) (see PARA 1070 ante) if he were convicted of that offence: s 54(5A) (as so added). The following provisions apply where: (1) the offence appears to the constable or vehicle examiner to involve obligatory endorsement; (2) the person concerned is not the holder of a licence; and (3) the constable or vehicle examiner is unable to satisfy himself, by accessing information held on his driving record, that he would not be liable to be disqualified under s 35 (as amended) if he were convicted of that offence: s 54(5B) (as so added). Where this provision applies, the constable or vehicle examiner may give the person a notice stating that if he delivers the notice in accordance with s 54(5D) (as added) and the person to whom it is delivered is satisfied, on accessing information held on his driving record, that he would not be liable to be disqualified under s 35 (as amended) if he were convicted of the offence, he will then be given a fixed penalty notice in respect of the offence: s 54(5C) (as so added). Delivery must: (a) if the notice is given by a constable, be made in person, within seven days after the notice is given, to a constable or authorised person at the police station specified in the notice (being a police station chosen by the person concerned); or (b) if the notice is given by a vehicle examiner, be made (either by post or in person), within 14 days after the notice is given, to the Secretary of State at the place specified in the notice: s 54(5D) (as so added). If a person to whom a notice has been given under s 54(5C) (as added) delivers the notice in accordance with s 54(5D) (as added), and the person to whom it is delivered is satisfied, on accessing information held on his driving record, that he would not be liable to be disqualified under s 35 (as amended) if he were convicted of the offence, that person must give him a fixed penalty notice in respect of the offence to which the notice under s 54(5C) (as added) relates: s 54(5E) (as so added).

The provisions of s 54(3), (4), (4A), (5), (5A)-(5E) (s 53(3), (4), (5) as amended; s 53(4A), (5A)-(5E) as added) are substituted by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 10(1), (3), as from a day to be appointed. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As from the appointed day, where the offence appears to the constable or vehicle examiner to involve obligatory endorsement, the constable or vehicle examiner may only give the person a fixed penalty notice under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 54(2) in respect of the offence if the constable or vehicle examiner is satisfied, on accessing information held on his driving record, that he would not be liable to be disqualified under s 35 (as amended) if he were convicted of that offence and, in the case of a person who is the holder of a licence, he produces it for inspection by the constable or vehicle examiner and surrenders it to him to be retained and dealt with in accordance with Pt III (as amended): s 54(3) (as so substituted). Where the offence appears to the constable or vehicle examiner to involve obligatory endorsement, s 54(5) (as substituted) applies if: (i) the constable or vehicle examiner is unable to satisfy himself, by accessing information held on his driving record, that he would not be liable to be disqualified under s 35 (as amended) if he were convicted of that offence; or (ii) in the case of a person who is the holder of a licence, he does not produce it for inspection by the constable or vehicle examiner: s 54(4) (as so substituted). Where this provision applies, the constable or vehicle examiner may give the person a notice stating that if he delivers the notice and (if he is the holder of a licence) his licence in accordance with s 54(5A) (as added and substituted) and the requirements of s 54(5B) (as added and substituted) are met, he will then be given a fixed penalty notice in respect of the offence: s 54(5) (as so substituted). Delivery must: (A) if the notice is given by a constable, be made in person, within seven days after the notice is given, to a constable or authorised person at the police station specified in the notice (being a police station chosen by the person concerned); or (B) if the notice is given by a vehicle examiner, be made (either by post or in person), within 14 days after the notice is given, to the Secretary of State at the place specified in the notice: s 54(5A) (as so added and substituted). If a person to whom a notice has been given under s 54(5) (as substituted) delivers the notice and (if he is the holder of a licence) his licence in accordance with s 54(5A) (as added and substituted), and the following requirements are met, that is: (aa) the person to whom the notice is delivered is satisfied, on accessing information held on his driving record, that he would not be liable to be disqualified under s 35 (as amended) if he were convicted of the offence; and (bb) if he is the holder of a licence, it is delivered to be retained and dealt with in accordance with Pt III (as amended), then the person to whom the notice is delivered must give him a fixed penalty notice in respect of the offence to which the notice under s 54(5) (as substituted) relates: s 54(5B) (as so added and substituted).

At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

23 Ibid s 54(7) (amended by the Driving Licences (Community Driving Licence) Regulations 1990, SI 1990/144, Sch 2 para 15). For the meaning of 'fixed penalty clerk' see PARA 1112 note 4 post. As from a day to be appointed, the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 54(7) is further amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 1 para 3(8), so as to add the words 'or delivered' after 'surrendered', and so as to add 'if the fixed penalty notice was given by a constable or authorised person' after 'the fixed penalty clerk'; and by s 10(6), Sch 7, so as to remove the reference to a counterpart of a licence. NOTES 6, 8-10--Day appointed in relation to Road Safety Act 2006 s 5, Sch 1 is 31 March 2009: SI 2008/3164.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. Endorsement of licences without hearings; powers of court in cases of deception.

1100. Endorsement of licences without hearings; powers of court in cases of deception.

Where a person ('the licence holder') has surrendered his licence and its counterpart<sup>2</sup> to a constable<sup>3</sup> or authorised person<sup>4</sup> on the occasion when he was given a fixed penalty notice<sup>5</sup>, the counterpart of his licence may be endorsed in accordance with this provision without any order of a court<sup>6</sup>. The counterpart of a person's licence may not be endorsed under this provision if at the end of the suspended enforcement period<sup>7</sup> he has given notice, in the manner specified in the fixed penalty notice, requesting a hearing<sup>8</sup> in respect of the offence<sup>9</sup> to which the fixed penalty notice relates<sup>10</sup>, and the fixed penalty<sup>11</sup> has not been paid<sup>12</sup>.

On the payment of the fixed penalty before the end of the suspended enforcement period, the fixed penalty clerk<sup>13</sup> must endorse the relevant particulars<sup>14</sup> on the counterpart of the licence and return it together with the licence to the licence holder<sup>15</sup>.

Where any sum determined by reference to the fixed penalty is registered<sup>16</sup> for enforcement against the licence holder as a fine, the fixed penalty clerk must endorse the relevant particulars on the counterpart of the licence and return it together with the licence to the licence holder<sup>17</sup>: (1) if he is himself the clerk who registers that sum, on the registration of that sum<sup>18</sup>; and (2) in any other case, on being notified of the registration by the clerk who registers that sum<sup>19</sup>. On endorsing the counterpart of a person's licence under this provision the fixed penalty clerk must send notice of the endorsement and of the particulars endorsed to the Secretary of State<sup>20</sup>.

Where, in endorsing the counterpart of any person's licence, the fixed penalty clerk is deceived as to whether that endorsement is excluded<sup>21</sup> by virtue of the fact that the licence holder would be liable to be disqualified<sup>22</sup> if he were convicted of the offence<sup>23</sup>, if the deception constituted or was due to an offence committed by the licence holder<sup>24</sup>, and the licence holder is convicted of that offence<sup>25</sup>, the court by or before which he is convicted has the same powers and duties as it would have had if he had also been convicted by or before it of the offence of which particulars were endorsed<sup>26</sup>.

1102 Effect of endorsement without hearing

TEXT AND NOTE 11--Day appointed is 1 April 2009: SI 2008/3164.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iv) Fixed Penalties/C. GIVING NOTICE TO SUSPECTED OFFENDERS/1103. Exclusion of fixed penalty procedure where fixed penalty notice mistakenly given.

1103. Exclusion of fixed penalty procedure where fixed penalty notice mistakenly given.

Where, on inspection of a licence and its counterpart<sup>2</sup> sent to him<sup>3</sup>, it appears to the fixed penalty clerk<sup>4</sup> that the person whose licence it is would be liable to be disqualified<sup>5</sup> if he were convicted of the offence<sup>6</sup> in respect of which the fixed penalty notice<sup>7</sup> was given<sup>8</sup>, the fixed penalty clerk must not endorse the counterpart of the licence<sup>9</sup> but must instead send it together with the licence to the chief officer of police<sup>10</sup>. Nothing in the provisions relating to fixed penalties<sup>11</sup> prevents proceedings<sup>12</sup> being brought in respect of the offence in respect of which the fixed penalty notice was given where those proceedings are commenced before the end of the period of six months beginning with the date on which that notice was given<sup>13</sup>. Where proceedings in respect of that offence are commenced before the end of that period, the case is from then on to be treated in all respects as if no fixed penalty notice had been given in respect of the offence<sup>14</sup>. Accordingly, where proceedings in respect of that offence are so commenced, any action taken in pursuance of any provision relating to fixed penalties by reference to that fixed penalty notice is void<sup>15</sup>.

They apply where, on accessing information held on the driving record<sup>17</sup> of a person to whom a fixed penalty notice was given, but who is not the holder of a licence, it appears to the fixed penalty clerk or the Secretary of State that the person would be liable to be disqualified<sup>18</sup> if he were convicted of the offence in respect of which the fixed penalty notice was given<sup>19</sup>. The person's driving record must not be endorsed<sup>20</sup>. In a case where the fixed penalty is required to be paid to the fixed penalty clerk he must not send notice to the Secretary of State<sup>21</sup> but instead must notify the chief officer of police that the person to whom the fixed penalty notice was given would be liable to be disqualified if he were convicted of the offence in respect of which the fixed penalty notice was given<sup>22</sup>. Nothing in Part III of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988<sup>23</sup> prevents proceedings being brought in respect of the offence in respect of which the fixed penalty notice was given where those proceedings are commenced before the end of the period of six months beginning with the date on which that notice was given<sup>24</sup>. Where proceedings in respect of that offence are commenced before the end of that period, the case is from then on to be treated in all respects as if no fixed penalty notice had been given in respect of the offence<sup>25</sup>. Accordingly, where proceedings in respect of that offence are so commenced, any action taken in pursuance of Part III of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 by reference to that fixed penalty notice is void (including, but without prejudice to the generality of the above provision: (1) the registration<sup>26</sup> of any sum, determined by reference to the fixed penalty for that offence, for enforcement against the person to whom the fixed penalty notice was given; and (2) any proceedings<sup>27</sup> for enforcing payment of any such sum)<sup>28</sup>.

1104 Fixing notices to vehicles

NOTE 5--Day appointed is 31 March 2009: SI 2008/3164.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iv) Fixed Penalties/D. NOTICES FIXED TO VEHICLES/1105. Service of notice to owner if penalty not paid.

1105. Service of notice to owner if penalty not paid.

This provision does not apply where before the end of the suspended enforcement period any person has given notice requesting a hearing<sup>10</sup> in respect of the offence in the manner specified in the fixed penalty notice<sup>11</sup>, and the notice so given contains a statement by that person to the effect that he was the driver<sup>12</sup> of the vehicle at the time when the offence is alleged to have been committed ('the time of the alleged offence')<sup>13</sup>.

A notice to owner must:

- 1227 (1) give particulars of the alleged offence and of the fixed penalty concerned<sup>14</sup>;
- 1228 (2) state the period allowed for response to the notice<sup>15</sup>; and
- 1229 (3) indicate that, if the fixed penalty is not paid before the end of that period, the person on whom the notice is served is asked to provide before the end of that period to the chief officer of police by or on whose behalf the notice was served a statutory statement<sup>16</sup> of ownership<sup>17</sup>.

A notice to owner relating to any offence must indicate that the person on whom it is served may, before the end of the period allowed for response to the notice, either:

- 1230 (a) give notice requesting a hearing in respect of the offence in the manner indicated by the notice<sup>18</sup>; or
- 1231 (b) if he was not the driver of the vehicle at the time of the alleged offence<sup>19</sup>, and a person purporting to be the driver wishes to give notice requesting a hearing in respect of the offence<sup>20</sup>, provide, together with a statutory statement of ownership provided as requested in that notice, a statutory statement of facts<sup>21</sup>.

In any case where a person on whom a notice to owner relating to any offence has been served provides a statutory statement of facts in pursuance of head (b) above<sup>22</sup>:

- 1232 (i) any notice requesting a hearing in respect of the offence that he purports to give on his own account is of no effect<sup>23</sup>; and
- 1233 (ii) no sum may be registered for enforcement against him as a fine in respect of the offence unless, within the period of two months immediately following the period allowed for response to the notice to owner, no summons in respect of the offence in question is served on the person identified in the statement as the driver<sup>24</sup>.

Notwithstanding the presumption in s 68(1), it is open to the defence in any proceedings to prove that the person who was the registered keeper of a vehicle at a particular time was not the person by whom the vehicle was kept at that time and to the prosecution to prove that the vehicle was kept by some other person at that time: s 68(2). OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iv) Fixed Penalties/D. NOTICES FIXED TO VEHICLES/1107. Meaning of 'statutory statement of facts'.

1107. Meaning of 'statutory statement of facts'.

For the purposes of the provisions relating to fixed penalties<sup>1</sup>, a statutory statement of facts is a statement on an official form<sup>2</sup>, signed by the person providing it, which states that the person providing it was not the driver<sup>3</sup> of the vehicle at the time of the alleged offence<sup>4</sup>, and states the name and address at the time when the statement is provided of the person who was the driver of the vehicle at the time of the alleged offence<sup>5</sup>.

A statutory statement of facts has effect as a notice given by the driver requesting a hearing<sup>6</sup> in respect of the offence<sup>7</sup> if it is signed by the person identified in the statement as the driver of the vehicle at the time of the alleged offence<sup>8</sup>.

An official form for a statutory statement of facts must indicate that:

- 1238 (1) if a person identified in the statement as the driver of the vehicle at the time of the alleged offence signs the statement he will be regarded as having given notice requesting a hearing in respect of the offence<sup>9</sup>;
- 1239 (2) the person on whom the notice to owner<sup>10</sup> relating to the offence is served may not give notice requesting a hearing in respect of the offence on his own account if he provides a statutory statement of facts signed by a person so identified<sup>11</sup>; and
- 1240 (3) if the fixed penalty<sup>12</sup> is not paid before the end of the period stated in the notice to owner as the period for response to the notice, a sum determined by reference to that fixed penalty may be registered without any court hearing for enforcement as a fine against the person on whom the notice to owner is served, unless he has given notice requesting a hearing in respect of the offence<sup>13</sup>.

However, in a case within head (3) above, the sum in question may not be so registered if the person on whom the notice to owner is served provides a statutory statement of facts as mentioned in head (2) above until two months have elapsed from the end of the period so stated without service of a summons in respect of the offence on the person identified in that statement as the driver of the vehicle<sup>14</sup>.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iv) Fixed Penalties/D. NOTICES FIXED TO VEHICLES/1108. Enforcement or proceedings against owner.

1108. Enforcement or proceedings against owner.

Where:

- 1241 (1)   a fixed penalty notice<sup>1</sup> relating to an offence<sup>2</sup> has been fixed to a vehicle<sup>3</sup>;
- 1242 (2)   a notice to owner<sup>4</sup> relating to the offence has been served on any person<sup>5</sup> before the end of the period of six months beginning with the day on which the fixed penalty notice was fixed to the vehicle<sup>6</sup>; and
- 1243 (3)   the fixed penalty has not been paid in accordance with the provisions relating to fixed penalties<sup>7</sup> before the end of the period allowed for response to the notice to owner<sup>8</sup>, proceedings<sup>9</sup> may be brought in respect of the offence against the person on whom the notice to owner<sup>10</sup> was served<sup>11</sup>. If the person on whom the notice to owner was served was not the owner of the vehicle at the time of the alleged offence<sup>12</sup>, and provides a statutory statement<sup>13</sup> of ownership<sup>14</sup> to that effect in response to the notice before the end of the period allowed for response to the notice<sup>15</sup>, he is not liable in respect of the offence by virtue of this provision nor must any sum determined by reference to the fixed penalty for the offence be so registered by virtue of this provision for enforcement against him as a fine<sup>16</sup>.

For the purposes of the institution of proceedings<sup>17</sup> against any person on whom a notice to owner has been served<sup>18</sup>, and in any proceedings brought<sup>19</sup> against any such person<sup>20</sup>, it must be conclusively presumed (notwithstanding that that person may not be an individual) that he was the driver<sup>21</sup> of the vehicle at the time of the alleged offence and, accordingly, that acts or omissions of the driver of the vehicle at that time were his acts or omissions<sup>22</sup>. However, that presumption does not apply in any proceedings brought against any person<sup>23</sup> if, in those proceedings, it is proved that at the time of the alleged offence the vehicle was in the possession of some other person without the consent of the accused<sup>24</sup>.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iv) Fixed Penalties/D. NOTICES FIXED TO VEHICLES/1109. Restriction on proceedings against owner and others.

1109. Restriction on proceedings against owner and others.

In any case where a notice to owner<sup>1</sup> relating to an offence<sup>2</sup> may be served<sup>3</sup>, no proceedings<sup>4</sup> may be brought in respect of the offence against any person other than a person on whom such a notice has been served unless he is identified as the driver<sup>5</sup> of the vehicle at the time of the alleged offence<sup>6</sup> in a statutory statement<sup>7</sup> of facts<sup>8</sup> by a person on whom such a notice has been served<sup>9</sup>.

Proceedings in respect of an offence to which a notice to owner relates must not be brought against the person on whom the notice was served unless, before the end of the period allowed for response to the notice<sup>10</sup>, he has given notice, in the manner indicated by the notice to owner, requesting a hearing<sup>11</sup> in respect of the offence<sup>12</sup>.

Proceedings in respect of an offence to which a notice to owner relates may not be brought against any person identified as the driver of the vehicle in a statutory statement of facts provided in response to the notice if the fixed penalty<sup>13</sup> is paid<sup>14</sup> before the end of the period allowed for response to the notice<sup>15</sup>.

Once any sum determined by reference to the fixed penalty for an offence has been registered<sup>16</sup> for enforcement as a fine against a person on whom a notice to owner relating to that offence has been served, no proceedings may be brought against any other person in respect of that offence<sup>17</sup>.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iv) Fixed Penalties/D. NOTICES FIXED TO VEHICLES/1110. Hired vehicles.

1110. Hired vehicles.

Where:

- 1244 (1) a notice to owner<sup>1</sup> has been served on a vehicle-hire firm<sup>2</sup>;
- 1245 (2) at the time of the alleged offence<sup>3</sup> the vehicle in respect of which the notice was served was let to another person by the vehicle-hire firm under a hiring agreement<sup>4</sup> to which this provision applies<sup>5</sup>; and
- 1246 (3) within the period allowed for response to the notice<sup>6</sup> the firm provides the chief officer of police<sup>7</sup> by or on whose behalf the notice was served with the specified documents<sup>8</sup>, a person authorised in that behalf by the chief officer of police to whom such documents are provided may, at any reasonable time within six months after service of the notice to owner, (and on the production of his authority) require the firm to produce the originals of the hiring agreement and statement of liability in question<sup>9</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'notice to owner' see PARA 1105 ante. See also note 8 infra. For the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 1105 note 8 ante.

2 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 66(1)(a). For this purpose, 'vehicle-hire firm' means any person engaged in hiring vehicles in the course of a business: s 66(8).

3 For the meaning of 'time of the alleged offence' see PARA 1105 ante.

4 For this purpose, 'hiring agreement' refers only to an agreement which contains such particulars as may be prescribed and does not include a hire-purchase agreement within the meaning of the Consumer Credit Act 1974 (see CONSUMER CREDIT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 95): Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 66(8). For the particulars required in a hiring agreement see the Road Traffic (Owner Liability) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2546, reg 3, Sch 2.

5 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 66(1)(b). Section 66 applies to a hiring agreement under the terms of which the vehicle concerned is let to the hirer for a fixed period of less than six months (whether or not that period is capable of extension by agreement between the parties or otherwise): s 66(7).

6 As to the period allowed for response to the notice to owner see PARA 1105 note 15 ante.

7 For the meaning of 'chief officer of police' see PARA 1090 note 8 ante. As to chief officers of police see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 165, 178 et seq.

8 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 66(1)(c). As from a day to be appointed, s 66(1)(c) is amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 5, Sch 1 paras 1, 9(1), (2) so as to substitute for the words 'chief officer of police by or on whose behalf the notice was served' the words 'relevant person'; and the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 66(8) is amended by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 1 para 9(4) so as to provide that 'relevant person' means: (1) if the fixed penalty notice was fixed by a constable, the chief officer of police by or on whose behalf the notice to owner was served; and (2) if it was fixed by a vehicle examiner, the Secretary of State. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

The specified documents are a statement on an official form, signed by or on behalf of the firm, stating that at the time of the alleged offence the vehicle concerned was hired under a hiring agreement to which s 66 applies, together with: (a) a copy of that hiring agreement; and (b) a copy of a statement of liability signed by the hirer under that hiring agreement: Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 66(2). For the meaning of 'official form' see PARA 1105 note 16 ante. For the form of statement see the Road Traffic (Owner Liability) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2546, reg 2, Sch 1 Form FP2.

A 'statement of liability' means a statement made by the hirer under a hiring agreement to which the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 66 applies to the effect that the hirer acknowledges that he will be liable, as the owner of the vehicle, in respect of any fixed penalty offence which may be committed with respect to the vehicle during the currency of the hiring agreement and giving such information as may be prescribed: s 66(3). For the form of the statement of liability see the Road Traffic (Owner Liability) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2546, reg 2, Sch 1 Form H. For the meaning of 'fixed penalty offence' see PARA 1093 ante. Any reference in the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 66 to the currency of the hiring agreement includes a reference to any period during which, with the consent of the vehicle-hire firm, the hirer continues in possession of the vehicle as hirer, after the expiry of the fixed period specified in the agreement, but otherwise on the terms and conditions so specified: s 66(7).

In any case where s 66 applies, s 63 (see PARA 1105 ante), s 64 (as amended) (see PARA 1108 ante) and s 65 (see PARA 1109 ante) have effect as if: (i) any reference to the owner of the vehicle were a reference to the hirer under the hiring agreement; and (ii) any reference to a statutory statement of ownership were a reference to a statutory statement of hiring, and accordingly references in Pt III (ss 51-90) (as amended) (with the exceptions mentioned below) to a notice to owner include references to a notice served under s 63 as it applies by virtue of s 66: s 66(4). Section 66(4) does not apply to references to a notice to owner in s 66 or s 81(2)(b) (see PARA 1123 post) or Sch 4 Pt I (see PARA 1106 ante): s 66(4). For the meaning of 'statutory statements' see PARA 1105 note 16 ante. For the meanings of 'statutory statement of ownership' and 'statutory statement of hiring' see PARA 1106 ante. For the form of statutory statement of hiring see the Road Traffic (Owner Liability) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2546, reg 2, Sch 1 Form FP5.

9 Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 66(5). Section 66(5) is amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 1 para 9(2) so as to substitute for the words 'chief officer of police' the word 'person'. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

If a vehicle-hire firm fails to produce the original of a document when required to do so under these provisions, the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 66 (as amended) thereupon ceases to apply (and s 64 (as amended) (see PARA 1108 ante) applies accordingly in any such case after that time as it applies in a case where the person on whom the notice to owner was served has failed to provide a statutory statement of ownership in response to the notice within the period allowed): s 66(6).

Where, in England and Wales, the designated officer for a local justice area receives a registration certificate<sup>1</sup> in respect of any sum payable in default<sup>2</sup>: (1) if it appears to him that the defaulter resides in a local justice area for which he is the designated officer, he must register that sum for enforcement as a fine in that area by entering it in the register of a magistrates' court acting in that area; (2) if it appears to him that the defaulter resides in any other local justice area in England and Wales, he must send the certificate to the designated officer for that area; or (3) if it appears to him that the defaulter resides in Scotland, he must send the certificate to the clerk of the court of summary jurisdiction<sup>3</sup> for the area in which the defaulter appears to him to reside<sup>4</sup>.

OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iv) Fixed Penalties/E. FIXED PENALTY PROCEDURE/1115. Invalidity of registration and endorsement in the case of notices on-the-spot or at a police station.

1115. Invalidity of registration and endorsement in the case of notices on-the-spot or at a police station.

Where a person who has received notice of the registration<sup>1</sup> of a sum<sup>2</sup> for enforcement against him as a fine makes a statutory declaration to the effect mentioned below<sup>3</sup>, and that declaration is, within 21 days of the date on which the person making it received notice of the registration, served on the proper officer of the relevant court<sup>4</sup>, the statutory declaration must state:

- 1249 (1) that the person making the declaration was not the person to whom the relevant fixed penalty notice<sup>5</sup> was given<sup>6</sup>; or
- 1250 (2) that he gave notice requesting a hearing<sup>7</sup> in respect of the alleged offence as permitted by the fixed penalty notice before the end of the suspended enforcement period<sup>8</sup>.

In any case within head (1) above, the relevant fixed penalty notice, the registration and any proceedings taken before the declaration was served for enforcing payment of the registered sum are void<sup>9</sup>. Where in any case within head (1) above the person to whom the relevant fixed penalty notice was given surrendered a licence<sup>10</sup> and its counterpart<sup>11</sup> held by the person making the declaration, any endorsement of that counterpart<sup>12</sup> in respect of the offence in respect of which that notice was given is void<sup>13</sup>.

In any case within head (2) above:

- 1251 (a) the registration, any proceedings taken before the declaration was served for enforcing payment of the sum registered, and any endorsement, in respect of the offence in respect of which the relevant fixed penalty notice was given<sup>14</sup> before the declaration was served, are void<sup>15</sup>; and
- 1252 (b) the case must be treated after the declaration is served as if the person making the declaration had given notice requesting a hearing in respect of the alleged offence as stated in the declaration<sup>16</sup>.

The proper officer of the relevant court must<sup>17</sup> cancel an endorsement of the counterpart of a licence<sup>18</sup> that is void by virtue of this provision on production of the licence and its counterpart to him for that purpose<sup>19</sup>, and send notice of the cancellation to the Secretary of State<sup>20</sup>.

1 le by virtue of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 55(3): see PARA 1098 ante.

2 le under ibid s 71 (as amended): see PARA 1114 ante. For the purposes of ss 72-74 (as amended) a person is to be taken to receive notice of the registration of a sum under s 71 (as amended) for enforcement against him as a fine when he receives notice either of the registration as such or of any proceedings for enforcing payment of the sum registered: s 74(6). References to proceedings for enforcing payment of the sum registered are references to any process issued or other proceedings taken for or in connection with enforcing payment of that sum: s 74(5)(c). Nothing in the provisions of ss 72-74 (as amended) is to be read as prejudicing any rights a person may have apart from those provisions by virtue of the invalidity of any action purportedly taken in pursuance of Pt III (ss 51-90) (as amended) which is not in fact authorised by Pt III (as amended) in the circumstances of the case; and, accordingly, references in those provisions to the registration of any sum or to any other action taken under or by virtue of any provision of Pt III (as amended) are not to be read as implying that the registration or action was validly made or taken in accordance with that provision: s 74(7). For the meaning of 'proceedings' see PARA 1094 note 4 ante.

3 Ibid s 72(1)(a).

4 Ibid s 72(1)(b) (amended by the Access to Justice Act 1999 s 90(1), Sch 13 paras 140, 151). References to the relevant court are, in the case of a sum registered under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 71 (as amended) (see PARA 1114 ante) for enforcement as a fine in a local justice area in England and Wales, references to any magistrates' court acting in that area; and, in the case of a sum registered under s 71 (as amended) for enforcement as a fine by a court of summary jurisdiction in Scotland, references to that court: s 74(5)(a) (amended by the Courts Act 2003 Sch 8 para 318(b)). For the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 ss 72(1), 73(1) (see PARA 1116 post), a statutory declaration is taken to be duly served on the proper officer of the relevant court if it is delivered to him, left at his office, or sent in a registered letter or by the recorded delivery service addressed to him at his office: s 74(4) (amended by the Access to Justice Act 1999 Sch 13 para 152(2)).

Where, on the application of a person who has received notice of the registration of a sum under s 71 (as amended) (see PARA 1114 ante) for enforcement against him as a fine, it appears to the relevant court (which for this purpose may be composed of a single justice) that it was not reasonable to expect him to serve, within 21 days of the date on which he received the notice, a statutory declaration to the effect mentioned in s 72(2) or, as the case may be, s 73(2), the court may accept service of such a declaration by that person after that period has expired: s 74(2). A statutory declaration accepted under s 74(2) is to be taken to have been served as required by s 72(1) or, as the case may be, s 73(1): s 74(3).

1118. Effect of offer and payment of penalty.

Where a conditional offer<sup>1</sup> has been sent to a person<sup>2</sup>, no proceedings<sup>3</sup> are to be brought against any person for the offence<sup>4</sup> to which the conditional offer relates until the person by or on whose behalf the conditional offer was sent receives notice in accordance with the following provisions<sup>5</sup>. Where, on the expiry of the period of 28 days following the date on which the conditional offer was made or such longer period as may be specified in the offer, the conditions specified in the offer<sup>15</sup> have not been fulfilled, the fixed penalty clerk must notify the chief officer of police<sup>16</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131; VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/11. OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(iv) Fixed Penalties/F. CONDITIONAL OFFER OF FIXED PENALTY/1119. Endorsement where penalty paid.

1119. Endorsement where penalty paid.

Where a cheque tendered in payment is subsequently dishonoured<sup>11</sup>:

- 1265 (a) any endorsement made by a clerk under the above provision remains effective, notwithstanding that the licence holder is still liable to prosecution in respect of the alleged offence to which the endorsement relates<sup>12</sup>; and
- 1266 (b) the clerk must, upon the expiry of the period specified in the conditional offer or, if the period has expired, forthwith, notify the chief officer of police that no payment has been made<sup>13</sup>.

When proceedings are brought against a licence holder after a notice has been given in pursuance of head (b) above, the court must order the removal of the fixed penalty endorsement from the counterpart of the licence<sup>14</sup>, and may, on finding the licence holder guilty, make any competent order of endorsement or disqualification<sup>15</sup> and pass any competent sentence<sup>16</sup>.

The fixed penalty clerk must send notice to the Secretary of State of any such endorsement and of the particulars endorsed<sup>17</sup>, and of any order removing the fixed penalty endorsement from the counterpart of the licence<sup>18</sup>.

The following provisions apply as from a day to be appointed<sup>19</sup>.

Where:

- 1267 (i) in pursuance of a conditional offer<sup>20</sup> a person who is not the holder of a licence (the 'alleged offender') makes payment of the fixed penalty to the fixed penalty clerk<sup>21</sup>; and
- 1268 (ii) proceedings against the alleged offender for the offence to which the conditional offer relates are excluded<sup>22</sup>, the fixed penalty clerk must forthwith send to the Secretary of State notice of the relevant particulars<sup>23</sup> to be endorsed on the alleged offender's driving record<sup>24</sup>.

The Secretary of State must endorse the relevant particulars on a person's driving record on receiving such a notice or if, in pursuance of a conditional offer<sup>25</sup>, a person who is not the holder of a licence (also referred to as the 'alleged offender') makes payment of the fixed penalty to him and proceedings against the alleged offender are excluded<sup>26</sup>.

Where a cheque tendered in payment is subsequently dishonoured, any endorsement made by the Secretary of State remains effective notwithstanding that the alleged offender is still liable to prosecution in respect of the alleged offence to which the endorsement relates and, unless the appropriate person is the Secretary of State, the appropriate person must upon expiry of the period specified in the conditional offer or, if the period has expired, forthwith notify the person required to be notified that no payment has been made<sup>27</sup>.

When proceedings are brought against an alleged offender where a cheque has been dishonoured, the court<sup>28</sup>:

- 1269 (A) must order the removal of the fixed penalty endorsement from the driving record of the alleged offender<sup>29</sup>;
- 1270 (B) may, on finding the alleged offender guilty, make any competent order of endorsement or disqualification and pass any competent sentence<sup>30</sup>; and
- 1271 (C) must send to the Secretary of State notice of any order made under head (A) or head (B) above<sup>31</sup>.

On receiving a notice under head (c) above, the Secretary of State must make any necessary adjustments to the endorsements on the alleged offender's driving record<sup>32</sup>.

Where a person's driving record is endorsed under these provisions, he is to be treated for the purposes of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988<sup>33</sup> and of the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974<sup>34</sup> as if he had been convicted of the offence, the endorsement had been made in pursuance of an order made on his conviction by a court<sup>35</sup>, and the particulars of the offence endorsed<sup>36</sup> were particulars of his conviction of that offence<sup>37</sup>.

12. PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES

(1) LEGISLATION

1132. Introduction.

The principal statutes governing the regulation of public service vehicles are the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981<sup>1</sup> (which consolidated certain enactments relating to public service vehicles<sup>2</sup>) and the Transport Act 1985<sup>3</sup> (which both amends and supplements the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981). With certain exceptions<sup>4</sup>, the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 and the Transport Act 1985 do not extend to Northern Ireland<sup>5</sup>.

The Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 defines a public service vehicle<sup>6</sup>, makes general provisions relating to such vehicles<sup>7</sup>, and provides for regulations as to the conduct of drivers, inspectors, conductors and passengers as to the number of passengers that may be carried<sup>8</sup>. Other provisions of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 concern the review of decisions of traffic commissioners with respect to PSV operators' licences<sup>9</sup>, appeals to the Transport Tribunal in connection with PSV operators' licences<sup>10</sup>, appeals to the Secretary of State<sup>11</sup> in connection with certain decisions of examiners<sup>12</sup>, fees and expenses<sup>13</sup>, inquiries by traffic commissioners<sup>14</sup>, procedural regulations<sup>15</sup>, and offences<sup>16</sup>.

The Transport Act 1985 abolished road service licensing under Part III of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981<sup>17</sup>, and replaced it with a new system in relation to London local services<sup>18</sup> and other local services<sup>19</sup>.

Part II of the Transport Act 2000<sup>20</sup> deals with local transport. It provides a statutory basis for local transport plans and bus strategies in England and Wales outside London<sup>21</sup>. It empowers local transport authorities, either alone or jointly, to set up quality partnership schemes as part of the process of implementation of their current bus strategy<sup>22</sup>; makes provision with respect to quality contracts schemes<sup>23</sup> and ticketing schemes<sup>24</sup> and as to the provision of information with respect to bus services<sup>25</sup>. Provision is made as to local transport functions in relation to Wales by the Transport (Wales) Act 2006<sup>26</sup>.

Regulations or rules made under any provision of the Transport Act 1985 (other than one contained in Part I or Part II), and any order made by the Secretary of State under any provision of the Transport Act 1985, including one so contained, may make different provision for different cases to which those regulations or rules or, as the case may be, to which that order applies, and may in particular make different provision as respects different areas<sup>11</sup>.

The provision of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 relating to the procedure for making regulations under the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981<sup>12</sup> has effect as if Part I and Part II of PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(i) Definition and Classification of Public Service Vehicles/1136. Meaning of 'public service vehicle'.

(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES

(i) Definition and Classification of Public Service Vehicles

1136. Meaning of 'public service vehicle'.

'Public service vehicle' means a motor vehicle<sup>1</sup> (other than a tramcar<sup>2</sup>) which<sup>3</sup>: (1) being a vehicle adapted<sup>4</sup> to carry more than eight passengers, is used<sup>5</sup> for carrying passengers for hire or reward<sup>6</sup>; or (2) being a vehicle not so adapted, is used for carrying passengers for hire or reward at separate fares<sup>7</sup> in the course of a business of carrying passengers<sup>8</sup>. Vehicles which meet certain conditions do not fall within this definition<sup>9</sup>.

A journey made by a vehicle in the course of which one or more passengers are carried at separate fares must not be treated as made in the course of a business of carrying passengers if<sup>10</sup>: (a) the fare or the aggregate of the fares paid in respect of the journey does not exceed the amount of the running costs<sup>11</sup> of the vehicle for the journey<sup>12</sup>; and (b) the arrangements for the payment of the fares by the passenger or passengers so carried were made before the journey began<sup>13</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'motor vehicle' see PARA 210 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'tramcar' see PARA 219 ante. As to tramways see PARA 1532 et seq post.

3 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 1(1), which is expressed to be subject to the provisions of s 1 (as amended).

4 'Adapted' may mean altered or changed (French v Champkin [1920] 1 KB 76, DC; Davison v Birmingham Industrial Co-operative Society Ltd (1920) 90 LJKB 206, DC; Hubbard v Messenger [1938] 1 KB 300 at 307, [1937] 4 All ER 48 at 50 per Lord Hewart LC; Taylor v Mead [1961] 1 All ER 626, [1961] 1 WLR 435; Flower Freight Co Ltd v Hammond [1963] 1 QB 275, [1962] 3 All ER 950, DC; Baker v Secretary of State for the Environment [1983] 2 All ER 1021, [1983] 1 WLR 1485), or it may mean apt or suitable for (Herrmann v Metropolitan Leather Co Ltd [1942] Ch 248, [1942] 1 All ER 294; Maddox v Storer [1963] 1 QB 451, [1962] 1 All ER 831, DC; Burns v Currell [1963] 2 QB 433, [1963] 2 All ER 297, DC; Wurzal v Addison [1965] 2 QB 131, [1965] 1 All ER 20, DC; Traffic Comrs for South Wales Traffic Area v Snape [1977] RTR 367, DC). It is likely that in this context, particularly in the light of the last two decisions cited, it means apt or suitable for.

It has been held that a minibus with four out of eleven seats blocked off is not a public service vehicle: see Westacott v Centaur Overland Travel Ltd [1981] RTR 182, DC.

5 For the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 1(1), a vehicle 'is used' as mentioned in head (1) or head (2) in the text if it is being so used or if it has been used as mentioned in that head and that use has not been permanently discontinued: s 1(2).

6 Ibid s 1(1)(a). A vehicle is to be treated as carrying passengers for hire or reward if payment is made for, or for matters which include, the carrying of passengers, irrespective of the person to whom the payment is made and, in the case of a transaction effected by or on behalf of a member of any association of persons (whether incorporated or not) on the one hand and the association or another member thereof on the other hand, notwithstanding any rule of law as to such transactions: s 1(5)(a). See note 7 infra. See Drew v Dingle [1934] 1 KB 187, DC, where a charge was made for carrying goods to market and passengers accompanying the goods were carried without further charge. Carriage 'for hire or reward' involves systematic carrying of passengers going beyond the bounds of mere social kindness and amounting to a predominantly business activity: see Albert v Motor Insurers' Bureau [1972] AC 301, [1971] 2 All ER 1345, HL; DPP v Sikondar [1993] Crim LR 76, [1993] RTR 90, DC; Rout v Swallow Hotels Ltd [1993] RTR 80, 157 JP 771, DC. Payments to a factory employer or a group organiser who then pays the operator are fares: Wurzal v Addison [1965] 2 QB 131, [1965] 1 All ER 20, DC; Wurzal v Wilson [1965] 1 All ER 26, [1965] 1 WLR 285, DC.

7 'Fares' includes sums payable in respect of a contract ticket or season ticket: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 82(1). A payment for the carrying of a passenger is treated as a fare notwithstanding that it is made in consideration of other matters in addition to the journey and irrespective of the person by or to whom it is made: s 1(5)(b). See also Drew v Dingle [1934] 1 KB 187.

A payment is treated as made for the carrying of a passenger if made in consideration of a person's being given a right to be carried, whether for one or more journeys and whether or not the right is exercised: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 1(5)(c). See also DPP v Sikondar [1993] Crim LR 76, [1993] RTR 90, DC; Rout v Swallow Hotels Ltd [1993] RTR 80, 157 JP 771, DC.

Where a fare is paid for the carriage of a passenger on a journey by air, no part of that fare is to be treated for the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 1(5) as paid in consideration of the carriage of the passenger by road by reason of the fact that, in case of mechanical failure, bad weather or other circumstances outside the operator's control, part of that journey may be made by road: s 1(6). For the meaning of 'road' see PARA 206 ante.

Regulations may make provision as to the person who is to be regarded as the operator of a vehicle which is made available by one holder of a PSV operator's licence to another under a hiring arrangement, and where such regulations do not apply, the operator of a vehicle is the driver, if he owns the vehicle, and in any other case, the person for whom the driver works (whether under a contract of employment or any other description of contract personally to do work): ss 81(1), 82(1). For the meaning of 'regulations' see PARA 1133 note 1 ante. For the meaning of 'driver' see PARA 207 ante. As to operators under hiring arrangements see the Public Service Vehicles (Operators' Licences) Regulations 1995, SI 1995/2908, reg 22. 'PSV operator's licence' means a PSV operator's licence granted under the provisions of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Pt II (ss 6-29) (as amended) (see PARA 1141 et seq post): s 82(1). For the purposes of the Transport Act 1985, the operator of a passenger transport service of any description is the person, or each of the persons, providing the service; and for those purposes the operator of a vehicle being used on a road for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward at separate fares is to be taken to be providing the service provided by means of the vehicle unless he proves that the service is or forms part of a service provided not by himself but by one or more other persons: s 137(7). In relation to the national travel concession (see PARA 1289 text and notes 15-27 post), this provision is amended so that 'he proves' is substituted by the words 'it is proved': see s 137(7) (amended by the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 13, Sch 2 paras 1, 6).

Under earlier corresponding legislation payment made to the owner of the vehicle, however indirectly, has been held to constitute separate fares in respect of the passengers: Osborne v Richards [1933] 1 KB 283, DC; Hawthorne v Knight 1962 SLT 69; Aitken v Hamilton 1964 SLT 125; Wurzal v Addison [1965] 2 QB 131, [1965] 1 All ER 20, DC; Vickers v Bowman [1976] RTR 165, DC. An ex gratia payment to the driver may not constitute a fare: MacLean v Fearn 1954 SLT 37, Sh Ct.

8 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 1(1)(b). The definition of public service vehicle is applied by the Transport Act 1968 s 159(1) (as amended); the Road Traffic (Foreign Vehicles) Act 1972 s 7(1) (as amended); the Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1976 s 80(1) (as amended); the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 s 142(1) (as amended); and the Transport Act 1985 s 137(1), (2).

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(i) Definition and Classification of Public Service Vehicles/1137. Vehicles which may not be public service vehicles.

1137. Vehicles which may not be public service vehicles.

A vehicle carrying passengers at separate fares<sup>1</sup> in the course of a business of carrying passengers<sup>2</sup>, but doing so in circumstances in which the following conditions<sup>3</sup> are fulfilled, is treated as not being a public service vehicle<sup>4</sup> unless it is adapted to carry more than eight passengers<sup>5</sup>. The conditions are that:

1704 (1) the making of the agreement for the payment of separate fares must not have been initiated by the driver<sup>6</sup> or by the owner<sup>7</sup> of the vehicle, by any person who has made the vehicle available under any arrangement, or by any person who receives any remuneration in respect of the arrangements for the journey<sup>8</sup>;

1705 (2) the journey must be made without previous advertisement<sup>9</sup> to the public<sup>10</sup> of facilities for its being made by passengers to be carried at separate fares, except where the local authorities<sup>11</sup> concerned have approved the arrangements under which the journey is made as designed to meet the social and welfare needs of one or more communities, and their approvals remain in force<sup>12</sup>;

- 1706 (3) arrangements for the bringing together of all the passengers for the purpose of making the journey must have been made otherwise than by, or by a person acting on behalf of: (a) the holder of the PSV operator's licence<sup>13</sup> under which the vehicle is to be used, if such a licence is in force; (b) the driver or the owner of the vehicle or any person who has made the vehicle available under any arrangement, if no such licence is in force, and otherwise than by any person who receives any remuneration in respect of the arrangements<sup>14</sup>;
- 1707 (4) the journey must be made without previous advertisement to the public of the arrangements for it<sup>15</sup>;
- 1708 (5) all passengers must, in the case of a journey to a particular destination, be carried to, or to the vicinity of, that destination, or, in the case of a tour, be carried for the greater part of the journey<sup>16</sup>;
- 1709 (6) no differentiation of fares for the journey on the basis of distance or of time must be made<sup>17</sup>.

3 In the conditions in the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 1(3), Sch 1 Pt I (as amended) (sharing of taxis and hire-cars) or Sch 1 Pt III (alternative conditions affecting status or classification): see the text and notes 6-17 infra.

8 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 1 para 1.

9 For the purposes of ibid Sch 1 paras 2, 6 (see the text and notes 11-12, 15 infra), no account may be taken of any such advertisement as follows (Sch 1 para 9):

1283 (1) a notice displayed or announcement made: (a) at or in any place of worship for the information of persons attending that place of worship; (b) at or in any place of work for the information of persons who work there; or (c) by any club or other voluntary association at or in any premises occupied or used by the club or association (Sch 1 para 9(a));

1284 (2) a notice contained in any periodical published for the information of, and circulating wholly or mainly among: (a) persons who attend or might reasonably be expected to attend a particular place of worship or a place of worship in a particular place; or (b) persons who work at a particular place of work or at any of two or more particular places of work; or (c) the members of a club or other voluntary association (Sch 1 para 9(b)).

The expression 'club' is not defined in the Act but a club is a society whose members are constantly changing; it is not a partnership: Wise v Perpetual Trustee Co Ltd [1903] AC 139, PC. As to the nature of clubs see CLUBS vol 13 (2009) PARA 201. In the expression 'wholly or mainly' the 'mainly' probably means 'more than half': Fawcett Properties Ltd v Buckingham County Council [1961] AC 636 at 669, [1960] 3 All ER 503 at 512, HL, per Lord Morton of Henryton. ## (ii) Traffic Areas and Traffic Commissioners

1138. Traffic areas.

For the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981, Great Britain<sup>1</sup> is divided into the Scottish, North-Western, North-Eastern, West Midland, Eastern, Welsh, Western, South-Eastern and Metropolitan Traffic Areas<sup>2</sup>. The Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> may from time to time by order<sup>4</sup> vary the provisions of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 constituting traffic areas, either by altering the limits of an existing traffic area or by increasing or reducing the number of traffic areas or otherwise as he may think fit<sup>5</sup>. Such an order for varying the number or limits of traffic areas may contain such consequential and incidental provisions, including provisions<sup>6</sup>:

1710 (1) as to the effect of licences previously issued, and consents previously given, by the traffic commissioner<sup>7</sup> for any traffic area abolished or otherwise affected<sup>8</sup>;

1711 (2) as to the effect of applications for licences or consents previously made to any traffic commissioner, as to the traffic commissioner to whom applications relating to any such area may be made between the date of the order and the date as from which the abolition of, or other change in, the area is to have effect, and as to the traffic commissioner by whom and the places at which any such application may be heard, either before or after the last mentioned date<sup>9</sup>;

1712 (3) as to the continuance of appeals pending against decisions of the traffic commissioner for any traffic area abolished or otherwise affected<sup>10</sup>; and

1713 (4) as to the recovery of any sums due, at the date as from which a traffic area is abolished, to the traffic commissioner for that area<sup>11</sup>, as appears to the Secretary of State to be necessary or expedient in consequence of the variations of areas to be affected by the order<sup>12</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'Great Britain' see PARA 205 note 3 ante.

2 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 3(1); Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1990, SI 1991/288, art 4, Sch 1 (amended by SI 1991/634); Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) (Wales) Order 1999, SI 1999/1204, art 3.

As respects the South-Eastern and Metropolitan Traffic Area, the Metropolitan Public Carriage Act 1869 and the London Cab and Stage Carriage Act 1907 do not apply to a public service vehicle or to the driver or conductor of it: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 64(1); Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1990, SI 1991/288, art 5(2). As to the Metropolitan Public Carriage Act 1869 see PARAS 1477-1484 post; and as to the London Cab and Stage Carriage Act 1907 see PARAS 1477-1478, 1484, 1493 post. For the meaning of 'public service vehicle' see PARA 1136 ante; and for the meaning of 'driver' see PARA 207 ante.

As respects the South-Eastern and Metropolitan Traffic Area, no local authority may exercise under the Town Police Clauses Act 1847 any powers with respect to public service vehicles or the licensing of them or of their drivers or conductors: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 64(2); Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1990, SI 1991/288, art 5(2). 'Local authority' means, in relation to England and Wales, any local authority within the meaning of the Local Government Act 1972 (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 23): Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 82(1). As to the Town Police Clauses Act 1847 see PARA 1432 et seq post.

3 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

4 The power to make orders conferred by the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 3 (as amended) is exercisable by statutory instrument which must be laid before Parliament after being made, and an order under s 3 (as amended) does not have effect unless and until it has been approved by a resolution of each House of Parliament: s 3(4). See the Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1990, SI 1991/288 (amended by SI 1991/634); and the Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) (Wales) Order 1999, SI 1999/1204.

5 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 3(2). References in the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 to a traffic area constituted for the purposes thereof by a particular designation are references to the area described by that designation in the Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1990, SI 1991/288, art 4, Sch 1 (as amended) (see the text and note 2 supra): Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 80(1) (amended by the Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1990, SI 1991/288, art 5(1)). The Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 80(1) (as amended) has effect subject to the powers of the Secretary of State under s 3 (as amended) to vary the provisions of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 constituting traffic areas: s 80(2) (amended by the Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) (No 2) Order 1983, SI 1983/1714, art 5(1)).

The power to act 'as he may think fit' is subject to the inherent jurisdiction of the courts to determine whether such a power has been properly exercised, ie whether a reasonable person could have come to the decision in question without misdirecting himself on the law or the facts in a material respect: see JUDICIAL REVIEW.

6 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 3(3).

7 'Traffic commissioner' means the person appointed to be the commissioner for a traffic area constituted for the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981: s 82(1) (definition added by the Transport Act 1985 ss 1(3), 3(5), Sch 1 para 13, Sch 2 Pt II). ### 1138 Traffic areas

NOTE 5--Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 3(2A)-(2C) added: Local Transport Act 2008 s 1.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/12. PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(ii) Traffic Areas and Traffic Commissioners/1139. Traffic commissioners.

1139. Traffic commissioners.

For each traffic area<sup>1</sup> constituted<sup>2</sup> for the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 there is a traffic commissioner<sup>3</sup>. The commissioner for each traffic area is appointed<sup>4</sup> by the Secretary of State and is known as the traffic commissioner for the area<sup>5</sup>. The traffic commissioner for a traffic area is responsible for issuing licences under the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981<sup>6</sup> and has such other functions as are given to him by, or in pursuance of, the Act or any other enactment<sup>7</sup>. Any person appointed to be the traffic commissioner for a traffic area must act under the general directions of the Secretary of State, and vacate his office on attaining the age of 65 years, or on such later date before he attains the age of 66 years as the Secretary of State may at any time direct, but otherwise holds office during Her Majesty's pleasure<sup>8</sup>.

Where the office of traffic commissioner for any traffic area becomes vacant the Secretary of State may, pending the appointment of a new traffic commissioner for that area<sup>9</sup> appoint a person (whether or not over the age of 65 years) to act as traffic commissioner for that area for a limited period<sup>10</sup>.

Where the Secretary of State proposes to appoint a person to be the traffic commissioner for a traffic area he must, before making the appointment, require that person to declare if he has any, and if so what, financial interest in any transport undertaking which carries passengers or goods by road within Great Britain<sup>11</sup>.

There must be paid to a traffic commissioner and deputy traffic commissioner, and to the persons acting as officers or servants of a traffic commissioner, such remuneration and allowances as may be determined by the Secretary of State with the consent of the Treasury<sup>12</sup>.

1 As to traffic areas see PARA 1138 ante.

2 See PARA 1138 note 5 ante.

3 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 4(1) (s 4, Sch 2 substituted by the Transport Act 1985 s 3, Sch 2 Pt I). For the meaning of 'traffic commissioner' see PARA 1138 note 7 ante.

4 In case of illness, incapacity or absence of a traffic commissioner, the Secretary of State may appoint some other person to act as his deputy: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 4(6), Sch 2 para 3 (as substituted: see note 3 supra). If the Secretary of State considers that the duties to be performed by a traffic commissioner, or any deputy so appointed to the traffic commissioner, cannot conveniently or efficiently be performed by one person, the Secretary of State may appoint one or more persons to act as deputy to the traffic commissioner: Sch 2 para 4 (as so substituted). A person so appointed must be appointed upon such terms and conditions, including conditions as to the time which he is to devote to the duties of his office, as the Secretary of State may determine, and must act for the traffic commissioner whose deputy he is in such matters as the traffic commissioner, or any deputy appointed by reason of the traffic commissioner's illness, incapacity or absence, may from time to time direct or as the Secretary of State may from time to time by general directions require, and for that purpose must exercise and perform all the powers and duties of the traffic commissioner: Sch 2 para 5 (as so substituted). Subject to the approval of the Treasury, the Secretary of State may appoint such persons to act as officers and servants of a traffic commissioner as he considers appropriate: Sch 2 para 7 (as so substituted). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante. As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

7 Ibid s 4(3) (as substituted: see note 3 supra).

8 Ibid s 4(4) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). The Secretary of State may remove a traffic commissioner from his office for inability or misbehaviour: Sch 2 para 1 (as so substituted).

9 Ie under ibid s 4 (as substituted).

10 Ibid Sch 2 para 6(1) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). Any person so appointed must hold office for such period as the Secretary of State specifies when making the appointment, and during that period be treated for all purposes (except those of Sch 2 para 9 (as substituted) (see note 12 infra)) as the traffic commissioner for the traffic area in question: Sch 2 para 6(2) (as so substituted).

11 Ibid s 4(5) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). For the meaning of 'Great Britain' see PARA 205 note 3 ante. If a traffic commissioner acquires a financial interest in a transport undertaking which carries passengers or goods by road within Great Britain he must, within four weeks after so doing give notice of that acquisition in writing to the Secretary of State specifying the interest so acquired and the Secretary of State after taking the matter into consideration, may if he thinks fit declare that the traffic commissioner has vacated his office: Sch 2 para 2 (as so substituted). Unless the contrary intention appears, 'writing' includes typing, printing, lithography, photography and other modes of representing or reproducing words in a visible form, and expressions referring to writing are to be construed accordingly: Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1.

12 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 2 para 8 (as substituted: see note 3 supra). The principal civil service pension scheme (within the meaning of the Superannuation Act 1972 s 2 (see SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS vol 44(2) (Reissue) PARAS 565, 567) which is for the time being in force applies to persons holding the office of traffic commissioner for each of the traffic areas: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 2 para 9 (as so substituted).

1141. Certificate of initial fitness.

- 1714 (1) an appointed examiner<sup>4</sup> has issued a certificate of initial fitness that the prescribed conditions<sup>5</sup> as to fitness are fulfilled in respect of the vehicle<sup>6</sup>; or
- 1715 (2) a certificate of type approval<sup>7</sup> has been issued in respect of the vehicle<sup>8</sup>; or
- 1716 (3) there has been issued in respect of the vehicle a certificate of type approval<sup>9</sup> of a kind which by virtue of regulations is to be treated as the equivalent of a certificate of initial fitness<sup>10</sup>.

If a vehicle is used in contravention<sup>11</sup> of the above provisions<sup>12</sup> the operator<sup>13</sup> of the vehicle is liable<sup>14</sup> on summary conviction to a fine<sup>15</sup>.

Where it appears to the Secretary of State expedient to do so for the purpose of the making of tests or trials of a vehicle or its equipment, he may by order made in respect of that vehicle<sup>16</sup> dispense with such of the prescribed conditions as to fitness<sup>17</sup> as are specified in the order<sup>18</sup>.

At the date at which this volume states the law no regulations had been made for the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 6(1)(a) (as amended), but by virtue of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b), the following regulations have effect as if made for those purposes: the Public Service Vehicles (Conditions of Fitness, Equipment, Use and Certification) Regulations 1981, SI 1981/257 (amended by SI 1982/20; SI 1982/1058; SI 1984/1763; SI 1986/1812; SI 1987/1150; SI 1988/340; SI 1989/2359; SI 1992/565; SI 1993/3012; SI 1995/305; SI 1997/84; SI 1998/1670; SI 1999/3413; SI 2000/1431; SI 2001/1649; SI 2002/335; SI 2003/1817; SI 2004/1880; SI 2005/1403; SI 2005/2342; SI 2005/2986; SI 2005/3128; SI 2007/502).

As from a day to be appointed regulations may make provision with respect to the examination of vehicles for the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 6(1)(a) (as amended) by or under the direction of authorised inspectors and the issue or refusal of certificates of initial fitness by such inspectors on any such examinations: s 6(1A) (added by the Transport Act 1982 s 10(8) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 83, Sch 8)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed, and no such regulations had been made.

As from a day to be appointed regulations made under the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 6(1A) (as prospectively added and amended), s 10(4) (as prospectively added) (see PARA 1143 note 7 post), or s 20(2A) (as prospectively added) (see PARA 1161 note 8 post) may include provision for the purpose of securing that private-sector examinations are properly carried out in accordance with the regulations, including (but without prejudice to the generality of this provision) provision for the supervision or review of private-sector examinations by persons authorised for the purpose by or under the regulations: Transport Act 1982 s 10(11). As from a day to be appointed 'private-sector examination' means, in relation to an examination under regulations so made, an examination carried out by or under the direction of an authorised inspector; and no person other than an officer of the Secretary of State may be authorised by or under regulations so made to supervise or review an examination carried out in the course of a vehicle testing business carried on by a person other than his own employer: s 10(11). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed for the commencement of s 10(11). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

As to access to public service vehicles for disabled people see the Disability Discrimination Act 1995 ss 40-45; the Public Service Vehicles Accessibility Regulations 2000, SI 2000/1970 (as amended); and DISCRIMINATION vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARAS 635-640.

7 le a certificate under the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 10 (as amended): see PARA 1143 post.

8 Ibid s 6(1)(b). The requirement of s 6(1)(b) is to be treated as complied with if a certificate under the corresponding provisions of the Road Traffic Act 1960 s 130 (repealed) was in force immediately before 1 April 1981 or has since that date been issued in respect of the vehicle: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 88(1), Sch 6 para 4.

9 le a certificate under the Road Traffic Act 1972 s 47 (repealed) or the Road Traffic Act 1988 ss 55-58 (as amended): see PARAS 703-706 ante.

10 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 6(1)(c) (amended by the Road Traffic (Consequential Provisions) Act 1988 s 4, Sch 3 para 22). A certificate of fitness issued under the corresponding provisions of the Road Traffic Act 1960 s 129 (repealed), which was in force immediately before 1 April 1981 and had effect on and after that date as if it were a certificate of initial fitness by virtue of the Transport Act 1980 s 17(2) (repealed), continues to have effect as if it were such a certificate: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 6 para 3.

As to whether a certificate of initial fitness provides any defence in an action based on a defect in the vehicle see Donnelly v Glasgow Corp 1953 SC 107, 1953 SLT 161; Davie v New Merton Board Mills Ltd [1959] AC 604, [1959] 1 All ER 346, HL.

11 'Contravention', in relation to any condition or provision, includes a failure to comply with the condition or provision; and 'contravene' is to be construed accordingly: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 82(1).

12 le ibid s 6(1) (as amended): see the text and notes 1-10 supra.

13 As to the meaning of 'operator' see PARA 1136 note 7 ante.

14 It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to prove that he took all reasonable precautions and exercised all due diligence to avoid the commission of any such offence: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 68(3), (4).

15 Ibid s 6(2). The fine must not exceed level 4 on the standard scale: s 6(2) (amended by virtue of the Criminal Justice Act 1982 ss 37, 46). As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante.

16 le for the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 6 (as amended): see the text and notes 1-15 supra.

17 le referred to in ibid s 6(1)(a) (as amended): see the text to note 6 supra.

18 Ibid s 11(1). While such an order is in force in respect of the vehicle s 6 (as amended) (see the text and notes 1-15 supra) has effect in relation to the vehicle as if the prescribed conditions as to fitness referred to in s 6(1)(a) (as amended) (see the text to note 6 supra) did not include such of those conditions as are dispensed with by the order: s 11(2). An order under s 11 must specify the period for which it is to continue in force, and may contain, or authorise the imposition of, requirements, restrictions or prohibitions relating to the construction, equipment or use of the vehicle to which the order relates: s 11(3). Where an order under s 11 in respect of a vehicle is revoked or otherwise ceases to have effect, any certificate of initial fitness issued under s 6 (as amended) in respect of the vehicle while the order was in force is, for the purposes of s 6 (as amended) as regards any use of the vehicle after the order has ceased to have effect, deemed never to have been issued: s 11(4). Orders under s 11 are not made by statutory instrument and relate to particular vehicles only and as such are not recorded in this work.

TEXT AND NOTES 1-10--Head (3) now provides that a public service vehicle adapted to carry more than eight passengers must not be used on a road unless (a) an EC certificate of conformity; (b) a national small series certificate of conformity; or (c) an individual approval certificate has effect with respect to the vehicle: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 6(1)(d) (substituted for s 6(1)(c) by SI 2009/818). 'EC certificate of conformity', 'national small series certificate of conformity', and 'individual approval certificate' have the meaning given by the Road Vehicles (Approval) Regulations 2009, SI 2009/717 (see PARA 700): Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 6(3) (added by SI 2009/818). In the case of any public service vehicle which, by virtue of SI 2009/717 reg 6, may not be granted a first licence under the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 s 21 (see PARA 519) or be registered before the issue of a first licence under s 21 unless one of the certificates mentioned in head (3) has effect with respect to the vehicle, the provisions have effect as if heads (1) and (2) were omitted: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 6(1ZA), (1ZB) (added by SI 2009/818).

1143. Approval of type vehicle.

Where the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> is satisfied in respect of one vehicle of a particular type that the prescribed conditions as to fitness<sup>2</sup> are fulfilled in respect of the vehicle he may, on payment of the prescribed fee<sup>3</sup>, approve the vehicle as a type vehicle<sup>4</sup>. Where a type vehicle has been so approved and a declaration in the prescribed form has been made by a person authorised by the Secretary of State in that behalf that any other vehicle conforms in design, construction and equipment with the type vehicle, an appointed examiner<sup>5</sup> may, after examining if he thinks fit that other vehicle, issue a certificate in the prescribed form that the vehicle conforms to the type vehicle<sup>6</sup>.

The Secretary of State may at any time withdraw his approval of a type vehicle and thereafter no certificate that any other vehicle conforms to the type vehicle may be issued<sup>7</sup>.

For the meaning of 'regulations' see PARA 1133 note 1 ante. At the date at which this volume states the law no regulations had been made for the purposes of s 10(1), (2), but by virtue of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b), the Public Service Vehicles (Conditions of Fitness, Equipment, Use and Certification) Regulations 1981, SI 1981/257 (as amended) (see PARA 1141 ante) have effect as if so made.

3 See note 2 supra.

4 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 10(1). As from a day to be appointed s 10(1) is to provide that where the Secretary of State or the prescribed testing authority is satisfied in respect of one vehicle of a particular type that the prescribed conditions as to fitness are fulfilled in respect of the vehicle the Secretary of State or that authority may, on payment of the prescribed fee, approve the vehicle as a type vehicle: s 10(1) (amended by the Transport Act 1982 s 11(1)). 'Prescribed testing authority' means such person authorised by the Secretary of State under the Transport Act 1982 s 8 (as amended) (not yet in force) (see PARA 699 ante) to carry on a vehicle testing business within the meaning of Pt II (ss 8-26) (as amended) as may be prescribed: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 82(1) (definition added by the Transport Act 1982 s 74, Sch 5 para 23). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

5 I.e. appointed under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 66A (as added and amended): see PARA 698 ante.

6 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 10(2) (amended by the Road Traffic Act 1991 s 48, Sch 4 para 15). As from a day to be appointed the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 10(2) is to provide that where a type vehicle has been approved under s 10 (as amended) and a declaration in the prescribed form has been made by a person authorised by the Secretary of State or the prescribed testing authority in that behalf that any other vehicle conforms in design, construction and equipment with the type vehicle, an examiner appointed under the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 66A (as added and amended) (see PARA 698 ante) or an authorised inspector may, after examining if he thinks fit that other vehicle, issue a certificate in the prescribed form that the vehicle conforms to the type vehicle: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 10(2) (as so amended; and further amended by the Transport Act 1982 ss 10(3), 11(1)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. For the meaning of 'authorised inspector' see PARA 1141 note 6 ante.

7 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 10(3). However, as regards any such certificate previously issued, the withdrawal of the approval does not affect the operation of that certificate for the purposes of s 6 (as amended) (see PARA 1141 ante): s 10(3). As from a day to be appointed s 10(3) is to provide that approval of a type vehicle (whether given by the Secretary of State or the prescribed testing authority) may at any time be withdrawn by either of them and thereafter no certificate that any other vehicle conforms to the type vehicle may be issued; but as regards any such certificate previously issued, the withdrawal of the approval does not affect the operation of that certificate for the purposes of s 6 (as amended): s 10(3) (amended by the Transport Act 1982 s 11(1)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

As from a day to be appointed regulations may make provision with respect to: (1) the examination of vehicles for the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 10 (as amended) by or under the direction of authorised inspectors; (2) the approval of vehicles as type vehicles by the prescribed testing authority on such examinations, or the withdrawal of such approval by that authority on such examinations; (3) the issue or refusal of certificates under s 10(2) (as amended) by authorised inspectors; and (4) the authorisation by the prescribed testing authority of persons to make declarations under s 10(2) (as amended): s 10(4) (added by the Transport Act 1982 s 11(2)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

The Secretary of State may by order made by statutory instrument repeal the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 10 (as amended) from such day as may be specified in the order, and any such order may include provision, to take effect on that day, for the repeal of s 6(1)(b) (see PARA 1141 ante), s 51(1)(b) (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 1165 post), s 65(1)(c) (see PARA 1304 post) and s 66(c) (see PARA 1305 post): s 87.

B. PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES

1144. Public service vehicle operators' licences.

A public service vehicle<sup>1</sup> may not be used on a road<sup>2</sup> for carrying passengers for hire or reward<sup>3</sup> except under a PSV operator's licence<sup>4</sup>. The authority having power to grant a PSV operator's licence is the traffic commissioner<sup>5</sup> for any traffic area<sup>6</sup> in which, if the licence is granted, there will be one or more operating centres<sup>7</sup> of vehicles used under the licence<sup>8</sup>. A PSV operator's licence authorises the holder to use anywhere in Great Britain<sup>9</sup> vehicles which have their operating centre in the area of the traffic commissioner by whom the licence was granted<sup>10</sup>. A person may hold two or more PSV operators' licences each granted by the traffic commissioner for a different area, but may not at the same time hold more than one such licence granted by the traffic commissioner for the same area<sup>11</sup>.

An application for a PSV operator's licence must be made in such form as the traffic commissioner may require, and an applicant must give the commissioner such information as he may reasonably require for disposing of the application<sup>12</sup>.

1144 Public service vehicle operators' licences

NOTES 1-4--As to the making of regulations which relate to the detention, removal and disposal of public service vehicles which are adapted to carry more than eight passengers and in respect of which it appears that the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 12(1) is contravened, see the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 12A, Sch 2A (added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 47, Sch 3; Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 2A amended by SI 2009/1885). See also the Public Service Vehicles (Enforcement Powers) Regulations 2009, SI 2009/1964. As to the making of regulations which relate to a vehicle which is a licensed hire car for the purposes of the Transport Act 1985 s 12 at any time when that vehicle is being used to provide a local service under a special licence, see the Local Services (Operation by Licensed Hire Cars) Regulations 2009, SI 2009/2863.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(iii) Licensing of Public Service Vehicles/B. PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES/1145. Classification of licences.

1145. Classification of licences.

A standard licence authorises the use of any description of public service vehicle<sup>4</sup> and may authorise the use either on both national and international operations<sup>5</sup> or on national operations only<sup>6</sup>.

A restricted licence authorises the use (whether on national or international operations) of<sup>7</sup>: (1) public service vehicles not adapted<sup>8</sup> to carry more than eight passengers<sup>9</sup>; and (2) public service vehicles not adapted to carry more than 16 passengers when used<sup>10</sup>: (a) otherwise than in the course of a business of carrying passengers<sup>11</sup>; or (b) by a person whose main occupation is not the operation of public service vehicles adapted to carry more than eight passengers<sup>12</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'PSV operator's licence' see PARA 1136 note 7 ante.

2 'Standard licence' means a PSV operator's licence which is not a restricted licence: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 82(1). 'Restricted licence' means such a PSV operator's licence as is mentioned in s 13(3) (see the text to note 7 infra): s 82(1).

3 Ibid s 13(1).

4 For the meaning of 'public service vehicle' see PARA 1136 ante.

5 'National operation' means a passenger transport operation wholly within the United Kingdom: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 82(1). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 224 note 5 ante. 'International operation' means a passenger transport operation starting or terminating in the United Kingdom and involving an international journey by the vehicle concerned, whether or not any driver leaves or enters the United Kingdom with that vehicle: s 82(1). For the meaning of 'driver' see PARA 207 ante.

7 Ibid s 13(3).

8 As to the meaning of 'adapted' see PARA 1136 note 4 ante.

9 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 13(3)(a).

10 Ibid s 13(3)(b).

11 Ibid s 13(3)(b)(i). For these purposes, a vehicle used for carrying passengers by a local or public authority is not to be regarded as used in the course of a business of carrying passengers unless it is used by the public service vehicle undertaking of that authority: s 13(4). For the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 1138 note 2 post. As to the meaning of 'in the course of a business of carrying passengers' see PARA 1136 ante.

12 Ibid s 13(3)(b)(ii).

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(iii) Licensing of Public Service Vehicles/B. PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES/1146. Grant of licences.

1146. Grant of licences.

An application for a standard licence<sup>1</sup> may not be granted unless the traffic commissioner<sup>2</sup> is satisfied<sup>3</sup> that the applicant meets the requirements<sup>4</sup>: (1) to be of good repute<sup>5</sup>; (2) to be of appropriate financial standing<sup>6</sup>; and (3) as to professional competence<sup>7</sup>. An application for a restricted licence<sup>8</sup> may not be granted unless the traffic commissioner is satisfied that the applicant meets the requirements to be of good repute and of appropriate financial standing<sup>9</sup>.

Notwithstanding that it appears to the traffic commissioner on an application for a standard or restricted licence that the above requirements are met, the application may not be granted unless the commissioner is further satisfied<sup>10</sup>: (a) that there will be adequate facilities or arrangements for maintaining in a fit and serviceable condition<sup>11</sup> the vehicles proposed to be used under the licence<sup>12</sup>; and (b) that there will be adequate arrangements for securing compliance with the requirements of the law relating to the driving and operation of those vehicles<sup>13</sup>. In considering on an application for a PSV operator's licence<sup>14</sup> whether the requirements of heads (a) and (b) above are satisfied, the traffic commissioner may take into account any undertakings given by the applicant (or procured by him to be given) for the purposes of the application and may assume that those undertakings will be fulfilled<sup>15</sup>.

If on an application for a PSV operator's licence the traffic commissioner determines that the relevant requirements of heads (1) to (3) above and the further requirements of heads (a) and (b) above are satisfied he must<sup>16</sup> grant the licence in accordance with the application<sup>17</sup>.

In any case where the traffic commissioner grants an application for a PSV operator's licence, any undertakings taken into account by him<sup>18</sup> that he considers to be material to the granting of the application must be recorded in the licence issued to the applicant<sup>19</sup>.

1147. Good repute.

In determining whether an individual<sup>1</sup> is of good repute, a traffic commissioner<sup>2</sup> must have regard to all the relevant evidence and in particular to<sup>3</sup>: (1) relevant convictions<sup>4</sup> of his and of his employees and agents<sup>5</sup>; and (2) such other information as the commissioner may have as to his previous conduct, in whatever capacity, in relation to the operation of vehicles of any description in the course of a business<sup>6</sup>.

In determining whether a company<sup>7</sup> is of good repute, a traffic commissioner must have regard to all the relevant evidence and in particular to<sup>8</sup>: (a) relevant convictions of the company and its officers, employees and agents<sup>9</sup>; and (b) such other information as the commissioner may have as to previous conduct of the company's officers, employees and agents in relation to the operation of vehicles of any description in the course of any business<sup>10</sup> carried on by the company, and each of the company's directors<sup>11</sup>, in whatever capacity, in relation to the operation of vehicles of any description in the course of any other business<sup>12</sup>.

A traffic commissioner must determine that an individual is not of good repute if he has more than one conviction for a serious offence<sup>13</sup> or has been convicted of road transport offences<sup>14</sup>.

1 For these purposes, references to an individual include references to a transport manager as well as to an individual who is an applicant for, or the holder of, a PSV operator's licence: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 ss 14(2), 17(6), Sch 3 para 1(10) (Sch 3 para 1(3)-(10) added by the Public Service Vehicle Operators (Qualifications) Regulations 1990, SI 1990/1851, reg 2, Schedule). 'Transport manager', in relation to a business, means an individual who, either alone or jointly with one or more other persons, has continuous and effective responsibility for the management of the road passenger transport operations of the business: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 82(1). For the meaning of 'PSV operator's licence' see PARA 1136 note 7 ante.

The word 'individual' is used instead of the word 'person' in order, presumably, to exclude bodies of persons corporate or unincorporate: cf the definition of 'person' in the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1 (see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1382); and Whitney v IRC [1926] AC 37 at 43 per Viscount Cave LC. However, it must be borne in mind that these provisions implement EC Council Directive 96/76 (OJ L277, 14.10.98, p 17) which amends EC Council Directive 96/26 (OJ L124, 23.05.96, p 1) on admission to the occupation of road haulage operator and road passenger transport operator and mutual recognition of diplomas, certificates and other evidence of formal qualifications intended to facilitate for these operators the right to freedom of establishment in national and international transport operations, and thus this term has to be interpreted in accordance with the meaning it bears in the Directives. As to the consistent interpretation of national law implementing an EC directive see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 24.

2 As to traffic commissioners see PARA 1139 ante.

3 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 ss 12(2), 17(6), Sch 3 para 1(1) (Sch 3 para 1 amended by the Transport Act 1985 s 3(5), Sch 2 Pt II para 4(21)).

4 'Relevant conviction' means a conviction (other than a spent conviction) of any offence prescribed for the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981, or an offence under the law of Northern Ireland, or of a country or territory outside the United Kingdom, corresponding to an offence so prescribed: s 82(1). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 1134 note 8 ante. For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 224 note 5 ante.

5 Ibid Sch 3 para 1(1)(a). As from a day to be appointed, Sch 3 para 1(1) is amended with the effect of adding another head in the text, requiring a traffic commissioner to have regard to relevant fixed penalty notices issued to him and to his employees and agents: Sch 3 para 1(1)(aa) (added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 7(1), (3)). In the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 3 para 1(1)(aa) (as added) and Sch 3 para 1(2)(aa) (as added) (see note 9 infra), 'relevant fixed penalty notice' means a fixed penalty notice or conditional offer issued under the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 Pt III (ss 51-90) (as amended) in respect of an offence prescribed for the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981: Sch 3 para 1(2A) (added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 7(5)). For the meaning of 'fixed penalty notice' see PARA 1094 ante; and as to conditional offers see PARA 1117 ante. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

6 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 3 para 1(1)(b) (as amended: see note 3 supra).

7 'Company' means a body corporate: ibid s 82(1). As to bodies corporate see generally COMPANIES; CORPORATIONS.

8 Ibid Sch 3 para 1(2) (as amended: see note 3 supra).

9 Ibid Sch 3 para 1(2)(a). As from a day to be appointed, Sch 3 para 1(2) is amended, with the effect of adding another head in the text, requiring the traffic commissioner to have regard to relevant fixed penalty notices issued to the company's officers, employees and agents: Sch 3 para 1(2)(aa) (added by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 7(4)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

10 As to the meaning of 'in the course of a business' see PARA 1136 note 8 ante.

12 Ibid Sch 3 para 1(2)(b) (as amended: see note 3 supra).

13 A serious offence is: (1) an offence under the law in force in any part of the United Kingdom for which a sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding three months, a fine exceeding level 4 on the standard scale or a community order requiring the offender to perform unpaid work for more than 60 hours was imposed; and (2) any corresponding offence under the law of a country or territory outside the United Kingdom for which a corresponding punishment was imposed: ibid Sch 3 para 1(4) (as added: see note 1 supra).

References to an offence under the law in force in any part of the United Kingdom include a reference to a civil offence (wherever committed) within the meaning of the Army Act 1955, the Air Force Act 1955 or the Naval Discipline Act 1957 (see ARMED FORCES vol 2(2) (Reissue) PARA 422): Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 3 para 1(7) (as so added).

'A sentence of imprisonment' includes any form of custodial sentence or order other than one under the enactments relating to mental health; and 'a community order' means an order under the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 177 or a community punishment order made before the commencement of that provision (see SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 163): Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 3 para 1(6) (as so added; and amended by virtue of the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000 s 44; and by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 304, Sch 32 Pt 1 para 32(1), (3)).

As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante.

14 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 3 para 1(3) (as added (see note 1 supra); and Sch 3 para 1(3), (5) substituted by the Public Service Vehicle Operators (Qualifications) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/2431, reg 2). The Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 3 para 1(3) (as added and substituted) is without prejudice to the power of a traffic commissioner to determine that an individual is not of good repute for reasons other than convictions of the kind mentioned in Sch 3 para 1(3) (as added and substituted): Sch 3 para 1(9) (as so added). For the purposes of Sch 3 para 1(3) (as added and substituted), spent convictions are disregarded; and a traffic commissioner may also disregard an offence if such time as he considers appropriate has elapsed since the date of the conviction: Sch 3 para 1(8) (as so added).

A road transport offence is: (1) an offence under the law of any part of the United Kingdom relating to road transport, including in particular an offence relating to drivers' hours of work or rest periods, the weights or dimensions of commercial vehicles, road or vehicle safety or the protection of the environment, and any other offence concerning professional liability; or (2) any corresponding offence under the law of a country or territory outside the United Kingdom: Sch 3 para 1(5) (as so added and substituted). See note 13 supra.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(iii) Licensing of Public Service Vehicles/B. PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES/1148. Appropriate financial standing.

1148. Appropriate financial standing.

Being of appropriate financial standing in relation to an applicant for, or holder of, a PSV operator's licence<sup>1</sup> consists in having available sufficient financial resources to ensure the establishment and proper administration of the business carried on, or proposed to be carried on, under the licence<sup>2</sup>.

An applicant for, or the holder of, a standard licence<sup>3</sup> is not to be considered to be of the appropriate financial standing unless he has available to him capital and reserves of an amount equal to or exceeding the aggregate of<sup>4</sup> 9,000 euros for the first or only vehicle which is to be or is authorised under the licence<sup>5</sup>, and 5,000 euros for each additional vehicle which is to be or is so authorised<sup>6</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(iii) Licensing of Public Service Vehicles/B. PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES/1149. Professional competence.

1149. Professional competence.

References in Part II of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981<sup>1</sup> to professional competence are to the professional competence of an individual; and a company<sup>2</sup> satisfies the requirement as to professional competence if, and so long as it has a transport manager<sup>3</sup> or transport managers of its road transport business who, or each of whom, is of good repute and professionally competent<sup>4</sup>.

Where an individual is not himself professionally competent, the requirement as to professional competence must be regarded as satisfied in relation to him if, and so long as, he has a transport manager of his road passenger transport business who is of good repute and professionally competent<sup>5</sup>.

Where the holder of a PSV operator's licence<sup>6</sup> relies on a single transport manager to satisfy the requirement as to professional competence and that manager<sup>7</sup>: (1) dies or ceases by reason of physical disability or mental disorder to be capable of discharging his duties as transport manager<sup>8</sup>; (2) ceases to work for the business<sup>9</sup>; or (3) ceases to be of good repute<sup>10</sup>, the holder must nevertheless not be treated as failing to satisfy that requirement until the expiry of such period as in the opinion of<sup>11</sup> the relevant traffic commissioner<sup>12</sup> is reasonably required for the appointment of a new transport manager<sup>13</sup>.

Where the holder of a PSV operator's licence is a company with two or more transport managers and any of them ceases to be of good repute the company must nevertheless not be treated as failing to satisfy the requirement as to professional competence until the expiry of such period as in the opinion of the relevant traffic commissioner is reasonably required for his removal or the appointment of a transport manager in his place<sup>14</sup>.

An individual must be regarded as professionally competent for the purpose of Part II of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 if, and only if<sup>15</sup>: (a) he has demonstrated that he possesses the requisite skills<sup>16</sup> by passing a written examination<sup>17</sup> organised by an approved body<sup>18</sup> and is the holder of a certificate<sup>19</sup> to that effect issued by that body<sup>20</sup>; or (b) he is the holder of any other certificate of competence, diploma or other qualification recognised for these purposes by the Secretary of State<sup>21</sup>.

16 For these purposes 'the requisite skills' means knowledge corresponding to the level of training, for either national or international transport operations as the case may be, provided for in EC Council Directive 26/96 (OJ L124, 23.5.96, p 1) on admission to the occupation of road haulage operator and road passenger transport operator and mutual recognition of diplomas, certificates and other evidence of formal qualifications intended to facilitate for these operators the right to freedom of establishment in national and international transport operations, Annex I (as substituted) in the subjects listed there: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 3 para 7 (definition amended by the Public Service Vehicle Operators (Qualifications) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/2431, reg 4(3)). PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(iii) Licensing of Public Service Vehicles/B. PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES/1150. Persons engaged in road transport before 1 January 1978.

1150. Persons engaged in road transport before 1 January 1978.

An individual or company<sup>1</sup> authorised to engage in the occupation of road passenger transport operator<sup>2</sup> at any time before 1 January 1978 is deemed until the contrary is proved to satisfy the requirements to be of good repute<sup>3</sup> and appropriate financial standing<sup>4</sup> and, if so authorised before 1 January 1975, also to satisfy the requirement as to professional competence<sup>5</sup>.

An applicant for a standard licence<sup>6</sup>, or for the variation of such a licence, is not obliged to furnish to the traffic commissioner<sup>7</sup> in support of his application information relating to a requirement which is deemed to be satisfied<sup>8</sup> unless it appears to the commissioner that there are grounds for thinking that the requirement is not in fact satisfied<sup>9</sup>.

An individual is to be regarded as professionally competent for the purpose of Part II of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981<sup>10</sup> if he was authorised to engage in the occupation of road passenger transport operator before 1 January 1978 and was so authorised for a period of, or for periods amounting in the aggregate to, two years during the period 1 January 1975 to 31 December 1979, or at any time in the period 1 January 1970 to 31 December 1974<sup>11</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'company' see PARA 1147 note 7 ante.

2 For the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 ss 14(2), 17(6), Sch 3 paras 9, 10 (Sch 3 para 9 as amended), an individual or company was authorised to engage in the occupation of road passenger transport operator at any time if, and only if, at that time: (1) he was the holder, or one of the joint holders, of a public service vehicle licence under the Road Traffic Act 1960 s 127 (now repealed), or the corresponding provision of the law of Northern Ireland, relating to a vehicle adapted to carry more than eight passengers; or (2) he was by virtue of a permit under the Public Service Vehicles (Licences and Certificates) Regulations 1952 SI 1952/900, reg 20 (now revoked), or the corresponding provision of the law of Northern Ireland, deemed to be the holder or one of the joint holders of such a licence; or (3) he was so authorised under the law of another member state; or (4) he was transport manager of a person within head (1), head (2) or head (3) supra: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 Sch 3 para 8(2).

Service Vehicles/B. PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES/1151. Objections to applications for a public service vehicle operator's licence.

1151. Objections to applications for a public service vehicle operator's licence.

Where an application is made for the grant of a PSV operator's licence<sup>1</sup> under the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981, any chief officer of police<sup>2</sup> or local authority<sup>3</sup> may object to the grant of the licence on the ground that one or more of the requirements<sup>4</sup> are not satisfied in relation to the application<sup>5</sup>. Such an objection must be made within the prescribed time<sup>6</sup> and in the prescribed manner<sup>7</sup> and must contain particulars of the ground on which it is made<sup>8</sup>. Where the traffic commissioner<sup>9</sup> considers there to be exceptional circumstances that justify his doing so, he may direct that an objection be treated for the purposes of Part II of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981<sup>10</sup> as duly made<sup>11</sup>, notwithstanding that it was not made within the prescribed time or in the prescribed manner<sup>12</sup>.

However, the above provisions do not apply in relation to any application for a special licence<sup>13</sup>.

2 As to chief officers of police see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 165, 178 et seq.

1152. Duration of licences.

There must be specified in every PSV operator's licence<sup>1</sup> the date on which the licence is to come into force<sup>2</sup>. Subject to its revocation or other termination under any provision of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 or another statutory provision<sup>3</sup>, a PSV operator's licence continues in force indefinitely<sup>4</sup>. If the holder of a PSV operator's licence requests the traffic commissioner<sup>5</sup> by whom it was granted to terminate it at any time, the commissioner must comply with the request<sup>6</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(iii) Licensing of Public Service Vehicles/B. PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES/1153. Conditions attached to a public service vehicle operator's licence.

1153. Conditions attached to a public service vehicle operator's licence.

A traffic commissioner<sup>1</sup> on granting a PSV operator's licence<sup>2</sup> must attach to it one or more conditions specifying the maximum number of vehicles<sup>3</sup> (being vehicles having their operating centre<sup>4</sup> in the area of that commissioner) which the holder of the licence may at any one time use under the licence<sup>5</sup>. Conditions attached to a PSV operator's licence may specify different maximum numbers for different descriptions of vehicle<sup>6</sup>.

A traffic commissioner may, whether at the time when the licence is granted or at any time after that, attach to a PSV operator's licence granted by him such conditions or additional conditions as he thinks fit<sup>7</sup> for restricting or regulating the use of vehicles under the licence, being conditions of any prescribed description<sup>8</sup>. Without prejudice to the generality of the power to prescribe descriptions of conditions, the descriptions which may be so prescribed include conditions for regulating the places at which vehicles being used under a PSV operator's licence may stop to take up or set down passengers<sup>9</sup>.

The traffic commissioner by whom a PSV operator's licence was granted may at any time while it is in force vary the licence by altering in such manner as he thinks fit any condition attached<sup>10</sup> to the licence or removing any condition so attached to the licence<sup>11</sup>.

On the application of the holder of a PSV operator's licence, the traffic commissioner by whom the licence was granted may at any time while it is in force<sup>12</sup>: (1) vary the conditions attached<sup>13</sup> to the licence<sup>14</sup>; (2) exercise his powers (whether of alteration or removal)<sup>15</sup>; or (3) vary or remove any undertaking recorded in the licence<sup>16</sup>.

In considering whether to grant such an application, the traffic commissioner may take into account any undertakings given by the applicant (or procured by him to be given) for the purposes of the application, and may assume that those undertakings will be fulfilled<sup>17</sup>. In any case where the traffic commissioner grants such an application, any such undertakings taken into account by him that he considers to be material to the granting of the application must be recorded in the licence as varied<sup>18</sup>.

If a condition attached to a PSV operator's licence is contravened<sup>19</sup>, the holder of the licence is liable<sup>20</sup> on summary conviction to a fine<sup>21</sup>.

Compliance with any condition attached to a PSV operator's licence<sup>22</sup> may be temporarily dispensed with by the traffic commissioner by whom the licence was granted if he is satisfied that compliance with the condition would be unduly onerous by reason of circumstances not foreseen when the condition was attached or, if the condition has been altered, when it was last altered<sup>23</sup>.

The conditions attached<sup>24</sup> to a PSV operator's licence granted by the traffic commissioner for any area do not affect the use by the holder of the licence of a vehicle<sup>25</sup>: (a) under a PSV operator's licence granted to him by the traffic commissioner for another area<sup>26</sup>; or (b) in circumstances such that another person falls to be treated as the operator<sup>27</sup> of the vehicle<sup>28</sup>.

1 As to traffic commissioners see PARA 1139 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'PSV operator's licence' see PARA 1136 note 7 ante.

3 In the case of a restricted licence, the number specified as the maximum in any condition imposed under the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 16(1) (as amended) must not, except in any prescribed case or class of case, exceed two: s 16(1A) (added by the Transport Act 1985 s 24(1)). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 1134 note 8 ante. For the meaning of 'restricted licence' see PARA 1145 note 2 ante. #### 1154. Conditions attached to a standard licence.

On issuing a standard licence<sup>1</sup> a traffic commissioner<sup>2</sup> must attach to it the following conditions:

- 1717 (1) a condition requiring the licence holder to inform the commissioner of any event which could affect the fulfilment by the licence holder of any of the requirements of good repute, appropriate financial standing and professional competence<sup>3</sup>, and to do so within 28 days of the event<sup>4</sup>; and 1718 (2) a condition requiring the licence holder to inform the commissioner of any event which could affect the fulfilment by a relevant transport manager<sup>5</sup> of the requirements of good repute or professional competence<sup>6</sup>, and to do so within 28 days of the event coming to the licence holder's knowledge<sup>7</sup>.

Any person who contravenes<sup>8</sup> any such condition attached to a licence of which he is the holder is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine<sup>9</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(iii) Licensing of Public Service Vehicles/B. PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES/1155. Revocation and suspension of licences.

1155. Revocation and suspension of licences.

The traffic commissioner<sup>1</sup> by whom a standard licence<sup>2</sup> was granted must revoke the licence if it appears to him<sup>3</sup> at any time that the holder no longer satisfies the requirement to be of good repute<sup>4</sup>, the requirement to be of appropriate financial standing<sup>5</sup> or the requirement as to professional competence<sup>6</sup>.

The traffic commissioners by whom a PSV operator's licence<sup>7</sup> was granted may, on any of the grounds specified in heads (a) to (g) below, at any time: (1) revoke the licence; (2) suspend the licence for such period as he directs; or (3) vary any condition attached<sup>8</sup> to the licence, or attach to the licence (whether in addition to or in place of any condition so attached to it) any such condition<sup>9</sup>.

The grounds for action are:

- 1719 (a) that the holder of the licence made or procured to be made for the purposes of his application for the licence, or for the purposes of an application for the variation of the licence, a statement of fact which (whether to his knowledge or not) was false<sup>10</sup>, or a statement of expectation which has not been fulfilled<sup>11</sup>;
- 1720 (b) that any undertaking recorded in the licence has not been fulfilled<sup>12</sup>;
- 1721 (c) that there has been a contravention<sup>13</sup> of any condition attached to the licence<sup>14</sup>;
- 1722 (d) that a prohibition of the driving of unfit vehicles<sup>15</sup> has been imposed with respect to a vehicle owned or operated by the holder of the licence, or that the holder of the licence has been convicted of an offence of having an unfit or overloaded vehicle<sup>16</sup> arising out of the contravention of such a prohibition<sup>17</sup>;
- 1723 (e) in the case of a restricted licence<sup>18</sup>, that the holder no longer satisfies the requirement to be of good repute or the requirement to be of appropriate financial standing<sup>19</sup>;
- 1724 (f) that there has been since the licence was granted or varied a material change in any of the circumstances of the holder of the licence which were relevant to the grant or variation of his licence<sup>20</sup>;
- 1725 (g) the licence is one in relation to which a direction given by a traffic commissioner under the provision relating to the power when disqualifying a former licence holder to direct that certain other PSV operators' licences should be liable to be revoked, suspended<sup>21</sup> has effect<sup>22</sup>.

A traffic commissioner must not take any action<sup>23</sup> in respect of any licence without first holding an inquiry if the holder of the licence requests him to do so<sup>24</sup>. Where a traffic commissioner decides to revoke a licence, he may direct that the revocation must not take effect for such period as appears to him reasonably required to enable the business carried on under the licence to be transferred to another person duly licensed to carry it on<sup>25</sup>. Where a licence is suspended, it remains in force during the time of its suspension subject to the limitation that no vehicles are authorised to be used under it<sup>26</sup>. A traffic commissioner who has suspended a licence may at any time cancel the suspension or, with the consent of the holder of the licence, vary the period for which it is suspended<sup>27</sup>.

1156. Death or bankruptcy of licence holder.

A PSV operator's licence<sup>1</sup> is not assignable or, subject to the following provisions, transmissible on death or in any other way<sup>2</sup>.

A PSV operator's licence held by an individual<sup>3</sup> terminates if he<sup>4</sup>: (1) dies<sup>5</sup>; or (2) is adjudged bankrupt<sup>6</sup>; or (3) becomes a person who lacks capacity (within the meaning of the Mental Capacity Act 2005) to use a vehicle under the licence<sup>7</sup>.

In relation to a PSV operator's licence held by an individual or by a company<sup>8</sup>, regulations<sup>9</sup> may specify other events relating to the licence holder on the occurrence of which the licence is to terminate<sup>10</sup>.

The traffic commissioner<sup>11</sup> by whom a PSV operator's licence was granted may<sup>12</sup>: (a) direct that the termination of the licence under the above provisions, be deferred for a period not exceeding 12 months<sup>13</sup> or, if it appears to the commissioner<sup>14</sup> that there are special circumstances, 18 months<sup>15</sup>; and (b) authorise the business of the licence holder to be carried on under the licence by some other person during the period of deferment, subject to such conditions as the commissioner may impose<sup>16</sup>.

Until a day to be appointed, these provisions also apply in the case of a London local service licence<sup>17</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(2) PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLES/(iii) Licensing of Public Service Vehicles/B. PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES/1159. Duty to exhibit operator's licence disc.

1159. Duty to exhibit operator's licence disc.

Where a vehicle is being used in circumstances such that a PSV operator's licence<sup>1</sup> is required, there must be fixed and exhibited on the vehicle in the prescribed manner<sup>2</sup> an operator's disc<sup>3</sup> showing particulars of the operator<sup>4</sup> of the vehicle and of the PSV operator's licence under which the vehicle is being used<sup>5</sup>.

If a vehicle is used in contravention<sup>6</sup> of the duty to exhibit an operator's disc<sup>7</sup>, the operator of the vehicle is liable<sup>8</sup> on summary conviction to a fine<sup>9</sup>.

A traffic commissioner<sup>10</sup> on granting a PSV operator's licence must supply the person to whom the licence is granted<sup>11</sup>:

1726 (1)    with a number of operators' discs equal to the maximum number of vehicles that he may use under the licence in accordance with the condition or conditions attached to the licence<sup>12</sup>; or 1727 (2)    with such lesser number of operators' discs as he may request<sup>13</sup>.

Where, in the case of any PSV operator's licence, the maximum number referred to in head (1) above is increased on the variation of one or more of the conditions there referred to, the traffic commissioner on making the variation must supply the holder of the licence with<sup>14</sup>:

- 1728 (a) such number of additional operators' discs as will bring the total number of operators' discs held by him in respect of the licence to that maximum number<sup>15</sup>; or
- 1729 (b) such lesser number of additional operators' discs as he may request<sup>16</sup>.

Where the number of operators' discs currently held in respect of a PSV operator's licence is less than the maximum number referred to in head (1) above, the traffic commissioner by whom the licence was granted must on the application of the holder of the licence supply him with such number of additional operators' discs as is mentioned in head (a) or head (b) above<sup>17</sup>.

Where, in accordance with regulations<sup>18</sup> under head (ii) below all the operators' discs held in respect of a PSV operator's licence expire at the same time, the traffic commissioner by whom the licence was granted must supply the holder of the licence with a number of new operators' discs equal to the number of discs that have expired<sup>19</sup>.

Regulations may make provision:

- 1730 (i) as to the form of operators' discs and the particulars to be shown on them<sup>20</sup>;
- 1731 (ii) as to the expiry of operators' discs<sup>21</sup>;
- 1732 (iii) with respect to the custody and production of operators' discs<sup>22</sup>;
- 1733 (iv) for the issue of new operators' discs in place of those lost, destroyed or defaced<sup>23</sup>;
- 1734 (v) for the return of operators' discs on their expiry or otherwise ceasing to have effect, on the revocation or termination of a PSV operator's licence or in the event of a variation of one or more conditions attached to a licence<sup>24</sup> having the effect of reducing the maximum number of vehicles which may be used under the licence<sup>25</sup>;
- 1735 (vi) for the voluntary return of operators' discs by the holder of a PSV operator's licence<sup>26</sup>.

20 The meaning of 'know' has been judicially considered in various contexts. It has been held to include the state of mind of a person who shuts his eyes to the obvious: see James & Son Ltd v Smees [1955] 1 QB 78 at 91, [1954] 3 All ER 273 at 278 per Parker J; Westminster City Council v Croyalgrange Ltd [1986] 2 All ER 353, [1986] 1 WLR 674, HL. Moreover, there is authority for saying that where a person deliberately refrains from making inquiries the results of which he may not care to have, this constitutes in law actual knowledge of the facts in question: see Knox v Boyd 1941 JC 82 at 86 per Lord Flemming; Roper v Taylor's Central Garages (Exeter) Ltd [1951] 2 TLR 284 at 289, sub nom Taylor's Central Garages (Exeter) Ltd v Roper (1951) 115 JP 445 at 449-450 per Devlin J; Westminster City Council v Croyalgrange Ltd supra; and see also Mallon v Allon [1964] 1 QB 385 at 394, [1963] 3 All ER 843 at 847 per Lord Parker CJ. Yet mere neglect to ascertain what could have been found out by making reasonable inquiries is not tantamount to knowledge: Roper v Taylor's Central Garages (Exeter) Ltd supra; and cf London Computator Ltd v Seymour [1944] 2 All ER 11. See also Mallon v Allon supra.

1164. Appeals to the Transport Tribunal.

An applicant for the grant of a PSV operator's licence<sup>1</sup> under the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 may appeal to the Transport Tribunal<sup>2</sup> against any decision of the traffic commissioner<sup>3</sup> to refuse to grant the licence in accordance with the application<sup>5</sup>, or to attach any condition to the licence otherwise than in accordance with the application<sup>6</sup>. Where an application for a PSV operator's licence is granted and a person who duly made an objection to the grant<sup>7</sup> is aggrieved by the grant of the licence he may appeal to the Transport Tribunal<sup>8</sup>.

The holder of a PSV operator's licence may appeal to the Transport Tribunal against any decision of the traffic commissioners to<sup>9</sup>:

1745 (1) refuse his application for the variation or removal of any condition attached to the licence or any undertaking recorded in it<sup>10</sup>;

Where: (a) the holder of a PSV operator's licence in respect of which an order or direction has been made or given<sup>17</sup>; or (b) any person in respect of whom any such order or direction has been made or given<sup>18</sup>, is aggrieved by the order or direction he may appeal to the Transport Tribunal<sup>19</sup>.

The traffic commissioner making any such decision<sup>20</sup> with respect to a licence as is mentioned in head (2) or head (3) above<sup>21</sup>, or making any such order or giving any such direction as is mentioned in heads (a) and (b) above<sup>22</sup> may, if the holder of the licence or any such person as is mentioned in head (b) above so requests, direct that his decision is not to have effect until the expiration of the period within which an appeal against it may be made to the Transport Tribunal and, if an appeal is made, until it is disposed of<sup>23</sup>. Where a traffic commissioner has given such a direction he may withdraw it at any time<sup>24</sup>. If he refuses to give such a direction or withdraws such a direction, the person requesting it may apply for such a direction to the Transport Tribunal and the Transport Tribunal must give its decision on the application within 14 days<sup>25</sup>.

The above provisions do not apply in relation to conditions attached to a PSV operator's licence for enforcement of traffic regulation conditions<sup>26</sup>.

Such a record is admissible in evidence of the matters required under the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 to be entered in it, and a copy of an entry made in such a record in pursuance of this provision purporting to be signed by or on behalf of the authority by whom the record is kept and to be certified to be a true copy is evidence of the matters stated in that entry without proof of the signature or authority of the person signing the same<sup>5</sup>.

1 As to traffic commissioners see PARA 1139 ante.

2 As to traffic areas see PARA 1138 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 1134 note 8 ante. Every traffic commissioner must keep: (1) a duplicate copy of every licence granted by him under the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 or the Transport Act 1985, together with a record of the period of its validity and any change in that period; (2) a record of every condition (including traffic regulation conditions) attached to any such licence and the date of any alteration to it or removal of it; (3) a record of all traffic regulation conditions determined by him; and (4) a record of the prescribed particulars of all services registered with him under s 6 (as amended) (see PARA 1178 post), and of all variations and cancellations of such registrations: Public Service Vehicles (Traffic Commissioners: Publication and Inquiries) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/1629, reg 5.

1170. Fees.

If, in the case of any application for a PSV operator's licence, any fee or instalment of a fee in respect of the application, the grant of the licence or the issue of operators' discs<sup>22</sup> is not duly paid by the prescribed time, the application must be treated as withdrawn at that time, any decision made on the application ceases to have effect at that time, and any licence granted in pursuance of such a decision terminates at that time<sup>23</sup>.

If, in the case of any application for the variation of conditions of a PSV operator's licence<sup>24</sup>, any fee or instalment of a fee in respect of the application, the grant of the application or the issue of operators' discs<sup>25</sup> is not duly paid by the prescribed time, the application must be treated as withdrawn at that time, and any decision made on the application, and any variation effected in pursuance of such a decision, ceases to have effect at that time<sup>26</sup>.

If, in the case of any PSV operator's licence, any fee or instalment of a fee in respect of the continuation in force of the licence, or the issue of operators' discs<sup>27</sup> is not duly paid by the prescribed time, the licence terminates at that time<sup>28</sup>.

If any fee or instalment of a fee in respect of any operators' discs that have been issued<sup>29</sup> is not duly paid by the prescribed time, the discs cease to have effect at that time<sup>30</sup>.

A. REGULATION OF CONDUCT

1172. Regulation of conduct of drivers, inspectors and conductors.

Regulations<sup>1</sup> may make provision for regulating the conduct, when acting as such, of:<sup>2</sup> (1) drivers<sup>3</sup> of public service vehicles<sup>4</sup>; (2) inspectors<sup>5</sup> and conductors of such vehicles<sup>6</sup>; and (3) drivers, inspectors and conductors of tramcars<sup>7</sup>. If a person to whom such regulations apply contravenes<sup>8</sup>, or fails to comply with, any of the provisions of the regulations, he is liable<sup>9</sup> on summary conviction to a fine<sup>10</sup>. In the case of an offence by a person acting as driver of a public service vehicle, the court by which he is convicted may, if it thinks fit, cause particulars of the conviction to be endorsed upon the counterpart of the licence granted to that person under Part III of the Road Traffic Act 1988<sup>11</sup> or, as the case may be, the counterpart, if any, of his Community licence<sup>12</sup>.

The person who has the custody of the licence and its counterpart must, if so required by the convicting court, produce them within a reasonable time for the purpose of endorsement, and if he fails to do so is liable<sup>13</sup> on summary conviction to a fine<sup>14</sup>.

1 See the Public Service Vehicles (Conduct of Drivers, Inspectors, Conductors and Passengers) Regulations 1990, SI 1990/1020 (amended by SI 1995/186; SI 2002/1724). For the meaning of 'regulations' see PARA 1133 note 1 ante.

2 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 24(1).

3 For the meaning of 'driver' see PARA 207 ante.

4 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 24(1)(a) (amended by the Road Traffic (Driver Licensing and Information Systems) Act 1989 ss 7, 16, Sch 3 para 2, Sch 6). Notwithstanding the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 1(1) (see PARA 1136 ante), for the purposes of s 24 (as amended) and ss 25, 26 (both as amended) (see PARAS 1173-1174 post), 'public service vehicle' is to be construed as meaning a public service vehicle being used on a road for carrying passengers for hire or reward: s 24(5) (added by the Road Traffic (Driver Licensing and Information Systems) Act 1989 Sch 3 para 2, Sch 6).

5 For the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 ss 24, 25 (both as amended), 'inspector', in relation to a public service vehicle, means a person authorised to act as an inspector by the holder of the PSV operator's licence under which the vehicle is being used: s 24(4). For the meaning of 'PSV operator's licence' see PARA 1136 note 7 ante.

6 Ibid s 24(1)(b).

7 Ibid s 24(1)(c) (added by the Transport and Works Act 1992 s 61(2)(a)). For the meaning of 'tramcar' see PARA 219 ante. It has been held that a conductor is entitled to assume that the driver will stop at a compulsory stop and that a passenger will not get off before the vehicle comes to a stop; he is not therefore guilty of negligently endangering the safety of a passenger when he is on top-deck collecting fares and the passenger attempts to alight before the vehicle stops: Askew v Bowtell [1947] 1 All ER 883, 91 Sol Jo 249, DC. However, a driver could be guilty of the offence if he drives negligently: Chapman v Kirke [1948] 2 KB 450, [1948] 2 All ER 556, DC.

8 As to the meaning of 'contravene' see PARA 1141 note 11 ante.

9 It is a defence for a person charged to prove that there was a reasonable excuse for the act or omission in respect of which he is charged: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 68(1), (2).

10 Ibid s 24(2). The fine must not exceed level 2 on the standard scale: s 24(2) (s 24(2), (3) amended by virtue of the Criminal Justice Act 1982 ss 37, 46). As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante.

11 Ie the Road Traffic Act 1988 Pt III (ss 87-109) (as amended): see PARA 444 et seq ante.

12 Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 24(2) (amended by the Road Traffic (Driver Licensing and Information Systems) Act 1989 Sch 3 para 2; the Transport and Works Act 1992 s 61(2)(b); and the Driving Licences (Community Driving Licence) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1974, reg 5, Sch 4 para 4). The Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 24(2) (as amended) is further amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 9(6), Sch 2 para 1(1), (2), with the effect that the following is added at the end: or, if he is not the holder of a licence (within the meaning of the Road Traffic Act 1988 Pt III (as amended)), on his driving record (within the meaning of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 97A (prospectively added) (see PARA 1024 note 11 ante). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. The Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 24(2) (as amended) is further amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 s 10(12), Sch 3 para 1(1), (2), to substitute the words 'cause particulars' to the end, to the following effect: the court may send notice of the particulars of the conviction to the Secretary of State requiring the Secretary of State to endorse them on the person's driving record (within the meaning of the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988 s 97A (prospectively added)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

13 This is expressed to be subject to the defence provided by the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 68(1), (2): see note 9 supra.

14 Ibid s 24(3) (amended by the Road Traffic (Driver Licensing and Information Systems) Act 1989 Sch 3 para 2). The fine must not exceed level 3 on the standard scale: Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 24(3) (as amended: see note 10 supra). Section 24(3) is amended, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 Sch 2 para 1(3), to the effect that in the text, for 'the licence and its counterpart' there is substituted 'any counterpart of a licence which is to be endorsed', and for 'them' there is substituted 'it and the licence'. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. The Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 s 24(3) (as amended) is repealed, as from a day to be appointed, by the Road Safety Act 2006 ss 10(12), 59, Sch 3 para 1(3), Sch 7. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

- 1767 (1) the determination by or under the regulations of the number of the seated passengers and standing passengers respectively for whom a vehicle is constructed or adapted<sup>4</sup> and fit to carry<sup>5</sup>;

1175. Avoidance of contracts.

A contract for the conveyance of a passenger<sup>1</sup> in a public service vehicle<sup>2</sup>, so far as it purports to negative or restrict the liability<sup>3</sup> of a person in respect of a claim which may be made against him in respect of the death of, or bodily injury to, the passenger while being carried in, entering or alighting from the vehicle, or purports to impose conditions with respect to the enforcement of any such liability, is void<sup>4</sup>.

1 A pass issued to an employee entitling him to travel free on his employer's omnibuses is a mere licence and not a 'contract for the conveyance of a passenger': see Wilkie v London Passenger Transport Board [1947] 1 All ER 258, [1947] LJR 864, CA. Where a free pass was issued for use on the corporation's buses to a retirement pensioner, it was held that on the facts, and having regard to the terms of the pass, its issue and acceptance constituted a contract, not merely a licence: Gore v Van der Lann [1967] 2 QB 31 at 41-42, sub nom Gore v Van der Lann (Liverpool Corp'n Intervening) [1967] 1 All ER 360 at 366, CA, per Wilmer LJ, and at 44 and 367 per Salmon LJ. ## D. PASSENGERS ON SCHOOL BUSES

1176. Fare-paying passengers on school buses.

A local education authority<sup>1</sup> may<sup>2</sup>: (1) use a school bus<sup>3</sup>, when it is being used to provide free school transport, to carry as fare-paying passengers persons other than those for whom the free school transport is provided<sup>4</sup>; and (2) use a school bus belonging to the authority, when it is not being used to provide free school transport, to provide a local service<sup>5</sup>. However, provisions relating to the requirement for a certificate of initial fitness for use as a public service vehicle<sup>6</sup>, the powers of, and facilities for, inspection of public service vehicles<sup>7</sup>, and the carriage of passengers for hire or reward under a PSV operator's licence<sup>8</sup> do not apply to a school bus belonging to a local education authority in the course of its use by the authority in accordance with this provision<sup>9</sup>.

The above provisions do not affect the duties of a local education authority in relation to the provision of free school transport or authorise a local education authority to make any charge for the carriage of a pupil on a journey which he is required to make in the course of his education at a school maintained by such authority<sup>10</sup>.

A. REGISTRATION OF LOCAL SERVICES

1177. Meaning of 'local service'.

For the purposes of the Transport Act 1985, 'local service' means a service, using one or more public service vehicles<sup>1</sup>, for the carriage of passengers by road<sup>2</sup> at separate fares<sup>3</sup> other than one<sup>4</sup>: (1) which is excluded<sup>5</sup>; or (2) in relation to which (except in an emergency) one or both of the conditions mentioned in heads (a) and (b) below are met with respect to every passenger using the service<sup>6</sup>. The conditions are that: (a) the place where he is set down is 15 miles or more, measured in a straight line, from the place where he was taken up<sup>7</sup>; and (b) some point on the route between those places is 15 miles or more, measured in a straight line, from either of those places<sup>8</sup>. Where a service consists of one or more parts with respect to which one or both of the conditions are met, and one or more parts with respect to which neither of them is met, each of those parts must be treated as a separate service for the purpose of the meaning of local service<sup>9</sup>. A service must not be regarded for the purposes of the Transport Act 1985 as a local service if: (i) the conditions relating to trips organised privately by persons acting independently of vehicle operators are met in respect of each journey made by the vehicles used in providing the service<sup>10</sup>; or (ii) every vehicle used in providing the service is so used under a permit relating to the use of buses by educational and other bodies<sup>11</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/A. REGISTRATION OF LOCAL SERVICES/1178. Provision and registration of local services.

1178. Provision and registration of local services.

No service<sup>1</sup> may be provided in any traffic area<sup>2</sup> in which there is a stopping place<sup>3</sup> for the service unless<sup>4</sup>:

- 1770 (1) the prescribed particulars<sup>5</sup> of the service have been registered with the traffic commissioner<sup>6</sup> for that area by the operator of the service<sup>7</sup>;
- 1771 (2) the period of notice<sup>8</sup> in relation to the registration has expired<sup>9</sup>; and
- 1772 (3) the service is operated in accordance with the registered particulars<sup>10</sup>.

An application for registration may only be accepted from a person who either holds an unconditional<sup>11</sup> PSV operator's licence or a community bus permit<sup>12</sup> or is using, or proposing to use, a school bus belonging to that person for fare-paying passengers<sup>13</sup>. Any registration may be varied or cancelled on an application made by the operator of the service to which it relates<sup>14</sup>. The variation or cancellation of a registration becomes effective<sup>15</sup>:

- 1773 (a) on the expiry of the period beginning with the date on which the traffic commissioner accepts the application and ending with the date determined in accordance with regulations under this provision<sup>16</sup>; or
- 1774 (b) if later, on the day given to the traffic commissioner by the operator as the effective date for the variation or, as the case may be, cancellation<sup>17</sup>.

Regulations may be made for the purpose of carrying this provision into effect and any such regulations may, in particular, make provision<sup>18</sup>:

- 1775 (i) for permitting the variation of a registered service, in such circumstances as may be prescribed, without variation of the registration<sup>19</sup>.
- 1776 (ii) for excluding or modifying the application of the meaning of period of notice<sup>20</sup> or the variation or cancellation of a registration becoming effective<sup>21</sup> in such cases or classes of case as may be prescribed<sup>22</sup>;
- 1777 (iii) that in such cases or classes of case as may be prescribed: (A) heads (1) to (3) above have effect as if for the reference in head (2) above to the period of notice there were substituted a reference to such period as the traffic

- commissioner may determine; (B) the provision relating to the variation or cancellation of a registration becoming effective<sup>23</sup> has effect as if for the reference in head (a) above to the date on which the period mentioned in that head is to expire there were substituted a reference to such date as he may determine<sup>24</sup>;
- 1778 (iv) as to the procedure for applying for registration or for the variation or cancellation of a registration<sup>25</sup>;
- 1779 (v) for an application for registration or for the variation or cancellation of a registration not to be accepted by the traffic commissioner to whom it is made unless the applicant gives to the commissioner such information as he may reasonably require in connection with the application<sup>26</sup>;
- 1780 (vi) as to the traffic commissioner to whom an application for registration is to be made in the case of services which will run through the areas of two or more traffic commissioners<sup>27</sup>;
- 1781 (vii) as to the documents (if any) to be issued by a traffic commissioner with respect to registrations<sup>28</sup>;
- 1782 (viii) as to the cancellation of registrations relating to discontinued services<sup>29</sup>;
- 1783 (ix) for enabling a traffic commissioner to require the operator of a registered service, in such circumstances as may be prescribed, to keep records of such matters relating to the operation of the service, in such manner, as may be prescribed<sup>30</sup>;
- 1784 (x) for requiring the operator of a registered service who is required to keep records by regulations made by virtue of head (ix) above to make those records available to the traffic commissioner<sup>31</sup>;
- 1785 (xi) for requiring the operator or prospective operator of a registered service to give, to such persons and at such times as may be prescribed, such information as may be prescribed with respect to the service, or proposed service, or any proposal to vary or cancel the registration of the service<sup>32</sup>;
- 1786 (xii) for excluding from the application of this provision services which are excursions or tours<sup>33</sup>, or excursions or tours falling within a prescribed class<sup>34</sup>.

1 For the purposes of the Transport Act 1985 s 6, 'service' means a local service which is neither a London local service nor a service provided under an agreement entered into, where a railway service has been temporarily interrupted, with the Secretary of State, the Scottish Ministers or the Welsh Ministers under the Railways Act 2005 s 40 (substitution services provided for interrupted or discontinued railway services): Transport Act 1985 s 6(1) (amended by the Railways Act 2005 s 59(1), Sch 12 para 8). For the meaning of 'local service' see PARA 1177 ante; and for the meaning of 'London local service' see PARA 1231 post. As to railway services see RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES.

As from a day to be appointed, the definition of 'service' is amended to exclude a service which falls within the Transport Act 1985 s 6(1A) (prospectively added): s 6(1) (amended by the Education and Inspections Act 2006 s 85, Sch 10 para 2(1), (2)). A service falls within the Transport Act 1985 s 6(1A) (as prospectively added) if conditions A and B are satisfied in relation to it: s 6(1A) (s 6(1A)-(1C) added by the Education and Inspections Act 2006 Sch 10 para 2(3)). Condition A is satisfied if the service is provided in pursuance of: (1) the obligation placed on a local education authority by the Education Act 1996 s 508B(1) (as added), s 508F(1) (as added), s 509(1), s 509(1A) (as added), s 509AA(7)(b) (as added) or s 509AA(9)(a) (as added) (provision of transport etc); (2) the exercise of the power of a local education authority under s 508C(1); or (3) arrangements made by a local education authority in pursuance of a scheme made by it under Sch 35C (school travel schemes): Transport Act 1985 s 6(1B) (as so added). Condition B is satisfied if the service is for the carriage of any of the following persons (and no other): (a) a person receiving education or training at premises to or from which transport is provided in pursuance of the obligation, the exercise of the power or the arrangements, as the case may be, mentioned in head (1), (2) or (3) supra; (b) a person supervising or escorting any such person while he is using such transport; (c) a person involved with the provision of education or training at any such premises: s 6(1C) (as so added). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

2 'Traffic area' means a traffic area constituted for the purposes of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 (see PARA 1138 ante), and s 80 (as amended) (construction of references to traffic areas) (see PARA 1138 ante) applies to references in the Transport Act 1985 to the South-Eastern and Metropolitan Traffic Area: s 137(1); Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1991, SI 1991/288, art 5(2).

3 'Stopping place' means, in relation to any service or part of a service, a point at which passengers are (or, in the case of a proposed service, are proposed to be) taken up or set down in the course of that service or part: Transport Act 1985 s 137(1).

4 Ibid s 6(2), which is expressed to be subject to regulations made under s 6 (as amended). 'Regulations' means regulations made by the Secretary of State: s 137(1). In exercise of this power the Public Service Vehicles (Registration of Local Services) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/1671 (as amended) have been made. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

5 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations: Transport Act 1985 s 137(1). As to the prescribed particulars see the Public Service Vehicles (Registration of Local Services) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/1671, reg 4, Schedule (substituted by SI 2004/10).

6 As to traffic commissioners see PARA 1139 ante.

7 Transport Act 1985 s 6(2)(a).

8 'The period of notice', in relation to any registration, means, subject to regulations under ibid s 6 (as amended) the period prescribed for the purposes of s 6(3), or if longer, the period beginning with the registration and ending with the date given to the traffic commissioner by the operator as the date on which the service will begin: s 6(3). The period of notice prescribed for the purposes of s 6(3) is, in the case of a community bus service, 28 days commencing on the date on which the traffic commissioner accepts the application, and in the case of any other service, 56 days commencing with the date on which the traffic commissioner accepts the application: see the Public Service Vehicles (Registration of Local Services) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/1671, reg 5(1)(a) (substituted by SI 2004/10). As to exceptions to this period of notice see the Public Service Vehicles (Registration of Local Services) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/1671, reg 7 (amended by SI 1988/1879; SI 1989/1064; SI 2004/10); and the Public Service Vehicles (Registration of Local Services) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/1671, reg 8 (amended by SI 1989/1064; SI 2004/10).

9 Transport Act 1985 s 6(2)(b).

10 Ibid s 6(2)(c).

11 'Unconditional', in relation to a PSV operator's licence, means a licence which does not have attached to it a condition imposed under ibid s 26(1) (see PARA 1187 post) prohibiting, or having the effect of prohibiting, the operator from using vehicles under the licence to provide the service to which the application in question relates: s 6(5). PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/A. REGISTRATION OF LOCAL SERVICES/1178A. Applications for registration etc where restrictions are in force.

1178A. Applications for registration etc where restrictions are in force.

Where (1) any registration restrictions imposed under the Transport Act 2000 s 114(3A) (see PARA 1200) are in force in the case of a quality partnership scheme; (2) an application for registration, or for variation or cancellation of registration, is made under the Transport Act 1985 s 6 (see PARA 1178) to a traffic commissioner in respect of a local service in relation to which those restrictions have effect; and (3) the application is one which would fall to be accepted by the traffic commissioner, the traffic commissioner, before deciding whether to accept the application, must give each relevant authority, and each relevant operator a notice: Transport Act 1985 s 6A(1), (2) (s 6A added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 48(3)). As to the meaning of 'relevant authority' and 'relevant operator', see the Transport Act 1985 s 6A(12). The notice must (a) identify the application and state that it has been made; (b) provide prescribed particulars of the application; and (c) inform the persons to whom it is required to be sent of the right of each of them to make relevant representations to the traffic commissioner about the application: s 6A(3). 'Relevant representations' means representations that the effect of accepting the application would be detrimental to the provision of services under the scheme, having regard to the registration criteria: s 6A(12). If no relevant representations are made, the application is to be accepted: s 6A(4).

If any relevant representations are made by a relevant authority or a relevant operator, the traffic commissioner must decide whether the effect of accepting the application would be detrimental to the provision of local services under the scheme, and may decide that question only after (i) considering those representations; (ii) taking account of any other relevant applications and any relevant representations made in relation to those applications; (iii) holding such inquiries under the Public Passenger Service Vehicles Act 1981 s 54 (see PARA 1166) as the traffic commissioner may think fit; and (iv) applying the registration criteria: Transport Act 1985 s 6A(5), (6). If the traffic commissioner decides that the effect of accepting the application would not be detrimental to the provision of such services, the application is to be accepted: s 6A(7). If s 6A(7) does not apply, the traffic commissioner may (A) refuse to accept the application; (B) require the applicant to amend the application in such respects as the traffic commissioner may require before submitting it again; and (C) if the applicant has not given a written undertaking under the Transport Act 2000 s 118(4) (see PARA 1178) in relation to the scheme, require the applicant to give such an undertaking before the application may be accepted: Transport Act 1985 s 6A(8).

Regulations may be made for the purposes of carrying the Transport Act 1985 s 6A into effect: s 6A(11). See the Public Service Vehicles (Registration Restrictions) (England and Wales) Regulations 2009, SI 2009/443.

1178B. Applications for registration where a quality contracts scheme is in force.

An operator may apply to a traffic commissioner (1) by virtue of the Transport Act 1985 s 6(2B) (see PARA 1178), for registration of the proposed service under s 6 (see PARA 1178); and (2) by virtue of s 6(7A) (see PARA 1178), for variation of the registration under s 6(7A), notwithstanding anything in the Transport Act 2000 s 129(1)(a) (see PARA 1214): Transport Act 1985 s 6B(1), (2) (s 6B added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 49(5)). The traffic commissioner must not accept the application except in accordance with the Transport Act 1985 s 6B(4)-(6): s 6B(3). On receipt of the application, the traffic commissioner must consult the authority or authorities who made the quality contracts scheme: s 6B(4). If, within the prescribed time, the traffic commissioner receives from the authority or authorities a clearance certificate in respect of the application, the traffic commissioner must (a) in relation to registration of the proposed local service mentioned in s 6(2B), register the service under s 6; or (b) in relation to the proposed variation of the registration mentioned in s 6(7A), vary the registration under s 6(7A): s 6B(5). As to the meaning of 'clearance certificate', see s 6B(8). The prescribed time for the authority to submit a clearance certificate to the traffic commissioner for these purposes is 28 days, commencing on the date on which it receives notice of consultation from the traffic commissioner: Public Service Vehicles (Registration of Local Services) (Quality Contracts Schemes) (England and Wales) Regulations 2009, SI 2009/3245, regs 1, 2, 10 (in force as respects Wales on the coming into force in Wales of the Transport Act 2000 s 127 (see PARA 1212)). If the traffic commissioner does not receive such a certificate within that time, the application must be rejected: s 6B(6). In relation to the proposed variation of the registration mentioned in s 6(7A), regulations may prescribe cases in which s 6B(3)-(6) do not apply: s 6B(7). For the cases so prescribed, see Public Service Vehicles (Registration of Local Services) (Quality Contracts Schemes) (England and Wales) Regulations 2009, SI 2009/3245, regs 1, 2, 11 (in force as respects Wales on the coming into force in Wales of the Transport Act 2000 s 127 (see PARA 1212)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/12. PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/A. REGISTRATION OF LOCAL SERVICES/1179. Application of traffic regulation conditions to local services subject to registration.

1179. Application of traffic regulation conditions to local services subject to registration.

If a traffic authority<sup>1</sup> asks him to exercise his powers<sup>2</sup> in relation to a particular traffic problem, the traffic commissioner<sup>3</sup> for any traffic area<sup>4</sup> may determine traffic regulation conditions which must be met in the provision of services<sup>5</sup> in the area to which the conditions are expressed to apply<sup>6</sup>. The area to which traffic regulation conditions may be expressed to apply is any part of the traffic area of the traffic commissioner determining them<sup>7</sup>. A traffic commissioner may not determine traffic regulation conditions unless he is satisfied, after considering the traffic in the area in question, that such conditions are required in order to prevent danger to road<sup>8</sup> users, reduce severe traffic congestion or reduce or limit noise or air pollution<sup>9</sup>. In considering what traffic regulation conditions to apply to a particular area a traffic commissioner must have regard in particular to the interests of<sup>10</sup>:

- 1787 (1) those who have registered<sup>11</sup> services which are or will be operated in the area<sup>12</sup>;
- 1788 (2) those who are, or are likely to be, users of such services<sup>13</sup>; and
- 1789 (3) persons who are elderly or disabled<sup>14</sup>.

The purposes for which traffic regulation conditions may be determined are the regulation of: (a) the routes of services<sup>15</sup>; (b) the stopping places<sup>16</sup> for services<sup>17</sup>; (c) when vehicles used in providing services may stop at such stopping places and for how long they may do so<sup>18</sup>; and (d) such other matters as may be prescribed<sup>19</sup>. Traffic regulation conditions apply to all services operated in the area to which the conditions are expressed to apply, or to such class of service operated there as may be specified in the conditions<sup>20</sup>. However, where the traffic commissioner for any traffic area is satisfied that traffic regulation conditions applying generally to a particular part of his traffic area would be inappropriate as a means of achieving the regulation of traffic which he considers is required there, he may determine traffic regulation conditions which apply only to the service or services specified in the conditions<sup>21</sup>.

Before determining any traffic regulation conditions, a traffic commissioner must hold an inquiry if he has received (within the prescribed period) a request for an inquiry from<sup>22</sup>:

- 1790 (i) the traffic authority which made the request<sup>23</sup>;
- 1791 (ii) any other traffic authority likely to be affected by traffic regulation conditions determined in response to that request<sup>24</sup>; or
- 1792 (iii) any person who has registered<sup>25</sup> a service which is or will be operated in the area in question<sup>26</sup>, and the request has not been withdrawn<sup>27</sup>. However, this does not apply where the traffic commissioner is satisfied that the conditions should be determined without delay<sup>28</sup>. Where<sup>29</sup> a traffic commissioner so determines traffic regulation conditions without first holding an inquiry, he must hold one as soon as is reasonably practicable if any person mentioned in head (i) or head (iii) above or any other traffic authority affected by the conditions has, before the end of the prescribed period, asked him to do so<sup>30</sup>.

Before asking a traffic commissioner to exercise his powers in relation to a road for which the Secretary of State<sup>31</sup> is the highway authority<sup>32</sup>, a traffic authority must obtain leave of the Secretary of State; but such leave being given must not be taken to indicate the Secretary of State's approval of any conditions determined by the traffic commissioner in response to the request<sup>33</sup>.

Traffic regulation conditions may make different provision with respect to the operation of any service to which they apply during different periods of the year, on different days of the week, or at different times during any period of 24 hours<sup>34</sup>.

A traffic commissioner may vary or revoke any traffic regulation conditions determined by him on being requested to do so by any traffic authority, or the operator of any service affected by the conditions<sup>35</sup>.

1 'Traffic authority' means the council of any metropolitan district or non-metropolitan county: Transport Act 1985 s 7(15)(a). For the purposes of the Transport Act 1985: (1) any reference to a county is to be construed in relation to Wales as including a reference to a county borough; (2) any reference to a county council is to be construed in relation to Wales as including a reference to a county borough council; and (3) the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 17(4), (5) (references to counties and districts to be construed generally in relation to Wales as references to counties and county boroughs) does not apply: Transport Act 1985 s 137(2A) (added by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(1), Sch 7 para 39(10)). PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/B. PERMITS/1183. The grant of a permit in relation to the use of buses by educational and other bodies.

1183. The grant of a permit in relation to the use of buses by educational and other bodies.

The requirements that must be met in relation to the use of a bus<sup>1</sup> under a permit<sup>2</sup> for the exemption in relation to the use of buses by educational and other bodies<sup>3</sup> to apply are that the bus<sup>4</sup>:

1795 (1) is being used by a body<sup>5</sup> to whom a permit has been granted<sup>6</sup>;

- 1796 (2) is not being used for the carriage of members of the general public nor with a view to profit nor incidentally to an activity which is itself carried on with a view to profit<sup>7</sup>;
- 1797 (3) is being used in every respect in accordance with any conditions attached to the permit<sup>8</sup>; and
- 1798 (4) is not being used in contravention<sup>9</sup> of any provision of regulations<sup>10</sup>.

A permit in relation to the use of a small bus may be granted by a body designated by an order<sup>11</sup> either to itself or to any other body to whom, in accordance with the order, it is entitled to grant a permit<sup>12</sup>. A permit in relation to the use of a small bus may be granted by a traffic commissioner<sup>13</sup> to any body appearing to him<sup>14</sup> to be eligible<sup>15</sup> and to be carrying on in his area an activity which makes it so eligible<sup>16</sup>.

A permit in relation to the use of a large bus<sup>17</sup> may be granted by a traffic commissioner to any body which assists and co-ordinates the activities of bodies within his area which appear to him to be concerned with education, religion, social welfare, or other activities of benefit to the community<sup>18</sup>. A traffic commissioner must not grant a permit in relation to the use of a large bus unless satisfied that there will be adequate facilities or arrangements for maintaining any bus used under the permit in a fit and serviceable condition<sup>19</sup>.

The Secretary of State may by order designate bodies appearing to him to be eligible<sup>20</sup>; and, with respect to any body designated by it, any such order<sup>21</sup>:

- 1799 (a) must specify the classes of body to whom the designated body may grant permits<sup>22</sup>;
- 1800 (b) may impose restrictions with respect to the grant of permits by the designated body and, in particular, may provide that no permit may be granted, either generally or in such cases as may be specified in the order, unless there are attached to the permit such conditions as may be so specified<sup>23</sup>; and
- 1801 (c) may require the designated body to make returns with regard to the permits granted by it<sup>24</sup>.

A body may hold more than one permit but may not use more than one bus at any one time under the same permit<sup>25</sup>.

1 'Bus' means a vehicle which is adapted to carry more than eight passengers: Transport Act 1985 s 19(1).

1184. Details and conditions of the permit in relation to the use of buses by educational and other bodies.

A permit<sup>1</sup> must specify the body<sup>2</sup> to whom it is granted<sup>3</sup>. It may be granted to a named individual on behalf of a body if, having regard to the nature of that body, it appears to the traffic commissioner<sup>4</sup> or body granting the permit appropriate to do so<sup>5</sup>. Where a permit is granted to a named individual on behalf of a body, it must be treated<sup>6</sup> as granted to that body<sup>7</sup>.

In addition to any conditions attached to such a permit<sup>8</sup>, the traffic commissioner or other body granting such a permit may attach to it such conditions as he or that body considers appropriate<sup>9</sup>, including, in particular, conditions<sup>10</sup>:

- 1802 (1) limiting the passengers who may be carried in any bus<sup>11</sup> used under the permit to persons falling within such classes as may be specified in the permit<sup>12</sup>; and
- 1803 (2) with respect to such other matters as may be prescribed<sup>13</sup>.

A permit may be varied or revoked<sup>14</sup>: (a) by the traffic commissioner or body who granted it<sup>15</sup>; and (b) in the case of a permit granted by a designated body<sup>16</sup>, after consultation with that body, by the traffic commissioner for any traffic area<sup>17</sup> in which any bus has been used under the permit<sup>18</sup>. A permit may not be varied so as to substitute another body for the body to whom it was granted<sup>19</sup>.

A permit remains in force until it is revoked<sup>20</sup>, or in the case of a permit granted by a designated body<sup>21</sup>, that body ceases to be so designated<sup>22</sup>.

1186. Details and conditions of community bus permits.

The requirements that:

- 1804 (1) the driver receives no payment for driving except: (a) reimbursement of any reasonable expenses incurred by him in making himself available to drive; and (b) an amount representing any earnings lost as a result of making himself available to drive in exceptional circumstances<sup>1</sup>;

- 1805 (2) the driver either holds a passenger-carrying vehicle driver's licence or PCV Community licence (within the meaning of Part IV of the Road Traffic Act 1988)<sup>2</sup> or fulfils any conditions prescribed<sup>3</sup> in relation to a person driving a vehicle which is being used under a community bus permit<sup>4</sup>; and
- 1806 (3) any vehicle used under the permit fulfils any prescribed conditions of fitness for such use<sup>5</sup>, must be conditions of every community bus permit<sup>6</sup> and apply in relation to any use of a vehicle under such a permit<sup>7</sup>.

A traffic commissioner<sup>8</sup> may at any time attach to a community bus permit granted by him such conditions (or additional conditions) of a prescribed description as he thinks fit for restricting or regulating the use of any vehicle under the permit<sup>9</sup>. The traffic commissioner by whom a community bus permit was granted may at any time while the permit is in force vary or remove any condition so attached to it<sup>10</sup>. If a condition attached to a community bus permit is contravened<sup>11</sup>, the holder of the permit is liable<sup>12</sup> on summary conviction to a fine<sup>13</sup>.

The traffic commissioner by whom a community bus permit was granted may at any time revoke the permit on the ground<sup>14</sup>:

- 1807 (i) that he is no longer satisfied with respect to the adequacy of facilities or arrangements for maintaining in a fit and serviceable condition any vehicle used under the permit<sup>15</sup>;
- 1808 (ii) that there has been a contravention of any condition attached to the permit<sup>16</sup>; or
- 1809 (iii) that a prohibition<sup>17</sup> has been imposed with respect to a vehicle used under the permit which has its operating centre<sup>18</sup> in his area<sup>19</sup>.

Regulations may prescribe the form of community bus permits, and the documents, plates and marks to be carried by any vehicle while it is being used under a community bus permit and the manner and position in which they are to be carried<sup>20</sup>.

Conditions attached to a public service vehicle operators' licence.

C. RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES

1187. Conditions attached to a public service vehicle operators' licence.

Where it appears to a traffic commissioner<sup>1</sup>, in relation to a person ('the operator') to whom he has granted or is proposing to grant a PSV operator's licence<sup>2</sup>, that<sup>3</sup>:

- 1810 (1) the operator has failed to operate a registered local service<sup>4</sup>; or 1811 (2) the operator has operated a local service in contravention<sup>5</sup> of the provisions relating to registration<sup>6</sup>; or

- 1812 (3) the operator has failed to comply with requirements as to arrangements for a ticketing scheme or to provide required information about bus services<sup>7</sup>;
- 1813 (4) the arrangements for maintaining the vehicles used under the licence in a fit and serviceable condition are not adequate for the use of those vehicles in providing the local service or services in question<sup>8</sup>; or
- 1814 (5) the operator, or any employee or agent of his, has: (a) intentionally interfered with the operation of a local service provided by another operator; (b) operated a local service in a manner dangerous to the public; or (c) been guilty of any other serious misconduct (whether or not constituting a criminal offence) in relation to the operation of a local service<sup>9</sup>; or
- 1815 (6) a condition attached<sup>10</sup> to the operator's licence has been contravened<sup>11</sup>, he may (on granting the licence or at any later time) attach to it either a condition prohibiting the operator from using vehicles under the licence to provide any local service of a description specified in the condition or one prohibiting him from so using vehicles to provide local services of any description<sup>12</sup>. The commissioner may attach such a condition to a PSV operator's licence, by reference to circumstances falling within head (1) or head (2) above if, but only if, it appears to him that the operator did not have a reasonable excuse for his conduct or that it is appropriate to attach the condition in view of the danger to the public involved in the operator's conduct<sup>13</sup>, or the frequency of conduct of the kind in question on the part of the operator<sup>14</sup>. Where the effect of a condition so attached to a PSV operator's licence is that the operator of a registered local service<sup>15</sup> is prohibited from using vehicles under the licence to provide that service, the traffic commissioner attaching the condition may<sup>16</sup>: (i) cancel the registration<sup>17</sup>; or (ii) where the service is registered with another traffic commissioner, direct that it be cancelled<sup>18</sup>. Where a direction is given under head (ii) above, it is the duty of the traffic commissioner with whom the service is registered to cancel the registration<sup>19</sup>.

Where it appears to the commissioner that:

- 1816 (A) vehicles used under the licence (or under any PSV operator's licence previously held by the operator) have not been maintained in a fit and serviceable condition<sup>20</sup>; or
- 1817 (B) the operator has been involved in arrangements with any other operator for the use of each other's vehicles with a view to hindering enforcement of any requirements of the law relating to the operation of those vehicles<sup>21</sup>, he may (on granting the licence or at any later time) attach to the licence a condition restricting the vehicles which the operator may use under the licence to vehicles specified in the condition<sup>22</sup>. Such a condition attached to a licence must apply only to vehicles which have their operating centre in the traffic area<sup>23</sup> for which the commissioner acts, and is in addition to (and not be taken as prejudicing in any way) any conditions attached to the licence<sup>24</sup> as to the maximum number of vehicles which the operator may at any one time use under the licence<sup>25</sup>.

Before attaching any such condition to a PSV operator's licence, a traffic commissioner must hold an inquiry if he has, within the prescribed period<sup>26</sup>, received a request for an inquiry from the holder of, or, as the case may be, applicant for, the licence<sup>27</sup>. This does not apply where the traffic commissioner is satisfied that the condition should be attached without delay<sup>28</sup>. Where<sup>29</sup> a traffic commissioner attaches any such condition to a PSV operator's licence without first holding an inquiry, he must hold one as soon as is reasonably practicable<sup>30</sup> if the holder of the licence has, before the end of such period as may be prescribed, asked him to do so<sup>31</sup>.

1187 Conditions attached to a public service vehicle operators' licence

TEXT AND NOTES--Transport Act 1985 s 26(7) added: Local Transport Act 2008 s 62(10). Where it appears to a traffic commissioner that an operator has, or may have, failed to operate a local service registered under the Transport Act 1985 s 6 (see PARA 1178), or has, or may have, failed to operate such a service in accordance with the particulars registered under s 6, the traffic commissioner may direct a local traffic authority to provide him, within a specified period, with specified information connected with any aspect of the performance of its duties under the Traffic Management Act 2004 s 16 or 17 (see PARA 771): Transport Act 1985 s 27A(1), (2) (ss 27A, 27B added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 63(1)). As to the information that may be specified in a direction, see the Transport Act 1985 s 27B. If the traffic commissioner holds an inquiry in connection with deciding whether to (1) attach a condition under the Transport Act 1985 s 26; or (2) make an order under the Transport Act 2000 s 155, the Local Government Act 1972 s 250(2), (3) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 105) applies to the inquiry as it applies to an inquiry under the Transport Act 2000 s 155: Transport Act 1985 s 27A(3). If the traffic commissioner identifies any remedial measures which, in the traffic commissioner's opinion, could be taken (a) by the operator; or (b) by a local traffic authority, the traffic commissioner may prepare a report recommending the implementation of those measures: s 27A(4). As to the remedial measures, see s 27A(5). A traffic commissioner who prepares a report under s 27A(4) (i) must send a copy of the report to the operator and, if any of the recommended remedial measures are for implementation by a local traffic authority, to that authority; (ii) must, if the implementation of any of the measures in the report would affect the operation of bus services in an integrated transport area, send a copy of the report to the Integrated Transport Authority for that area; (iii) may send a copy of the report to the appropriate national authority, any local traffic authority, Integrated Transport Authority or combined authority which the traffic commissioner considers appropriate, and any other persons whom the traffic commissioner considers appropriate; and (iv) may publish the report: s 27A(6), (7) (s 27A(7) amended by Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Act 2009 Sch 6 para 63).

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/C. RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC SERVICE VEHICLE OPERATORS' LICENCES/1188. Power to disqualify public service vehicle operators.

1188. Power to disqualify public service vehicle operators.

Where the traffic commissioner<sup>1</sup> for any traffic area<sup>2</sup> revokes a PSV operator's licence<sup>3</sup>, he may order the former holder to be disqualified, indefinitely or for such period as he thinks fit, from holding or obtaining a PSV operator's licence<sup>4</sup>. So long as a disqualification so imposed is in force with respect to any person<sup>5</sup>:

- 1818 (1) any PSV operator's licence held by him at the date of the making of such an order (other than the licence revoked) is suspended (that is, it remains in force subject to the limitation that no vehicles are authorised to be used under it)<sup>6</sup>; and
- 1819 (2) no PSV operator's licence may be granted to him<sup>7</sup>.

Such an order may be limited so as to apply only to the holding or obtaining of a PSV operator's licence in respect of the area of one or more specified traffic commissioners<sup>8</sup>. If a person obtains a PSV operator's licence while he is so disqualified, the licence is void<sup>9</sup>.

Where a traffic commissioner makes such an order with respect to any person, he may direct that if that person, at any time during such period as he may specify<sup>10</sup>:

- 1820 (a) is a director of, or holds a controlling interest<sup>11</sup> in, a company which holds a licence of the kind to which the order applies, or a company of which a company which holds such a licence is a subsidiary<sup>12</sup>; or
- 1821 (b) operates any public service vehicles<sup>13</sup> in partnership with a person who holds such a licence<sup>14</sup>, the powers of revocation, suspension and variation of PSV operators' licences<sup>15</sup> are exercisable in relation to that licence by the traffic commissioner by whom it was granted<sup>16</sup>.

The powers conferred by this provision in relation to the person who was the holder of a licence are exercisable also: (i) where that person was a company, in relation to any officer of that company; and (ii) where that person operated the vehicles used under the licence in partnership with other persons, in relation to any of those other persons<sup>17</sup>.

A traffic commissioner must not make any such order or give any such direction without first holding an inquiry if any person affected by the proposed order or direction requests him to do so<sup>18</sup>. The traffic commissioner by whom any order disqualifying a person was made<sup>19</sup> may at any time<sup>20</sup>:

- 1822 (A) cancel that order together with any direction that was given<sup>21</sup> when the order was made<sup>22</sup>;
- 1823 (B) cancel any such direction<sup>23</sup>; or 1824 (c) with the consent of the person disqualified, vary the order or any such direction (or both the order and any such direction)<sup>24</sup>.

E. SCHEMES FOR BUS SERVICES

(A) QUALITY PARTNERSHIP SCHEMES

1200. Quality partnership schemes.

A local transport authority<sup>1</sup>, or two or more such authorities acting jointly, may make a quality partnership scheme<sup>2</sup> if it is or they are satisfied that the scheme will to any extent implement the policies set out in its bus strategy<sup>3</sup> or their strategies<sup>4</sup>. A quality partnership scheme is a scheme under which: (1) the authority or authorities provide particular facilities in the whole or part of its area, or their combined area; and (2) operators of local services<sup>5</sup> who wish to use the facilities must undertake to provide local services of a particular standard when using them<sup>6</sup>. The authority or authorities must be satisfied that both the provision of those facilities and the provision of local services of that standard will: (a) improve the quality of local services provided in the whole or any part of its area, or their combined area, by bringing benefits to persons using those services; or (b) reduce or limit traffic congestion, noise or air pollution<sup>7</sup>.

A quality partnership scheme may not be made unless the authority has or the authorities have complied with notice and consultation requirements<sup>8</sup>. The facilities which may be specified in a scheme must be facilities provided at specific locations along routes served, or proposed to be served, by local services within the area to which the scheme relates, or facilities which are ancillary to such facilities, but may not be facilities which are required to be provided as a result of certain provisions<sup>9</sup>. The standard of services which may be specified in a scheme include requirements which the vehicles being used to provide the services must meet, but do not include requirements as to frequency or timing of the services<sup>10</sup>. If the provision of any of the facilities requires the making of a traffic regulation order<sup>11</sup> in respect of a road or other place in a metropolitan district (other than a road for which the Secretary of State is or the Welsh Ministers are the traffic authority<sup>12</sup>), the scheme may not be made unless it is made by: (i) the local transport authority or authorities; and (ii) the metropolitan district council for the district, acting jointly<sup>13</sup>. If the provision of any of the facilities requires the making of a traffic regulation order in respect of a road for which the Secretary of State is or the Welsh Ministers are the traffic authority, the scheme may not be made unless it is made by: (A) the local transport authority or authorities; and (b) the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, acting jointly<sup>14</sup>.

In carrying out their functions under Part II of the Transport Act 2000 in relation to quality partnership schemes, local transport authorities must co-operate with one another<sup>15</sup>. In considering whether to make a quality partnership scheme, a local transport authority must have regard to the desirability, in appropriate cases, of making a scheme jointly with another such authority<sup>16</sup>.

1202. Making of scheme.

If the authority decides or the authorities decide that it is appropriate to make the scheme<sup>1</sup>, it or they may make it as proposed or with modifications<sup>2</sup>. The scheme must specify: (1) the facilities to be provided under it by the authority or authorities; (2) the standard of services to be provided under it by operators<sup>3</sup> of local services<sup>4</sup>; (3) the date on which it is to come into operation; and (4) the period for which it is to remain in operation, which must not be less than five years<sup>5</sup>. The scheme may provide that local services specified in it, or local services of a class specified in it, are to be excluded from the scheme, subject to such conditions (if any) as may be specified in it<sup>6</sup>. The date specified in the scheme as that on which it is to come into operation must not be earlier than the date by which, in the opinion of the authority or authorities, it will be reasonably practicable: (a) for the authority or authorities to provide the specified facilities; and (b) for operators of local services to provide the specified standard of services, and, in any event, must not be earlier than the date provided by the provision below<sup>7</sup>. That date is three months after the date on which the scheme is made, or if later, the date on which any traffic regulation order<sup>8</sup> required for the provision of any of the specified facilities is made or, if more than one such order is required for that purpose, the date on which the last of them is made<sup>9</sup>.

Not later than 14 days after the date on which the scheme is made, the authority or authorities must give notice in at least one newspaper circulating in the area to which the scheme relates and to all operators of local services who would, in the opinion of the authority or authorities, be affected by the scheme and the traffic commissioner<sup>10</sup> for each traffic area<sup>11</sup> covering the whole or part of the area to which the scheme relates<sup>12</sup>. TEXT AND NOTES 1, 2--If it appears to the authority or authorities appropriate to do so, it or they may decide that any of various specified dates are to be postponed by such period as it or they think fit: Transport Act 2000 s 117(1) (s 117(1), (1A) substituted for s 117(1) by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 16(1)). The dates are (1) the date on which the scheme is to come into operation; (2) the date as from which any particular facilities are to be provided under the scheme; and (3) the date as from which any particular services are to be provided to a particular standard under the scheme:

Transport Act 2000 s 117(1A). A date may not be postponed by a period or periods which in total exceed 12 months: s 117(1).

1204. Effect of scheme.

The authority or authorities must: (1) provide the specified facilities not later than the date on which the scheme<sup>1</sup> is to come into operation; and (2) continue to provide them throughout the period during which it remains in operation<sup>2</sup>. The operator<sup>3</sup> of a local service<sup>4</sup> may not use facilities provided under a quality partnership scheme unless: (a) he has given a written undertaking to the traffic commissioner<sup>5</sup> for each traffic area<sup>6</sup> covering the whole or part of the area to which the scheme relates that he will provide the service to the standard specified in the scheme when using the facilities; and (b) he provides the service to that standard when using the facilities, except in relation to any period during which he is temporarily unable to do so owing to circumstances beyond his control<sup>7</sup>.

1    le a quality partnership scheme (see PARA 1200 ante).

2    Transport Act 2000 s 118(1). However, s 118(1) does not apply in relation to any period during which the authority is or authorities are temporarily unable to provide the facilities owing to circumstances beyond its or their control: s 118(2). Nor does it apply in the case of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers if he is or they are unable to provide the facilities owing to the variation or revocation of a traffic regulation order: s 118(3). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante. For the meaning of 'traffic regulation order' see PARA 1200 note 11 ante.

Where a reference to an authority in s 118(1), (2) is to a passenger transport authority, it is to be construed as a reference to the passenger transport executive for the passenger transport area concerned; and where a reference to authorities in those provisions is to one or more passenger transport authorities, it is to be construed as a reference to the passenger transport executive or executives for the passenger transport area or areas concerned: s 162(4). Section 118(4) does not apply in relation to services which are excluded from the scheme as a result of any provision of the scheme made in accordance with s 116(3) (see PARA 1202 ante): s 118(5). Where the exclusion of a local service from the scheme is made subject to conditions as a result of such a provision, those conditions are to be treated, during any period in which the scheme is in operation, as if they were prescribed particulars registered under the Transport Act 1985 s 6 (registration of local services: see PARA 1178 ante) of the service concerned: Transport Act 2000 s 118(6).

1205. Regulations about schemes involving existing facilities.

The appropriate national authority<sup>1</sup> may by regulations make provision about the specifying in quality partnership schemes of facilities which are already being provided before the schemes are proposed ('existing facilities')<sup>2</sup>. The regulations may in particular: (1) provide that existing facilities may not be specified if they were being provided before a date prescribed by, or determined in accordance with, the regulations; (2) provide that particular existing facilities or classes of existing facilities may not be specified (whenever they were first provided); (3) provide that particular existing facilities or classes of existing facilities may be specified only in circumstances prescribed by the regulations; (4) provide that, in circumstances prescribed by the regulations, particular existing facilities or classes of existing facilities may be specified only with the consent of a person prescribed by, or determined in accordance with, the regulations; and (5) make provision modifying any provision<sup>3</sup> in relation to schemes which specify existing facilities<sup>4</sup>.

1 In the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (ss 108-162) 'appropriate national authority', in relation to a quality partnership scheme, a quality contracts scheme or a ticketing scheme, means: (1) the Secretary of State, as respects a scheme relating to an area in England; (2) the Welsh Ministers, as respects a scheme relating to an area in Wales; or (3) the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers acting jointly, as respects a scheme relating to an area in England and Wales: s 162(1). For the meaning of 'quality partnership scheme' see PARA 1200 ante. 'Quality contracts scheme' is to be construed in accordance with s 124(3) (see PARA 1209 post): s 162(1). 'Ticketing scheme' is to be construed in accordance with s 135(3) (see PARA 1220 post): s 162(1). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

2 Ibid s 119(1). See the Quality Partnership Schemes (Existing Facilities) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3317. As to regulations under the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (as amended) see PARA 1226 post.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/E. SCHEMES FOR BUS SERVICES/(A) Quality Partnership Schemes/1206. Variation or revocation of schemes.

1206. Variation or revocation of schemes.

The authority or authorities which made a quality partnership scheme<sup>1</sup> may vary the scheme if it decides or they decide that it is appropriate to do so<sup>2</sup>. The authority or authorities which made a scheme may revoke it before the end of the period for which it would otherwise remain in operation if all persons who have given an undertaking to provide a service to the standard specified in the scheme consent to the revocation of the scheme; and such consent must not be unreasonably withheld<sup>3</sup>. If the variation of a scheme<sup>4</sup> would require the making of a traffic regulation order<sup>5</sup>, the variation is subject to the same procedure as the making of a scheme<sup>6</sup>. Any other variation of a scheme<sup>7</sup>, or the revocation of a scheme<sup>8</sup>, is subject to that procedure, except to the extent that the procedure is modified by regulations<sup>9</sup>.

The relevant references<sup>10</sup> to the authority or authorities in relation to a quality partnership scheme<sup>11</sup>:

1827 (1) include a local transport authority<sup>12</sup> if it has been varied so that it relates to that authority's area; but

1828 (2) do not include a local transport authority if it has been varied so that it no longer relates to that authority's area<sup>13</sup>,

but if (although the scheme does not relate to a local transport authority's area) it would do by reason of a proposed variation, those references<sup>14</sup> include that authority<sup>15</sup>. The relevant references<sup>16</sup> to the authority or authorities in relation to a quality partnership scheme:

1829 (a) include a traffic regulation authority<sup>17</sup> if it has been varied so that it specifies traffic regulation facilities<sup>18</sup>; but

1830 (b) do not include a traffic regulation authority if it has been varied so that it no longer specifies such facilities<sup>19</sup>,

but if (although the scheme does not specify facilities which are traffic regulation facilities in relation to a traffic regulation authority) it would do by reason of a proposed variation, those references<sup>20</sup> include that authority<sup>21</sup>. If (although the scheme specifies facilities which are traffic regulation facilities in relation to a traffic regulation authority): (i) the traffic regulation order, or (where more than one) each of the traffic regulation orders, required to be made by that authority for the provision of those facilities has been revoked; and (ii) the scheme is proposed to be varied (but not so that it specifies other facilities which are traffic regulation facilities in relation to that authority), the relevant references<sup>22</sup> do not include that authority<sup>23</sup>.

1663)/12. PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/E. SCHEMES FOR BUS SERVICES/(B) Quality Contracts Schemes/1209. Quality contracts schemes.

(B) QUALITY CONTRACTS SCHEMES

1209. Quality contracts schemes.

A local transport authority<sup>1</sup>, or two or more such authorities acting jointly, may make a quality contracts scheme<sup>2</sup> covering the whole or any part of its area, or their combined area, if it is or they are satisfied that: (1) making a quality contracts scheme is the only practicable way of implementing the policies set out in its bus strategy<sup>3</sup> or their strategies in the area to which the proposed scheme relates; and (2) the proposed scheme will implement those policies in a way which is economic, efficient and effective<sup>4</sup>.

A passenger transport authority<sup>5</sup>, or a passenger transport authority jointly with one or more other local transport authorities, may also make a quality contracts scheme covering the whole or part of its area or their combined area if it is or they are satisfied: (a) that making a quality contracts scheme is an appropriate way of securing that the transport needs of the potential users<sup>6</sup> of a relevant railway service<sup>7</sup> that has been or is to be reduced or discontinued are met; (b) that the making of the scheme will contribute, in an appropriate way, to meeting the transport needs of other persons living, working or studying in the localities served by that service; (c) that the scheme is compatible with the local transport plan<sup>8</sup> of the passenger transport authority which makes the scheme or (as the case may be) of each of the authorities which join in making the scheme; and (d) that the scheme will meet the needs of the persons mentioned in heads (a) and (b) above in a way which is economic, efficient and effective<sup>9</sup>. A local transport authority may join in making such a scheme by reference to the reduction or discontinuance of a railway passenger service only if: (i) it is the passenger transport authority, or one of the passenger transport authorities, by reference to which that service is a relevant railway service in relation to the scheme; (ii) the relevant railway service by reference to which the scheme is made is or was operating in the authority's area; or (iii) the persons who live, work or study in localities served by that service include persons living, working or studying in that area<sup>10</sup>.

A quality contracts scheme may not be made unless the authority or authorities has or have complied with the notice and consultation requirements<sup>11</sup>, and has or have obtained the approval of the appropriate national authority<sup>12</sup>. A quality contract may be made on terms: (A) which include provision for the making of payments by the authority or authorities to the person undertaking to provide the local service; and (B) requiring one or more of the parties to provide additional facilities or services<sup>13</sup>. The authority or authorities must keep under review the extent to which quality contracts entered into by it or them are complied with<sup>14</sup>.

In carrying out their functions under Part II of the Transport Act 2000 in relation to quality contracts schemes, local transport authorities must co-operate with one another<sup>15</sup>. In considering whether to make a quality contracts scheme, a local transport authority must have regard to the desirability, in appropriate cases, of making a scheme jointly with another authority<sup>16</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'local transport authority' see PARA 1190 note 1 ante.

2 A quality contracts scheme is a scheme under which: (1) the authority determines or the authorities determine what local services should be provided in the area to which the scheme relates and any additional facilities or services which should be provided in that area; and (2) local services may only be provided in that area in accordance with quality contracts (subject to the Transport Act 2000 s 127(4) (see PARA 1212 post)): s 124(3). For the meaning of 'local service' see PARA 1200 note 5 ante. In Pt II (ss 108-162) (as amended) 'quality contract', in relation to a quality contracts scheme, means an agreement entered into under s 130 (see PARA 1215 post) or s 131 (see PARA 1216 post) under which: (a) the authority grants or the authorities grant to another person the exclusive right to operate the local services to which the contract relates; and (b) that person undertakes to provide the services on such terms (including in particular as to frequency, fares and standard of service) as may be specified in the agreement: s 124(4). See further note 14 infra. 'Fares' has the same meaning as in the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 (see PARA 1136 note 7 ante): Transport Act 2000 s 162(2).

The Transport Act 1985 s 88(1) (as amended) (application to subsidy agreements of ss 89-92 (as amended): see PARA 1276 post) does not apply in relation to quality contracts: Transport Act 2000 s 124(6).

3 As to bus strategies see PARA 1194 ante.

4 Transport Act 2000 s 124(1). Section 124 (as amended) is in force in relation to England (Transport Act 2000 (Commencement No 7) Order 2001, SI 2001/3342), but in relation to Wales is in force only in relation to the powers to make regulations (Transport Act 2000 (Commencement No 1) (Wales) Order 2001, SI 2001/2788).

5 As to passenger transport authorities and passenger transport areas see PARA 1190 note 1 ante.

6 For these purposes, 'potential users', in relation to a relevant railway service (see note 7 infra), means persons who (but for the reduction or discontinuance of the service) would have made use of it: Transport Act 2000 s 124(12) (s 124(10)-(13) added by the Railways Act 2005 s 39(2)).

7 'Relevant railway service': (1) in relation to a scheme made by a single passenger transport authority acting alone, means: (a) a railway passenger service operating entirely within the area of that authority; or (b) the part of a railway passenger service so operating; (2) in relation to a scheme made jointly by more than one local transport authority, means: (a) a railway passenger service operating wholly or primarily within the area of a passenger transport authority who joins in making the scheme; (b) a railway passenger service operating wholly or primarily within the combined area of two or more passenger transport authorities who join in making the scheme; or (c) the part of a railway passenger service operating as mentioned in head (a) or (b) supra: Transport Act 2000 s 124(11) (as added: see note 6 supra). 'Railway passenger service' has the same meaning as in the Railways Act 1993 (see s 83(1); and RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES vol 39(1A) (Reissue) PARA 36): Transport Act 2000 s 124(12) (as so added). For the purposes of references in s 124 (as amended) to where a railway passenger service or part of such a service operates: (1) a service is to be treated as operating at each of the places where stops are made at stations for the purpose of allowing passengers to join or leave the service; and (2) a part of a service is any part of that service so far as it operates at any one or more of those places: s 124(13) (as so added).

8 The references to a local transport plan, in the case of a local transport authority not having a local transport plan, are references to the policies developed by that authority under ibid s 108(1)(a) (see PARA 1190 head (1) ante): s 124(10) (as added: see note 6 supra).

11 Ie imposed by ibid s 125: see PARA 1210 post.

12 Ibid s 124(2), which refers to approval in accordance with s 126 (see PARA 1211 post). For the meaning of 'appropriate national authority' see PARA 1205 note 1 ante.

13 Ibid s 124(5). See further note 14 infra.

14 Ibid s 124(7). Where a reference to an authority in s 124(4)(a) (see note 2 head (a) supra), s 124(5) (see the text and note 13 supra) and s 124(7) is to a passenger transport authority, it is to be construed as a reference to the passenger transport executive for the passenger transport area concerned; and where a reference to authorities in any of those provisions is to one or more passenger transport authorities, it is to be construed as a reference to the passenger transport executive or executives for the passenger transport area or areas concerned: s 162(4). As to passenger transport executives see PARA 1194 note 4 ante.

16 Ibid s 124(9).

TEXT AND NOTES 1, 2--If an authority or authorities propose to make a quality contracts scheme, it or they must (1) publish, in such manner as it or they think fit, a consultation document; (2) supply a copy of that document to each of the persons specified in the Transport Act 2000 s 125(3); (3) give notice of the proposed scheme in at least one newspaper circulating in the area to which it relates; and (4) if the proposed scheme relates to an area in England, send a copy of that notice to the senior traffic commissioner as soon as reasonably practicable after its publication: Transport Act 2000 s 125(1) (amended by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 20(2) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)). As to the contents of a consultation document, see the Transport Act 2000 s 125(1A)-(1C) (added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 20(3) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)).

1211. Approval of proposed scheme.

If, having complied with the notice and consultation requirements<sup>1</sup>, the authority wishes or the authorities wish to proceed with the proposed quality contracts scheme<sup>2</sup>, it or they must apply to the appropriate national authority<sup>3</sup> for its approval<sup>4</sup>. The application must include: (1) the reasons for wishing to make the scheme; and (2) such other information as the appropriate national authority may reasonably require<sup>5</sup>. Any person consulted<sup>6</sup> may make written representations to the appropriate national authority about the scheme<sup>7</sup>. The appropriate national authority may approve the proposed scheme, with or without modifications<sup>8</sup>, if it is satisfied that: (a) certain conditions<sup>9</sup> are met; and (b) it is in the interests of the public that the scheme is made<sup>10</sup>. If the appropriate national authority proposes to approve the scheme with modifications, it must first inform the authority or authorities and it or they must: (i) consult such of the persons it or they consulted<sup>11</sup> as would, in its or their opinion, be affected by those modifications; and (ii) inform the appropriate national authority as to the outcome of that consultation<sup>12</sup>. After being informed of that outcome the appropriate national authority may approve the scheme either with those modifications or without modifications<sup>13</sup>.

UPDATE

1211 Approval of proposed scheme

TEXT AND NOTES--The Transport Act 2000 s 126 now has effect in any case where the scheme or proposed scheme relates to an area in Wales only: Transport Act 2000 s 126(A1) (added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 21(2) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)). Where the senior traffic commissioner receives a copy of a notice sent by the authority or authorities in relation to a proposed scheme that relates to an area in England, a quality contracts schemes board is to be constituted to discharge the functions of such a board in relation to the proposed scheme: Transport Act 2000 s 126A (ss 126A-126E added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 22-25 (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)). As to the advice that may be given by the board, see the Transport Act 2000 s 126B. As to the consideration of proposed schemes by the board, see the Transport Act 2000 s 126C, 126D. As to rules of practice and procedure applying to the board, see the Transport Act 2000 s 126E.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/E. SCHEMES FOR BUS SERVICES/(B) Quality Contracts Schemes/1212. Making of scheme.

1212. Making of scheme.

If the appropriate national authority<sup>1</sup> approves the quality contracts scheme<sup>2</sup>, the authority or authorities which proposed it may make it as approved at any time not later than six months after the date of the approval<sup>3</sup>. The scheme must specify: (1) the area to which it relates; (2) the date on which it is to come into operation<sup>4</sup>; and (3) the period for which it is to remain in operation, which must not be more than ten years<sup>5</sup>. The scheme must outline: (a) the local services<sup>6</sup> which are to be provided under quality contracts<sup>7</sup>; and (b) the features of the proposed invitations to tender for quality contracts<sup>8</sup>. The scheme may provide that local services specified in it, or local services of a class specified in it, are to be excluded from the scheme, subject to such conditions (if any) as may be specified in it<sup>9</sup>. The scheme may contain such ancillary provisions as the authority thinks or the authorities think fit<sup>10</sup>. The scheme may include provision: (i) varying or revoking any quality partnership scheme<sup>11</sup> which only relates to the area of the authority, or the combined area of the authorities, by which the quality contracts scheme is made; or (ii) varying any other quality partnership scheme to the extent that it so relates<sup>12</sup>.

Not later than 14 days after the date on which the scheme is made, the authority or authorities must give notice in at least one newspaper circulating in the area to which the scheme relates and send a copy of the scheme to the traffic commissioner<sup>13</sup> for each traffic area<sup>14</sup> covering the whole or part of that area<sup>15</sup>. The notice must state that the scheme has been made, where a copy of the scheme may be inspected, and the date on which the scheme is to come into operation<sup>16</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'appropriate national authority' see PARA 1205 note 1 ante.

2 See PARA 1209 ante.

3 Transport Act 2000 s 127(1). Section 127 (as amended) is in force in relation to England (Transport Act 2000 (Commencement No 7) Order 2001, SI 2001/3342), but in relation to Wales is in force only in relation to the powers to make regulations (Transport Act 2000 (Commencement No 1) (Wales) Order 2001, SI 2001/2788).

4 The Transport Act 2000 provides that the date on which the scheme is to come into operation must not be earlier than 21 months after the date on which it is made but, as respects quality contracts schemes relating to areas wholly in England, the period is varied to six months by the Transport Act 2000 (Commencement of Quality Contracts Schemes) (England) Order 2005, SI 2005/75, art 2. As to orders under the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (ss 108-162) (as amended) see PARA 1226 post.

12 Transport Act 2000 s 127(6). If provision is made under head (ii) in the text to vary the quality partnership scheme so that it no longer so relates, such of the authorities by which it was made as did not make the quality contracts scheme: (1) may (subject to the provision so made) vary it if they decide that it is appropriate to do so; or (2) may revoke it if all persons who have given an undertaking to provide a service to a standard specified in the scheme consent to the revocation of the scheme (which consent must not be unreasonably withheld); and s 120(3), (4) (see PARA 1206 ante) applies to a variation or revocation under this provision: s 127(7).

UPDATE*1212 Making of scheme

TEXT AND NOTES--As to appeals against the making of schemes for areas in England, see the Transport Act 2000 s 127A, 127B (added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 27(1) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)). Where an appeal under the Transport Act 2000 s 127A against a decision to make a scheme is made to the Transport Tribunal and, on that appeal, the Tribunal directs the authority to vary the scheme in the manner specified by the Tribunal in the direction, nothing in s 132(5)-(9) (see para 1217) applies in relation to the varying of the scheme in the manner specified in the direction, unless the Tribunal otherwise directs: Transport Act 2000 s 132B(1)(a), (2) (added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 39 (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)). As to the application of the Transfer of Undertakings (Protection of Employment) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/246, on the coming into force of a quality contract, see the Transport Act 2000 s 134B (added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 44(1) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)).

TEXT AND NOTES 1-3--The authority or authorities who proposed the scheme may make it (1) in the case of a scheme for an area in England, in accordance with the requirements of the Transport Act 2000 s 127(1A); and (2) in the case of a scheme for an area in Wales, in accordance with the requirements of s 127(1B): Transport Act 2000 s 127(1) (s 127(1), (1A), (1B) substituted for s 127(1) by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 26(2) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)).

TEXT AND NOTES 4, 5--Transport Act 2000 s 127(2) amended, s 127(2A) added: Local Transport Act 2008 s 26(3)-(5) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242).

NOTE 5--Transport Act 2000 s 127(10) substituted: Local Transport Act 2008 s 26(8) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242). An authority which made a quality contracts scheme may, if it appears appropriate to do so, decide that the scheme should continue in operation for a further period, with or without modification: Transport Act 2000 s 131A(1) (ss 131A-131F added by the Local Transport Act 2008 ss 31-36 (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)). Before making such a decision, the authority must, unless the proposal is an exempt continuation proposal, comply with the requirements of the Transport Act 2000 s 124(2)(b) (see PARA 1209), if the scheme is for an area in Wales, or s 124(2)(c), if the scheme is for an area in England: Transport Act 2000 s 131A(2). As to the meaning of 'exempt continuation proposal', see the Transport Act 2000 s 131B. In relation to the continuation of a scheme, s 125 (see PARA 1210) applies as it applies in relation to the making of a scheme, but with certain modifications set out in the Transport Act 2000 s 131A(3)-(5). As to the procedure to be followed in relation to the continuation in operation of a quality contracts scheme for an area in England, see the Transport Act 2000 s 131C. As to the procedure to be followed in relation to the continuation in operation of a quality contracts scheme for an area in Wales, see the Transport Act 2000 s 131D. Where an authority which proposes that a quality contracts scheme should continue in operation with or without modifications decides that the proposal is an exempt continuation proposal, and, acting on the basis of that decision, decides that the scheme should so continue in operation, any person who (1) was consulted under s 125(3); or (2) was not so consulted, but who, in the opinion of the Transport Tribunal, ought to have been so consulted may appeal to the Transport Tribunal against the decision of the authority that the proposal is an exempt continuation proposal, or the decision of the authority that the scheme is to continue in operation: Transport Act 2000 s 131E(1)-(3). Such an appeal may be on a point of law, or a question of fact: Transport Act 2000 s 131E(4). As to the Transport Tribunal's powers on an appeal, see the Transport Act 2000 s 131E(5)-(14). Where an authority (a) proposes that a quality contracts scheme for an area in England should continue in operation with or without modifications; (b) decides that the proposal is not an exempt continuation proposal; and (c) acting on the basis of that decision, decides that the scheme should so continue in operation, any person who (i) was consulted under s 125(3); or (ii) was not so consulted, but who, in the opinion of the QCS board ought to have been so consulted, may appeal to the Transport Tribunal against the decision of the authority that the scheme should continue in operation: Transport Act 2000 s 131F(1)-(3). Where an appeal under s 131E(2) or 131F(2) is made to the Transport Tribunal and, on that appeal, the Tribunal directs the authority to vary the scheme in the manner specified by the Tribunal in the direction, nothing in s 132(5)-(9) (see PARA 1217) applies in relation to the varying of the scheme in the manner specified in the direction, unless the Tribunal otherwise directs: Transport Act 2000 s 132B(1)(b)-(d), (2) (added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 39 (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)).

TEXT AND NOTES 6-8--The scheme must specify the date or dates on which it is proposed that the authority will issue invitations to tender for the provision of any services to which the scheme relates: Transport Act 2000 s 127(3A) (added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 26(6) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)).

1213. Postponement of scheme.

If it appears to the authority or authorities which made the quality contracts scheme<sup>1</sup> appropriate to do so, it or they may decide that the date on which the scheme would otherwise come into operation must be postponed by such period as it thinks or they think fit<sup>2</sup>. Before making such a decision, it or they must consult all operators<sup>3</sup> of local services<sup>4</sup> who would, in its or their opinion, be affected by the decision<sup>5</sup>. Not later than 14 days after the date on which any such decision is made, it or they must give notice of the decision: (1) in at least one newspaper circulating in the area to which the scheme relates; and (2) to all operators of local services who would, in its or their opinion, be affected by the decision and the traffic commissioner<sup>6</sup> for each traffic area<sup>7</sup> covering the whole or part of the area to which the scheme relates<sup>8</sup>. The appropriate national authority<sup>9</sup> may by regulations make provision with respect to postponements<sup>10</sup>. The regulations may in particular make provision: (a) as to the maximum period of postponements; and (b) requiring authorities to re-issue invitations to tender<sup>11</sup>.

In relation to Wales, the Transport Act 2000 s 128(4) is in force, but the provisions of s 128(1)-(3), (5) are in force only in relation to the powers to make regulations: Transport Act 2000 (Commencement No 1) (Wales) Order 2001, SI 2001/2788.

1214. Effect of scheme.

During any period in which the quality contracts scheme<sup>1</sup> is in operation: (1) provisions relating to the registration of local services<sup>2</sup> do not have effect in relation to the area to which it relates; and (2) no local service<sup>3</sup> may be provided in that area (if there is a stopping place<sup>4</sup> for the service in that area) unless it is provided under a quality contract<sup>5</sup>. The authority or authorities must invite tenders<sup>6</sup> not later than: (a) three months; or (b) such other period as the appropriate national authority<sup>7</sup> may by order specify, after the scheme has been made<sup>8</sup>.

Where the exclusion of a local service from the scheme is made subject to conditions as a result of such a provision, those conditions are to be treated, during any period in which the scheme is in operation, as if they were prescribed particulars registered under the Transport Act 1985 s 6 (see PARA 1178 ante) of the service concerned: Transport Act 2000 s 129(3).

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/E. SCHEMES FOR BUS SERVICES/(B) Quality Contracts Schemes/1215. Tendering for quality contracts.

1215. Tendering for quality contracts.

The authority, or the authorities acting jointly, must invite tenders for the provision of services to which the quality contracts scheme<sup>1</sup> relates for such period and on such basis as may be specified in the invitation to tender<sup>2</sup>. The period specified must not exceed five years<sup>3</sup>. Such an invitation: (1) must be issued generally, in such manner as the authority considers or the authorities consider appropriate for bringing it to the attention of persons who may be interested; and (2) must also be issued individually to all persons who have given to that authority or any of those authorities a written notice indicating that they wish to receive invitations to tender for the provision of local services<sup>4</sup> of a description to which the invitation relates<sup>5</sup>. Such a notice must specify the address to which such an invitation is to be directed, and it is sufficient for the purposes of head (2) above if the authority sends or the authorities send the invitation to the person giving such a notice at the address so specified<sup>6</sup>. The authority or authorities may only accept a tender submitted by a person who is the holder of either a PSV operator's licence<sup>7</sup> or a community bus permit<sup>8</sup>.

After entering into a quality contract<sup>9</sup>, the authority or authorities must give notice to the traffic commissioner<sup>10</sup> for each traffic area<sup>11</sup> covering the whole or part of the area to which the scheme relates of: (a) the local services to be provided in accordance with the contract; and (b) the duration of the contract<sup>12</sup>. The appropriate national authority<sup>13</sup> may by regulations make provision requiring authorities to publish prescribed information about tenders submitted to

1217. Variation or revocation of scheme.

The authority or authorities which made the quality contracts scheme<sup>1</sup> (other than any to whose area the scheme no longer relates) may vary it by: (1) increasing the area to which it relates (to no greater than the whole of its area or their combined area) or adding to the description of local services<sup>2</sup> which are to be provided under quality contracts<sup>3</sup>; (2) reducing that area or reducing the description of services; or (3) providing for new exclusions from the scheme or for the variation or revocation of existing exclusions<sup>4</sup>.

The authority or authorities which made the scheme (other than any to whose area the scheme no longer relates) may revoke the scheme: (a) if the relevant conditions<sup>5</sup> are no longer met with respect to it; or (b) if it or they and one or more other authorities make a quality contracts scheme covering the whole or part of the area to which it relates<sup>6</sup>.

The variation or revocation of the scheme<sup>7</sup>: (i) requires the approval of the authority which approved the making of the scheme<sup>8</sup>; and (ii) is subject to the same procedure as the making of a scheme, except to the extent that that procedure is modified by regulations made by the appropriate national authority<sup>9</sup>. The appropriate national authority may by regulations provide that in prescribed circumstances quality contracts schemes may be revoked by that authority before coming into operation<sup>10</sup>.

The scheme may not be varied under head (2) in the text unless the relevant conditions (see note 5 infra): (1) are no longer met with respect to it; but (2) are met with respect to the scheme as varied: Transport Act 2000 s 132(3) (amended by the Railways Act 2005 s 39(4)(b)).

5 For these purposes, 'the relevant conditions' means: (1) in the case of a scheme made under the Transport Act 2000 s 124(1) and not subsequently varied under s 132(1)(a), the conditions set out in s 124(1)(a) and (b); (2) in the case of a scheme made under s 124(1A) (as added) and not subsequently varied under s 132(1)(a), the conditions set out in s 124(1A)(a)-(d) (as added); and (3) in the case of a scheme that has been varied under s 132(1)(a), the conditions by reference to which it was last so varied: s 132(4A) (added by the Railways Act 2005 s 39(4)(c), (5)).

1217 Variation or revocation of scheme

TEXT AND NOTES--Where an authority which proposes to vary a quality contracts scheme decides that the proposal is an exempt variation for the purposes of the Transport Act 2000 s 132, and, acting on the basis of that decision, decides to vary the scheme, any person who (1) was consulted under s 125(3) (see PARA 1210); or (2) was not so consulted, but who, in the opinion of the Transport Tribunal, ought to have been so consulted, may appeal to the Transport Tribunal against the decision of the authority (a) that the variation is an exempt variation; or (b) as to the variation of the scheme under s 132: Transport Act 2000 s 132A(1)-(3) (s 132A added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 38 (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)). Such an appeal may be on a point of law, or on a question of fact: Transport Act 2000 s 132A(4). As to the powers of the Transport Tribunal on an appeal, see s 132A(5)-(13). Where an appeal is made to the Transport Tribunal under ss 132, 132A(2), and on that appeal, the Tribunal directs the authority to vary the scheme in the manner specified by the Tribunal in the direction, nothing in s 132(5)-(9) applies in relation to the varying of the scheme in the manner specified in the direction, unless the Tribunal otherwise directs: Transport Act 2000 s 132B(1)(e)-(g), (2) (added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 39 (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)). As to the power of authorities to provide services in exceptional circumstance and the period for which an interim service may be provided, see PARA 1217A.

1217A. Power of authorities to provide services in exceptional circumstances.

Where a person who has agreed to provide a service (the 'old service') in accordance with a quality contract ceases to do so before the end of the period for which the contract was intended to have effect, the authority, or one of the authorities, who entered into the quality contract may provide a local service (an 'interim service') in place of the old service or any part of it: Transport Act 2000 s 132C(1)-(2) (ss 132C, 132D added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 40(1) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)). As to the period for which an authority may provide an interim service, see the Transport Act 2000 s 132D. The authority's power to provide such services has effect notwithstanding any prohibition, restriction or limitation contained in any other enactment on the power of the authority to provide local services: Transport Act 2000 s 132C(3). An authority who provides an interim service of any description must hold a PSV operator's licence to which no condition is attached under the Transport Act 1985 s 26 (see PARA 1187) prohibiting the authority from using vehicles under the licence to provide services of that description: Transport Act 2000 s 132C(4).

If an authority provides an interim service in place of an old service or any part of an old service, and the authority which entered into the quality contract for the provision of the old service proposes to enter into a quality contract for the provision of a replacement service in place of that service or that part, the authority must invite tenders for the provision of the replacement service (1) as soon as reasonably practicable after the authority providing the interim service begins to do so; and (2) in any event no later than three months after the date on which provision of the old service ceased: Transport Act 2000 s 132C(5)-(6). However, s 132C(6) does not apply if the authority decides to secure the provision of the replacement service under s 131: s 132C(7).

The appropriate national authority<sup>1</sup> may by regulations make further provision with respect to: (1) the procedure to be followed when making, varying or revoking quality contracts schemes<sup>2</sup>; (2) the approval of schemes; (3) the local services<sup>3</sup> or classes of local services which are to be, or may be, excluded from schemes; (4) the conditions which must be, or may be, attached to such exclusions; and (5) such other incidental matters in connection with quality contracts schemes as the appropriate national authority thinks fit<sup>4</sup>. The regulations may in particular make provision with respect to: (a) giving notice of proposed schemes or proposed variations or revocation of schemes; (b) objections to such proposals; (c) the holding of inquiries or hearings into objections; (d) modifications<sup>5</sup> of such proposals; (e) the form and manner of applications for approval of such proposals; (f) the form of schemes or variations; and (g) giving notice of schemes which have been made or of the variation or revocation of schemes<sup>6</sup>.

TEXT AND NOTES--The appropriate national authority may also make regulations modifying or excluding the application of provisions of the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (ss 108-162) so far as relating to quality contracts schemes, in cases where a local transport authority, or two or more local transport authorities acting jointly (1) by virtue of s 126C(6), send to a QCS board a further request under s 126C(4) and modified proposals under s 126C(5); (2) propose or decide that a scheme should continue in operation, with or without modification, under s 131A; or (3) propose or decide to vary or revoke a scheme under s 132: Transport Act 2000 s 133(3) (s 133(3), (4) added by the Local Transport Act 2008 s 41(6) (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/3242)). Such regulations must not exclude any requirement for the authority (a) under the Transport Act 2000 s 126, to obtain the approval of the Welsh Ministers; or (b) under s 127(1A), to publish their response to the report of the QCS board: Transport Act 2000 s 133(4).

The appropriate national authority<sup>1</sup> may by regulations make such transitional provision as it considers appropriate in connection with: (1) the coming into operation of quality contracts schemes<sup>2</sup>; (2) the variation of such schemes; and (3) the ending of such schemes (whether or not as a result of their revocation)<sup>3</sup>. The regulations may in particular provide that in prescribed circumstances: (a) any provision relating to the registration of local services<sup>4</sup> which would otherwise have effect is not to have effect or is to have effect with such modifications<sup>5</sup> as may be prescribed; or (b) any such provision which would not otherwise have effect is to have effect or is to have effect with such modifications as may be prescribed, in relation to the whole or any part of the area to which the scheme relates<sup>6</sup>.

(C) TICKETING SCHEMES

1220. Joint and through ticketing schemes.

A local transport authority<sup>1</sup>, or two or more such authorities acting jointly, may make a ticketing scheme<sup>2</sup> covering the whole or any part of its area, or their combined area, if it considers or they consider that the proposed scheme: (1) would be in the interests of the public; and (2) would to any extent implement the policies set out in its or their bus strategy<sup>3</sup>. A ticketing scheme may not be made unless the authority has or the authorities have complied with notice and consultation requirements<sup>4</sup>. The descriptions of tickets which may be covered by a ticketing scheme are: (a) tickets entitling the holder to make more than one journey on particular local services or on local services of a class specified in the scheme (whether or not operated by the same person); (b) tickets entitling the holder to make a particular journey on two or more local services (whether or not operated by the same person); (c) where a particular journey could be made on local services provided by any of two or more operators, tickets entitling the holder to make the journey on whichever service the holder chooses; and (d) tickets entitling the holder to make a journey, or more than one journey, involving both travel on one or more local services and travel by one or more connecting rail or tram services<sup>5</sup>. Different arrangements may be specified in a ticketing scheme for different cases<sup>6</sup>. In carrying out their functions under Part II of the Transport Act 2000<sup>7</sup> in relation to ticketing schemes, local transport authorities must co-operate with one another<sup>8</sup>. In considering whether to make a ticketing scheme, a local transport authority must have regard to the desirability, in appropriate cases, of making a scheme jointly with another authority<sup>9</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'local transport authority' see PARA 1190 note 1 ante.

2 A ticketing scheme is a scheme under which operators of local services of a class specified in it are required to make and implement arrangements under which persons may purchase, in a single transaction, a ticket (or tickets) of any of the descriptions which may be covered by a ticketing scheme and to which the scheme applies: Transport Act 2000 s 135(3). For the meaning of 'local service', and as to the 'operator' of a passenger transport service, see PARA 1200 note 5 ante.

4 Ie the notice and consultation requirements imposed by ibid s 136 (see PARA 1221 post): s 135(2).

5 Ibid s 135(4). A connecting rail or tram service, in relation to a ticketing scheme, is a service for the carriage of passengers by railway or by tramway (or by both) which runs between: (1) a station or stopping place at or in the vicinity of which local services stop and which serves any part of the area to which the ticketing scheme relates; and (2) any other place: s 135(5). 'Railway' and 'tramway' have the meanings given in the Transport and Works Act 1992 s 67(1) (see RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES vol 39(1A) (Reissue) PARA 302): Transport Act 2000 s 162(1). PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/E. SCHEMES FOR BUS SERVICES/ (C) Ticketing Schemes/1222. Making of scheme.

1222. Making of scheme.

If the authority decides or authorities decide that it is appropriate to make a ticketing scheme<sup>1</sup>, it or they may make it as proposed or with modifications<sup>2</sup>. If the scheme applies to tickets entitling the holder to make a journey, or more than one journey, involving both travel on one or more local services<sup>3</sup> and travel by one or more connecting rail or tram services<sup>4</sup>, it may only be made with the agreement of the operators of the connecting rail or tram services concerned<sup>5</sup>. The scheme must specify the date on which it is to come into operation, which must not be earlier than three months after the date on which it is made<sup>6</sup>. Not later than 14 days after the date on which the scheme is made, the authority or authorities must give notice of it: (1) in at least one newspaper circulating in the area to which it relates; (2) to the traffic commissioner<sup>7</sup> for each traffic area<sup>8</sup> covering the whole or part of that area; (3) to all operators of local services<sup>9</sup> or services for the carriage of passengers by railway or by tramway (or by both) who would, in the opinion of the authority or authorities, be affected by it; (4) to the Secretary of State<sup>10</sup> if it applies to tickets entitling the holder to make a journey, or more than one journey, involving both travel on one or more local services and travel by one or more connecting rail or tram services<sup>11</sup>; and (5) in such other manner, or to such other persons or class of person (if any) as the appropriate national authority<sup>12</sup> may prescribe by regulations<sup>13</sup>. The notice must set out the terms of the scheme and the date on which it is to come into operation<sup>14</sup>. The authority or authorities may vary or revoke the scheme; and the variation or revocation is subject to the same procedure as the making of the scheme, except to the extent that that procedure is modified by regulations made by the appropriate national authority<sup>15</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(i) Local Services Outside London/E. SCHEMES FOR BUS SERVICES/(D) Local Bus Information/1224. Provision of information.

(D) LOCAL BUS INFORMATION

1224. Provision of information.

Each local transport authority<sup>1</sup> must from time to time determine, having regard to its local transport plan<sup>2</sup>: (1) what local bus information<sup>3</sup> should be made available to the public ('the required information'); and (2) the way in which it should be made available ('the appropriate way')<sup>4</sup>. Before making such a determination, the authority must consult: (a) such organisations appearing to the authority to be representative of users of local services as it thinks fit; and (b) the traffic commissioner<sup>5</sup> for the traffic area<sup>6</sup> covering its area<sup>7</sup>. Each authority must from time to time ascertain whether the required information is being made available to the public in the appropriate way<sup>8</sup>. If an authority considers that: (i) the required information is not being made available to the public to any extent; or (ii) that information is not being made available to the public in the appropriate way, the authority must seek to make arrangements with the operators<sup>9</sup> of the local services concerned under which those operators agree to make the information available (or to make it available in that way)<sup>10</sup>.

If the authority is unable to make satisfactory arrangements with one or more of those operators, it: (A) must make available, or secure that there is made available, in the appropriate way such of the required information as is not being made available or is not being made available in that way<sup>11</sup>; and (B) may recover from that operator or those operators the reasonable costs incurred by it in doing so as a civil debt due to it<sup>12</sup>. In determining for the purposes of head (B) above what is reasonable in relation to a particular operator, the authority must have regard to the amount of information which has to be made available, and the way in which that information has to be made available, in respect of the local services provided by that operator<sup>13</sup>. If the authority requires an operator to provide information to it or to another person in order to perform its duty under head (A) above, the operator must provide the information at such times and in such manner as is specified by the authority<sup>14</sup>.

In considering how it should carry out its functions under the above provisions<sup>15</sup>, a local transport authority must have regard to a combination of economy, efficiency and effectiveness<sup>16</sup>. In carrying out those functions, local transport authorities must not act in such a way as to discriminate (whether directly or indirectly) against any operator, or class of operator, of local services, and must co-operate with one another<sup>17</sup>. A local transport authority must have regard to the desirability, in appropriate cases, of carrying out those functions jointly with another authority (whether as respects the whole or any part of their combined area)<sup>18</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'local transport authority' see PARA 1190 note 1 ante.

2 As to local transport plans see PARA 1190 note 6 ante.

3 In the Transport Act 2000 s 139 'local bus information', in relation to a local transport authority, means: (1) information about routes and timetabling of local services to, from and within the authority's area; (2) information about fares for journeys on such local services; and (3) such other information about facilities for disabled persons, travel concessions, connections with other public passenger transport services or other matters of value to the public as the authority considers appropriate in relation to its area: s 139(6). For the meaning of 'local service' see PARA 1200 note 5 ante. As to the meaning of 'fares' see PARA 1209 note 2 ante. 'Disabled person' means a person who: (a) is blind or partially sighted; (b) is profoundly or severely deaf; (c) is without speech; (d) has a disability, or has suffered an injury, which has a substantial and long term adverse effect on his ability to walk; (e) does not have arms or has long term loss of the use of both arms; (f) has a learning disability, that is, a state of arrested or incomplete development of mind which includes significant impairment of intelligence and social functioning; or (g) would, if he applied for the grant of a licence to drive a motor vehicle under the Road Traffic Act 1988 Pt III (ss 87-109) (as amended), have his application refused pursuant to s 92 (as amended) (physical fitness: see PARA 455 ante) otherwise than on the ground of persistent misuse of drugs or alcohol: Transport Act 2000 s 146. In Pt II (ss 108-162) (as amended) 'public passenger transport services' has the same meaning as in the Transport Act 1985 (see PARA 1252 note 3 post): Transport Act 2000 s 162(3).

The Welsh Ministers<sup>1</sup> may direct two or more local authorities in Wales<sup>2</sup> to enter into arrangements: (1) in the terms specified in the direction; and (2) in relation to the discharge of transport functions<sup>3</sup> specified in the direction<sup>4</sup>. The arrangements may in particular be or include arrangements for the joint discharge of transport functions<sup>5</sup>. Replacement of London Regional Transport with Transport for London; the transitional period.

(ii) Local Services in London

A. INTRODUCTION

1230. Replacement of London Regional Transport with Transport for London; the transitional period.

The Greater London Authority Act 1999 provides for the abolition of London Regional Transport and its replacement by a new body, Transport for London<sup>1</sup>, which is responsible for London bus services<sup>2</sup>. The Greater London Authority Act 1999 provides for the replacement of Part II of the Transport Act 1985<sup>3</sup>, dealing with the regulation of road passenger transport in London. Chapter V of Part IV of the Greater London Authority Act 1999 now provides for the regulation of bus services in Greater London<sup>4</sup>.

At the date at which this volume states the law the repeal of Part II of the Transport Act 1985 had not been brought into force<sup>5</sup>, although Chapter V of Part IV of the Greater London Authority Act 1999 was brought into force on 3 July 2000<sup>6</sup>. An order made by the Secretary of State<sup>7</sup> under the Greater London Authority Act 1999 provides for the transition from London local service licensing of bus services under the Transport Act 1985 to London local service agreements and London service permits under the Greater London Authority Act 1999<sup>8</sup>. The order provides that the application of Part II of the Transport Act 1985 is limited to existing licences (ie those in force on 3 July 2000) during the transitional period which runs from 3 July 2000 until those licences cease to be in force (through expiry or otherwise)<sup>9</sup>. After this transitional period Part II of the Transport Act 1985 will cease to have effect<sup>10</sup>. During this transitional period new licences may not be granted under Part II of the Transport Act 1985 in pursuance of applications received on or after 3 July 2000<sup>11</sup>.

The prohibition on provision of a London local service except in accordance with Chapter V of Part IV of the Greater London Authority Act 1999<sup>12</sup> is modified to allow services to continue to be provided under existing licences granted under Part II of the Transport Act 1985<sup>13</sup>.

Meaning of 'London local service'.

B. REGULATION OF BUS SERVICES IN GREATER LONDON FROM 3 JULY 2000

(A) LONDON LOCAL SERVICES

1231. Meaning of 'London local service'.

A 'London local service' is a local service<sup>1</sup> with one or more stopping places<sup>2</sup> in Greater London<sup>3</sup>. Where a local service is or is to be provided both inside and outside Greater London, any part of the service which is or is to be provided outside Greater London must be treated as a separate service for the purposes of Part IV of the Greater London Authority Act 1999<sup>4</sup> if there is any stopping place for that part of the service outside Greater London<sup>5</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'local service' see PARA 1177 ante; definition applied by the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 179(1).

2 'Stopping place' means, in relation to any service or part of a service, a point at which passengers are (or, in the case of a proposed service, are proposed to be) taken up or set down in the course of that service or part: ibid s 195.

(B) THE LONDON BUS NETWORK

1233. The London bus network.

Transport for London<sup>1</sup> must determine which London local services<sup>2</sup> are required for the purpose of providing safe, integrated, efficient and economic transport services in Greater London<sup>3</sup>. The determination so made by Transport for London must be kept under review and may be revised at any time<sup>4</sup>. The London local services which Transport for London determines are required are to be known collectively as the 'London bus network'<sup>5</sup>. A London local service which is part of the London bus network may be provided only<sup>6</sup>: (1) by Transport for London or any of its subsidiaries<sup>7</sup>; or (2) by any other person in pursuance of an agreement entered into by Transport for London<sup>8</sup> or in pursuance of a transport subsidiary's agreement<sup>9</sup>. Transport for London must so far as reasonably practicable provide or secure the provision of the London bus network<sup>10</sup>.

Where a London local service<sup>1</sup> which is part of the London bus network<sup>2</sup> is provided in pursuance of an agreement entered into by Transport for London<sup>3</sup> or in pursuance of a transport subsidiary's agreement<sup>4</sup>, the agreement is known as a London local service agreement<sup>5</sup>.

Where a London local service agreement relates to a local service<sup>6</sup> part of which is to be provided outside Greater London, any provision contained in the agreement with respect to the carriage of passengers other than those who are both taken up and set down in Greater London<sup>7</sup> is of no effect if or so far as it is inconsistent with any condition attached<sup>8</sup> to a PSV operator's licence<sup>9</sup> held by the operator of the service or to a community bus permit<sup>10</sup>.

A London local service<sup>1</sup> which is not part of the London bus network<sup>2</sup> may be provided only by a person who is authorised to provide the service by a permit granted by Transport for London<sup>3</sup> ('a London service permit')<sup>4</sup>. The Mayor of London<sup>5</sup> must prepare and adopt a document ('the guidance document') containing the criteria by which applications for a London service permit will be considered<sup>6</sup>. He must keep the guidance document under review and may revise it at any time<sup>7</sup>. Where the guidance document is revised, the Mayor must adopt the document as revised<sup>8</sup>.

Conditions attached to London service permits.

1239. Conditions attached to London service permits.

Transport for London<sup>1</sup> may attach to a London service permit<sup>2</sup> such conditions as it thinks fit<sup>3</sup>. The conditions that may be attached to a London service permit include conditions for securing:

- 1842 (1) that suitable routes are used in providing any service authorised to be provided by the permit<sup>4</sup>;
- 1843 (2) that passengers are not taken up or are not set down except at specified points, or are not taken up or are not set down between specified points<sup>5</sup>; or
- 1844 (3) the safety and convenience of the public, including persons who have mobility problems<sup>6</sup>.

No condition as to fares may be so attached to a London service permit<sup>7</sup>.

Transport for London may at any time vary a London service permit: (a) by altering any condition attached to the permit<sup>8</sup>; (b) by removing any condition attached to the permit<sup>9</sup>; or (c) by attaching to the permit any condition<sup>10</sup>.

Compliance with any such condition attached to a London service permit may be temporarily dispensed with by Transport for London if it is satisfied:

- 1845 (i) that compliance with the condition would be unduly onerous by reason of circumstances not foreseen when the condition was attached, or, if the condition has been altered, when it was last altered<sup>11</sup>; and
- 1846 (ii) that such a dispensation would not adversely affect the safety and convenience of the public, including persons who have mobility problems<sup>12</sup>.

If any such condition attached to a London service permit is contravened, the holder of the permit is liable on summary conviction to a fine<sup>13</sup>. It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to prove that he took all reasonable precautions and exercised all due diligence to avoid the commission of the offence<sup>14</sup>.

Revocation of London service permits.

1240. Revocation of London service permits.

A London service permit<sup>1</sup> may be revoked or suspended by Transport for London<sup>2</sup> on the ground that there has been a contravention of any condition<sup>3</sup> attached to it<sup>4</sup>. However, Transport for London must not revoke or suspend a London service permit unless, owing to: (1) the frequency of the breach of conditions<sup>5</sup>; or (2) the breach having been committed intentionally<sup>6</sup>; or (3) the danger to the public involved in the breach<sup>7</sup>, Transport for London is satisfied that the permit should be revoked or suspended<sup>8</sup>. On revoking or suspending a London service permit, Transport for London must send notice<sup>9</sup> of the revocation or suspension to each commissioner of police<sup>10</sup> and London authority<sup>11</sup> notified of the grant of the licence<sup>12</sup>. A London service permit so suspended is, during the period of suspension, of no effect<sup>13</sup>.

in London/B. REGULATION OF BUS SERVICES IN GREATER LONDON FROM 3 JULY 2000/(C) Bus Services Outside the Network/1241. Appeals in relation to the refusal to grant a London service permit.

1241. Appeals in relation to the refusal to grant a London service permit.

Where Transport for London<sup>1</sup> refuses to grant a London service permit<sup>2</sup>, it must issue a notice<sup>3</sup> stating the reasons for the decision to do so to the person who made the application for it<sup>4</sup>. A person to whom such a notice has been issued may make an appeal against the decision in relation to which the notice was issued<sup>5</sup>. Where Transport for London: (1) attaches any condition<sup>6</sup> to a London service permit, or alters or removes any condition so attached<sup>7</sup>; or (2) revokes<sup>8</sup> or suspends a London service permit<sup>9</sup>, it must issue a notice to the holder of the permit stating the reasons for the decision to do so<sup>10</sup>. A holder of a London service permit to whom a notice has been issued may make an appeal against the decision in relation to which the notice was issued<sup>11</sup>.

An appeal against a decision of Transport for London must be made before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the date of issue of the notice relating to the decision; but, subject to that, the procedure for the making of appeals under these provisions is to be such as the Secretary of State<sup>12</sup> may by regulations prescribe<sup>13</sup>. An appeal under these provisions is to be heard by a panel of persons appointed by the Lord Chancellor for the purpose of hearing such an appeal ('an appeal panel')<sup>14</sup>. The Secretary of State may make regulations providing for the charging of reasonable fees in respect of such appeals<sup>15</sup>.

A person is disqualified from being appointed to be, or being, a member of an appeal panel if he is<sup>16</sup>: (a) a London Assembly member<sup>17</sup>; (b) a member of staff of the Greater London Authority<sup>18</sup>; (c) a member of, or a member of staff of, Transport for London<sup>19</sup>; or (d) a director of a subsidiary<sup>20</sup> of Transport for London or a member of staff of such a subsidiary<sup>21</sup>.

The Secretary of State may pay to the members of an appeal panel such fees and expenses as he considers appropriate<sup>22</sup>.

An appeal panel must regulate its own procedure but, unless the person making the appeal requests otherwise, any appeal hearing is conducted on the basis of documentary evidence only<sup>23</sup>. An appeal panel which has heard an appeal against a decision may: (i) uphold the decision; (ii) quash the decision; or (iii) substitute for the decision such other decision which Transport for London had power to make as appears to the appeal panel to be appropriate<sup>24</sup>.

Duration of London service permits.

1242. Duration of London service permits.

The duration of a London service permit<sup>1</sup> must not be longer than five years<sup>2</sup>. If, on the date on which a London service permit is due to expire, an application has been made for the grant of a new London service permit in substitution for it and<sup>3</sup>:

- 1847 (1) Transport for London<sup>4</sup> has neither granted nor refused to grant the London service permit applied for<sup>5</sup>;
- 1848 (2) Transport for London has refused to grant the London service permit applied for but an appeal against the refusal has been made<sup>6</sup> and not disposed of<sup>7</sup>; or
- 1849 (3) Transport for London has granted the London service permit applied for but an appeal against a decision to attach a condition<sup>8</sup> to the permit has been made<sup>9</sup> and not disposed of<sup>10</sup>, the existing London service permit continues in force<sup>11</sup>:

- 1850 (a) in a case falling within head (1) above, until Transport for London grants or refuses to grant the London service permit applied for<sup>12</sup>; or
- 1851 (b) in a case falling within head (2) or head (3) above, until the appeal has been disposed of<sup>13</sup>.

Where head (a) above applies, if Transport for London refuses to grant the London service permit applied for, or grants the London service permit applied for but at the time of the grant attaches any condition to the permit, the existing London service permit continues in force until any appeal which is made<sup>14</sup> against the decision in question has been disposed of<sup>15</sup>.

1243. Consultation.

1852 (1) publish a notice<sup>4</sup> in a newspaper circulating in the entire area of Greater London, stating where a draft of the guidance document (or the revisions, as the case may be) may be inspected<sup>5</sup>; and 1853 (2) consult: (a) each London authority<sup>6</sup>; (b) the local authority<sup>7</sup> for any other area which the Mayor of London<sup>8</sup> considers will be affected by the contents of the guidance document or the revisions, as the case may be<sup>9</sup>; (c) the Metropolitan Police Commissioner and the City of London Police Commissioner<sup>10</sup>; (d) the traffic commissioner for the Metropolitan Traffic area<sup>11</sup>; (e) the traffic commissioner for any other traffic area which the Mayor considers will be affected by the contents of the guidance document or the revisions, as the case may be<sup>12</sup>; (f) the London Transport Users' Committee<sup>13</sup>; and (g) any other person whom the Mayor considers it appropriate to consult<sup>14</sup>.

Where the Mayor is determining the contents of revisions to the guidance document and the revisions will not affect the entire area of Greater London, the obligation imposed under head (1) above does not have effect and instead a notice stating where a draft of the revisions can be inspected must be published in a newspaper circulating in the area or areas which the Mayor considers will be affected by the revisions<sup>15</sup>.

C. REGULATION OF ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT IN LONDON BEFORE 3 JULY 2000

1246. Regulation of road passenger transport in London before 3 July 2000.

The traffic commissioner for the South-Eastern and Metropolitan Traffic Area<sup>1</sup> was responsible for granting London local service<sup>2</sup> licences under Part II of the Transport Act 1985<sup>3</sup>. The commissioner may not grant a London local service licence in pursuance of any application received on or after 3 July 2000<sup>4</sup>.

Such a licence was of no effect at any time at which the holder did not also hold a PSV operator's licence<sup>5</sup> granted by the south-eastern and metropolitan traffic commissioner or by the traffic commissioner for any other traffic area or a community bus permit<sup>6</sup>.

Conditions could be attached to any such licence<sup>7</sup>. Whilst in force, a London local service licence could be varied<sup>8</sup>; and compliance with any condition attached to a London local service licence could be temporarily dispensed with by the commissioner<sup>9</sup>.

Provision was made for the revocation or suspension of a London local service licence<sup>10</sup>.

A London local service licence, unless previously revoked, continued in force until the end of the period of five years beginning with<sup>11</sup> the date on which it took effect, unless at the time of the granting of the licence the traffic commissioner for special reasons determined that it should continue in force only for a shorter period, in which case, unless previously revoked, it continued in force only until the end of that shorter period<sup>12</sup>.

Provision was made for appeal to the Secretary of State<sup>13</sup> against decisions of the commissioner<sup>14</sup>, and for an appeal to the High Court on any point of law<sup>15</sup> arising from a decision of the Secretary of State on such an appeal<sup>16</sup>. No appeal to the Court of Appeal could be brought from a decision of the High Court under this provision except with the leave of the High Court or the Court of Appeal<sup>17</sup>.

1 The commissioner is referred to in the Transport Act 1985 Pt II (ss 34-46) (as amended; prospectively repealed) as the south-eastern and metropolitan traffic commissioner: s 35(3); Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1990, SI 1991/288, art 5(2). As to traffic commissioners see PARA 1139 ante. As to traffic areas see PARA 1138 ante.

2 'London local service' means a local service with one or more stopping places in London: Transport Act 1985 s 34(1); and see s 34(3). For the meaning of 'local service' see PARA 1177 ante; and for the meaning of 'stopping place' see PARA 1178 note 3 ante.

3 Ibid s 35(3). As to the application for and grant of licences see the Transport Act 1985 s 37 (amended by the Regulation of Bus Services in Greater London (Transitional Provisions) Order 2000, SI 2000/1462, art 3(1)(c), (2)). As to the granting of licences for certain excursions or tours see the Transport Act 1985 s 39 (amended by the Statute Law (Repeals) Act 1995; and by virtue of the Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1990, SI 1991/288, art 5(2)).

As from a day to be appointed the Transport Act 1985 Pt II (as amended) is repealed by the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 423, Sch 34 Pt II. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the regulation of bus services in Greater London after 3 July 2000 see PARAS 1231-1245 ante. As to the transitional period, during which existing licences continued to be regulated by the Transport Act 1985 Pt II (as amended) see PARA 1230 ante.

4 Ibid s 35(1A) (added by the Regulation of Bus Services in Greater London (Transitional Provisions) Order 2000, SI 2000/1462, art 3(1)(c), (2)). See note 3 supra.

5 For the meaning of 'PSV operator's licence' see PARA 1136 note 7 ante; definition applied by the Transport Act 1985 s 137(1), (2).

6 Ibid s 35(4) (amended by the Statute Law (Repeals) Act 1995); Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1990, SI 1991/288, art 5(2). However, the Transport Act 1985 s 35(4) (as amended) did not apply to a London local service licence held by a local education authority: s 35(5). As to local education authorities see EDUCATION vol 15(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 20 et seq.

7 See ibid s 38(1)-(3); and the Traffic Areas (Reorganisation) Order 1990, SI 1991/288, art 5(2). If such a condition was contravened, the holder of the licence was liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: s 38(7). As to the standard scale see PARA 230 note 3 ante. Transfer of bus undertakings of passenger transport executives to companies owned by passenger transport authorities.

(iii) Local Passenger Transport Services

A. PASSENGER TRANSPORT AREAS

1247. Transfer of bus undertakings of passenger transport executives to companies owned by passenger transport authorities.

Before such date as the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> may specify in the case of any passenger transport executive<sup>2</sup> in a direction<sup>3</sup> given to that executive, the executive must form a company<sup>4</sup> for the purpose of carrying on<sup>5</sup>:

- 1854 (1) activities of any description carried on by the executive in or for the purposes of the provision of any service for the carriage of passengers by road<sup>6</sup> currently provided by the executive in exercise of any of its powers<sup>7</sup>; and
- 1855 (2) any activities which appear to the executive to be incidental to or connected with any activities within head (1) above or to be capable of being conveniently carried on in association with any such activities<sup>8</sup>.

Where the passenger transport executive for any passenger transport area<sup>9</sup> has formed a company in pursuance of this provision<sup>10</sup>, the executive must, before such date as the Secretary of State may specify in a direction given to the executive, submit to the Secretary of State a scheme providing for the transfer to the company of any property, rights or liabilities<sup>11</sup> of the executive, or of any of its wholly-owned subsidiaries<sup>12</sup>, which it appears to the executive to be appropriate to transfer to that company<sup>13</sup>. In preparing such a scheme the executive in question must take into account any advice given by the Secretary of State as to the provisions he regards as appropriate for inclusion in the scheme (and in particular as to the description of property, rights and liabilities it is in his view appropriate to transfer to the company)<sup>14</sup>. Such a scheme does not come into force until it has been approved by the Secretary of State or until such date as the Secretary of State may, in giving his approval, specify; and the Secretary of State may approve a scheme either without modifications<sup>15</sup> or with such modifications as, after consultation<sup>16</sup> with the passenger transport executive and with the passenger transport authority<sup>17</sup> for the area in question, he thinks fit<sup>18</sup>. If the Secretary of State is not satisfied that a scheme so submitted accords with any such advice given by him<sup>19</sup>, or would do so with appropriate modifications, he may, after consultation with the passenger transport executive and with the passenger transport authority for the area in question, instead of approving the scheme substitute for it a scheme of his own, to come into force on such date as may be specified in the scheme<sup>20</sup>. On the coming into force of such a scheme the property, rights and liabilities affected by the scheme must<sup>21</sup> be transferred and vest in accordance with the scheme<sup>22</sup>.

Following the transfer to the company of the property, rights and liabilities affected by the scheme, the passenger transport executive must, before such date as the Secretary of State may specify in a direction given to the executive, transfer all shares in or other securities of the company to the passenger transport authority for its area<sup>23</sup>. Without prejudice to any other restriction on its powers, the executive may not dispose of any shares in or other securities of a company formed by that executive<sup>24</sup> otherwise than in accordance with the above provision<sup>25</sup>.

Where the property, rights and liabilities so transferred include the whole of the undertaking of any wholly-owned subsidiary of the passenger transport executive, and it appears to the executive that no further action is required on the part of that subsidiary to perfect any such transfer, the executive must secure that that subsidiary is wound up<sup>26</sup>.

Where, in the case of any passenger transport area<sup>1</sup>, a company ('the initial company') has been formed by the passenger transport executive<sup>2</sup> for that area<sup>3</sup>, and at any time after the Secretary of State<sup>4</sup> has given to the passenger transport executive a direction<sup>5</sup>, the Secretary of State may by order provide that the passenger transport executive is to cease, on a day specified in the order, to be under the duty to co-operate with the National Bus Company<sup>6</sup> and the Scottish Transport Group and to enter into agreements for that purpose<sup>7</sup>. Where such an order is made, any duty of the National Bus Company and the Scottish Transport Group<sup>8</sup> to co-operate with the passenger transport executive (or with each other) ceases on the day specified in the order to apply in relation to the passenger transport executive's area<sup>9</sup>. Any such order may include provision for the termination of any agreements<sup>10</sup> to which the passenger transport executive is a party, on such terms and such dates as may be specified in relation to those agreements in the order (and different terms and dates may be so specified in relation to different agreements)<sup>11</sup>.

At any time after the required transfer<sup>12</sup> of shares in or other securities<sup>13</sup> of the initial company to the passenger transport authority<sup>14</sup> for the passenger transport executive's area has taken place the Secretary of State may by order provide that the passenger transport executive is to cease, on a day specified in the order, to have the powers to carry passengers by road<sup>15</sup> and to let passenger vehicles on hire with or without trailers for the carriage of goods<sup>16</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iii) Local Passenger Transport Services/A. PASSENGER TRANSPORT AREAS/1249. Division of undertakings of specified companies.

Where in the case of any passenger transport area<sup>1</sup> the transfer required<sup>2</sup> of shares in or other securities<sup>3</sup> of the initial company<sup>4</sup> to the passenger transport authority<sup>5</sup> for that area has taken place, the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup> may by a direction<sup>7</sup> given to that authority require the authority to submit to him in accordance with the following provisions written<sup>8</sup> proposals for the division of the undertaking of the initial company among two or more companies to be formed in pursuance of the proposals<sup>9</sup>. Where the initial company has any wholly-owned subsidiaries<sup>10</sup>, the proposals may, instead of or, as the case may be, in addition to providing for the transfer to any one or more of those companies of the shares in or other securities of any such subsidiary comprised in the initial company's undertaking, provide for the division among those companies, or the transfer to any one of them, of the whole or any part of the undertaking, or of any property, rights or liabilities<sup>11</sup>, of that subsidiary<sup>12</sup>. The proposals must be submitted to the Secretary of State before the end of such period as may be specified in the direction<sup>13</sup>. The proposals must:

- 1856 (1) provide for each company to be formed in pursuance of the proposals ('transferee company') to be a company limited by shares and registered under the Companies Act 1985<sup>14</sup>;
- 1857 (2) broadly describe the manner in which the undertaking of the initial company, and the whole or any part of the undertaking of any wholly-owned subsidiary of the initial company to which the proposals relate, is to be divided among the transferee companies or, as the case may be, transferred in accordance with the proposals to any one of those companies<sup>15</sup>; and
- 1858 (3) provide for the winding up of the initial company, and of any wholly-owned subsidiary of the initial company the whole of whose undertaking is to be transferred in accordance with the proposals to any one or more of the transferee companies, on completion of the transfer of that company's or, as the case may be, of that subsidiary's undertaking<sup>16</sup>.

In preparing its proposals the passenger transport authority must take into account any advice given by the Secretary of State as to the provisions he regards as appropriate for inclusion in the proposals (and in particular as to the description of property, rights and liabilities of the initial company and of any wholly-owned subsidiary of the initial company it is in his view appropriate to transfer to each of the transferee companies)<sup>17</sup>. The Secretary of State may approve the proposals either without modifications<sup>18</sup> or with such modifications as, after consultation with the authority, he thinks fit<sup>19</sup>. If the Secretary of State is not satisfied that the proposals accord with any such advice given by him, or would do so with appropriate modifications, he may, after consultation with the authority, instead of approving the proposals substitute for them a plan of his own<sup>20</sup>. When the Secretary of State has approved the proposals or substituted for them a plan of his own, the authority must form each transferee company in accordance with the proposals as approved by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, in accordance with the Secretary of State's plan, and secure the registration of that company under the Companies Act 1985, before such date as the Secretary of State may specify in relation to that company in giving his approval to the proposals or, as the case may be, in that plan<sup>21</sup>.

When all the transferee companies have been formed in accordance with the proposals as so approved or, as the case may be, in accordance with the Secretary of State's plan, the passenger transport authority must, before such date as the Secretary of State may specify in a direction given to the authority, submit to the Secretary of State a scheme providing for the transfer to each transferee company of any property, rights and liabilities of the initial company, and of the wholly-owned subsidiary of the initial company, which are to be transferred in accordance with those proposals or, as the case may be, in accordance with that plan to that transferee company<sup>22</sup>. Such a scheme does not come into force until it has been approved by the Secretary of State or until such date as the Secretary of State may, in giving his approval, specify; and the Secretary of State may approve a scheme either without modifications or with such modifications as, after consultation with the authority, he thinks fit<sup>23</sup>. On the coming into force of such a scheme the property, rights and liabilities affected by the scheme must<sup>24</sup> be transferred and vest in accordance with the scheme<sup>25</sup>. When it appears to the authority that no further action is required on the part of the initial company to perfect any transfer effected by the scheme, the authority must secure that the initial company is wound up in accordance with the proposals as approved by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, in accordance with the Secretary of State's plan<sup>26</sup>. This applies in relation to any subsidiary of the initial company the whole of whose undertaking is transferred under the scheme to one or more of the transferee companies as it applies in relation to the initial company<sup>27</sup>.

The passenger transport executive<sup>1</sup> for any passenger transport area<sup>2</sup> has power to make, in such manner as it thinks fit, such provision as appears to it to be appropriate in connection with either the first or the second transfer<sup>3</sup> for the maintenance to any extent of any concession, benefit or privilege of a description enjoyed immediately before the first transfer date by<sup>4</sup>: (1) persons who then were or had been employed in such part of the passenger transport executive's undertaking, or of the undertaking of any wholly-owned subsidiary<sup>5</sup> of the passenger transport executive, as was transferred on that date to the initial company<sup>6</sup>; or (2) members of the families of any such persons<sup>7</sup>.

The passenger transport authority for any passenger transport area has power to make, in such manner as it thinks fit, such provision as appears to it to be appropriate in connection with the second transfer for the maintenance to any extent of any concession, benefit or privilege of a description enjoyed immediately before the second transfer date by<sup>8</sup>: (a) persons who then were or had been employed in any undertaking or part of an undertaking transferred on that date to a company formed in pursuance of written proposals<sup>9</sup>; or (b) members of the families of any such persons<sup>10</sup>.

Where provision for the maintenance of a concession, benefit or privilege of any description may be so made<sup>11</sup> provision may instead be made, in any such cases or classes of case<sup>12</sup>, for the making of any payment or the provision of any other concession, benefit or privilege in compensation for loss or, as the case may be, for any reduction or limitation of concessions, benefits or privileges of that description<sup>13</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iii) Local Passenger Transport Services/B. OTHER AREAS/1252. Functions of local councils with respect to passenger transport in areas other than passenger transport areas.

B. OTHER AREAS

1252. Functions of local councils with respect to passenger transport in areas other than passenger transport areas.

In each non-metropolitan county<sup>1</sup> of England and Wales it is the duty of the county council<sup>2</sup> to secure the provision of such public passenger transport services<sup>3</sup> as the council considers it appropriate to secure to meet any public transport requirements within the county which would not in its view be met apart from any action taken by it for that purpose<sup>4</sup>.

A non-metropolitan district council<sup>5</sup> in England has power to secure the provision of such public passenger transport services as it considers appropriate to secure to meet any public transport requirements within its area which would not in its view be met apart from any action taken by it for that purpose<sup>6</sup>. For the purpose of securing the provision of certain services<sup>7</sup> any council has power to enter into an agreement providing for service subsidies<sup>8</sup>.

A non-metropolitan county council in England and Wales has power to take any measures that appears to it to be appropriate for the purpose of or in connection with promoting, so far as relates to its area<sup>9</sup>:

- 1859 (1) the availability of public passenger transport services other than subsidised services<sup>10</sup> and the operation of such services, in conjunction with each other and with any available subsidised services, so as to meet any public transport requirements the council considers appropriate to meet<sup>11</sup>; or
- 1860 (2) the convenience of the public (including persons who are elderly or disabled) in using all available public passenger transport services (whether subsidised or not)<sup>12</sup>.

It is the duty of a county council, in exercising such power, to have regard to a combination of economy, efficiency and effectiveness<sup>13</sup>.

It is the duty of any council, in exercising or performing any of its functions<sup>14</sup>, to have regard to the transport needs of members of the public who are elderly or disabled and to the appropriate bus strategy<sup>15</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'non-metropolitan county' see PARA 1179 note 1 ante. As to the construction of references to counties in relation to Wales see PARA 1179 note 1 ante. As to local government areas and authorities see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq.

2 Transport Act 1985 s 63(2).

3 'Public passenger transport services' means all those services on which members of the public rely for getting from place to place, when not relying on private facilities of their own, including school transport but not: (1) services provided under permits under ibid s 19 (see PARA 1183 ante), other than services provided wholly or mainly to meet the needs of members of the public who are elderly or disabled; or (2) excursions or tours: s 63(10)(a). For the meaning of 'excursion or tour' see PARA 1178 note 33 ante. As to the interpretation of 'wholly or mainly' see PARA 1137 note 9 ante.

4 Ibid s 63(1) (amended by the Transport Act 2000 ss 161, 274, Sch 11 paras 9, 11(1), (2), Sch 31 Pt II). It is at the county council's discretion to determine what constitutes an appropriate provision when discharging its duty under this provision, and in so determining, it is entitled to have regard to the availability of funds and their source: R v Hertfordshire County Council, ex p Three River District Council (1992) 90 LGR 526.

As to the power of a parish council or community council to investigate inter alia the provision and use of, and the need for, public passenger transport services in its area see the Local Government and Rating Act 1997 s 29; and PARA 1253 post.

As to the provision of public passenger transport services in Wales see PARA 1261 post.

5 'Non-metropolitan district' means any district other than a metropolitan district: Local Government Act 1972 s 270(2).

In relation to Wales, for the purposes of the Transport Act 1985 Pt IV (ss 57-87) (as amended), references to a district council must be read as references to a county council or county borough council, and references to a district must be read as references to a county or, as the case may be, county borough: s 87(f) (added by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(1), Sch 7 para 39(8)). See further LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 37 et seq.

7 Ie under the Transport Act 1985 s 63(1)(a) or, as the case may be, s 63(4).

8 Ibid s 63(5). However, its power to do so is to be exercisable only where the service in question would not be provided without subsidy (s 63(5)(a)), and is subject to ss 89-92 (as amended) (see PARAS 1277-1279 post) (s 63(5)(b)).

References, in relation to any passenger transport executive, non-metropolitan county or district council, to agreements providing for service subsidies are references to agreements under which any person undertakes to provide a public passenger transport service of any description on terms which include provision for the making of payments to that person by that executive or council: see ss 63(10)(b), 137(4). As to passenger transport executives see PARA 247 ante.

9 See ibid s 63(6).

10 References in ibid s 63(6) to subsidised services are references to services provided under an agreement providing for service subsidies entered into by the council in question or by any other county or district council under s 63 (as amended), or by the executive for any passenger transport area under the Transport Act 1968 s 9A(4) (as added) (see PARA 248 note 6 ante): see the Transport Act 1985 s 63(9). For the meaning of 'passenger transport area' see PARA 247 ante; definition applied by s 137(5).

12 Ibid s 63(6)(b).

13 See ibid s 63(7) (amended by the Transport Act 2000 s 161, Sch 11 para 11(4)). As to sanctions and remedies for breach of statutory duty see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW; STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1353 et seq.

15 Ibid s 63(8) (amended by the Transport Act 2000 Sch 11 para 11(5)). In the Transport Act 1985 s 63(8) (as amended), 'the appropriate bus strategy' means: (1) in the case of a council which is a local transport authority (within the meaning of the Transport Act 2000 s 108(4): see PARA 1190 ante), its bus strategy; (2) in the case of a district council which is not such an authority, the bus strategy of the council for the county in which the district is situated: Transport Act 1985 s 63(8A) (added by the Transport Act 2000 Sch 11 para 11(6)).

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iii) Local Passenger Transport Services/B. OTHER AREAS/1255. Exclusion of powers of certain councils, and the formation of companies, to run council bus undertakings.

1255. Exclusion of powers of certain councils, and the formation of companies, to run council bus undertakings.

A non-metropolitan district council in England<sup>1</sup>, or a county council or county borough council in Wales<sup>2</sup> does not have power to provide a service for the carriage of passengers by road<sup>3</sup> which requires a PSV operator's licence<sup>4</sup>.

However, this does not have effect in relation to any council which, at the time when this provision comes into force<sup>5</sup>, is providing any such service until the end of such period as may be specified by order made by the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup>. Any such order may apply to all such councils<sup>7</sup> which are not for the time being exempt<sup>8</sup>, to any class of such councils, or to any such council specified in the order; and different periods may be specified by any such order in relation to different councils or classes of councils to which it applies<sup>9</sup>. Any such order must, in relation to every period specified in the order<sup>10</sup> ('the primary period'), also specify a period ending before the primary period as the period allowed to councils to which the primary period applies for complying with such of certain requirements<sup>11</sup> as are applicable to them<sup>12</sup>. Any order amending a previous order<sup>13</sup>, in so far as it extends any period specified in the previous order, may be framed so as to have effect from a date earlier than the making of the order<sup>14</sup>.

Where such an order is made, the council or, as the case may be, each of the councils to which the order applies must, before the end of that council's preparatory period, form (whether alone or jointly with any other council operating a bus undertaking<sup>15</sup>) one or more companies<sup>16</sup> for the purpose of carrying on<sup>17</sup>:

- 1861 (1) activities of any description included among the activities of the bus undertaking of that council or, as the case may be, of any of the councils concerned in the formation of the company or companies in question<sup>18</sup>;
- 1862 (2) activities of any other description included among the activities of any joint undertaking<sup>19</sup> of which that council's bus undertaking, or, as the case may be, the bus undertaking of any council so concerned, forms part<sup>20</sup>; and
- 1863 (3) any other activities which appear to the council or, as the case may be, to both or all of the councils so concerned to be incidental to or connected with any activities within head (1) or head (2) above or to be capable of being conveniently carried on in association with any such activities<sup>21</sup>.

A council's bus undertaking must be regarded for the purposes of Part IV of the Transport Act 1985<sup>22</sup> as forming part of a joint undertaking if the services for the carriage of passengers by road provided in the course of the activities of the council's bus undertaking are wholly or mainly provided under any agreement for<sup>23</sup>:

- 1864 (a) the provision or operation of those services by a body acting on the joint behalf of that council and one or more other councils<sup>24</sup>; or
- 1865 (b) the operation of those services by any company operating those services in conjunction with services for the carriage of passengers by road provided by that company<sup>25</sup>.

References, in relation to any council operating a bus undertaking, to the council's bus undertaking are references (according to the context) to: (1) all activities carried on, whether by the council itself or by any other authority or person in pursuance of any such arrangements as are mentioned in s 66(7)(b) or otherwise, in or for the purposes of the provision by the council of any such service; or (2) all property of the council used or appropriated for use and all rights and liabilities of the council subsisting for the purposes of any such activities: ss 66(7)(c), 87(c). ## 1256. Schemes for transfer of individual council bus undertakings to companies.

except where any of the activities of the council's bus undertaking ('the separate activities') are carried on by the council otherwise than in pursuance of any agreement<sup>12</sup>; and in the latter case the reference in head (1) above to property, rights and liabilities of the council must be read as limited to property used or appropriated for use and rights and liabilities subsisting for the purposes of the separate activities<sup>13</sup>.

In preparing such a scheme the council or councils concerned must take into account any advice given by the Secretary of State as to the provision he regards as appropriate for inclusion in the scheme (and in particular as to the description of property, rights and liabilities it is in his view appropriate to transfer to the company or companies in question)<sup>14</sup>.

Such a scheme may not come into force until it has been approved by the Secretary of State or until such date as the Secretary of State may, in giving his approval, specify<sup>15</sup>. The Secretary of State may approve a scheme either without modifications<sup>16</sup> or with such modifications as, after consultation with the council or councils concerned, he thinks fit<sup>17</sup>.

If the Secretary of State is not satisfied that a scheme so submitted accords with any such advice given by him, or would do so with appropriate modifications, he may, after consultation with the council or councils concerned, instead of approving the scheme substitute for it a scheme of his own, to come into force on such date as may be specified in the scheme<sup>18</sup>. On the coming into force of a scheme, the property, rights and liabilities affected by the scheme must<sup>19</sup> be transferred and vest in accordance with the scheme<sup>20</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iii) Local Passenger Transport Services/B. OTHER AREAS/1257. Orders for transfer of joint undertakings to companies.

A council<sup>1</sup> whose bus undertaking forms part of a joint undertaking<sup>2</sup> ('a council participating in a joint undertaking')<sup>3</sup> must, before the end of that council's preparatory period<sup>4</sup>, submit to the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> written proposals for the transfer to a company or companies formed by that council<sup>6</sup> of<sup>7</sup>:

- 1866 (1) such of the property, rights and liabilities<sup>8</sup> comprised in that council's share of the joint undertaking (whether or not then vested in that council)<sup>9</sup>; and as it appears to the council to be appropriate to transfer to the company or companies in question<sup>11</sup>.
- 1867 (2) such other property, rights and liabilities of the council<sup>10</sup>,

In certain cases<sup>12</sup> both or all the councils participating in the joint undertaking may submit joint proposals<sup>13</sup>, and in any such case the proposals<sup>14</sup>: (a) may relate to each council's share of the joint undertaking and (without prejudice to that) to all property, rights and liabilities of the body<sup>15</sup> carrying on that undertaking<sup>16</sup>; and (b) may provide for the transfer of any property, rights and liabilities<sup>17</sup> to a company or companies formed<sup>18</sup> by any one or more of those councils<sup>19</sup>.

Any proposals submitted to the Secretary of State under this provision must include proposals with respect to the terms on which the agreement under which the joint undertaking is carried on ('the operating agreement') should be terminated<sup>20</sup>. Individual proposals submitted to the Secretary of State under this provision by a single council participating in a joint undertaking must include proposals for the division of that undertaking between the parties to it and the determination of the property, rights and liabilities to be allocated to each as his share<sup>21</sup>. In preparing its written proposals<sup>22</sup> the council or councils concerned must take into account any advice given by the Secretary of State as to the provisions he regards as appropriate for inclusion in the proposals (and in particular as to the description of property, rights and liabilities it is in his view appropriate to transfer to the company or companies in question)<sup>23</sup>.

Where in relation to any joint undertaking the Secretary of State has received under this provision proposals submitted to him (whether individually or jointly) by the council or (if more than one) by both or all of the councils participating in the undertaking, he must, after considering those proposals and consulting the council or councils concerned, make an order<sup>24</sup>. Before making such an order in certain cases<sup>25</sup> the Secretary of State must give the company carrying on the joint undertaking an opportunity of making written representations with respect to any proposals submitted to the Secretary of State in relation to that undertaking by the council concerned, and consider any such representations made to him within such time as he may allow for the purpose<sup>26</sup>.

An order made by the Secretary of State under this provision with respect to any joint undertaking may make provision<sup>27</sup>:

- 1868 (i) where joint proposals were submitted<sup>28</sup> with respect to that undertaking, for the transfer in accordance with the proposals of all property, rights and liabilities of the body carrying on that undertaking, and such of the property, rights and liabilities of the councils participating in the joint undertaking as may be specified in the order<sup>29</sup>;
- 1869 (ii) where individual proposals were submitted by any council participating in the joint undertaking, for the division of that undertaking between the parties to it and the determination of the property, rights and liabilities to be allocated to each as his share<sup>30</sup>;
- 1870 (iii) in a case within head (ii) above, for the transfer in accordance with the proposals submitted by any such council of such of the property, rights and liabilities comprised in that council's share of the joint undertaking as determined by or under the order (whether or not then vested in that council) as may be specified in the order, and such other property, rights and liabilities of that council as may be so specified<sup>31</sup>;
- 1871 (iv) for the transfer to such person as may be so specified from any council participating in the joint undertaking, or from the body carrying on the undertaking, of all such functions<sup>32</sup> as may be determined by or under the order, being functions conferred or imposed on that council or body under any Act for the purposes of or in connection with the joint undertaking<sup>33</sup>;
- 1872 (v) for determining the effect of any transfer under the order in relation to persons employed in the joint undertaking or any part of it<sup>34</sup>;
- 1873 (vi) for the protection of the interests of persons who by virtue of any transfer under the order fall to be treated as persons employed by the person taking that transfer<sup>35</sup>;
- 1874 (vii) for the termination of the operating agreement on such terms as may be specified in the order<sup>36</sup>; and
- 1875 (viii) in certain cases<sup>37</sup>, for the dissolution of the body carrying on the joint undertaking<sup>38</sup>.

An order made by the Secretary of State under this provision: (A) may give effect to the proposals submitted to him under this provision either without modifications<sup>39</sup> or with such modifications as, after consultation with the council or councils concerned, the Secretary of State thinks fit<sup>40</sup>; or (B) if the Secretary of State is not satisfied that the proposals accord with any such advice given by him<sup>41</sup>, or would do so with appropriate modifications, may make such provision in substitution for those proposals as the Secretary of State, after such consultation, thinks fit<sup>42</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iii) Local Passenger Transport Services/B. OTHER AREAS/1260. Power to run public service vehicles under local Acts or orders.

1260. Power to run public service vehicles under local Acts or orders.

A local authority<sup>1</sup> which under any local Act or order<sup>2</sup> is operating a tramway, light railway, trolley vehicle<sup>3</sup>, or omnibus undertaking, may as part of that undertaking run public service vehicles<sup>4</sup> on any road<sup>5</sup> inside or outside its district<sup>6</sup>. Nothing in the Road Traffic Act 1930 may authorise a local authority to run any public service vehicle<sup>7</sup>: (1) on any road on which it is for the time being prohibited by any local Act or order from running omnibuses<sup>8</sup>; or (2) except with the consent of the authority, on any road vested in a statutory dock authority as such or in a statutory harbour authority as such<sup>9</sup>; or (3) except with the consent of the company on any premises (not being part of a highway) belonging to a railway company and adjoining or giving access to a railway station<sup>10</sup>.

For the purposes of Part V of the Road Traffic Act 1930<sup>11</sup> a local authority may purchase and maintain such vehicles as may be necessary and may purchase by agreement, take on lease, and hold lands and may on any lands so purchased by it or leased to it or any lands lawfully appropriated by it for the purpose erect such buildings, sheds, and conveniences and may provide such plant and appliances as may be requisite or expedient for the establishment, running, equipment, maintenance and repair of its public service vehicles<sup>12</sup>.

A local authority authorised to run public service vehicles under Part V of the Road Traffic Act 1930 may: (a) demand and take for passengers and parcels carried on such vehicles such fares<sup>13</sup> and charges as it may think fit<sup>14</sup>; (b) if it thinks fit carry on such vehicles small parcels not exceeding a certain amount in weight<sup>15</sup> and dogs in the care of passengers, but it must not carry on such vehicles any other goods or animals<sup>16</sup>.

A local authority authorised<sup>17</sup> to run public service vehicles and any other local authority authorised to run such vehicles in any district adjacent to the district of the first-mentioned authority, or adjacent to any district on any road in which the first-mentioned authority is for the time being authorised to run such vehicles, may make and carry into effect agreements for the management, working, and maintenance of any service which any party to the agreement is authorised to run<sup>18</sup>.

A local authority authorised to run public service vehicles and any other person, not being a local authority, may make and carry into effect agreements for the management, working, and maintenance of any service which any party to the agreement is for the time being authorised to run, either in the district of the local authority, or in any district on any road in which the authority is for the time being authorised to run such vehicles<sup>19</sup>. Agreements so entered into<sup>20</sup> may make provision with respect to all or any of the following matters<sup>21</sup>:

- 1881 (i) the working, user, management and maintenance of any vehicles, lands, depots, buildings, sheds, and property provided in connection with any services to which the agreement relates by any party to the agreement and the right to provide and use the same and to demand and take the fares and charges authorised in respect of such services<sup>22</sup>;
- 1882 (ii) the supply by any party to the agreement of vehicles and conveniences in connection therewith necessary for the purposes of such agreement and the employment of officers and servants<sup>23</sup>;
- 1883 (iii) the through running of vehicles<sup>24</sup>.

A local authority authorised to run public service vehicles may make and carry into effect agreements with any other local authority authorised to run such vehicles, and with any other person, not being a local authority, for all or any of the following purposes, so far as those purposes can be effectuated without any through running of vehicles, that is to say<sup>25</sup>:

- 1884 (A) the interchange, accommodation, conveyance, transmission and delivery of traffic arising on or coming from or destined for any service provided by any party to the agreement<sup>26</sup>;
- 1885 (B) the payment, collection and apportionment of the fares and charges and other receipts arising from any such service<sup>27</sup>.

Agreements may be made<sup>28</sup> notwithstanding any provision in any local Act or order by which the making of working agreements is restricted, but in running any service of public service vehicles on any route in pursuance of an agreement so made the local authority or other person operating the service must comply with the provisions of the Act or order, if any, by which the service is authorised<sup>29</sup>.

Where a local authority runs public service vehicles under Part V of the Road Traffic Act 1930 it must in the accounts relating to its transport undertakings distinguish, so far as may be practicable, receipts and expenditure relating to its public service vehicles from receipts and expenditure relating to any other transport undertaking, and in the receipts and expenditure relating to its public service vehicles must further distinguish receipts and expenditure on capital account from receipts and expenditure upon revenue account<sup>30</sup>.

1 For these purposes, the expression 'local authority' means: (1) the council of any county district; and (2) any joint board or joint committee which is so constituted as to include among its members representatives of the council of a county district: Road Traffic Act 1930 s 108(1) (amended by the Local Government Act 1972 s 272(1), Sch 30). The expression 'district' in relation to a joint board or joint committee means the area within which that board or committee is authorised to carry on a tramway, light railway, trolley vehicle or omnibus undertaking; and, save as aforesaid, means a county district: Road Traffic Act 1930 s 108(1) (amended by the Local Government Act 1972 s 272(1), Sch 30).

2 Certain local Acts and orders include provisions restricting or prohibiting the running of public service vehicles by persons other than local authorities.

3 For the meaning of 'trolley vehicle' see PARA 219 ante.

4 References in the Road Traffic Act 1930 to public service vehicles must be construed in like manner as if they were contained in the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981: s 121(1B) (added by the Statute Law (Repeals) Act 1993 s 1(2), Sch 2 para 22). #### 1261. Provision of public passenger transport services.

The Welsh Ministers<sup>1</sup> may secure the provision of any public passenger transport services<sup>2</sup> which they consider appropriate for the purpose of meeting any public transport requirements within Wales which would not in their view otherwise be met<sup>3</sup>. In exercising this power<sup>4</sup> the Welsh Ministers must have regard to: (1) a combination of economy, efficiency and effectiveness, (2) the Wales Transport Strategy<sup>5</sup>; and (3) the transport needs of members of the public who are elderly or disabled<sup>6</sup>. For the purpose of securing the provision of a service<sup>7</sup>, the Welsh Ministers may enter into agreements providing for service subsidies<sup>8</sup>. But the Welsh Ministers may not enter into such an agreement unless the service in question would not be provided without a subsidy<sup>9</sup>.

1 See PARA 1227 note 1 ante.

2 'Public passenger transport services' means all those services on which members of the public rely for getting from place to place, when not relying on private facilities of their own, including school transport but not including: (1) services provided under permits under the Transport Act 1985 s 19 (permits in relation to use of buses by educational and other bodies: see PARA 1183 ante) other than services provided wholly or mainly to meet the needs of members of the public who are elderly or disabled; (2) excursions or tours: Transport (Wales) Act 2006 s 7(5). 'Excursion or tour' has the meaning given in the Transport Act 1985 s 137(1) (see PARA 1178 note 33 ante); Transport (Wales) Act 2006 s 7(7).

D. TRANSFER SCHEMES

A transfer scheme<sup>1</sup> may define the property, rights and liabilities<sup>2</sup> to be transferred by the scheme<sup>3</sup> by specifying the property, rights or liabilities in question<sup>4</sup>, or by referring to all the property, rights and liabilities comprised in the whole or any specified part of the transferor's undertaking<sup>5</sup>, or partly in one way and partly in the other, and may contain such supplementary, incidental and consequential provisions as may appear to the authority making the scheme to be necessary or expedient, including in particular provision with respect to the consideration to be provided by the transferee for any transfer under the scheme<sup>6</sup>.

1    Ie any scheme under the Transport Act 1985 s 50(2) (repealed), s 59 (see PARA 1247 ante), s 61(9) (see PARA 1249 ante) or s 68 (see PARA 1256 ante): s 129(1).

4    Ibid s 129(2)(a).

5    Ibid s 129(2)(a).

6    Ibid s 129(2). Subject to s 129(4), (5), the Transport Act 1968 Sch 4 (as amended) (supplementary provisions as to certain transfers of property, rights and liabilities) applies to any transfer under the Transport Act 1985 s 50(4) (repealed), s 59(7) (see PARA 1247 ante), s 61(11) (see PARA 1249 ante) or s 68(7) (see PARA 1256 ante), and each of those provisions has effect subject to the provisions of the Transport Act 1968 Sch 4 (as amended): Transport Act 1985 s 129(3). In the Transport Act 1968 Sch 4 (as amended), as it applies by virtue of the Transport Act 1985 s 129(3), any reference to a transfer by or a vesting by virtue of the Transport Act 1968 must be read as a reference to a transfer by or a vesting by virtue of the transfer scheme in question, and the reference in Sch 4 para 13(5) to the relevant provisions of the Transport Act 1968 must be read as including a reference to the relevant provisions of the Transport Act 1985: s 129(4). See further the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 85, Sch 14 Pt 3.

The Secretary of State may by order make modifications in the Transport Act 1968 Sch 4 (as amended) for the purposes of its application to transfers under the Transport Act 1985 s 50(4) (repealed), s 59(7), s 61(11) or s 68(7): s 129(5). PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iii) Local Passenger Transport Services/D. TRANSFER SCHEMES/1266. Compensation for loss of employment.

1266. Compensation for loss of employment.

Regulations<sup>1</sup> may provide for the payment, by such persons as may be prescribed<sup>2</sup> by or determined under the regulations, in such cases and to such extent as may be so prescribed or determined, of pensions<sup>3</sup>, allowances or gratuities by way of compensation to or in respect of persons who have suffered loss of employment or loss or diminution of emoluments or pension rights<sup>4</sup> by reason of<sup>5</sup>:

- 1886 (1) the disposal<sup>6</sup> of any interests held by a passenger transport authority<sup>7</sup> or district council<sup>8</sup> in a public transport company<sup>9</sup>;
- 1887 (2) the disposal by any such company of the whole or any part of that company's undertaking<sup>10</sup>; or
- 1888 (3) any transfer of property, rights and liabilities<sup>11</sup>.

Regulations may:

- 1889 (a) include provision as to the manner in which and the persons to whom any claim for compensation is to be made, and for the determination of all questions arising under the regulations<sup>12</sup>;
- 1890 (b) make or authorise the Secretary of State<sup>13</sup> to make exceptions and conditions in relation to any classes of persons or any circumstances to which the regulations apply<sup>14</sup>; and
- 1891 (c) be framed so as to have effect from a date earlier than the making of the regulations<sup>15</sup>.

Regulations may include all or any of the following provisions, namely<sup>16</sup>:

- 1892 (i) provision authorising the payment, without probate, and without other proof of title, of any sum due under the regulations in respect of a person who has died to his personal representatives or such other persons as may be prescribed by the regulations<sup>17</sup>;

- 1893 (ii) provision rendering void any assignment, or any agreement to assign or charge, any benefit under the regulations, and provision that on the bankruptcy of, or granting of a trust deed for creditors by, a person entitled to such a benefit no part of it may pass to any trustee or other person acting on behalf of the creditors except in accordance with an order made by a court in pursuance of any enactment specified in the regulations<sup>18</sup>; and
- 1894 (iii) such incidental, supplementary, consequential and transitional provisions as appear to the Secretary of State to be necessary or expedient<sup>19</sup>.

Where such regulations have made provision for the payment of pensions, allowances or gratuities<sup>20</sup>, compensation in respect of any such loss of employment or loss or diminution of emoluments or pension rights<sup>21</sup> must be paid only in accordance with those regulations in any case to which those regulations apply, and accordingly such compensation must not be paid under any other statutory provision<sup>22</sup>, or by virtue of any provision in a contract or otherwise<sup>23</sup>. However, this does not prevent any person from making any payment to which a person is entitled by virtue of contractual rights acquired by him before such date as the Secretary of State may by order specify<sup>24</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'regulations' see PARA 1178 note 4 ante. At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made.

2 For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 1178 note 5 ante.

4 'Pension rights' includes, in relation to any person, all forms of right to or eligibility for the present or future payment of a pension, and any expectation of the accrual of a pension under any customary practice, and includes a right of allocation in respect of the present or future payment of a pension: ibid s 137(1).

E. PUBLIC TRANSPORT COMPANIES

1267. Control over constitution and activities of public transport companies.

It is the duty of any public transport company's<sup>1</sup> controlling authority to exercise its control over that company so as to ensure that the directors of the company include no more than the permitted maximum number of persons who are not full-time employees of the company<sup>2</sup>. Following the transfer to a public transport company of its initial undertaking<sup>3</sup>, it is the duty of that company's controlling authority to exercise its control over that company so as to ensure that the directors of the company include not less than the required minimum number of persons who are full-time employees of the company holding positions of responsibility for the management of the company's business or any part of it<sup>4</sup>.

It is the duty of any public transport company's controlling authority to exercise its control over the company so as to ensure that the company<sup>5</sup>:

- 1895 (1) does not engage in activities in which the controlling authority has no power to engage or permit any body corporate which is its subsidiary to engage in any such activities<sup>6</sup>;
- 1896 (2) does not borrow money from any person other than the controlling authority, or permit any body corporate which is its subsidiary to borrow money from any person other than the company, any other subsidiary of the company, or the controlling authority, with the exception in each case of borrowing by way of temporary loan or overdraft<sup>7</sup>; and 1897 (3) does not raise money by the issue of shares or stock to any person other than the controlling authority, or permit any body corporate which is its subsidiary to raise money by the issue of shares or stock to any person other than the company<sup>8</sup>.

Where a public transport company's controlling authority is a composite authority<sup>9</sup>, the duties imposed<sup>10</sup> are joint duties of both or all of the component councils of that authority<sup>11</sup>; and heads (1) to (3) above apply in any such case as if head (1) above referred to activities in which none of the component councils has power to engage<sup>12</sup>, and references in heads (2) and (3) above to the controlling authority were references to the component councils<sup>13</sup>.

NOTE 6--Transport Act 1985 s 73(5) amended: Local Transport Act 2008 Sch 4 para 23.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/12. PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iii) Local Passenger Transport Services/E. PUBLIC TRANSPORT COMPANIES/1268. Disabilities of directors of public transport companies.

1268. Disabilities of directors of public transport companies.

A director of a public transport company<sup>1</sup> who is paid for acting as such or is an employee of the public transport company or a subsidiary<sup>2</sup> of the public transport company is disqualified for being elected or being a member<sup>3</sup>: (1) of any council which is that company's controlling authority<sup>4</sup>; or (2) where that company's controlling authority is a composite authority<sup>5</sup>, of any of the component councils<sup>6</sup>.

Where a public transport company's controlling authority is a passenger transport authority<sup>7</sup> for a passenger transport area<sup>8</sup>, a director of that company who is paid for acting as such or is an employee of that company or a subsidiary of that company is disqualified for being appointed or being a member of that passenger transport authority<sup>9</sup>.

If a director of a public transport company is a member of any such council as is mentioned in head (1) or head (2) above or of any such passenger transport authority as is mentioned above<sup>10</sup> he must not at any meeting of that council or authority<sup>11</sup>: (a) take part in the consideration or discussion of any contract or proposed contract with, or any other matter relating to the activities of, the public transport company or a subsidiary of that company<sup>12</sup>; or (b) vote on any question with respect to any such contract, proposed contract or other matter<sup>13</sup>. Where a director of a public transport company is a member of the executive of a relevant controlling or component council which is operating executive arrangements<sup>14</sup>, he may not, in the discharge of any function which is the responsibility of the executive, take any action in the consideration, or the making of any decision with respect to any contract or proposed contract with, or any other matter relating to the activities of, the public transport company or a subsidiary thereof<sup>15</sup>. However, none of the above prohibitions prohibits a person from taking part in the consideration or discussion of, or from voting on any question with respect to, a local transport plan or bus strategy<sup>16</sup>. The Secretary of State<sup>17</sup> may grant a written dispensation from the prohibitions above<sup>18</sup> in the case of any individual member, except that no such dispensation may be granted in the case of a member of a council's executive acting alone<sup>19</sup>. Any such dispensation: (i) may extend both to the consideration or discussion of any such contract, proposed contract or other matter and to voting with respect to it, or to either alone<sup>20</sup>; (ii) may relate to contracts, proposed contracts or other matters of all descriptions or of any particular description specified in the dispensation<sup>21</sup>; and (iii) may be withdrawn or varied at any time by a notice in writing given by the Secretary of State to the member in question<sup>22</sup>. The Secretary of State may confer exemptions from the prohibitions above either generally or in the case of any class or description of members except that no such exemption may be granted in the case of a member of a council's executive acting alone<sup>23</sup>; and heads (i) and (ii) above will apply in relation to any such exemption as they apply in relation to any dispensation that may be granted<sup>24</sup>; and any such exemption may be withdrawn or varied at any time by the Secretary of State<sup>25</sup>.

A council which is a public transport company's controlling authority or one of the component councils of such an authority, and any passenger transport authority for a passenger transport area which is a public transport company's controlling authority, may by standing orders provide for the exclusion of a member of that council or authority who is a director of that company from a meeting of that council or authority while any contract or proposed contract with, or any other matter relating to the activities of, the public transport company or a subsidiary of that company is under consideration<sup>26</sup>.

If any person fails to comply with the above provisions<sup>27</sup> he is for each offence liable on summary conviction to a fine<sup>28</sup>, unless he proves that he did not know that a contract or proposed contract with, or any other matter relating to the activities of, the company concerned was the subject of consideration at the meeting in question<sup>29</sup>. A prosecution for an offence under this provision must not be instituted except by or on behalf of the Director of Public Prosecutions<sup>30</sup>.

1 As to public transport companies see PARA 1267 note 1 ante. The Transport Act 1985 s 74 (as amended) (see the text and notes 2-30 infra) applies in relation to a director of a subsidiary (see note 2 infra) of a public transport company as it applies in relation to a director of such a company: s 74(13).

1271. Provision of services for public transport companies.

A passenger transport executive<sup>1</sup> and a district council<sup>2</sup> each has power to enter into an agreement with any associated company<sup>4</sup>, or with any subsidiary<sup>5</sup> of an associated company, for the provision by that passenger transport executive or council for that company or, as the case may be, for that subsidiary of any administrative, professional or technical services<sup>6</sup>. ### 1272. Financial backing for establishment and operations of public transport companies.

A passenger transport authority<sup>1</sup> and a district council<sup>2</sup> each has power to make loans to any associated company<sup>3</sup>, or to guarantee loans<sup>4</sup> made to any associated company by any other person, for the provision of working capital<sup>5</sup>. The exercise of such power, otherwise than in pursuance of any provision made by any scheme or order under Part IV of the Transport Act 1985<sup>6</sup> in connection with any transfer of property, rights and liabilities<sup>7</sup> to the company in question for which that scheme or order provides, requires the consent of the Secretary of State<sup>8</sup>.

A passenger transport authority and a district council each has power to make loans:

- 1900 (1) to any associated company<sup>9</sup>; or
- 1901 (2) to any subsidiary<sup>10</sup> of an associated company<sup>11</sup>, for the purpose of meeting any expenses incurred or to be incurred by that company or subsidiary in connection with the provision or improvement of assets in connection with its business<sup>12</sup>. Any such loan under heads (1) and (2) above must be made on terms, both as to rates of interest and otherwise, no more favourable than the terms on which the authority making the loan would itself be able to borrow at the time when the loan is made<sup>13</sup>.

A passenger transport authority and a district council each has power to give any guarantees and do any other things which appear to that authority or, as the case may be, to that council to be necessary or expedient for the purpose of or in connection with<sup>14</sup>: (a) any authorised disposal<sup>15</sup>; or (b) any disposal by any associated company of the whole or any part of that company's undertaking, or of any property, rights or liabilities of that company<sup>16</sup>. Where any such disposal requires or, as the case may be, may not be permitted without the consent of the Secretary of State, such power to give guarantees<sup>17</sup> may not be exercised in relation to that disposal without the consent of the Secretary of State<sup>18</sup>.

A passenger transport authority and a district council each has power, with the consent of the Secretary of State, to provide financial assistance by way of grants, loans or guarantees for any associated company which has incurred losses affecting the viability of its business<sup>19</sup>. However, this power may only be exercised for the purpose of any plan approved by the Secretary of State for improving efficiency of the company's operations and its commercial performance generally so as to enable it to carry on business without further assistance from the authority or council concerned or from any other council which is a member of the company<sup>20</sup>.

A passenger transport authority and a district council each has power, where on the winding up of any associated company the assets of the company are not sufficient to meet the company's liabilities, to make to the creditors of the company such payments as may be necessary to meet the balance of those liabilities (and may accordingly give to persons dealing or proposing to deal with any such company such guarantees with respect to the exercise of this power in relation to that company as it thinks fit)<sup>21</sup>.

NOTE 11--Transport Act 2000 s 153 substituted: Local Transport Act 2008 s 46, Sch 2. Transport Act 2000 Sch 10 amended: Local Transport Act 2008 ss 46, 131, Sch 2, Sch 7 Pt 2.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iii) Local Passenger Transport Services/G. BUS STATIONS/1274. Provision, maintenance and operation of bus stations.

G. BUS STATIONS

1274. Provision, maintenance and operation of bus stations.

A passenger transport executive<sup>1</sup> for any passenger transport area<sup>2</sup> has power: (1) to provide bus stations<sup>3</sup> and associated facilities<sup>4</sup> at any place in or in the vicinity of its area<sup>5</sup>; and (2) to maintain, repair and operate bus stations and associated facilities provided under head (1) above or under its former powers<sup>6</sup>.

Where a council which, at 6 January 1986<sup>7</sup>, was providing a service for the carriage of passengers by road<sup>8</sup> which requires a PSV operator's licence<sup>9</sup> has ceased<sup>10</sup> to have power to provide such a service, that council has power to maintain, repair and operate bus stations and associated facilities provided by it under its former powers<sup>11</sup>.

Where, immediately before 1 April 1996, a council (the 'former council') had power<sup>12</sup>, to maintain, repair and operate a bus station and any associated facilities, that power is, on and after that date, exercisable<sup>13</sup>:

- 1906 (a) where the bus station and any such associated facilities was or were, immediately before 1 April 1996, situated wholly within the area of the former council, and is or are, on and after that date, situated wholly within a single Welsh county or county borough, by the council of that county or county borough<sup>14</sup>; and 1907 (b) in any other case, by such Welsh county council or county borough council as may be designated<sup>15</sup> by order<sup>16</sup>.

Any charges for the use of accommodation for public service vehicles at any bus station provided by the passenger transport executive for any passenger transport area or provided by any other person under any agreement entered into by any such executive<sup>17</sup> must be reasonable<sup>18</sup>. Any such council<sup>19</sup> has power: (i) to make reasonable charges for the use of accommodation for public service vehicles at any bus station provided under its former powers<sup>20</sup>; and (ii) to make reasonable charges for the use of, or let on hire to any person, any associated facilities provided by it in connection with any bus station so provided<sup>21</sup>. Any Welsh county council or county borough council by which any power is exercisable in relation to a bus station and any associated facilities<sup>22</sup> has power: (A) to make reasonable charges for the use of accommodation for public service vehicles at that bus station<sup>23</sup>; and (B) to make reasonable charges for the use of, or let on hire to any person, those facilities (if any)<sup>24</sup>.

If any person who is the holder of a PSV operator's licence in respect of any vehicles using accommodation for public service vehicles at any such bus station<sup>25</sup> considers that charges for the use of that accommodation are unreasonable, that person may apply to the traffic commissioner<sup>26</sup> for the traffic area<sup>27</sup> in which the bus station is situated (or, where it is situated partly in one area and partly in another, to the traffic commissioner for such of those areas as may be agreed between the traffic commissioners concerned or, in default of agreement, determined by the Secretary of State)<sup>28</sup>. On any such application the traffic commissioner may determine the charges to be made in respect of the applicant's vehicles for such period and on such terms as he thinks fit<sup>29</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iii) Local Passenger Transport Services/G. BUS STATIONS/1275. Restrictions on discriminatory practices.

1275. Restrictions on discriminatory practices.

Neither a passenger transport executive<sup>1</sup> nor a local authority<sup>2</sup> may, in the exercise of any of its powers:

- 1908 (1) in relation to the provision or operation of bus stations<sup>3</sup> or any associated facilities<sup>4</sup>; or

act in such a way as to discriminate (whether directly or indirectly) against any holder, or class of holder, of a PSV operator's licence<sup>6</sup>.

Where under any agreement (other than an agency agreement<sup>7</sup>) entered into by a passenger transport executive<sup>8</sup> a person is operating a bus station or any associated facilities provided by that executive or provided by that or any other person under any such agreement, that person must not<sup>9</sup>:

- 1910 (a) in relation to the operation of that bus station or, as the case may be, of those facilities<sup>10</sup>; or
- 1911 (b) without prejudice to head (a) above, in relation in particular to the charges to be made for the use of any accommodation at that station or, as the case may be, for the use of those facilities<sup>11</sup>, act in such a way as to discriminate (whether directly or indirectly) against any holder, or class of holder, of a PSV operator's licence<sup>12</sup>.

The reservation of the whole or any part of the accommodation for public service vehicles at any bus station for such vehicles used in providing local services<sup>13</sup> or, as the case may be, for such vehicles used in providing services other than local services must not be taken to be prohibited discrimination<sup>14</sup>. Nothing done pursuant to a quality partnership scheme<sup>15</sup> by a passenger transport executive, a local authority or a person operating a bus station or associated facilities is to be taken to be discrimination prohibited by the above provisions<sup>16</sup>.

Notwithstanding anything in the Transport Act 1983 as to the obligation to accept tenders for carrying on activities of passenger transport executives in certain circumstances<sup>15</sup>, a passenger transport executive may not in exercise of its contracting-out powers<sup>16</sup> enter into an agreement (other than an agency agreement) for<sup>17</sup>: (i) the provision of any bus station or associated facilities the executive has power<sup>18</sup> to provide<sup>19</sup>; or (ii) the operation of any bus station or associated facilities so provided by the executive or provided under its former powers<sup>20</sup> or provided by any other person under any agreement entered into by the executive<sup>21</sup>, by a person who is the operator of any public passenger transport services<sup>22</sup> or a person connected with any such operator<sup>23</sup>. Any such agreement as is mentioned in head (ii) above entered into after 6 January 1986<sup>24</sup> must include provision for ensuring that it will come to an end if the person who under the agreement is to operate the bus station or associated facilities to which it applies becomes the operator of any public passenger transport services or a person connected with any such operator<sup>25</sup>.

For the purposes of s 83(2), any two bodies corporate are to be treated as interconnected if one of them is a body corporate of which the other is a subsidiary or if both of them are subsidiaries of the same body corporate: s 83(3). ### A. EXPENDITURE ON PUBLIC PASSENGER TRANSPORT SERVICES

1276. Expenditure on public passenger transport services.

Any power conferred on any authority responsible for expenditure on public passenger transport services<sup>1</sup> to enter into agreements providing for service subsidies<sup>2</sup>, however framed, and whether arising under the Transport Act 1985 or under any other enactment, is subject to certain provisions of the Transport Act 1985<sup>3</sup>.

It is the duty: (1) of all such authorities, in exercising and performing their functions<sup>4</sup> with respect to securing the provision of public passenger transport services<sup>5</sup>; and (2) of all authorities who are local education authorities<sup>6</sup>, or local authorities<sup>7</sup> exercising social services functions<sup>8</sup>, in relation to any expenditure on transport for the purposes of or in connection with the exercise and performance of their functions as local education authorities or, as the case may be, of their social services functions, to co-operate with one another so as to secure, in the interests of the ratepayers of their areas, the best value for money from their expenditure on public passenger transport, taken as a whole<sup>9</sup>. It is the duty of all such authorities to afford to one another such information as may be reasonably required for the purpose of the co-operation required of them<sup>10</sup>. Where, as a result of any such co-operation, any such authority incurs expenditure which it would not otherwise have incurred, or receives less revenue than it would otherwise have done, that authority may, by notice to the other authority or authorities concerned, require that other authority or, as the case may be, those other authorities to reimburse the amount of that expenditure or of that reduction in revenue<sup>11</sup>. If: (a) any amount in respect of which, in accordance with such a notice, any such authority or authorities are required to reimburse another such authority<sup>12</sup>; or (b) where two or more such authorities are required by any such notice to reimburse another such authority, the share of that amount payable by each authority concerned<sup>13</sup>, is not determined by agreement between both or all the authorities concerned within six months of the receipt of the notice, or such longer period as may be agreed between them, that amount and, where head (b) above applies, the share payable by each authority concerned must be determined by an arbitrator<sup>14</sup>. Any such arbitrator must be appointed either by agreement between the authorities concerned or, in default of such agreement, by the President of the Chartered Institute of Public Finance and Accountancy<sup>15</sup>.

An authority responsible for expenditure on public passenger transport services<sup>1</sup> may not enter into an agreement providing for service subsidies<sup>2</sup> under which a local service<sup>3</sup> is to be provided except by accepting a tender invited in pursuance of these provisions<sup>4</sup>. Where any such authority proposes to secure the provision of any local service by entering into any such agreement, the authority must invite tenders for the provision of that service for such period and on such basis as may be specified in the invitation to tender<sup>5</sup>. Any such invitation<sup>6</sup>:

- 1912 (1) must be issued generally, in such manner as the authority issuing the invitation considers appropriate for bringing it to the attention of persons who may be interested<sup>7</sup>; and
- 1913 (2) must also be issued individually to all persons who have given to that authority a written notice indicating that they wish to receive invitations to tender for the provision of local services for that authority's area or, as the case may be, for the provision of such services of any description to which the invitation relates<sup>8</sup>.

Any such notice must specify the address to which any such invitation is to be directed, and it is sufficient for the purposes of head (2) above if the authority sends the invitation to the person giving any such notice at the address so specified<sup>9</sup>. An authority issuing such an invitation to tender must not accept any tender submitted by a person who is not the holder of either<sup>10</sup>:

- 1914 (a) a PSV operator's licence<sup>11</sup>, not being a licence to which any condition is attached<sup>12</sup> prohibiting the holder from using vehicles under the licence to provide local services of all descriptions or, as the case may be, of any description to which the invitation relates<sup>13</sup>; or
- 1915 (b) a community bus permit<sup>14</sup>.

An authority issuing an invitation to tender must, in determining whether to accept a tender submitted in response to the invitation or which (if any) of several such tenders to accept, have regard in particular to: (i) a combination of economy, efficiency and effectiveness; (ii) the implementation of the policies set out in the appropriate bus strategy<sup>15</sup>; and (iii) the reduction or limitation of traffic congestion, noise or air pollution<sup>16</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iv) Financial Provisions/A. EXPENDITURE ON PUBLIC PASSENGER TRANSPORT SERVICES/1278. Further provisions and exceptions to the obligation to invite tenders for subsidised services.

1278. Further provisions and exceptions to the obligation to invite tenders for subsidised services.

The period specified in any invitation to tender<sup>1</sup> as the period for which a service to which the invitation relates is to be provided must not exceed five years beginning with the date on which any agreement entered into by accepting a tender submitted in response to the invitation is concluded<sup>2</sup>. Such information as may be prescribed<sup>3</sup> with respect to any tenders submitted in response to any such invitation to tender must be published by the authority issuing the invitation in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>4</sup>. On entering into an agreement by accepting any such tender, that authority must publish in such manner as may be prescribed its reasons for considering that the payment of service subsidies<sup>5</sup> to secure the service in question in accordance with the terms of that tender accords with the statutory objectives<sup>6</sup>.

Regulations<sup>7</sup> may provide for treating a specification of terms of service, in such form as may be prescribed<sup>8</sup>:

- 1916 (1) prepared, with reference to any invitation to tender<sup>9</sup> by any authority responsible for expenditure on public passenger transport services<sup>10</sup>, by the authority issuing the invitation with respect to the provision of that service by a company to be formed in pursuance of any requirement under Part IV of the Transport Act 1985<sup>11</sup> to carry on any business which includes any current activities of that authority<sup>12</sup>; and
- 1917 (2) ratified by that company after its formation within such period and in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>13</sup>, as if it were a tender submitted in response to that invitation by that company within any period allowed for the submission of tenders in accordance with that invitation<sup>14</sup>.

Regulations may provide for excluding from the obligation to invite tenders for subsidised services<sup>15</sup> agreements of any description specified in the regulations, and any such description may be framed by reference to<sup>16</sup>:

- 1918 (a) the description of service to which the agreement relates<sup>17</sup>;
- 1919 (b) the description of persons proposing to operate the service<sup>18</sup>;
- 1920 (c) the period for which the service is to be provided under the agreement<sup>19</sup>;
- 1921 (d) the aggregate amount of the service subsidies provided for under the agreement<sup>20</sup>; or
- 1922 (e) any other relevant circumstances<sup>21</sup>.

The obligation to invite tenders for subsidised services<sup>22</sup> does not apply in any case where it appears to an authority responsible for expenditure on public passenger transport services that action is urgently required for the purpose of<sup>23</sup>:

- 1923 (i) maintaining an existing service<sup>24</sup>;
- 1924 (ii) securing the provision of a service in place of a service which has ceased to operate<sup>25</sup>; or
- 1925 (iii) securing the provision of a service to meet any public transport requirement which has arisen unexpectedly and ought in the opinion of the authority to be met without delay<sup>26</sup>, and that it is necessary for that purpose to enter into an agreement providing for service subsidies<sup>27</sup> in order to secure that service<sup>28</sup>. On entering into any such agreement an authority must publish in such manner as may be prescribed either a statement that no tender was submitted in response to that invitation to tender, or a statement of its reasons for considering that no tender so submitted was acceptable, as the case may require<sup>29</sup>.

1279. General provisions with respect to the exercise of service subsidy functions.

An authority responsible for expenditure on public passenger transport services<sup>1</sup> must, in the exercise and performance of its functions<sup>2</sup> in relation to agreements providing for service subsidies<sup>3</sup>, have regard to the interests of the public and of persons providing public passenger transport services in its area<sup>4</sup>.

Regulations<sup>5</sup>: (1) may make further provision for regulating the exercise and performance by authorities responsible for expenditure on public passenger transport services of their functions in relation to agreements providing for service subsidies<sup>6</sup>; and (2) may make provision for limiting to an amount specified in the regulations the aggregate amount of the service subsidies any such authority may agree to pay under any one such agreement<sup>7</sup>; and (3) may make provision for exceptions<sup>8</sup> in such cases as may be prescribed<sup>9</sup>.

4 Transport Act 1985 s 92(1) (amended by the Transport Act 2000 s 152(1), (4)). In R v Merseyside Passenger Transport Authority, ex p Crosville Motor Services Ltd (1988) Times, 3 March, CA, the applicant sought judicial review of the authority's decision to apply a scale of maximum fares for subsidised public passenger transport, on the ground that the authority was in breach of its duty under this provision so to conduct itself as not to inhibit competition; the Court of Appeal held that real evidence was required that the application of the scale was inhibiting competition before it would be entitled in its discretion to grant relief; a strong but not irresistible inference to that effect was not sufficient.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/ (iv) Financial Provisions/B. TRAVEL CONCESSION SCHEMES/1280. Travel concession schemes.

B. TRAVEL CONCESSION SCHEMES

1280. Travel concession schemes.

Any local authority<sup>1</sup>, or any two or more local authorities acting jointly, may establish a travel concession scheme for the provision of travel concessions<sup>2</sup> on journeys on public passenger transport services<sup>3</sup>:

- 1926 (1) between places in the principal area covered by the scheme<sup>4</sup>;
- 1927 (2) between such places and places outside but in the vicinity of that area<sup>5</sup>; or
- 1928 (3) between places outside but in the vicinity of that area<sup>6</sup>, by operators of such services participating in the scheme<sup>7</sup>.

Any travel concession scheme so established must define:

- 1929 (a) the travel concessions which are for the time being to be provided by operators participating in the scheme<sup>8</sup>;
- 1930 (b) the description of persons eligible<sup>9</sup> to receive travel concessions under any such scheme who are for the time being to qualify for travel concessions provided under the scheme<sup>10</sup>; and
- 1931 (c) the dates in any year currently adopted as the dates on which operators may be admitted to participate in the scheme<sup>11</sup> ('the standard admission dates')<sup>12</sup>, and may include particulars of any other arrangements for the time being adopted by the authority or authorities concerned in establishing the scheme with respect to the operation, scope and application of the scheme<sup>13</sup>.

Any such scheme may define the standard admission dates by specifying particular dates, or by referring to dates of any specified description or separated by intervals of any specified length, but those dates, however determined, must not be separated by intervals of a length exceeding such period as may be prescribed<sup>14</sup>. Arrangements adopted by the authority or authorities concerned in establishing any such scheme with respect to the operation, scope and application of the scheme, including the matters specifically mentioned in heads (a) to (c) above, may differ for different descriptions of concessions or services to which the scheme applies<sup>15</sup>. Where an operator participating in any such scheme in respect of any services operated by him provides travel concessions in accordance with the scheme for persons travelling on those services, the authority responsible for administration of the scheme<sup>16</sup> or, as the case may be, the authorities so responsible in such proportions respectively as they may agree among themselves must reimburse that operator for providing those concessions<sup>17</sup>.

The persons eligible to receive travel concessions under a travel concession scheme are:

- 1932 (i) persons who have attained the age of 60 years<sup>18</sup>;
- 1933 (ii) persons whose age does not exceed 16 years<sup>19</sup>;
- 1934 (iii) persons whose age exceeds 16 years but does not exceed 18 years and who are undergoing full-time education<sup>20</sup>;
- 1935 (iv) persons who are blind<sup>21</sup>;
- 1936 (v) persons who are partially sighted<sup>22</sup>;
- 1937 (vi) persons who are deaf<sup>23</sup>;
- 1938 (vii) persons who are without speech<sup>24</sup>;
- 1939 (viii) persons who have a disability, or have suffered an injury, which has a substantial and long term adverse effect on their ability to walk<sup>25</sup>;

- 1940 (ix) persons who do not have arms or have long term loss of the use of both arms<sup>26</sup>;
- 1941 (x) persons who have a learning disability, that is, a state of arrested or incomplete development of mind which includes significant impairment of intelligence and social functioning<sup>27</sup>;
- 1942 (xi) persons who, if they applied for the grant of a licence to drive a motor vehicle<sup>28</sup> under Part III of the Road Traffic Act 1988, would have their applications refused pursuant to the provisions relating to physical fitness<sup>29</sup> otherwise than on the ground of persistent misuse of drugs or alcohol<sup>30</sup>;
- 1943 (xii) any person travelling as the companion of a person who is eligible to receive travel concessions by virtue of any of heads (i) to (xi) above and requires the assistance of a companion in order to travel on journeys on public passenger transport services<sup>31</sup>; and
- 1944 (xiii) such other classes of persons as the Secretary of State<sup>32</sup> may by order specify<sup>33</sup>.

Where a passenger transport authority has established such a scheme, whether alone or jointly with any other authority or authorities, it must notify the passenger transport executive for its area of any proposal to vary the scheme, giving particulars of the proposed variation<sup>34</sup>.

1 'Local authority' means the council of a county or district, and includes also a metropolitan county passenger transport authority: Transport Act 1985 s 93(8). As to the construction of references to counties and district councils in relation to Wales see PARA 1179 note 1 ante. As to local government areas and authorities in England and Wales see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq; LONDON GOVERNMENT. For provision as to mandatory travel concessions see PARA 1289 et seq post. For provision as to travel concessions in Greater London see further LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 396 et seq.

2 'Travel concession' means the reduction or waiver of a fare either absolutely or subject to terms, limitations or conditions: ibid s 112(1)(f).

3 Ibid s 93(1). For the meaning of 'public passenger transport services' see PARA 1252 note 3 ante.

4 Ibid s 93(1)(a). For the purposes of s 93, the principal area covered by a scheme under s 93 is: (1) the area of the local authority concerned or, where two or more such authorities are concerned, the area comprising the areas of both or all those authorities (s 93(2)(a)); or (2) if an area comprised within the area which would be the principal area under head (1) supra is specified in the scheme as being the principal area to which the scheme applies, the area so specified (s 93(2)(b)).

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/ (iv) Financial Provisions/B. TRAVEL CONCESSION SCHEMES/1283. Right of eligible service operators to participate in travel concession schemes.

1283. Right of eligible service operators to participate in travel concession schemes.

Where any operator or prospective operator of an eligible service<sup>1</sup> which runs or will run between places within the limits covered by any travel concession<sup>2</sup> scheme<sup>3</sup> applies to the authority or authorities responsible for administration of that scheme<sup>4</sup> to be admitted to participate in it in respect of that service, the authority or authorities in question are obliged to admit that operator to participation in the scheme in respect of that service as from any standard admission date<sup>5</sup> under the scheme not later than the one next following<sup>6</sup>: (1) the end of such period as may be prescribed<sup>7</sup> beginning with the date of his application<sup>8</sup>; or (2) the date on which the service begins<sup>9</sup>, whichever last occurs<sup>10</sup>. The Secretary of State<sup>11</sup> may, on the application of the authority or authorities responsible for administration of any such scheme, exempt the authority or authorities in question from the obligation<sup>12</sup> in relation to any service or description of services, and the Secretary of State may at any time withdraw or vary any exemption so granted<sup>13</sup>. Such an exemption may not be granted on the application of a passenger transport executive<sup>14</sup>, or on the joint application of authorities who include such an executive, unless the application is made with the consent of the passenger transport authority<sup>15</sup> for that executive's area<sup>16</sup>.

Subject to certain regulations<sup>17</sup>, where it appears to the authority or authorities responsible for administration of any such scheme, in the case of any operator or prospective operator of an eligible service who applies to be admitted to participate in the scheme in respect of that service, that fares<sup>18</sup> currently charged or proposed to be charged by that operator for relevant journeys<sup>19</sup> on that service include a special amenity element<sup>20</sup>, the authority or authorities in question may not be required<sup>21</sup> to admit that operator to participation in the scheme in respect of that service unless that operator agrees to appropriate modifications<sup>22</sup> of the current reimbursement arrangements for eligible service operators<sup>23</sup> participating in the scheme<sup>24</sup>. Subject to any such regulations, where it appears to the authority or authorities responsible for administration of any such scheme, in the case of any operator of an eligible service participating in the scheme, that fares currently charged by that operator for relevant journeys on that service include a special amenity element, the authority or authorities in question may by notice of not less than such period as may be prescribed exclude that operator from participation in the scheme in respect of that service unless before the end of that period that operator agrees to appropriate modifications of the current reimbursement arrangements for eligible service operators participating in the scheme<sup>25</sup>.

NOTE 16--Transport Act 1985 s 137(5) amended: Local Transport Act 2008 Sch 4 para 40.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iv) Financial Provisions/B. TRAVEL CONCESSION SCHEMES/1284. Compulsory participation in travel concession schemes.

1284. Compulsory participation in travel concession schemes.

Where the arrangements currently adopted by the authority or authorities responsible for administration of a travel concession<sup>1</sup> scheme<sup>2</sup> with respect to the terms on which operators of eligible services<sup>3</sup> may withdraw from participation in the scheme require such an operator to give notice before withdrawing from the scheme in respect of any such service, any such operator is obliged to provide any travel concessions required by the scheme on journeys on any such service in respect of which he is participating in the scheme until he gives the required notice of withdrawal and the period of notice has expired<sup>4</sup>. The authority or authorities responsible for administration of any such scheme may at any time by notice in writing served on any operator or prospective operator<sup>5</sup> of an eligible service, including an operator already participating in the scheme, impose on him an obligation to provide travel concessions in accordance with the scheme on journeys on any such service operated by that operator to which the notice applies<sup>6</sup>. Such a notice is referred to in Part V of the Transport Act 1985<sup>7</sup> as a participation notice<sup>8</sup>. The power to serve such a participation notice is not exercisable in relation to any such scheme until after the date, or whichever last occurs of the respective dates, of first publication<sup>9</sup> of particulars of the scheme and of the current reimbursement arrangements for eligible service operators<sup>10</sup> participating in the scheme as they are to apply on initial establishment of the scheme<sup>11</sup>. An obligation imposed by a participation notice is<sup>12</sup> effective in relation to any service to which the obligation applies as from the appropriate commencement date<sup>13</sup> for that service until the end of such period beginning with that date as may be specified in the participation notice<sup>14</sup>.

The exercise of the power to serve a participation notice on any person by a passenger transport executive<sup>15</sup>, or by authorities responsible for administration of a scheme<sup>16</sup> who include such an executive, requires the consent of the passenger transport authority<sup>17</sup> for the passenger transport executive's area<sup>18</sup>.

Where it is proposed to vary a travel concession scheme<sup>19</sup>, or to vary the current reimbursement arrangements for eligible service operators participating in any such scheme, the authority or authorities responsible for administration of the scheme may, not less than such period before the variation is to take effect as may be prescribed<sup>20</sup>, by notice served on any operator of any such service who is under an obligation<sup>21</sup> to provide travel concessions in accordance with the scheme, require him to indicate, within such period and in such manner as may be prescribed, whether or not he is willing to continue to participate in the scheme after the variation takes effect<sup>22</sup>. Any such notice must give particulars of the proposed variation<sup>23</sup>. Where an operator indicates that he is not willing to continue to participate in the scheme after the variation takes effect, any obligation of that operator to provide travel concessions in accordance with the scheme which was current at the date of the notice<sup>24</sup> and would still apart from this provision be in force on the date when the variation takes effect ceases on the latter date (without prejudice, however, to the service of a new participation notice)<sup>25</sup>.

1284 Compulsory participation in travel concession schemes

TEXT AND NOTES 15-18--Transport Act 1985 s 97(10) amended: Local Transport Act 2008 Sch 4 para 35.

NOTE 18--Transport Act 1985 s 137(5) amended: Local Transport Act 2008 Sch 4 para 40.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ROAD TRAFFIC (VOLUME 40(1) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 201-650; VOLUME 40(2) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 651-1131); VOLUME 40(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1132-1663)/12. PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iv) Financial Provisions/B. TRAVEL CONCESSION SCHEMES/1285. Further provisions with respect to participation notices.

1285. Further provisions with respect to participation notices.

The authority or authorities by which a participation notice<sup>1</sup> is served on any person must send to that person, together with the notice, a copy of<sup>2</sup>: (1) such particulars of the scheme to which the notice relates and of any variations of that scheme<sup>3</sup>; and (2) such particulars of the current reimbursement arrangements for eligible service<sup>4</sup> operators<sup>5</sup> participating in the scheme and of any variations of those arrangements<sup>6</sup>, as have been published<sup>7</sup> before the date of the notice<sup>8</sup>.

A person on whom a participation notice has been served may apply to the Secretary of State<sup>9</sup> for cancellation or variation of that notice on either or both of the following grounds<sup>10</sup>, namely, that: (a) there are special reasons why his participation in the scheme in question in respect of the service or any of the services to which the notice applies would be inappropriate<sup>11</sup>; and (b) any provision of the scheme or of any such arrangements as are mentioned in head (2) above are inappropriate for application in relation to operators other than operators voluntarily participating in the scheme<sup>12</sup>. Such an application may be made by notice in writing given to the Secretary of State before the end of the period of 28 days beginning<sup>13</sup> with the date of the participation notice<sup>14</sup>. A person may not make such an application unless he has given notice in writing of his intention to do so to the authority or authorities by whom the participation notice was served<sup>15</sup>: (i) if a period allowed for that purpose is specified in the participation notice, before the end of that period<sup>16</sup>; or (ii) in any other case, at any time before the date of the notice given to the Secretary of State<sup>17</sup>.

Where on any such application the Secretary of State finds the ground mentioned in head (a) above established, he may cancel the participation notice or, as the case may require, vary it by excluding from it any service operated by the applicant in respect of which he considers<sup>18</sup> the applicant's participation in the scheme would be inappropriate<sup>19</sup>. Where on any such application the Secretary of State finds the ground mentioned in head (b) above established, he must cancel the participation notice unless he considers that a direction as mentioned below would meet the case<sup>20</sup>. Where on any such application the Secretary of State does not cancel the participation notice, he may direct that the current arrangements for reimbursement of eligible service operators participating in the scheme are to apply in the case of the applicant or, as the case may require, in the case of any service operated by the applicant to which the participation notice applies with such modifications<sup>21</sup> as may be specified in the direction<sup>22</sup>.

If the Secretary of State cancels a participation notice<sup>23</sup> he must give to the authority or authorities by whom the notice was served a notice in writing indicating in what respects the scheme or, as the case may be, the current reimbursement arrangements for eligible service operators participating in the scheme are inappropriate for application in relation to operators other than operators voluntarily participating in the scheme<sup>24</sup>. Any obligation to provide travel concessions<sup>25</sup> which has come into effect before the determination of any application<sup>26</sup> with respect to the participation notice by which that obligation was imposed<sup>27</sup>:

- 1954 (A) ceases to have effect, if the notice is cancelled<sup>28</sup>; or
- 1955 (B) has effect, if the notice is varied, subject to a corresponding variation<sup>29</sup>, on such date as may be specified by the Secretary of State in determining the application<sup>30</sup>.

1286. Release from compulsory participation.

The authority or authorities responsible for administration of a travel concession<sup>1</sup> scheme<sup>2</sup> may, at any time by notice in writing served on any operator who is under an obligation<sup>3</sup> to provide travel concessions in accordance with the scheme on journeys on any eligible service<sup>4</sup> operated by him, release him from that obligation in respect of that service<sup>5</sup>. Any such operator may at any time by notice in writing apply to the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup> to be released from that obligation in respect of any such service on the ground that the authority or authorities responsible for administration of the scheme have failed to comply with the obligation of reimbursement<sup>7</sup>.

An operator may not make such an application unless he has given notice in writing of his intention to do so to the authority or authorities responsible for administration of the scheme not less than 28 days before the date of the application<sup>8</sup>.

A notice<sup>9</sup> must give particulars of any alleged failures of the authority or authorities in question to comply with the obligation of reimbursement<sup>10</sup> of which the operator complains<sup>11</sup>. On any such application the Secretary of State may, if he finds the applicant's ground of complaint established, determine that the applicant's obligation to provide travel concessions<sup>12</sup> is to cease on such date as may be specified in the determination<sup>13</sup>.

Regulations<sup>1</sup> may make provision as to:

- 1956 (1) the maximum or, as the case may be, minimum period that may for certain purposes<sup>2</sup> be specified in a participation notice<sup>3</sup>;
- 1957 (2) the form and contents of participation notices and other notices required<sup>4</sup>; and
- 1958 (3) the manner in which any such notice is to be served<sup>5</sup>.

Where the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup> cancels or varies a participation notice<sup>7</sup> after the obligation imposed by that notice has come into effect he may award compensation to the applicant<sup>8</sup> if it appears to him that the applicant has suffered<sup>9</sup>: (a) in a case where the notice is cancelled, any loss attributable to his participation in the scheme in question<sup>10</sup>; or (b) in a case where the notice is varied by excluding from it any service operated by the applicant, any loss attributable to his participation in that scheme in respect of that service<sup>11</sup>. Where on determining an application for release from compulsory participation<sup>12</sup> the Secretary of State finds that the authority or authorities responsible for administration of the scheme<sup>13</sup> in question has or have failed to comply with the obligation of reimbursement<sup>14</sup>, he may award compensation to the applicant<sup>15</sup> if it appears to him that the applicant has suffered any loss attributable to that failure<sup>16</sup>. In certain cases<sup>17</sup> the Secretary of State may by notice in writing require the authority responsible for administration of the scheme in question or, as the case may be, the authorities so responsible in such proportions as may be specified in the notice to pay to the applicant such an amount by way of compensation in respect of the loss there mentioned as may be so specified<sup>18</sup>.

Regulations may prescribe the procedure to be followed in connection with applications with respect to participation notices<sup>19</sup> and may in particular include provision<sup>20</sup>:

- 1959 (i) as to the conduct of any proceedings held in connection with any such application<sup>21</sup>; and
- 1960 (ii) enabling the Secretary of State to require either the applicant or the authority or authorities responsible for administration of the scheme in question, or both or all of them, to pay such sum as the Secretary of State may determine towards any expenses incurred by him in connection with the determination of the application<sup>22</sup>.

Any sums paid to the Secretary of State by virtue of head (ii) above must be paid into the Consolidated Fund<sup>23</sup>.

Where such an offence committed by a body corporate<sup>5</sup> is proved to have been committed with the consent<sup>6</sup> or connivance<sup>7</sup> of, or to have been attributable to any neglect<sup>8</sup> on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate or a person who was purporting to act<sup>9</sup> in any such capacity, he as well as the body corporate is guilty of that offence and is liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly<sup>10</sup>. Where the affairs of a body corporate are managed by its members, the above provision applies in relation to the acts and defaults of a member in connection with his functions<sup>11</sup> of management as if he were a director of the body corporate<sup>12</sup>.

Proceedings for such an offence may not be instituted except by the authority, or any one of the authorities, responsible for administration of the scheme<sup>13</sup> in question or by or with the consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions<sup>14</sup>, and any such authority who would not apart from this provision<sup>15</sup> have power to bring such proceedings accordingly has that power<sup>16</sup>.

C. MANDATORY TRAVEL CONCESSIONS

1289. Mandatory concessions.

The following provisions apply until 1 April 2008<sup>1</sup>.

Any person to whom a current statutory travel concession permit has been issued by a travel concession authority<sup>2</sup> and who travels on an eligible service<sup>3</sup> on a journey: (1) between places in the authority's area; and (2) beginning at a relevant time<sup>4</sup>, is entitled, on production of the permit, to be provided, in relation to England, with a concession consisting of a waiver of the fare for the journey, or, in relation to Wales, with a half-price travel concession<sup>5</sup>, by the operator of the service<sup>6</sup>. A travel concession authority must, on an application made to it by any person who appears to the authority to be an elderly<sup>7</sup> or disabled person<sup>8</sup> residing in its area, issue to the person free of charge a permit, in such form and for such period as the authority considers appropriate, indicating that he is entitled to the concession specified in the above provision<sup>9</sup>. The Secretary of State (as respects England) or the Welsh Ministers (as respects Wales) may issue guidance to travel concession authorities to which they must have regard in determining<sup>10</sup> whether a person is a disabled person<sup>11</sup>. A person entitled to be issued with a statutory travel concession permit by a travel concession authority may agree with the authority that he is not to be entitled to the concession<sup>12</sup> for a period in return for being entitled during that period to receive travel concessions under a scheme<sup>13</sup> (if the scheme provides that a person may not receive travel concessions under the scheme unless he so agrees)<sup>14</sup>.

Any person to whom a current statutory travel concession permit<sup>16</sup> has been issued and who travels on an eligible journey on an eligible service<sup>17</sup> is entitled, on production of the permit, to a concession consisting of a waiver of the fare for the journey by the operator of the service<sup>18</sup>. A travel concession authority<sup>19</sup> in England other than a London authority must, on an application made to it by any person who appears to the authority to be an elderly or disabled person whose sole or principal residence is in the authority's area, issue to the person free of charge a permit indicating that he is entitled to the concession specified in the above provision<sup>20</sup>. Such a permit must be issued in such form and for such period: (a) as may be specified in regulations made by the Secretary of State; and (b) subject to that, as the authority issuing the permit considers appropriate<sup>21</sup>. The Secretary of State may issue guidance to travel concession authorities in England to which they must have regard in determining for these purposes whether a person is a disabled person<sup>22</sup>; and he may also issue guidance to travel concession authorities in England to which they must have regard in determining for these purposes whether a person has his sole or principal residence in an authority's area<sup>23</sup>. A person entitled to be issued with a statutory travel concession permit by a travel concession authority may agree with the authority that he is not to be entitled to the concession<sup>24</sup> for a period in return for being entitled during that period to receive travel concessions under a scheme under the Transport Act 1985<sup>25</sup> to which the authority is a party (if the scheme provides that a person may not receive travel concessions under the scheme unless he so agrees)<sup>26</sup>. Similar provision is made in relation to Wales<sup>27</sup>.

1 The Transport Act 2000 s 145 (as amended) is replaced, as from a day to be appointed, by s 145A (as added) so as to introduce a new national travel concession: see the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 1. The Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 came into force for certain purposes on 17 October 2007, but for remaining purposes it is to come into force on 1 April 2008: see s 15; and the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 (Commencement and Transitional Provisions) Order 2007, SI 2007/2799. See further note 15 infra.

2 In the Transport Act 2000 s 145 (as amended), 'statutory travel concession permit' means a permit issued pursuant to s 145(2) (see the text and note 9 infra): s 145(3). In Pt II (ss 108-162) (as amended), 'travel concession authority' means: (1) a non-metropolitan district council in England; (2) a council of a county in England so far as it is the council for an area for which there are no district councils; (3) a passenger transport executive for a passenger transport area in England; or (4) a county council or county borough council in Wales: s 146. In relation to the national travel concession (see the text and notes 15-27 infra), this definition also includes a London authority (see note 16 infra) and the Council of the Isles of Scilly: see s 146 (amended by the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 ss 2(1), (3), 13, Sch 3). References in the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (as amended) to passenger transport executives are references to passenger transport executives for the purposes of the Transport Act 1968 Pt II (ss 9-23A) (as amended): Transport Act 2000 s 162(5).

3 'Eligible service' means a bus service of a class specified in an order made by the Secretary of State (as respects England) or the Welsh Ministers (as respects Wales): ibid s 146 (amended by s 274, Sch 31 Pt II). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 236 ante. As to the transfer of certain functions of the Secretary of State, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 237 ante.

The following classes of service are specified as an eligible service: (1) a local service provided or secured by a local education authority pursuant to arrangements made under the Education Act 1996 s 509 (see EDUCATION vol 15(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 534), or for elderly persons or disabled persons (see notes 7, 8 infra), and in respect of which: (a) seats on the vehicle by means of which the service is provided are normally available to members of the general public and the service is regularly used by such members; (b) the stopping places (other than those to or from which the service is mainly provided) are situated at locations where they are likely to be used with reasonable frequency by members of the general public; (c) such members are able to make a single journey between any two stopping places on payment of a fare which is not a deliberate deterrent to their use of the service; (d) such members are able to pay the fare at a place and in a manner which is not a deliberate deterrent to their use of the service; and (e) arrangements are made which afford members of the general public a reasonable opportunity to inform themselves of the existence of the service, the times of its operation, and the places which it serves; (2) a local service, other than a service described in head (1) supra which is provided by means of a vehicle adapted to carry more than eight passengers (or by a smaller vehicle, but only if the services are operated in accordance with a timetable), and in respect of which: (a) at least half of the accommodation on the vehicle by means of which the service is provided is normally available to members of the general public and the service is regularly used by such members; (b) the stopping places are situated at locations where they are likely to be used with reasonable frequency by members of the general public; (c) such members are able to make a single journey between any two stopping places on payment of a fare which is not a deliberate deterrent to their use of the service; (d) such members are able to pay the fare at a place and in a manner which is not a deliberate deterrent to their use of the service; (e) there is not displayed on the vehicle by means of which the service is provided any sign or description intended or likely to convey the impression that the service is only available to a particular category of person; and (f) arrangements are made which afford members of the general public a reasonable opportunity to inform themselves of the existence of the service, times of its operation and the places which it serves: Travel Concessions (Eligible Services) Order 2002, SI 2002/1016, reg 3 (England); Travel Concessions (Eligible Services) (Wales) Order 2002, SI 2002/2023, reg 3 (Wales).

4 'Relevant time' means: (1) any time on a Saturday or Sunday or on any day which is a bank holiday in England and Wales under the Banking and Financial Dealings Act 1971 (see TIME vol 97 (2010) PARA 321); or (2) a time during the period from 9.30 am to 11 pm on any other day: Transport Act 2000 s 146.

5 'A half-price travel concession', in relation to a journey, means reduction of the fare for the journey to not more than one-half of that applicable to an adult who is not entitled to any reduction: ibid s 146 (definition repealed, in relation to England, by the Travel Concessions (Extension of Entitlement) (England) Order 2005, SI 2005/3224, art 3(1), (3), (5)). In relation to the national travel concession (see the text and notes 15-27 infra), this definition is applied to England as in relation to Wales: see the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 13, Sch 2 paras 12, 15.

6 Transport Act 2000 s 145(1) (amended, in relation to England, by the Travel Concessions (Extension of Entitlement) (England) Order 2005, SI 2005/3224, art 3(5)). However, where a person's current statutory travel concession permit has been issued by a travel concession authority in Wales, the Transport Act 2000 s 145(1) has effect: (1) as if it referred to a journey (beginning at any time): (a) between places in the authority's area; (b) between a place in the authority's area and a place outside, but in the vicinity of that area; or (c) between places outside, but in the vicinity of that area; and (2) as if it provided for waiver of the fare for the journey: s 145(1A) (s 145(1A), (1B) added, in relation to Wales, by the Travel Concessions (Extension of Entitlement) (Wales) Order 2001, SI 2001/3765, arts 3, 4). If the permit is in a form approved by the Welsh Ministers for these purposes, the Transport Act 2000 s 145(1A) (as added) has effect as if each reference in it to the authority's area were to Wales: s 145(1B) (as so added).

As to the 'operator' of a passenger transport service see PARA 1200 note 5 ante.

7 In ibid Pt II (as amended), 'elderly person' means a person who has attained the age of 60 years: s 146 (amended by the Travel Concessions (Eligibility) Act 2002 s 1(3)).

8 'Disabled person' means a person who: (1) is blind or partially sighted; (2) is profoundly or severely deaf; (3) is without speech; (4) has a disability, or has suffered an injury, which has a substantial and long term adverse effect on his ability to walk; (5) does not have arms or has long term loss of the use of both arms; (6) has a learning disability, that is, a state of arrested or incomplete development of mind which includes significant impairment of intelligence and social functioning; or (7) would, if he applied for the grant of a licence to drive a motor vehicle under the Road Traffic Act 1988 Pt III (ss 87-109) (as amended) (see PARA 442 et seq ante), have his application refused pursuant to s 92 (as amended) (physical fitness: see PARA 455 ante) otherwise than on the ground of persistent misuse of drugs or alcohol: Transport Act 2000 s 146.

9 Ibid s 145(2). The text refers to the concession specified in s 145(1) (as amended): see the text and notes 2-6 supra.

If it appears to a travel concession authority in Wales issuing a statutory travel concession permit to a disabled person that the person requires the assistance of a companion to travel on journeys on public transport services, the authority must mark that clearly on the permit: s 145(3A) (s 145(3A), (3B) added, in relation to Wales, by the Travel Concessions (Extension of Entitlement) (Wales) Order 2001, SI 2001/3765, art 6). Where a person, whose current travel concession permit is so marked, is entitled under the Transport Act 2000 s 145 (as amended) to waiver of the fare for a journey, one companion travelling on the journey with the person (and nominated by the person as the person's companion for that journey) is also entitled to waiver of the fare for the journey: s 145(3B) (as so added).

10 Ie for the purposes of ibid s 145(2): see the text and note 9 supra.

11 Ibid s 145(4). Before issuing guidance under s 145(4) the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must consult: (1) the Disabled Persons Transport Advisory Committee (see PARA 259 ante); (2) associations representative of travel concession authorities; and (3) such other persons as he or they may think fit: s 145(5).

13 le under the Transport Act 1985 s 93 (see PARA 1280 ante).

14 Transport Act 2000 s 145(6). The Secretary of State (as respects England) or the Welsh Ministers (as respects Wales) may by regulations make provision about agreements within s 145(6): s 145(7). The regulations may in particular make provision: (1) requiring the serving of notices before an agreement is made; (2) about the form of agreements; and (3) as to the period for which a person may agree not to be entitled to the concession specified in s 145(1) (as amended) (see the text and notes 2-6 supra): s 145(8). As to regulations under the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (as amended) see PARA 1226 ante.

The Secretary of State (as respects England) or the Welsh Ministers (as respects Wales) may by order amend either or both of s 145 (as amended) and s 146 (as amended) (definitions) for or in connection with securing that s 145(1) (as amended): (a) applies to any person for the time being eligible to receive travel concessions under a scheme under the Transport Act 1985 s 93 (see PARA 1280 ante) or to any such person of a specified description (as well as to any elderly person and any disabled person); (b) applies to travel on any public passenger transport service or to travel on any such service of a specified description (as well as to travel on an eligible service); (c) applies to a journey between a place in a travel concession authority's area and a place outside but in the vicinity of that area or to a journey between places outside but in the vicinity of that area (as well as to a journey between places in that area); (d) provides for the reduction of fares to less than one half of those applicable to adults who are not entitled to any reduction or for waiver of fares; or (e) applies, or does not apply, to a journey beginning at a specified time: Transport Act 2000 s 147. See eg the Travel Concessions (Extension of Entitlement) (Wales) Order 2001, SI 2001/3765, and the Travel Concessions (Extension of Entitlement) (England) Order 2005, SI 2005/3224 (both revoked by the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 Sch 3). For the meaning of 'public passenger transport services' see PARA 1224 note 3 ante. As to orders under the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (as amended) generally see PARA 1226 ante.

In relation to the national travel concession (see the text and notes 15-27 infra), the Transport Act 2000 s 147 is amended so that the power to amend may be exercised by the Welsh Ministers only, and the power extends to amending either or both of s 145B (as added) (see the text and note 27 infra) and s 146 (as amended) (definitions) in connection with securing that s 145B(1) (as added) applies or provides as described in heads (a)-(e) supra: see s 147 (amended by the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 Sch 2 para 13). As to the variation of the scope of the national travel concession (see the text and notes 15-27 infra) by the Secretary of State see the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 8, which provides that the Secretary of State may by order amend the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (as amended) and the Greater London Authority Act 1999 Pt IV Ch VIII (ss 240-244) (as amended) (see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 396 et seq) for or in connection with securing that the national concession: (i) applies to any person for the time being eligible to receive travel concessions under a scheme under the Transport Act 1985 s 93 (as amended) (see PARA 1280 ante) or to any such person of a specified description (as well as to any elderly person and any disabled person); (ii) applies to travel on any public passenger transport service or to travel on any such service of a specified description (as well as to travel on an eligible service and the London bus network); (iii) in relation to any person to whom the national concession applies by virtue of head (i) supra, provides for a concession not amounting to a waiver of the fare; (iv) in relation to any person to whom the national concession applies by virtue of head (i) supra, applies, or does not apply, to a journey beginning at a specified time; or (v) in relation to any elderly person or any disabled person, applies to a journey beginning at a specified time (as well as to a journey beginning at a relevant time): Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 8(1). In s 8, 'the national concession' means the travel concession to which certain persons whose sole or principal residence is in England are entitled under the Transport Act 2000 s 145A(1) (as added) (see the text and note 18 infra) or by virtue of the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 242(8) (as substituted) or Sch 16 para A1 (as added) (see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 396 et seq): Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 8(2). In s 8, 'London bus network' has the meaning given by the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 181 (see PARA 1233 ante): Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 8(3). Expressions used in s 8 and in the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (as amended) have the same meaning in the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 8 as in the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (as amended): Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 8(4).

15 See note 1 supra. The new national travel concession is to come into force on 1 April 2008, but the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 was brought into force on 17 October 2007 for the following purposes: to permit the Secretary of State to issue guidance in relation to the new bus concession arrangements; to permit the making of regulations as to the form of travel concession permits; to permit the issue of permits before the new concession becomes available so that the permits may be used by those entitled as soon as the Act comes fully into force; to permit travel concession authorities to determine the arrangements in relation to reimbursement of bus operators; to permit the Secretary of State to take any such steps as are required to determine applications by bus operators in respect of such arrangements and to direct the travel concession authorities with regard to the outcome of those applications; to permit London authorities and Transport for London to make any arrangements necessary in relation to the new concessions and any arrangements for the joint exercise by London authorities of their functions; and to require Transport for London to take account of the new concessionary arrangements when forming its view as to whether or not the statutory free travel scheme is to have effect and when notifying authorities of the charges they are to pay where it does apply: see the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 (Commencement and Transitional Provisions) Order 2007, SI 2007/2799, arts 2, 3. As to travel concessions in London see further LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 396 et seq. As to Transport for London see PARA 246 ante; and LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 269 et seq. For transitional provisions see art 4. As to the power to vary the provisions relating to the national travel concession see note 14 supra.

Any power to make an order under the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 is exercisable by statutory instrument: see s 11(1). An order under the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 may make different provision for different cases, purposes or areas: s 11(2). An order under s 8 (see note 14 supra), s 9 (see note 19 infra), s 10 (see note 18 infra) or s 13 (power to amend, repeal or revoke enactments in consequence of any provision of the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007) may include appropriate incidental, supplementary, consequential or transitional provision or savings (including provision amending the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007): s 11(3). A statutory instrument containing an order under s 8 is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 11(4). An order may not be made by the Secretary of State under s 9, s 10 or s 13 (whether alone or concurrently with the Welsh Ministers) unless a draft of the statutory instrument containing the order has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: s 11(5). An order may not be made by the Welsh Ministers under s 10 (whether alone or concurrently with the Secretary of State) unless a draft of the statutory instrument containing the order has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, the National Assembly for Wales: s 11(6).

16 In the Transport Act 2000 s 145A (as added), 'statutory travel concession permit' means: (1) a permit issued pursuant to s 145A(4) (as added) (see the text and note 20 infra); (2) a permit issued by a London authority relating to the travel concession specified in the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 242(8) (as substituted) and s 242(8A) (as added) (travel concessions on journeys beginning on the London bus network etc: see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 397); or (3) a permit issued by a London authority pursuant to Sch 16 para 4(2) (as amended) (free travel scheme in Greater London: see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 404): Transport Act 2000 s 145A(3) (s 145A added by the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 1). For these purposes, 'London authority' means a London borough council or the Common Council of the City of London: Transport Act 2000 ss 146, 162 (definition added by the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 2(1), (2), Sch 2 para 15). As to London boroughs and their councils see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 30, 35 et seq. As to the Common Council of the City of London see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 51 et seq.

17 In the Transport Act 2000 s 145A(1) (as added), 'eligible journey' means a journey on one public service vehicle (in one direction) which: (1) is between places in England; (2) begins at a relevant time; and (3) is not one to which the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 242(8) (as substituted) (journeys beginning on the London bus network: see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 397) applies: Transport Act 2000 s 145A(2) (as added: see note 16 supra). As to the meaning of 'eligible service' see note 3 supra.

18 Ibid s 145A(1) (as added: see note 16 supra). As to the power to make reciprocal arrangements enabling recognition of English, Welsh, Scottish and Northern Ireland travel permits see the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 10.

19 See note 2 supra. The Secretary of State may by order amend the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (as amended) for or in connection with securing that: (1) the obligation of travel concession authorities in England to reimburse operators for providing concessions under s 145A(1) (as added) (see the text and note 18 supra) is instead imposed on the Secretary of State; (2) the functions of travel concession authorities in England under s 145A (as added) and s 148 (as amended) (see PARA 1290 post) are instead imposed on the Secretary of State: Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 9(1). As to reimbursement of operators see PARA 1291 post. As to the provision that may be made under head (1) supra see s 9(3), (4). As to the provision that may be made under head (2) supra see s 9(5).

The Secretary of State may by order amend the Transport Act 2000 Pt II (as amended) for or in connection with securing that: (a) the obligation to reimburse operators for providing concessions under s 145A(1) (as added), so far as imposed on a non-unitary district council, is instead imposed on the county council for the area in which the district is situated; (b) the functions of a non-unitary district council under s 145A (as added) and s 148 (as amended) are instead imposed on the county council for the area in which the district is situated: Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 9(2). In s 9, 'non-unitary district council' means a council of a non-metropolitan district in England comprised in an area for which there is a county council: s 9(8).

If the Secretary of State makes an order under s 9(1)(a) (see head (1) supra) or s 9(2)(a) (see head (a) supra), he may also by order amend the Transport Act 1985 for or in connection with securing that: (i) non-unitary district councils or metropolitan district councils in England cease to be local authorities for the purposes of s 93 (as amended) (see PARA 1280 ante); or (ii) a non-unitary district council or a metropolitan district council in England may not establish a travel concession scheme under s 93 (as amended) unless it does so jointly with the county council or passenger transport authority for the area in which the district is situated (whether or not the scheme is also established jointly with other local authorities): Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 9(6). An order under head (ii) supra may include provision for or in connection with securing that: (A) any specified function that a non-unitary district council establishing such a scheme would, but for this provision, have had as an authority responsible for administration of the scheme is instead to be exercised by the county council concerned; (B) any specified function that a metropolitan district council establishing such a scheme would, but for this provision, have had as an authority responsible for administration of the scheme is instead to be exercised by the passenger transport executive for the area of the passenger transport authority concerned: s 9(7).

22 Ibid s 145A(6) (as added: see note 16 supra). Before issuing such guidance the Secretary of State must consult: (1) the Disabled Persons Transport Advisory Committee; (2) associations representative of travel concession authorities; and (3) such other persons as he thinks fit: s 145A(7) (as so added).

23 Ibid s 145A(8) (as added: see note 16 supra).

24 Ie the concession specified in ibid s 145A(1) (as added) (see the text and note 18 supra) and the concession provided by virtue of the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 242(8) (as substituted) (see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 397) or Sch 16 para A1 (as added) (see LONDON GOVERNMENT).

25 Ie a scheme under the Transport Act 1985 s 93 (see PARA 1280 ante).

26 Transport Act 2000 s 145A(9) (as added: see note 16 supra). The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision about agreements within s 145A(9) (as added): s 145A(10) (as so added). The regulations may in particular make provision: (1) requiring the serving of notices before an agreement is made; (2) about the form of agreements; and (3) as to the period for which a person may agree not to be entitled to the concessions mentioned in s 145A(9)(a), (b) (see note 24 supra): s 145A(11) (as so added). At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made.

A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine<sup>4</sup>. Proceedings for an offence must not be instituted except: (1) by a travel concession authority<sup>5</sup>; or (2) by or with the consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions<sup>6</sup>, and any authority who would not otherwise have power to bring such proceedings will accordingly have that power<sup>7</sup>.

1291. Reimbursement of operators.

Where an operator<sup>1</sup> provides concessions<sup>2</sup> for persons who reside in a travel concession authority's<sup>3</sup> area, the authority must reimburse the operator for providing the concessions<sup>4</sup>. Subject to regulations<sup>5</sup>, the arrangements with respect to reimbursement must be: (1) such as the travel concession authority may agree with the operators who provide concessions for persons who reside in its area; or (2) in the absence of agreement, such as may be determined by the authority (being the same in the case of all of those operators) not later than 28 days before the date on which the arrangements, or any variations of the arrangements, are to come into operation<sup>6</sup>. The Secretary of State (as respects England) or the Welsh Ministers (as respects Wales) may by regulations make provision: (a) with respect to the determination by travel concession authorities of the amounts to be paid to individual operators, or to any class of operators, by way of reimbursement; (b) as to the manner of making any payments due to operators by way of reimbursement; and (c) about the terms on which, and the extent to which, travel concession authorities may employ any person as their agent for the purpose of making payments due to operators by way of reimbursement and the descriptions of persons who may be so employed<sup>7</sup>.

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/(iv) Financial Provisions/C. MANDATORY TRAVEL CONCESSIONS/1292. Procedure for reimbursement arrangements determined by authority.

At least four months before the coming into operation of, or of any variations of, any arrangements with respect to reimbursement determined by a travel concession authority<sup>1</sup>, the authority must publish the proposed arrangements, or the proposed variations, in such manner as it considers appropriate<sup>2</sup>. Following publication: (1) copies of the published material must be made available at the principal office of the authority; (2) a copy of it must be supplied to every operator<sup>3</sup> of local services<sup>4</sup> who would, in the opinion of the authority, be affected by the proposals; and (3) a copy of it must be supplied to any person on request (whether at the principal office or by post), either free of charge or at a charge representing no more than the cost of providing the copy<sup>5</sup>. An operator who considers that he may be prejudicially affected by the proposals may apply to: (a) the Secretary of State (in the case of arrangements determined by a travel concession authority in England); or (b) the Welsh Ministers (in the case of arrangements determined by such an authority in Wales)<sup>6</sup>, for a modification of the proposed arrangements, or proposed variations, on the grounds that there are special reasons why they would be inappropriate with respect to one or more local services provided by him<sup>7</sup>. The Secretary of State (as respects England) or the Welsh Ministers (as respects Wales): (i) may make regulations as to the form and content of notices under these provisions and the manner in which they are to be given; (ii) may appoint a person to determine an application<sup>8</sup> on his or their behalf; and (iii) may by regulations make provision as to the procedure to be followed in connection with applications<sup>9</sup>. On an application<sup>10</sup> the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, or (if a person is appointed under head (ii) above to determine the application) the person so appointed, may direct: (A) that the arrangements, or varied arrangements, are to have effect with such modifications as are specified in the direction from the time so specified; and (B) that the authority must make a payment of an amount specified in the direction to the applicant<sup>11</sup>.

An application under s 150(3) must be made by notice in writing given not later than 28 days after the date on which the arrangements, or the variations, come into operation: s 150(4). In relation to the national travel concession (see PARA 1289 text and notes 15-27 ante), s 150(4) is amended so as to refer to s 150(3)(a) (see head (a) in the text) only and so as to refer to 56 days instead of 28 days (see s 150(4) (amended by the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 3(4), (5))); and the Transport Act 2000 s 150(4A) is added to provide that an application under s 150(3)(b) (see head (b) in the text) must be made by notice in writing given not later than 28 days after the date on which the arrangements, or the variations, come into operation (see s 150(4A) (added by the Concessionary Bus Travel Act 2007 s 3(4), (6))).

An application under the Transport Act 2000 s 150(3) may not be made unless the applicant has previously given notice in writing of his intention to make the application to the travel concession authority by which the arrangements, or varied arrangements, are being, or have been, determined: s 150(5).

The payments provided for under an agreement providing for service subsidies<sup>1</sup> entered into by an authority responsible for expenditure on public passenger transport services<sup>2</sup> may not generally include payments in respect of the provision of travel concessions<sup>3</sup>. However, provision may be included in any such agreement for the making of payments by the authority in question to the person providing the service to which the agreement relates in respect of the provision of travel concessions on journeys on that service or any part of it for any description of persons eligible<sup>4</sup> to receive travel concessions under a travel concession scheme<sup>5</sup>. This only applies where the concessions in question are not available, or not available to that description of persons, under any such scheme administered by the authority concerned or by that authority acting jointly with any other authority or authorities or in relation to mandatory concessions outside Greater London<sup>6</sup>.

A passenger transport executive<sup>1</sup> may not in exercise of its powers to charge for services and waive its charges<sup>2</sup>, provide travel concessions<sup>3</sup> for persons travelling on any public passenger transport service<sup>4</sup> provided by the passenger transport executive otherwise than in accordance with a scheme<sup>5</sup> or mandatory concession arrangements<sup>6</sup>, except where those concessions are provided under any agreement or arrangements under which the whole of the cost of providing those concessions is to be met by a person other than that passenger transport executive or the passenger transport authority<sup>7</sup> for that passenger transport executive's area<sup>8</sup>.

The approval of the passenger transport authority for a passenger transport area required for alterations by the passenger transport executive in the general level of charges and for the reduction or waiver of charges by the passenger transport executive<sup>9</sup> is not required for travel concessions granted by the passenger transport executive for that area for persons travelling on any public passenger transport service provided by the passenger transport executive if those concessions are granted<sup>10</sup>:

PUBLIC PASSENGER VEHICLES/(3) ROAD PASSENGER TRANSPORT/ (iv) Financial Provisions/F. TAX/1301. Corporation tax and capital gains tax.

F. TAX

1301. Corporation tax and capital gains tax.

The provision of the Finance Act 1970 which excludes precept income and grants in computing the profits of a passenger transport executive<sup>1</sup> chargeable to corporation tax<sup>2</sup> does not apply with respect to any accounting period beginning on or after 30 October 1985<sup>3</sup>.

For the purposes of the Taxation of Chargeable Gains Act 1992<sup>4</sup>, the transfer<sup>5</sup> of any asset from a passenger transport executive to a passenger transport authority<sup>6</sup> is deemed to be for a consideration such that no gain or loss accrues to the passenger transport executive<sup>7</sup>.

If, under the provision relating to the transfer of bus undertakings of passenger transport executives to companies owned by passenger transport authorities<sup>8</sup>, a company is formed by a passenger transport executive and the shares in or securities<sup>9</sup> of that company are subsequently transferred to a passenger transport authority, the provisions of the Taxation of Chargeable Gains Act 1992 relating to the deemed disposals of assets for capital gains purposes where a member leaves a group<sup>10</sup> do not have effect as respects any of the assets of the company on its ceasing to be a 75 per cent subsidiary<sup>11</sup> of the passenger transport executive<sup>12</sup>.
